The next morning the citizens ordered Merritt to leave the place. Prominent in this move was the witness West, who but for the interposition of a lady, would have shot him then and there. Merritt went to Darwin, where he was soon after arrested and put on examination before Wm. T. Grant, then a Justice. As the facts became known the feeling against the defendant waxed very strong, and P. Reddy, Esq., with a due appreciation of the contemptible meanness of Merritt's part of the murderous transaction, volunteered to prosecute the examination. The result was that he was held to answer in the extraordinary sum of $20,000, and was brought here to jail. He and Garcia were indicted in March last, and were put on trial last Tuesday, as stated. The foregoing, we believe, is the full value of the testimony against both defendants. There was nothing except differences as to his words any more in Merritt's favor. The same is true with regard to Garcia, except that it was proven that he was not nearer than forty-five feet of where the final shooting took place.

Here we will remark that counsel for the defense claimed that no sufficient evidence had been adduced to prove the defendants guilty of sufficient complicity to establish them as accessories before the fact, and that both were unquestionably legally entitled to a verdict of acquittal. In our own opinion as regards Garcia it was a simple exemplification of old dog Tray's experience of being found in bad company. It has not been many months since an accused murderer in this county escaped the gallows, or its alternative of imprisonment for the remainder of his natural life, because the prosecution failed to legally establish a full conspiracy between himself and two others, one of whom, at least, took an active part in the killing, and under circumstances implying a conspiracy full as clearly as has been shown in this case, as we look at it. Assuming, as we have a pretty fair right to do, that that failure of the prosecution, if failure it was, was the strength of the defense in that case, the different result in the present makes pertinent the query as to what is the real difference between tweedledee and tweedledum. There is one thing pretty tolerably certain—that there is a distinction now and then, whether there is any material difference or otherwise, and that such a distinction is Garcia's, alias Shorty's, misfortune at this particular period of his existence. With Merritt the case is quite different, both morally and legally. But we will proceed to briefly notice the

ARGUMENTS OF COUNSEL.

Mr. Reddy opened for the prosecution, and for one hour and a half talked with a feeling eloquence he has probably never excelled, although his closing effort, though much less soaring, was the most effective and telling that we have ever heard him offer in this court room. We do not propose, with the limited space now at our disposal, to attempt reporting the line of argument of either of the decidedly able and zealous counsel engaged in the case—but simply to give our estimate of their respective efforts. Then, in conclusion as to Mr. Reddy, he prosecuted this case with all his power and ability, and, of course, effectively. He undertook it upon the conviction that this defendant had for "coin," and a small amount at that, delivered a fellow being to certain death, without the least cause or justification personal to himself. In short, that he was an officious, meddlesome, murderous fool, though with brains enough at least to know better, and for whose acts in this no punishment scarcely less than the rope could be too great. And in this estimate all who accept the theory of the prosecution against this man as correct fully coincide with and sustain the learned counsel.

Mr. Woods, for the defense, followed. He had but just been admitted to practice before a court of this grade: had had little or no time for preparation. However, he acquitted himself most creditably, at least in an oratorical point of view, and was warmly congratulated therefor. As an orator he will take a high and perhaps first rank in the Inyo bar, and as a lawyer the promise seems equally fair.

Next came Col. Briggs, an old war horse in the law. His plea occupied nearly two hours, was highly dramatic and thoroughly honest and earnest throughout. No man could have done more to impress his absolute conviction of the unjustness of the charge against his clients. We accord a great deal of credit to Col. Briggs and his associate, not only for their superior effort in behalf of their clients, but for the disinterested motives which prompted their earnestness. That the verdict in effect declares their sympathies misplaced does not in the least detract from this estimate. And yet the counsel on the opposite side were entitled to no less credit in either count, though working for a precisely opposite result: to bring to punishment he whom they believed to be a criminal of the worst class. Herein was one of the peculiar features of this peculiar case. Law and precedence and the Codes and all that cut a much less figure in the pleadings than they usually do in murder cases, and this was another of the peculiarities.

MERRITT.

This defendant is a young man, probably not over twenty-five, of fair physical and mental development. His first appearance in this section was barely two weeks before the killing, and his antecedents are unknown. His officiousness as a stranger told against him, as well as the fact of his association and sympathies with the Mexicans at that particular time, when there was a sort of an armed neutrality existing between them and the American population. Their cries of "viva la Mejico!" over Kimball's dead body intensified things. Another peculiar fact was Merritt's astonishing imperturbability, utter immobility, under the most scathing denunciations from the prosecution, and the scarcely less trying compliments of the defense. Not a change of color or twitching of a nerve indicated that he felt himself the object of their utterances. An innocent man of most extraordinary nerve or a scoundrel with nerves hardened beyond sensibility, one or the other—which? The other defendant occupied but a small secondary place throughout, except in the indictment and verdict.

CONCLUSION.

At 3:30 P. M. Thursday, the case, with usual instructions from the court, was given to the jury. The jury stood ten to two for some hours, but on what points we do not know; finally, at 10 P. M., they brought in a verdict of manslaughter, with a recommendation of mercy.

Some interesting chapters in this affair, touching both the two dead and the living, have not been even alluded to, but these we will leave as they are.

C. & M. Cohn.

The unique advertisement of the popular firm of Lone Pine, C. & M. Cohn, dealers in general merchandise of all descriptions, will of course be attentively noted by our readers. In the general cry of "hard times" the Cohn Bros. do not join, for the reason that they make business anyhow by thorough advertising. They fill orders from all parts of the county, and sell goods in such quantities that they are content with small profits.

The Artesian Well.

Sheriff Passmore informs us that up to Wednesday evening last, the Dodge & Passmore artesian well boring at Lone Pine, had reached a depth of 54 feet—so far having encountered no boulders or anything harder than sand and sediment. The well is located about half way between the town and river. The sand pump had caused a little trouble, otherwise everything was working well.

About Scarecrows.

Now that the planting season is at hand, we have no doubt but that many a farmer will rummage through his garret to find the cast-off garments, which stuffed with straw, are to be set up in the cornfield to warn off the marauding crow. We have never had much faith in this artifice. Crows are possessed of much more wisdom than is generally credited to them; and while an immovable bundle of rags may drive them away for a short time, we believe they eventually they discover the humbug, as we have seen the birds complacently picking up young corn almost within the shadow of as an elaborate a stuffed scarecrow as ever was erected. We, however, have heard suggested a couple of plans which are calculated to intimidate the boldest of these birds; and as they are easily carried out, perhaps our farmer readers may make use of them. The first and best is a suspended looking glass. Take two small cheap mirrors, fasten them back to back, attach a cord to one angle, and hang them from an elastic pole. When the glass swings in the wind the sun's rays are reflected all over the field, even if it be a large one; and even the oldest and bravest of crows will depart precipitately should one of its lightning flashes fall on him. The second plan, although a terror to crows, is especially well suited to fields subjected to the inroads of small birds and even chickens. It involves an artificial hawk made from a big potato and long goose and turkey feathers. The maker can exercise his imitative skill in sticking the feathers into the potato so that they resemble the spread wings and tail of the hawk. It is astonishing what a ferocious-looking bird of prey can be constructed from the above simple materials. It only remains to hang the object from a tall bent pole, and the wind will do the rest. The bird makes swoops and dashes in the most headlong and threatening manner. Even the most inquisitive of venerable hens has been known to hurry rapidly from its dangerous vicinity, while to small birds it carries unmixed dismay.

Buried Alive.

A couple of days ago a squaw died out at Yankee Blade, and the Indians buried her and her infant together, without taking the trouble to make a corpse of the latter. It is a custom with the Piutes and Shoshones to bury the dead mother and living child together, when the latter is too young to help itself. In this instance they dug a hole, threw the woman into it and laid the infant on her breast, covering them over with brush. In explanation of their conduct, one of them said; "Baby no good; no got milk; bimeby heap cry; die pooty soon anyhow." It would be an impossibility to convince an Indian that he is doing wrong by thus abandoning a helpless infant as a prey to the coyotes and carrion birds; it was the custom of the fathers, and he can see no wrong in it. A white man does not like to interfere in such a case, for to try and rear the child would be a hopeless task, and no white man would feel justified in dashing its brains out with a stone. Besides, the Indians would feel greatly aggrieved at any interference with this pleasant usage of theirs.—[R. R. Reveille, April 28.

A Splendid Residence.

Leland Standford's new residence in San Francisco is said to surpass in magnificence and extent any mansion on this continent. It has an extreme width of 155 feet and depth of 130. The rooms number fifty. The architecture is in Italian style, adorned with massive porticos and bow windows. The halls are ornamented with most costly panelings made from the rarest woods. The ground hall, which is 80 by 20 feet, is adorned with Corinthian columns of real Aberdeen granite. The rotunda, India room, library, bedrooms, attics and lower apartments, are each and all fitted up in a style of princely magnificence. The cost is between $600,000 and $1,000,000.

A Fooled Goat.

A troublesome goat, of the Billy persuasion, that prowls about the stores on Main street, came to an unexpected grief yesterday. Some one in the store of Snetsinger & Henderson knowing the propensity of William for nipping cabbages, etc., from the stores, doctored a potato—cutting out the interior and filling the cavity with cayenne pepper and placed in a conspicuos locality. The goat took the bait, and in a minute later the bait took him. The last seen of him he was making for Prospect mountain at a gait that would have brought a blush to the cheek of a mountain sheep.—[Eureka Sentinel.

—Brother Jonathan is a remarkably thrifty fellow. One hundred years ago he set up housekeeping with a family of 3,000,000, and a farm of 815,615 squares miles. He now has a family of 44,000,000 in round numbers, who occupy a farm of 3,000,000 square miles, subdivided into 37 lots called States, with nine unimproved lots called Territories. He has railroads enough to reach more than twice around the globe.

—Mr. Dexter, of Lyons, Kansas, has executed a model elopement. He went to the house of the married woman of whom he was enamored, found her and her husband in bed, awakened them, and told the woman to get up and dress herself and go with him, which she did, leaving her husband to see to the house.

—A young villain of 17 was recently arrested in Oswego county, New York, for trying to wreck a railroad train, and upon being asked his motive, said he wanted to "see her jump."

—It is estimated that the value of the shoepegs used annually in this country is $1,000,000. They are made principally of white birch.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, April 27th, 1876.

MESSRS. EDITORS—I feel so patriotic that I am afraid I shall have to steal something or run for an office, which I believe are nearly synonymous terms now. Patriotism generally breaks out that way. It is like the measles or small pox and no matter how it looks at the beginning, the red spots or the sores always come before the disease is cured. Just announce me at once as a candidate on the reform ticket (I don't know what or whom I shall reform, but that sounds well) for an office where the work is light and the pay good. This burst of patriotism is caused by the fact that I have been to Philadelphia and in the building where the Continental Congress sat I even went behind the railing and deposited the elegant person of Saxon in the chair of the President of that Congress. The guardians of these sacred precincts told me to "get out" and I did. I saw relics of the past—pictures of men of '76, waistcoats and swords and other articles worn by those ancient worthies and hence the patriotism. I want that office right away, so that in 1976, my picture may be there to be gazed at by the two or three hundred millions who will go to Philadelphia to our second Centennial. I looked at the old bell whose voice, like that of the angels in Bethlehem proclaimed "good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." It hangs cracked with its voice forever hushed. Is it a warning that the spirit which embued the men of '76 that gave it a voice, is also lost? I hope not. I wandered over the buildings and ghostly forms accompanied me. I saw Hancock sitting in the chair I had violated. The tall slender form of the Radical Jefferson was there. The impassioned eloquence of Patrick Henry broke in sweet cadences on my ears. And all the actors in that grand scene once more occupied their old places, once more "pledged their lives, fortunes and sacred honors" in behalf of liberty. Suddenly the old bell clanged out its wild notes and the waiting people shouted "independence forever." The whole scene was before me as vividly as if depicted by a master hand upon canvas. But the reverie was broken and I came back from dreams of 1776 to the actual realities of life in 1876. Speedily on the wings of the steam demon I was borne to the present capital. The magnificent marble structure dwarfs the modest brick building of 1776 into insignificance. I entered the splendid rotunda and passing down the corridors was soon overlooking the successors of the men who in '76 dared to brave the power of a mighty Empire. Faugh! The feeling of disgust as I compared them has not yet left me. It was like swallowing castor oil after a delicious dinner. The babblers was babbling away at both ends of the tower and their voices sounded like "the voice of many waters" and very weak and dirty waters. Not but that some of these babblers have not powerful organs of noise. Some of these have voices that would not have discredited the bulls of Bashan or old Stentor himself. But voice is about all they have. Their utterances are but "sound and fury signifying nothing." If they have sense it is carefully eliminated, and their talk and actions are the baldest nonsense, devoid of wit, worth or patriotism. Party is the God they worship; and no Eastern devotee ever bowed more lowly at the shrine of his divinity than do these babblers at the party altar. All their thoughts are "what can I do to help the party and myself." All their acts are for the same ends. The country, the people, whose servants they are, count for nothing with these babblers. Of course there are some exceptions, but not more than were required to save the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah from the fiery rain that destroyed them.

Some scientific gent, doubtless a member of that society in Stanislaus which Bret Harte has immortalized, has discovered that in ten thousand years the water of the ocean will be two hundred feet deep where the city of New York now stands. I am fully of the opinion that but for the presence of Saxon and a few other virtuous newspaper men like him, that the wave which that scientific gent has discovered would sweep over Washington this Winter. What a blessing it would be if only the newpaper correspondents could be saved. Nearly all the people would be washed out of the country at once and we could safely count on another Centennial celebration in 1976.

Whitley and a few other witnesses before investigating committees ought to be preserved as specimen liars of this age; for I believe nearly all the first class ones are now here testifying You will observe that this letter is wholly devoted to giving you the current news of the day and I hope you appreciate the labor required to collect it. SAXON.

That Periodical Rumor.

[From The Santa Monica Outlook, May 3.]

Ever since we came to Santa Monica the rumor has been revived at regular intervals, that the railroad from Santa Monica to Los Angeles is about to be sold to the Southern Pacific Company. Oftener than otherwise the rumor has been floated on the authority of what "they say," that numerous but indefinite individual who is of near akin to Mrs. Grundy. At other times, the report has assumed what appeared to be a more authoritative form, and parties have talked to parties who actually knew other parties who had a friend whose relations are such to the company that they ought to know, and "they say" negotiations are actually pending between Senator Jones and the Southern Pacific Company. Of course all this "talk" has caused more or less vibration of that "little member that boasteth great things." But the status of the railroad seems to have undergone no change, save to gradually increase its business day after day.

It seems to us any one ought to know that men who manage great enterprises never ventilate their plans at the street corners. This is not "business." Hence it is fair to infer that but few (if any) outsiders know anything about the purposes of the owners of this road. Yet there is an important fact underlying all this talk, and it is the direct cause of it. All have a more or less correct idea of the value of a railroad overland from this point. Its competitive advantages, on a small scale, has already been illustrated. The public have felt it in a most palpable manner; that is, they have profitted by it at the rates of not less than $25,000 per month, or $300,000 per year. But it has been to the pecuniary detriment of the Southern Pacific Company, both by dividing with them the carriage which they formerly monopolized, and also causing a reduction of four-fifths as compared with their former rates.

With these facts before the people it is natural to speculate as to what will be the next steps. Will the present company form an overland connection with the Southern Utah, and thus establish one of the most valuable routes in the State; or will the Southern Pacific owners—with their great wealth—allow an enterprise to be developed that will always hold their grasping schemes in thorough check? These are important questions, and it is very natural to ask them.

It seems to us the most casual observer can see that it would be the greatest calamity (commercially speaking) that could possibly befall this end of the State, for this road to pass under the control of the great corporation that only needs it to complete their monopoly. Col. Scott, it appears, is foiled in his effort to build the Texas Pacific, and this is the last chance for a competing line. Let the great corporation get this road, and they hold the seaports of Santa Monica, Wilmington and San Diego completely at their mercy; and they monopolize all the passes through which any great lines will ever be run into this southern country.

We have not the time or space at present to elaborate theses points; but if any one will take the pains to study the question, we think our statements will be fully verified. Southern California has a grand future before it. This Senator Jones knows as well as any one. He is also fully aware that he has a "big thing" in the shape of this little road and its prospective connections. Hence we think he will put a price upon it that even the "great monopoly" cannot afford to pay. We look for work to begin on the extension of the L. A. & I. R. R. at an early day.

—Some people seem to be extremely sensitive. At one of the churches on Sunday the minister read the prayer for a person in deep affliction, and a man who had just been married got up and went out. He said he didn't want public sympathy obtruded on him in that way.

Found at Last.

[From The Eureka Sentinel.]

The story of the famous "Amargoza" gold mine, discovered about twenty years ago by a party of emigrants on their way to California by the southern route, is familiar to nearly every one on the Pacific coast. The magnificent specimens brought to San Francisco by the emigrants created a great excitement at the time, but the emigrants kept their secret to themselves, and, fitting out a company, started back to their treasure trove, and that was the last heard of them until months afterwards, when it was ascertained that the party had been surprised and murdered by the Indians. Party after party has been organized, and thousands of dollars expended in searching for the "Amargoza," but all have proved unsuccessful, until a small prospecting party came upon the mine by mere chance, and no doubt under the same circumstances that led the first discoverers to its hiding place. Death Valley has at last divulged its secret, and the famous "Amargoza" has been rediscovered. The party who found the mine was composed of J. B. Osborne, the well known mining operator of this place, and his partners, Messrs. Hassan, Phillips and Black. Mr. Osborne returned to town Thursday night, and yesterday, in a brief conversation, related to the discovery they had made. The Armagoza is situated in a solitary mountain near the center of the southern border of Death Valley, almost the last place in the world a prospector would seek for gold. It is situated in San Bernardino county, California, close to the old emigrant road. A mill had been erected on the grounds, but was destroyed by the Indians. Four adobe houses and several of stone still remain on the ground. The party made an examination of the mine, passing through the various tunnels made by the emigrants and taking out some of the rock which proved to be red quartz, and although without the proper appliances for thoroughly testing it, they succeeded by "horning" in obtaining the most satisfactory results. A team will arrive in town in a day or two with specimens from the mine for assay. Mr. Osborne and party have already started work, and intend to send a sufficient number of men there to put the mine in proper working shape. Mr. Osborne has promised to give us the full details of the discovery of the mine next week. During their prospecting tour they also located a number of mines in Resting Springs District, which is also in San Bernardino county, and twenty-five miles from the Lincoln county line. The mines in this district show an immense body of carbonate ores, and Mr. Osborne assures us that the country is the most promising that he has ever seen, and the facilities for working the mines and the transportation of bullion, etc., unequaled. We anticipate a rush to that section this Summer.

"Pull Down Your Vest."

"You keep vests, mine frient?" said a Dutchman, entering a Fulton clothing store the other day. The clerk promptly averred that the store was crammed with them.

"I vant a vest," said the Teuton, "vat don't rise up on its hind legs mit der neck. I bought one in Syracuse not long ago mit a two dollar pill, and by shimminy, I don't notice dot myself, but everywhere I go de poys gry oudt mit der streets, 'Yacub, vy in der name ov der board ov drusdees don't you pull down your vest down?' and py dam, I have pulled dot vest more'n dree dousand dimes, till I wore all der pindings off mit der puttons!'

The clerk explained the joke and sold him a vest, and the old man went out with the exclamation: "Py shimminy, I don't hear somedings about dot in Shermany before."

The Great Salt Lake Rising.

The steady flow of water into the great Salt Lake valley from the mountains above has come to a serious matter. All the streams which empty into the Salt Lake proper are raging. The Tribune states that the great lake has been rising at the rate of twelve inches per annum since 1847. Thousands of acres of meadow lands along the eastern shores of the lake in Box Elder, Weber, Davis and Salt Lake counties, and along the southern shore in Toele county have become submerged. Indeed, says The Tribune, the apprehension seems likely to be become a reality, and within a comparatively short time we may expect to see the Hot Springs Lake lose its identity in being swallowed up by the great inland sea of Utah.

An Old Man's Advice.

I am now an old man. I have seen near a century. Do you want to know how to grow old slowly and happily? Let me tell you. Always eat slowly—masticate well. Go to your occupation smiling. Keep a good nature and soft temper everywhere. Cultivate a good memory, and to do this you must be communicative; repeat what you read; talk about it. Dr. Johnson's great memory was owing to his communicativeness.

—One of the attractions at the Centennial will be the display of trees. It will include all the representative trees of the country, from the California redwood to the Maine pine, and it is hoped that a large number of foreign trees and shrubs will also be exhibited.

ST. PETER AND THE EDITOR.

"Once upon a time" an editor died. He had lived a chaste life, and had labored assidiously and unremittingly in the vineyard of the public welfare. He was the embodiment of all that was wise and good; in short a modern Trismegistus, and what he didn't know wasn't worth knowing. He was the terror of evil doers. He could stand persecutions like a saint and cuss like a martyr. If a brother erred, he was charitable, and it was only from a sense of duty that he allowed the oral embouchure of his placid features to relax enough for the escape of a few surplus adjectives. His demise was universally regretted. The spirit, suddenly relieved from this wicked world of ours, fluttered like a new fledged eaglet for a moment, then turned from the frequented path and dashed upward. Arriving at a heavily ironed gate it knocked for admittance, but St. Peter recognized the pilgrim spirit and promptly called its attention to a placard marked, "No D. H. admitted." After a long and useless argument on the part of the spirit, to arbitrate the matter, St. Peter closed a huge ledger and pointing to an immense building just inside of the walls delivered the following in sepulchral tones: "Yonder asylum contains half a million of poor demented souls of newspaper compositors. They struggled and pored over your manuscripts on earth till body and soul parted, and here as upon earth the poor lunatics are not responsible for their actions. But you! you are the cause of this army of howling maniacs; now I bid you begone—go, set up a little hell on earth or where you will, but never return here till you can bear a passport written clearly and legibly by yourself, and these poor deluded ghosts shall have recovered the usual serenity of quiet and well-be-haved spirits."

THREATENINGS.

The social atmosphere is laden with mutters of threats from a certain turbulent interest of the Mexican population in and around Cerro Gordo, to the general purport that somebody is to suffer for the conviction of Merritt and Garcia here and Estrado at Aurora. These criminals were tried, convicted and sentenced according to law; the punishment to be meeted out to the two former is very light, and the best thing this disturbing element can possibly do will be to keep quiet.

The New Postage Bill.

The bill fixing the rate of postage on third class mail matter, was amended by making the postage uniform, without regard to distance, and as amended passed in the Senate. The bill limits the weight of postage to four pounds, and makes the postage on all mail matter of the third class one cent per each ounce or fractional part thereof, to be prepaid by stamps. Transient newspapers and magazines, one cent for every three ounces or fractional part thereof, and one cent for each two additional ounces or fractional part thereof. The bill to take effect on and after the 1st of July next. The bill as amended is a great improvement on the original bill, and will give general satisfaction.

Narrow Escape.

Two years ago a bill was introduced in the Legislature of Iowa to make a new county and call it Belknap county. The bill was progressing favorably when a member suggested that it was never altogether safe to name anything after a living man. The bill failed to become a law. And now these people won't even name a baby, much less a county after a living public man.

Fire at Pioche.

A dispatch from Pioche, Nevada, gives the following: At 3 o'clock Wednesday morning, May 3d, a fire broke out in an unoccupied building, and twenty-five buildings were consumed, among them The Daily Journal office. It is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. Loss, unknown.

The Electoral College.

The San Francisco Post figures up 369 electoral votes in the Union, of which it thinks 152 may be counted on for the Democratic candidate for President, 139 for the Republican, and 78 doubtful.

A Warning.

There is a man at Lone Pine who wishes us to urge upon wives the importance of treating husbands very carefully nowadays, lest under the whipping law they might get their hubbies into trouble.

THE RECORDS.

In our local report of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors last week occurred the following clause:

> Three deputies allowed Assessor, term of services chargeable to county not to exceed sixty days each.

Supervisor Curtis called and politely referred to the report as an error and likely to mislead, upon which we took the pains to again consult the records and obtain the following, which is an exact transcript therof:

> Upon application of J. F. Dillon, Assessor for Inyo county, asking for three deputies in the field, it is ordered that he be allowed one or more deputies, whose whole time of service charged to the county shall not exceed sixty days.

In hastily abstracting the points of interest the error of adding the word "each" was inadvertantly committed. However, in a letter curiously and most wonderfully gotten up, under date of Lone Pine, May 9, Supervisor Meysan corrects us by asserting that the report should have read:

> Two deputies allowed Assessor, term of services chargeable to county not to exceed sixty days in all.

The gentleman further asks a correction of our report of a former meeting in the matter of the bill of A. J. Chelius. Our transcript said:

> Bill of A. J. Chelius, for keeping prisoner one night, reduced to $22 and ordered paid.

Mr. Supervisor Meysan then proceeds to aver that the records stand as follows:

> February 8, 1876. Bill of A. J. Chelius. Mileage, $20; serving warrant, $2; keeping prisoner one night, $3. Reduced $3, ordered paid $22.

—Which they don't. The official, approved and duly attested records read exactly thus:

> Bill of A. J. Chelius reduced $3, said charge being made for keeping prisoner one night, and evidence appearing to substantiate such charge, and ordered that $22 be allowed in full payment of said bill.

It will be seen that to all intents and purposes our report was in accord with the facts, unless it becomes necessary for us to go back of the records themselves in order to present a report of the actions of the Board.

Another: Mr. Supervisor Meysan proceeds to say that the bill of Daniel Groux reads as follows:

> For taking care of Henrique Rivierre, deceased, $15; dressing dead body, $10. Ordered paid.

Very possible; but the records say just this—no more, no less:

> Daniel Groux, dressing dead man, $25.

Perhaps such a course was inexcusable on our part, but we really rendered the above in a more decent and comprehensible manner, among the "bills allowed," as follows:

> Daniel Groux, dressing dec'd pauper...$25

Now, in kindness, let us whisper a fact or two in Mr. Supervisor Meysan's ear: No one in the county has to our knowledge questioned the correctness of any bill allowed by the present Board of Supervisors; when there is occasion for such complaint the gentleman will probably ascertain the fact through THE INDEPENDENT. As for Mr. Supervisor Meysan's inuendo that the reports were garbled out of a desire to misrepresent the actions of the Board it seems to us an intimation too preposterous for notice — merely remarking that if the records themselves are not authority then the seeker after information had better quit. As to them, however, it is not to be presumed that the Clerk will take the entirely unnecessary trouble of recording each item of an account when the bill itself is ordered on file, without special instructions so to do. But if in any case the records are not sufficiently lucid then it strikes us that it is the business of the Board to order amendment, instead of authorizing the President to affix his approval.

We will be excused for a slight manifestation of impatience in this particular matter, when the full facts are known. For six years, in the interest of readers home and abroad, THE INDEPENDENT has faithfully reported the proceedings of the county legislators, guardians or agents (whichever the Board may be considered), necessarily condensing but at the same time giving the exact purport of their every action—simply as a matter of news, and by voluntarily doing so has performed that which might have cost the county many hundreds of dollars. What is the Board's duty in the matter?

SECTION 4046, POLITICAL CODE—Clause 22. At the adjournment of each session of the Board to cause to be published in a newspaper or otherwise a fair statement of all their proceedings, and semi-annually a statement of the financial condition of the county.

The foregoing is among the prescribed powers of the Board, and by plain implication such a course is made their duty, as in accord with the spirit of our institutions and the people's real interests. At one time we proposed publishing the proceedings verbatim for the sum of $1 per year, provided that the Recorder furnish the necessary transcript of the records. This the then Clerk refused without extra compensation, which the Board declined paying. Nevertheless, this paper continued to pursue the even tenor of its way, and in effect fulfilled the law's requirements on its own hook.

In further criticism Mr. Supervisor Meysan of Lone Pine comments in a strain of sarcasm upon an article appearing last week in reference to the Hospital awards. Whoever read that and comprehends English will understand that no exception whatever was taken to the action of the Board, either by this paper or Dr. Gelcich himself; neither was there anything therein which could be construed otherwise than as a profound compliment toward the new contractor, as a physician and surgeon of the best acquirements. The article was intended to, and did, give the retiring County Physician the benefit of a statement of the real facts of the case, and to squarely refute the evil reports so unjustly circulated concerning him and his management of Hospital affairs.

THE MAIL SERVICE.

The Department has been considering the idea of reducing the mail-service hence via Darwin to Panamint; also, of discontinuing the weekly service entirely hence to Lida Valley. The first was on the strength of information that the population of Panamint had decreased very materially, so much so, that a mail once a week was all it would justify. A similar condition of affairs was also supposed to exist upon the Lida Valley route. The several Postmasters have been called upon for their opinions. We hear incidentally that the Panamint Postmaster thought a weekly service would be sufficient. Postmaster Rowley takes the right view of the case and objects to both propositions. Panamint considered alone, is conditioned pretty much as stated. But its former population, with many others added, have been absorbed by adjacent districts, and the extent of interests subserved by this route in the aggregate is at this time as large if not larger than at any previous time. Included in these are Darwin, our present most important mining district and largest town, Lee, Lookout and Rose Spring districts, each and all containing a considerable population at this time with the most flattering prospects for material accessions in the near future. So far from this being any justification for a reduction of the present tri-weekly service, it ought by all means to be raised to six times per week. It is no less absurd to talk of discontinuing the Lida Valley route. It might be a relief to mail contractors as things now are, but there is no other reason why it should be done. It is the only means of communication with at least two very promising mining districts, together, including parties resident elsewhere along the route, of not less than 300 persons, as near as recent careful inquiries could determine. This number, unless a positive but unlooked for mining failure takes place in both these districts, is likely to be more than doubled in a short time. As an indication of the business relations between this portion of the county and that, we have it that no less than sixty tons of freight were shipped from here in the last week or two. Now it would be a very wrong thing to cut off such important interests and that number of people from all direct mail communication, and Postmaster Rowley was right in objecting to it.

Can be Recovered.

The law now provides that when lands have been sold for taxes, and have become the property of the State under the delinquent tax law, the person originally owning the same, or his successors in interest, upon payment to the County Treasurer of the amount of taxes, together with all the costs incurred, shall receive again a title to the land. An exception is made in this law that the parties shall not be entitled to recover land, originally owned by the State, where said lands were not paid for in full at the time of the delinquency.

Lost Father Wanted.

There is a letter in the Postoffice at Belmont, Nevada, addressed to "Jos. Wolfsohn, formerly from Loebau, West Prussia, now supposed to reside at Belmont, Nevada," and on the back of the letter are written these words: "To the Postmaster—Please endeavor to advertise, this letter being of importance from a daughter, who seeks her lost father to find." Report yourself, Joseph.

The Special Road Law.

SECTION. 1. The Board of Supervisors of the county of Inyo shall, at their first regular meeting after the passage of this Act, appoint a Road Overseer for the county of Inyo, who shall hold his office during their pleasure, not exceeding four years, and until they shall appoint his successor.

SEC. 2. Said Road Overseer shall be an elector of the county of Inyo, shall give an official bond in the sum of two thousand dollars, to be approved and filed as bonds of other county officers are, and shall file with the County Clerk the usual oath of office.

SEC. 3. For his services he shall receive the sum of five dollars per day for each day that he is actually employed in the business of his office.

SEC. 4. The said Road Overseer shall have the entire supervision of all the public roads within said Inyo county. Road districts and District Road Overseers in Inyo county are abolished.

SEC 5. The said Overseer of Roads, under the direction of the Board of Supervisors, and pursuant to the order of the Board of Supervisors, must:

First—Take charge of the public highways within the county.

Second—Keep them clear from obstruction and in good repair.

Third—Cause banks to be graded and causeways to be made where necessary, keep the same in good repair, and renew them when destroyed.

Fourth—Make quarterly reports to the Board of Supervisors of all labor performed upon said roads, and of all moneys expended.

Fifth—Receive and present petitions for new roads, recommend or disapprove of the same, and assist in laying them out.

Sixth—To render his bills quarterly for expenditures and services, verified by his oath, which bills shall be audited and allowed or disallowed, as in case of other bills, and shall be paid as herein provided.

SEC. 6. The Road Overseer shall not expend, in any three months, over six hundred dollars in any one supervisor district, without previous authority from the Board of Supervisors.

SEC. 7. Every male inhabitant of the county of Inyo, over twenty one years and under fifty-five years of age, must annually pay a road poll tax of two dollars, provided the same be paid between the first Monday in March and the first Monday in July, but if not paid prior to the first Monday in July, then it shall be three dollars.

SEC 8. The several provisions of the Political Code for the collection of the State poll-taxes shall be equally applicable to and govern the collection of the road poll-tax.

SEC 9. The proceeds of the road poll-tax shall be paid into the county treasury, and shall constitute a fund to be known as the Road Poll-Tax Fund, and shall be paid out on warrants drawn on said fund by order of the Board of Supervisors. The provisions of law applicable to other county warrants shall apply to these.

SEC. 10. Warrants shall be drawn on this fund by order of the Board of Supervisors for such bills as they may from time to time allow the Road Overseer for services and expenditures, but nothing herein shall prevent said Board from ordering the same paid out of the Road Fund, if they deem it expedient.

SEC 11. No other highway taxes or labor shall be required of, or levied upon or collected from any person in Inyo county, except the tax on property provided by law.

SEC 12. All Acts and parts of Acts in conflict with this Act, so far as they so conflict, are hereby repealed.

A Mistake.

A short time ago we published an item, copied from one of the Virginia papers, stating that Doc. Shaw, a well-known sport of Western Nevada, had got into some scrape in England, which resulted in his being sentenced to imprisonment for life. From the following from Friday's Humboldt Register it would appear that the statement was erroneous. The Register says: "We had the pleasure of meeting J. F. B. McCleery, the world renowned billiardist, yesterday at the depot. Mr. McCleery is just from London, where he has been sojourning for some time past. He informs us that there is no truth in the report that Doc. Shaw, well known to the sporting fraternity of this coast, had been arrested and imprisoned for forgery in London. Shaw is in St. Petersburg, in possession of a fortune and doing well."—[Eureka Sentinel.

—A white dove hovered over the coffin of John Dolan, hanged in New York, April 21st for murder, from the time it was brought out until the execution was over, when it flew away. This, in connection with his protestation of innocence, has created the belief in many credulous minds that he was really not guilty of the crime for which he suffered, but The Sun says it is an everyday thing to see doves flying in and about the prison yard where Dolan was hanged, and is confident that he did murder Noe.

A Success.

A Grass Valley dispatch dated May 4 gives this gratifying intelligence in relation to the Fryer process:

The Fryer reduction works were opened to the public this forenoon, when the machinery was set in motion. A large number of persons were present—miners, capitalists, editors and correspondents from every part of the State and from distant States and Territories. The whole apparatus is entirely different from anything in use before, and consists of a furnace designed to roast at a high temperature refractory ores in order to reduce noble metals to a pure state before amalgamation. The second operation is treating the roasted ores in a revolving apparatus of octagon shape provided with sixteen cylinders five feet long and twenty inches in diameter, equal in capacity to a five-stamp battery. Quicksilver, hot water, and some cheap chemicals yet unnamed are placed in the cylinder with roasted ores. The heads of the cylinders are tightly closed and the pulverizing apparatus set in motion at the rate of ten revolutions a minute. A cylinderical weight of 250 pounds in each cylinder falls twice upon the ore in every revolution, pulverizing it to an impalpable powder, while at the same time amalgamation is going on. After six hours of this treatment the cylinders are opened and the pulp ejected through a pipe into the separator, where it is met by a powerful stream of water at the bottom of the separating vat which keeps the pulp in active motion. The amalgam falls into a receptacle at the bottom of the separator, and the slums float off at the top. These pass through a rotary square box provided with copper plates to catch the smallest particle of amalgam, if such could possibly escape. The amalgam is immediately drawn off and retorted, and in twelve hours from the time the quartz is first put in the furnace, the result in bullion is obtained, averaging from 90 to 95 per cent. of the assayed value of the ore, and that effected at a very small cost. With free ores the furnace is omitted, as the pulverizer is sufficient without it. As the machinery started the octagon pulverizer moved off as quickly as though it had been in use for years. Mr. Fryer, the inventor, and Mr. Hall, President of the Fryer Noble Metal Mining Company, were both warmly congratulated at its success. Mr. Hall, who had waited to witness the inauguration of the enterprise, left by the afternoon train for New York.

Married.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Man Killed at Darwin.

About 9 o'clock A. M. on the 8th instant, Mr. Kleiner, of the Darwin brewery firm of Kleiner, Jorgensen & Davis, shot and killed a Mexican named Montenegro. The Mexican was a brother of Ramon Montenegro (who, some time ago shot Phil Desersche), and a man either idiotical or crazy or both. During a recent visit at Darwin we learned of the existence of this crazy Mexican, and the fact that the citizens had on two or three occasions subscribed money to send him away from the place, and of his return to the town each time after squandering the funds, with the aid of his family, elsewhere. It seems the brewery men had occasionally employed him to wash bottles and such work, and just previous to the shooting he was so engaged. While Kleiner was waiting upon customers at the bar, Montenegro suddenly interrupted him with a demand for money. Being told to wait a few minutes he became wild, ran outside and began throwing stones into the house, at Kleiner and at the bar fixtures, with such force as to break the boards composing the bar itself. Kleiner drew his pistol and fired at him, but missed his mark—when the assailant started to run; he fired again and deceased fell and soon died. Kleiner gave himself up to officer Wales and was arraigned before Justice McManus, and subsequently discharged from custody.

A Mammoth Tree for the Centennial

The largest tree standing in the United States is on the head of Bear creek, North Fork of Tule river. The exact dimensions of this immense red wood giant, we do not remember, but believe it is some over 46 feet in diameter. A San Francisco party have made arrangements to represent this monster at the Centennial, and have given the contract to a Tulare man, Mr. J. K. Cramer, to remove the bark with eight inches of the wood from the surface of the tree, cut, or stripped rather, like staves of a barrel, without felling the tree; these pieces are to be cut 40 feet long, and when put together in Philadelphia will form two rooms inside 20 feet high. In these rooms cabinets of California specimens and curiosities will be neatly and appropriately arranged.

I. O. G. T.

G. W. C. T. Jabez Walker is expected upon a fraternal visit to the Lodges of Inyo on the 17th instant, and our citizens will probably have the opportunity of listening to a talk by the able and eloquent lecturer. A committee of Honor Lodge, consisting of Messrs. Goodlow, Dwyer and Terry, have the reception duties to perform on the part of that organization. The following officers were installed by D. G. W. C. T., A. B. Macgowan on Thursday night: W. C. T., Charles B. Terry; W. V. T., Charles O'Niel; W. S., William Goodlow; W. A. S., Edward Cheatham; W. F. S., Henry I. Ackley; W. T., John Hons; W. M., Jacob Arnold; W. D. M., Thomas O'Mara; W. I. G., James I. Dowing; W. O. G., Hamilton Hunter; W. C., George W. Ford; W. R. H. S., John F. Cannells; W. L. H. S., Henry Freedman; Lodge Deputy, William Goodlow.

Adjourned.

The District Court adjourned on Thursday to a continuation of the term to begin on the first Monday in July. His Honor, we understand, intends procuring another Judge to try the cases. Among the most important ones which went over were: Guervo vs. Gregg; Reddy vs. Clark; Kerrick vs. Diaz; Reddy vs. Tyler; Holt vs. Virginia Con. M. Co.; Rawlings vs. Tyler; Howe vs. Tyler; Hanson vs. Keeley et al.; Gorman vs. Tyler; Graves vs. Martin; Villeges vs. Cuervo; Diaz vs. Boley; Boley vs. Givens; Harris & Rhine vs. Silver Sprout M. Co.; Hanson vs. Roberts, et al.; and perhaps some others.

Running Very Well.

Broder & Moffatt's furnace at Sylvania started Thursday a week ago and has been running successfully since. The ore varies somewhat in its characteristics, the furnace running as well as could be desired for twelve hours or more at a time, then partially banking so as to cause some trouble. On the whole, however, as above intimated it is doing well enough to leave no question as to its certainty of success. Some of the metal had to be run through the second time, thereby diminishing the number of bars already run to 170 for the first three days—improving somewhat since then. This is high grade bullion (over $600 per ton), and there is any quantity of ore, so Sylvania is all right.

Norton.

The action of the District Court, admitting J. R. Norton—held for the killing of James Coyle—to bail in the sum of $5,000 was had after a full hearing of all the evidence which could upon a trial be brought to bear by the prosecution and defense. It is understood that Norton will on Monday or Tuesday next file the necessary bonds to secure his release and appearance for trial at the July continuation of the present term. We have no disposition to prejudice the case one way or the other and hence forbear further comments or even a statement of the facts brought out by the motion for admission to bail.

Professional.

We were this week favored with a call from Dr. Washington Matthews, Post Surgeon of Camp Independence. He manifests considerable interest in regard to Inyo in general, particularly her geology, natural curiosities and the evidences of former races visible upon the pictured rocks near Fish Slough to the northward and among the hills of Cerro Gordo on the south. When called upon to do so the doctor will attend to the practice of his predecessor—his card being given in this issue.

Important to Horsemen.

We will have in readiness next week, in pamphlet form, a correct record of the fastest time recorded, when made, etc., together with the revised rules and regulations governing all the principal jockey clubs. These rules are invaluable to horsemen and others who frequent the turf, and will settle all arguments that may be raised. Any one wishing a copy can be supplied by forwarding 50 cents to this office—simply enough to cover the expense of putting it in convenient shape.

Due and Timely Notice.

The senior, after grinding away in the regular routine of daily duties for the past ten months, concluded to take a little respite—accordingly took up his line of march toward Darwin and vicinity. Evil disposed persons are requested to postpone, for the present, any contemplated visit, as our door key was accidently lost somewhere on the inside.

A Call.

The bugle notes of the great Unterrified are heard in the land, and a meeting is called at 2 o'clock P. M., Monday next, for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the State Convention. The notice will be found under the head of "New Advertisements."

DISTRICT COURT.

Hon. Theron Reed, Judge.

Manuel Machado vs. Epitacio Gomez; judgment by consent of counsel in favor of plaintiff in the sum of $400 and costs.

P. Reddy vs. J. G. Birchim; dismissed at request of plaintiff.

People vs. J. R. Norton; motion to resubmit the case to Grand Jury sustained, and defendant ordered admitted to bail in the sum of $5,000.

T. D. Lewis vs. Wm. D. Brown et al.; judgment for plaintiff.

Cook vs. Cook; on plaintiff's motion Louis McClure was appointed guardian for Geo. A. Cook, a party defendant.

Otto Kunik vs. Rafael Diaz; passed for the term.

Campbell vs. Halsey; stricken from the roll for want of service.

People vs. Merritt and Garcia; former sentenced to five and the latter one year in the State Prison, at hard labor.

People vs. A. Tontini; fined $100.

Hiskey vs. Hiskey; decree for plaintiff.

Laird vs. Laird; decree for plaintiff.

Davis vs. Adams; decree of foreclosure.

Graves vs. Martin; passed for the term.

School Closed.

The Independence school closed yesterday, after a continuous term of six months, under the teaching of Maurice Levin. Parents generally express perfect satisfaction at the advancement of the pupils, and it will be regretted that Mr. Levin is going to leave us. In this small district the State and county school moneys are inadequate to the maintenance of a school for the time required by law—hence on yesterday our citizens were called upon for about $350. To their credit, be it said, the sum was soon subscribed, the list being headed by Harris & Rhine for $150. Following is the abstract of monthly summaries for the quarter ending May 12, 1879:

Panamint & Darwin Toll Road.

In reference to the proposed reduction of tolls by the Board of Supervisors, at their meeting last week, we present the following sworn statement of Nathan Rhine, financial agent of the Panamint & Darwin toll road company, to wit:

Invested by original stockholders.....		$3,916 15
Expended by John Shepherd, trustee...		2 220 52
Total.....		$6,136 67
Cash rec'd from tolls to date, (May 1, 1876).....	$1,225 10
Bills receivable of Mr. Buckley.	250 00
		$1,475 10
Balance.....		$4,661 57

The only comment necessary upon the propriety of reducing the tolls—which are not exorbitant—is the fact that the original stockholders have never received one cent in return for their outlay; and that the road was prepared and all in use, save a branch, before Darwin was discovered or known as an inducement for the outlay. The proposed resolution only applied to that portion of the road between the lake and that place, the remainder affording no revenue whatever beyond the expense of gate keepers and some repairing.

Seventy-Two Feet.

The artesian well at Lone Pine has now reached a depth of 72 feet, where a hard-pan of grayish blue clay has been struck. It is impractible with their present boring apparatus to work through it, as the sand-pump is of course useless, and the auger in pressing upward through 65 feet of water loses its load entirely—so operations are necessarily suspended until the arrival of a hollow one, which has been sent for. Prior to striking this clay, strange to say, no rocks or boulders larger than an egg have been encountered. From certain indications on the old bank of the river, four or five miles distant, it is supposed that this clay-strata will probably be about 30 feet in thickness, after passing through which a flowing well almost certainly result. The development is looked upon as most decidedly favorable for the success of the important venture.

U. S. Paymaster Robbed.

At a late hour last night, news came of the robbing of Col. Wingard, U. S. Paymaster, and killing of his clerk Tilley. They were on their way to Camp Gaston in Klamath county to pay off the soldiers quartered at that place. Traveling on horseback they were waylaid by two Italians known as the "brothers," who ordered the officers to hold up their hands. Tilley refused, saying that he would never surrender the money entrusted in his care. The Italians then fired on them—instantly killing Tilley and badly wounding Col. Wingard in the arm. The robbers secured $1,600 from the person of Tilley.

Kearsarge Mountain.

Mr. Gray, of the Kearsarge mine, came down from the mountain the other day, but we got no opportunity to interview him. We understand, however, that he intends moving the furnace up to the mine within two weeks. His men are nearly all engaged and on hand. Mr. Holt, of the Con. Virginia, has been getting things in readiness for several days, although experiencing quite a drawback on account of the unusual depth of snow. He is largly interested individually in these mines, and proposes to make a thorough test of them this year—however late the season. The Silver Sprout people are expected on hand pretty soon.

Grand Jury.

Following are the names of the gentlemen composing the late Grand Jury, accidentally omitted feom publication last week: Augustus Walker, L. Howard, B. Peeler, John Kinnay, W. G. Watson, T. G. Beasley, R. W. Ford, S. G McMurray, W. J. McCrosky, A. W. Eibeschutz, T. K. Hutchison, Joseph Rowan, A. S. McGee, R. M. Johnson, O. M. Paris, S. A. Densmore, W. S. Hunter and A. N. Bell, foreman.

A Demoralized Jury.

A venire for a number of jurors was served up country by the Sheriff, who rode all Wednesday night, of this week. Thursday the jurymen commenced coming in and learned the fact that the District Court had adjourned—the majority of them arriving just in time to witness the departure of the Judge. The spontaneous discharge of combustible oaths from those jurymen would have astonished a '49 graduate.

OUR NEW MINES.

Look Out District.

From various indications it is evident that the truly wonderful mineral belt or section of mining country lying between Cerro Gordo on the north and Panamint on the south, in this county, is about entering upon an era of excitement and rush, based upon real and proven merit. Lee, Coso, Look Out, and Wild Rose comprise the principal districts in order from north to south, and from the showing in the developed mines in each, appear to increase in importance to the southward. In a single article a description of more than one of these is out of the question, so for the present our report is confined to which, after the construction of reduction works, is in all human probability destined to produce more bullion than any other series of mines on the Pacific coast, saving perhaps the Bonanza. The limit to its producing capacity will be simply the number of furnaces and mills employed in reducing the ores. The district is situated in the Argus range, the mines being distant from Darwin from 10 to 16 miles. Referring first to

lying exclusively within the belt of syenetic granite, which adjoins on the south and west the vast mountain of limestone in which are situated the silver mines. The gold of the formation now referred to, extending as far back to the northwest as the foot of Big Owens Lake, were the basis of some of the very earliest mining operations in what is now Inyo county, which were known as Coso and Argus districts. Gold in small quartz ledges was discovered in "Coso" (now called Old Coso and then designated as Granite Springs) May 24, 1860, by what was called Dr. French's party, consisting of 15 prospectors, mostly from Butte county. They struck, besides, silver mines between the Lake and Coso, to reduce which the Olancha mill was built near Passmore's. July 15, 1860, an arrastra was built for the class of gold mines confined in this belt, by Grimes and Kennedy, and in 61-2 a mining superintendent named Wadleigh built a mill at Old Coso. All these works have long since gone the way of things earthly; but this historical reference, which might perhaps be with interest strung out to a much greater extent, is here introduced only to show that these gold fields are by no means new. That these early prospectors, unfortunately for them, happened to strike the wrong end of the district will appear by our description of the mines of the same class at the other. The most prominent is located by Messrs. Snow, Grant, Mee, Crough and perhaps one or two others. It lies, as stated, exclusively in granite, running steadily north and south, crops boldly out for nearly half a mile, is of an average width on top of two and one-half feet. The ore is free, produces many beautiful specimens, and works by arrastra process $100 per ton from wall to wall. The openings upon the mine are three or four in number, none to a greater depth than 20 feet, but which show even richer rock at the bottom than on top. Without the construction of difficult roads through the mountains for from four to six miles, wood is not convenient, but contiguous to the ledges are springs furnishing an abundance of good water; in fact, the while district is comparatively well watered. Surrounding and outside of what we consider the mother vein are promising locations designated as the Lighthouse, Providence, Confidence, Warhorse, etc., all on distinct ledges of the same general character but smaller—many of which show ore rich in free gold. On the whole, a ten stamp custom mill on these mines would prove a fortune to its owners, enrich the miners and vastly enhance Inyo's production of precious metals.

SNOW'S CANYON,

About a mile distant from the center of this group of mines, contains a running stream of pure water—a most valuable property. It was located by Snow & Grant, and we believe has lately been purchased for a round sum by the new owners of the Minneatta. Some four miles to the northeastward, in a lime country as essentially differing from that containing gold as mountain lime and granite do differ, on a bold promontory jutting out over Panamint Valley, is situated the series of mines belonging to the

MODOC CONSOLIDATED COMPANY,

Located May 5, 1875, by Jerome Childs, where is now being conducted one of the most extensive and engergetic mining operations in this county. Extending down both sides for over 1,000 feet each way, and across the narrow summit of Look Out mountain or promontory, are no less than ten wide ledges of rich gray carbonate ores, contained in a belt less than one-fourth of a mile wide, of the classes designated in miner's parlance as "wet" and "dry." The principal openings, running in directly on the ledges, are upon the Modoc, Sunset, Confidence (Nos. 1 to 4), Up and Up, East and West Look Outs. We consider 2,000 tons as a safe estimate (our own) of the quantity of all classes of ore on the various dumps, and $200 per ton in silver as an average valuation. We handled cupel "buttons," among the hundreds of them in the company's assay office, ranging from the "dirt" or "waste" samples to the finest specimens, showing the assays to run from $140 to $7,044; the greater proportion being in the neighborhood of $300 per ton. Prospected, of course, by means of tunnels, of which we examined eleven at various points, the ledges or deposits show a clear width of from 10 to 35 feet, at the mouth, the ledge matter being occasionally interspersed with boulders of lime. The deepest, on the Confidence No. 4, is 3 0 feet below the scoria-like croppings, and in the "dry" or milling ore. At the time of our visit the end of this tunnel showed an unbroken body of high grade ore on the top, bottom and each side for a distance of more than 30 feet; and since then we have learned of a strike of even finer chlorides as the drift is driven in. To tell of the appearance of the openings in smelting ores, or to speak truthfully of half the mineralogical wonders of Look Out mountain would subject us to a charge of dealing in the fabulous. Suffice it to say that from developments already made 60 miners could extract ore sufficient to keep ten furnaces in operation.

ROADS

Are being blasted out of the solid cliffs around the crest of the mountain, by a force of 75 men, amid engineering difficulties of no small moment—a work which can hardly be completed for less than $25,000. Three miles back are situated the company's springs, the water from which is to be led down the grade in pipes to the mine.

THE SITE

For reduction works is unselected as yet, as a suitable location convenient to both the essentials of wood and water seems hard to find without going to too great a distance from the mine. However, furnaces will shortly be under way, an assessment (No. 1) of $1 per share having been levied for the purpose May 3.

Other mines of this district, as well as those of Darwin and Lee, will come under notice next week.

Notaries.

Governor Irwin has appointed R. L. Peterson Notary Public, to reside in Lone Pine, and D. P. Macarter, to reside at Cerro Gordo—about which there must be some error, as "Mac." is in business at Lone Pine.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, CAL., May 9.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The weather, like a California maid, is very changeable. At times dark and cloudy, with a piercing wind, reminding us of the discomforts o the past Winter; again clear and warm, but making spasmodic and generally futile efforts to raise the wind; but then we also have a fair proportion of really pleasant weather, so your correspondent grumbleth not.

THEATRICALS.

The McGinley troupe are again visiting our camp. They announced that they would give a benefit in aid of our school building. The Committee realized therefrom, the sum of $65 (after deducting all expenses) to be devoted toward liquidating the school house debt. This building occupies a prominent position in our town, and adds greatly to its appearance.

TOWN PROPERTY.

There has been quite a business transacted in real estate, in Benton, within the past few days. Town lots are now sought for, and the demand for building lumber is far in excess of the supply.

LAURA MINING CO.

This Company are making preparations to resume work. A. W. Hughes, Esq., is the efficient Superintendent. The law suit in which they have been involved has been compromised, and they now have undisturbed possession of their claims.

NEW MILLING COMPANY.

Mr. Morgan has made arrangements to erect a ten stamp mill in our camp. He also has bonded the Thompson and Truman mine.

SICKNESS.

Our camp, heretofore noted for its health-bestowing properties, suddenly took a departure from its old trodden way, and inflicted upon our people various diseases, among which measles were the worst. Many complain of headache, severe colds and bronchial affections, but all appear to be in a fair way of recovery.

Everything still denotes solid prosperity and all the animated nature of Benton appears bright and joyful, even as

MINION.

The Reflecting Globe.

A note from Capt. A. B. Macgowan conveys information that will be sincerely regretted by all, to the effect that Company D will not undertake to put up the proposed reflecting ball on Fisherman's Peak. It is announced that the army will receive no pay whatever for the entire month of June, and hence so comparatively heavy a contribution for purely public purposes is out of the question at present. The commandant has accepted the Lone Piners' invitation to participate in the Centennial exercises, which would also interfere with the proposed work on the Peak. To our own knowledge, the citizens of Independence, Darwin and Cerro Gordo would willingly defray the expense of procuring such a ball if Company D. will undertake to put it in position either before or after the Fourth. In ennumerating the towns who would join in the noble cause, we have purposely omitted Lone Pine, whose patriotic citizens have already had sufficient calls upon to loosen their purse strings for the celebration. In the way of a practical demonstration of the matter, let a couple of prominent men in each place pass around a subscription list, right away.

Important.

The valuable series of mines in Lookout District, adjoining the Modoc on the south, known as the Minneatta, Mountain View and Keystone were during the week sold to a heavy San Francisco company, headed by James Morton. The sellers, Messrs. Coffee, McDoud and McLane, realized at the rate of $30,000 for the whole property—they still retaining an interest, we believe.

Editorial Visit.

T. S. Harris, of The Coso Mining News, was among the crowd of Darwinites in attendance upon Court matters during the past week. T. S. expresses himself well satisfied with the flattering prospects of Southern Inyo and has reason to feel so. The News is making gallant battle for the interests of that section.

Business Change.

Notice is given that Harvey Russell has sold his interest in the Bishop Creek Flouring Mills to Wm. G. Russell and John Dugan, who will in the future conduct the same under the firm name of Russell & Dugan. The mills are deservedly popular, and one of the old stand-by institutions of the country.

County Court.

Judge Hannah's Court, which adjourned on Monday last to accommodate the District Court, will meet again next Monday, May 15.

New Style of Quartz Mill.

We find the following in The Amador Ledger of the 29th. One of the parties in interest, Superintendent Jas Brady, is well known as a former resident of this county, where he has many friends to wish him success:

We understand the Boston Mining and Milling Company, A. P. Bacon, President and James Brady, Superintendent, whose mine is located at Mokelumne Hill, have just purchased and shipped a Cowles Patent California Giant Quartz Mill. An experimental mill made of this kind was put on the Alabama mine near Jamestown, which is now doing good work, though not more than one-half the size of the latest improved iron mill. It saves more gold per ton and does more work in a day than any 20-stamp mill in this State, while its cost was not one fourth the price of a 20-stamp mill. The new mill, with its appliances for screening, agitating and plowing up the pulp which the experimental one did not possess, will no doubt do wonders in reducing very fine ores and get rid of large quantities of pulp. The new mill will be in operation in a few weeks at Mokelumne Hill, where parties interested in mining can see its operations. Cowles & Cooper, of Sacramento, are the proprietors and manufacturers. Another mill of the improved pattern has just been sold to the Oliver Mining Company at Grey Eagle, in El Dorado county, A. K. Grim, President, Allen Oliver, Superintendent. Parties interested will do well to examine into the merits of these mills. They are said to crush dry or wet, also silver or gold ores with equal facility.

—According to Mr. Nordhoff, the honest, impartial opinion of nine out of ten of the Democrats one meets at Washington from all parts of the country is that they will have to nominate General Hancock as their candidate for the Presidency.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one-quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

[From The Scientific American.]

The method recently proposed by M. J. Volhard is based upon the circumstance that soluble sulphocyanide combinations with acid silver solutions form a white curd-like precipitate of sulphocyanide of silver. The same precipitate of sulphocyanide of silver is also obtained when silver solution is in the presence of the red solution of sulphocyanide of iron, the color of the latter disappearing instantaneously under the change. If, therefore, a solution of sulphocyanide of potassium or sulphocyanide of ammonium is added, drop by drop, to an acid silver solution, to which some sulphate of iron has also been added, every drop of the sulphocyanide salt solution creates a blood-red cloud, which, however, disappears upon the solution being shaken, the mixture assuming a pure milk-white color. It is only when all the silver has been precipitated as sulphocyanide of silver that the color of the iron and cyanide remains. If it is known how much sulphocyanide salt is necessary for the precipitation of a certain amount of silver, then it is easy to ascertain the exact quantity of silver contained in a solution.

This method is capable of being very generally employed, for it permits of bodies—such as chlorine, bromine, and iodine—being quickly and surely determined by precipitating them with silver solution of known strength, the excess of the added silver being titrated back again by means of a solution of sulphocyanide of salts. Especially for the determination of the above elements in organic combination is the new process of Volhard to be recommended The method has many advantages over Mohr's process, in which bichromate of potash is the indicator.

1. It is carried out with an acid solution, while with Mohr's process a neutral fluid is necessary, thus curtailing at once its utility.

2. The combination—the color of which serves as an indicator—is soluble, so that the retroaction is more easily known.

3. The salt serving as indicator (the sulphate of iron solution) is itself uncolored, and can therefore be added in larger quantities.

To make his titrating fluid, Volhard employs sulphocyanide of ammonium. As this salt is too hygroscopic, in order to weigh it in particular quantities the solution is put into a silver solution, obtained by dissolving 10 grammes of pure silver in nitric acid, and diluting to 1000 cubic centimetres. In another vessel a quantity of sulphocyanide of ammonium is dissolved in water, so that 8 grammes are contained in every litre of water. Ten cubic centimetres of the silver solution are put into a beaker, and to it are added 5 cub. cents. of a pure solution of sulphate of iron (a litre containing 50 grammes) together with 150 to 200 cub. cents. of water. From a buvette the sulphocyanide solution is gradually added, agitating the while, until the fluid has attained a feeble red tone. Assuming that for 10 cub. cents. of silver solution 9.6 cub. cents. of sulphocyanide solution have been used, 960 cub. cents. of the latter is diluted to 1000 cub. cents. One cub. cent. then shows 10 or 10.8 milligrammes.

Before use, this solution is again tested. With this object 1 gramme of pure silver is weiged, and this is dissolved in 8 to 10 cub. cents. of nitric acid; this is heated upon a sand bath until no further trace of nitrous acid fumes are given off, and to it are then added 5 cub. cents. of iron solution, the whole being diluted subsequently with 200 cub. cents. of water. On cooling, the sulphocyanide salt solution is added, while the liquid is kept agitated. With the last drop of the hundredth cubic centimetre the red color must have set in visibly and permanently.

Who Should Bow First.

[From Appleton's Journal.]

Who has not heard ladies express mild surprise because some man who had been presented to them had not bowed to them on meeting them on the street, at the theatre, or in the drawing room? If you ask them, "Did you recognize him?" they will be apt to reply, "Oh, no! of course not. He should have spoken first." Being reminded of the well-defined etiquette bearing on the subject, they are likely to add: "I know that very well; but no woman wants to take the initiative. Men should do that; its their business; it doesn't belong to us. No one expects us to make ourselves so bold." The truth is, the majority of women are naturally so accustomed to man paying court to them, to his making the first advance in everything, that they can't find it in their sexual sensitiveness, in their severely conventional selves, to obey a mandate they originally issued and still insist on perpetuating. Not one woman in ten thousand has any fault to find with the rule; in fact, we have never known a woman to object to it. Nevertheless, she seldom follows it in her own case. Sometimes a woman says, as a sort of self-justification, "Supposing I should speak to a man, on meeting him after an introduction, and he should not remember! How awkward I should appear; how overwhelmed I should be with shame to observe that he did not remember me. I can't afford to place myself in a position to seem to be cut by any man." If any number of women feel thus, the point of etiquette should be changed in order to save their sensibilities. In truth, however, the objection is not well made. There is not the smallest danger that any man, presuming him, of necessity, to be a gentleman, at least in respect to ordinary forms of courtesy, would refuse or hesitate to return the acknowledgement of a woman, even though he might not have the remotest recollection of ever having seen her before, or though he were convinced she had confounded him with somebody else. And the fact that he had been recognized by a woman would be the strongest presumptive evidence that he had been presented to her. Men are not likely either to forget their feminine acquaintances or to mistake Mrs. Thompson for Mrs. Robinson or Miss Blank for Miss Dash.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation.

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

Application for a Patent

....TO THE....

KERNVILLE QUARTZ MINE AND MILL SITE.

No. 66.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL., April 23, 1876

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THOMAS Michell, whose postoffice address is Kernville, California, has this day filed his application for a Patent for Fifteen Hundred (1,500) linear feet of the KERNVILLE quartz mine or vein, bearing gold and silver, with surface ground Six Hundred feet in width; also Mill Site, containing 4 2-100 acres, situate, lying and being in Cove Mining District, Kern County, California, and known and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lots No. 45 "A" and 37 "B" in Township 25 South, Range 33 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES.

The exterior boundaries of Lot No. 45 A, the Kernville quartz mining claim, being as follows, to-wit: Commencing at a post in stone mound, the established S. E. corner of the Nellie E. Dent quartz mine,—in which mound is set a post marked "K-N-E 1" for N. E. corner of the Kernville gold and silver quartz mine, from which bears a white oak 48 inches in diameter, S. 2½° E. 4 links distant; thence, (variation 15¾° E.) S. 2½° E. 4 links, a white oak 48 inches in diameter: 18 50 chains a mining shaft bears West 175 links distant: 22.72 chains set post marked "K. S. E-2" in stone mound for S. E. corner of the mine from which bears a white oak 8 inches in diameter, S. 3° W. 78 links distant; thence N. 69¼° W., descend 4.54 chains to the post set on the south end of the Lode: 8 85 chains cross gulch 8 links wide, course south, ascend 9 09 chains set post marked "K-S-W-4" for S. W. corner of the mine, from which bears a live oak 10 inches in diameter, S. 69° E. 56 links distant a nut pine 10 inches in diameter, N 1° E., 75 links distant; thence N. 2½° W. 22.72 chains, set post marked "K-N-W 5" in stone mound for N. W. corner of the mine; thence S. 69¼° E., 4.54 chains to the post set on north end of Lode. 6 05 chains intersect the established S. W. corner of the Nellie E. Dent quartz mine; thence it runs parallel to the southern boundary thereof. 7.57 chains intersect mound set on south end of Lode of the Nellie E. Dent quartz mine, 9.09 chains to the place of beginning—containing 18 97 100 acres.

SURVEY OF MILL SITE—LOT 37 "B"

From the quarter-section corner on the north boundary of section 4, Township 26 South, Range 33 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, it runs West 3.00 chains to a set post marked K-M-S N-E in stone mound for N. E. corner of the "Kernville Mill Site;" thence (variation 15° 45′ East.) West 3.60 chains cross road bears N. 30° E. and S. 30° W. 4 00 chains set post marked K-M-S-N-W. in stone mound for N. Ex-Senator Nye's Humor.

The question before the Senate was a bill to admit the Chinese to equal privileges of citizenship, and Mr Sumner had the floor. His speech was, as usual, elaborate, studied and classical—his periods well rounded, and his arguments fully up to the standard of the Massachusetts statesman and scholar. Defending the propriety of suffrage and equal rights to the enfranchised slave, he urged that the Chinese, who had emigrated and settled upon our shores, were equally entitled to similar recognition. His appeal for the children of the "Flowery Kingdom" was earnest, and when Sumner concluded, it was evident he had made quite an impression upon the Senate.

At this juncture, so soon as Sumner had taken his seat, Nye sprang to his feet, and was recognized by Mr. Colfax, the President of the Senate, orating somewhat as follows:

"Mr President," said Nye, his broad face beaming with humor, and his attractive person showing to advantage. "I was born in the good old county of Stuben, in New York State, and raised upon a farm. My parents were hard-working and thrifty people, fearing God and performing their duties with a clear conscience. We had morning and evening prayers, in which was always offered an appeal to the Almighty for the liberation of slaves. I have trudged between the handles of the plow, drove up the cows, fed the stock, reaped the grain and mowed the grass, and, like every farm boy, did my share in the home work.

"My good mother, God bless her! was a careful housewife, and among other standard American delicacies, doughnuts were always provided. We all like doughnuts, and I think the American farm boy that doesn't like doughnuts is hardly to be found. I often watched my good old mother when she made the dough, and kneaded and shortened, until it was in fit condition. Mr President, the result of my observation was that she always took a small piece of dough and fried it in the fat before she risked the whole batch! She tried it first and awaited results.

"I have listened to the eloquent speech of my friend from Massachusetts on the Chinese question. I live on the Pacific Coast, and know the Chinese better practically than any one who knows them theoretically. They have nothing in common with us. They save their earnings and return to the Flowery Kingdom. You can not make a citizen of a man who will not sacrifice his pig tail! We have enfranchised the blacks—they are now free and citizens, and I am content. I am willing to place these Chinese on a sort of a probation, if needs must be, and want the question determined by the same rule that my good old mother regulated her batch of doughnuts!" The effect of this speech was marvelous. Mr Sumner could neither retort nor explain; and the consequence was, the bill failed through the homely, but by no means insensible argument of the doughnut at the hands of Nye. He literally killed the bill and overcame Sumner with doughnuts.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, May 4, 1876.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Are we to have only rich men or thieves for office-holders? That seems to be the idea with men who are continually prating about a reduction of salaries. None of our officials are now paid enough to live respectably; none of them receive as much as the same class of men engaged in private avocations. The effort to reduce the President's salary to $25,000 was fortunately defeated by President Grant, who understands the American people better than the men, Democrats and Republicans too, who are afraid to vote against any measure reducing salaries. "The back pay grab" was universally condemned, but it was only because it was "a back pay grab." Had Congress merely raised the pay of Congressmen to $7,500, and not taken themselves two years back pay at that rate, no complaint would have been made at the passage of the law, except by the chronic grumblers. In fact even that is too little when one examines into the facts. Take for instance a lawyer in your district. He has lived to be forty years of age—has a good practice paying him, say from five up to twenty thousand dollars year. He desires to go, or his friends want him to go to Congress. For some months he must neglect his business and spend a large amount of money, perhaps a year's income in securing his election. I mean a legitimate expenditure in electioneering expenses. Of course his business suffers. He is elected and comes here. All his constituents who have the least particle of business write to him and get him to attend to it. He must subscribe and pay for all the newspapers in his district, and is compelled to answer an average of not less than twenty letters per day, and visit one or more of the departments every morning. If on a committee his work commences at 10 o'clock in the morning and very often on important committees extends to that hour in the night. The result is that he must employ a secretary at a cost of $150 per month. His board does not cost less than $150 per month unless he is very penurious. He is expected and almost compelled to subscribe to numerous charities and to attend entertainments and this makes at least $150 more per month. He is bound to entertain his constituents when they visit the city and often to furnish some of them means to return home. He has to contribute to political funds and when his term ends is left without a dollar of his salary, and perhaps has expended some thousands of his previous accumulations. His business is lost because he could not attend to it and he must either commence the world over again, or seek a re-election and "go in" for some job or steal whereby he can rehabilitate his broken fortunes. Hence Credit Mobiliers and other things of like character. I have a tolerably extensive acquaintance among the members, and I do not know of a dozen among my acquaintance who live within their salaries. Either we must raise the pay of these officials, elect only rich men, or expect that jobbery will be prominent in our legislation. So with all our officials we place them on starvation salaries and leave them open to temptation with perhaps empty larders and hungry children. Of course they steal. The independent press should discuss this question in a spirit of fairness and educate the mind of the people to the point that would demand sufficient salaries for their servants to live on decently. Honesty would be the rule instead of the exception in public service.

Nothing of any interest is being done in Congress. The investigating committees have struck no bonanza of scandal and the legislation amounts to nothing. Rumor says that the Texas Pacific bill will be reported soon in a shape that will cause it to be adopted. I hope so for I think it would be of infinite benefit to the country.

The British government claiming that an Act of Parliament of 1870 modifies the treaty 1844 as to the extradition of criminals, the United States government has given notice of the abrogation of that section of the treaty. Men past the meridian of life will remember well this celebrated Webster-Ashburton treaty, made in 1844 when Daniel Webster was Secretary of State and Lord Ashburton was plenipotentiary upon the part of the British. Much excitement was caused at the time by the claim of the Democrats that Webster had surrendered some of the territory belonging to the United States, and the treaty entered largely into the canvass of that year. Tweed can go to England now. SAXON.

—An up-town man, who believes in self-improvement, suggested to his wife recently that they should argue some question frankly and freely every evening and try to learn more of each other. The question for the first night happened to be whether a woman could be expected to get along without a Spring bonnet, and he took the affirmative; but when he was last seen he had climbed up into the hay loft and was pulling the ladder up after him."

—A vinegar hearted old bachelor says he always looked under the head of "marriages" for the news of the weak.

—If a row of columns is a colonnade, isn't a row of lemons a lemonade?

Important Amendment.

The Code in reference to the administration of estates has been amended as follows: Section 3,469 is amended so that when the inventory of an intestate shows its value does not exceed $1,500, proceedings are to be had after notice and day set for hearing, as provided in Sections 1,533, 1,655 and 1,638 of Art. 1, Chap. 10, Title 2, Code of Civil Procedure, relating to the settlement of accounts. On the hearing, if the Court finds the value of the estate does not exceed $1,500 it must assign for the support of the widow and minor child or children, or if there be no widow, then for the children, if any, the whole of the estate after the payment of expenses of last sickness, funeral charges and expenses of administration, and there must be no further proceeding had, unless further estate be discovered. When the value of the estate does not exceed $3,000, it is in the discretion of the Court to dispense with the regular proceedings or any part thereof "prescribed in this title except as herein provided," and there must be a summary administration and distribution at the end of six months, and the notice to creditors must be for a presentation of claims within four months after publication of the notice and those not so presented to be barred. The Act took effect on its passage and was approved Feb. 15, 1876.

Important Land Decision.

A Washington dispatch of May 3 says that in the case of George C. B. Selby versus the State of California, in which application has been made on behalf of parties holding title under the State for a rehearing, the Secretary of the Interior has determined to grant such application and permit additional arguments to be filed on behalf of the State. The Commissioner of the General Land Office is therefore directed to suspend all action under the Departments decision of March 10, 1876, on the above case, and direct that no homestead or pre-emption entry be allowed under authority of said decision upon any lieu lands which have heretofore been selected by the State of California as indemnity school sections, and to return the papers with the appeal to the Secretary for re-examination. The decision of this case will affect the title of over 250,000 acres of land in California, which, with their improvements, are valued at several million dollars.

The Postal Thief.

Edgar Pierce, who stands charged with embezzlement of money from the U. S. Postal Department, not putting in an appearance before the U. S. Grand Jury, has forfeited his bail. We understand that a true bill of indictment has been found against him, and if so, Edgar has better return and throw himself on the mercy of the court and the President.—[Carson Tribune.

The Big Show.

The big show at Philadelphia opened in due form on the 10th, according to programme. President Grant made a speech, finally declaring the Exhibition opened for the inspection of all the world and the rest of mankind, Dom Pedro being on the platform to lend countenance to this statement. About 50,000 were on the grounds at the beginning, swelling to more than twice that number by noon. Then there was an onslaught on the grub at the restaurants, and the grub succumbed before the host was half satisfied. There was nobody there to work miracles—a most unaccountable oversight—so the hunger of that crowd was not appeased right away. Wagner's Grand Centennial March, played as a part of the opening exercises, did not satisfy expectations as much, if so well, as the restaurant display which immediately followed. It is likely we will hear more about the show before September.

A Libel Suit.

The Amador Ledger has lately been exposing the alleged, and very probable rascalities, of certain Amador county officials. In consequence of this the officials sue the paper for immense damages—$30,000 we believe. One of the editors and proprietors is a son of Register Briggs of this Land Office. Of the other The Austin Reveille has this to say:

Richard Webb, formerly a compositor in The Reveille office, but at present editor of The Ledger, published in in Jackson, Amador county, California, has been arrested for the publication of an article in which he made a wholesale attack upon the Amador county officials. Webb is a straightforward, conscientious man, and we would be willing to wager any amount that he was honest in his convictions, and fully believed that the attacked parties were guilty of the offenses charged.

Sargent and the Chinese.

We are indebted to Senator Sargent for a copy of his great speech in the Senate on the Chinese question, setting forth the urgent necessity for the abrogation of the treaty with China so far as it permits the flooding of these shores with Mongolians. He reviewed the curse in its many phases, and his speech must impress every one who heard it, as it will impress all who read it, with the enormity of the evil. It is significant that the people of the East are beginning to discuss this subject calmly and the old fogy ideas about the equal rights of man are giving way as the facts of the case are understood.

Funny Experiment with Restless Children.

The latest thing in the invention line is a contrivance to prevent uneasy and mischievous children from "joggling" each other in school. It is described as follows: "In the seat of each chair is placed a small metallic plate connected by a wire with a galvanic battery on the teacher's desk. Each alternate chair is connected with a positive pole of the battery and the other with the negative pole. So long as the children remain quiet no shock is experienced, but the moment one child touches another an electric current is created, and both the victim and his assailant are held fast. An uproar is created and the attention of the teacher is attracted." This novel plan is designated "a machine to prevent joggling in school-rooms," and the inventor has actually enlisted the help of the keeper of a small private school in the Tenth ward to allow him to exhibit the effectiveness of the invention. It is no exaggeration to say that it is a complete success, and that restless boys once under the operation of this galvanic shock are done forever with "joggling" as a means of grace.—[Rural Press.

Learning Languages.

It has been said that every man comforts himself with the assurance that there are two things he can accomplish whenever he feels inclined—give up the use of tobacco and learn French. He may never have felt the inclination, but he flatters himself he has enough latent moral strength to accomplish his purpose whenever circumstances may call for the effort. It may interest those who contemplate learning French at some undefined and remote period, to know that only 750 words of any language need be learned to enable the learner to make himself understood with tolerable freedom. It is also said that the agricultural laborers in England use a vocabulary containing only 450 words, and this limited number is sufficiently ample for their daily wants.

The Foundry.

We looked into the foundry building this morning and were gratified to see the rapid strides made during the week toward the completion of the work. The engine and boiler are in place, the cupala and Root blower are set up, the lathe in place, the shafting being put up and connections rapidly made, and we are informed that by Tuesday or Wednesday next the busy whir of the blower will be heard through the camp.—[Borax (Columbus, Nev.) Miner.

MAILS AND STAGES.

It is to be hoped that as soon as possible some different time schedule and mail connections may be arranged between the Northern and Southern stage lines. In the first place, the business of the county imperatively demands a daily mail service on the southern road. In the next place it is of even more importance that connections be better timed than at present. For instance, a traveler say from Bishop or any point north of this place takes a passage to any place south of Lone Pine, or vice versa, he is landed first in Independence, where he is allowed to recuperate until the following day. Then he takes an easy stage of sixteen miles to Lone Pine, where he is allowed another night's rest, perhaps two, contingent upon timing the day of connection between a daily and a tri-weekly line. Now this rate of progress is all very fine for an invalid, or somebody with plenty of means with which to pay hotel bills, but ordinarily it is just as far from satisfying the requirements of business as it possibly can be. The mails are subject to precisely the same halts and delays, the only point in their favor being the saving of hotel bills. It would be difficult to plan any arrangement better calculated to depress the business of this entire region than this. To prevent their interests from suffering, it has frequently happened here of late that business men in this place are obliged to despatch express and mail matter by private conveyance to Lone Pine, at considerable expense each time, so as to catch the outgoing mail from that point. If a juror, witness or other person has to come here from Darwin, only 56 miles distant, it takes part of two days and the intermediate night for him to do so, and except Cerro Gordo it is only upon every other day that he can have a chance to travel by stage at all from any point south of Lone Pine. In the aggregate this involves a large expenditure of both time and money, all of which could be easily avoided by a concert of action on the part of the two companies so as to make regular connections. The service of the southern route ought to be changed to a daily, or to six times a week at the very least. The section directly involved embraces the most important interests of the entire county. These interests and the nearer approach of the railroad have changed the most patronized line of mail communication from the north to the south, taking this place as the initial point, or, so to speak, as the isothermal business line of the country. Until these changes took place the business of the county was best subserved by a mail line north via. Carson, and in consideration of that fact the routes extended through—one to Lone Pine, another to Cerro Gordo and a third to Panamint, daily service on all; while those from the south were then and still are but tri-weekly. The late opening of new, and at present our most important mining centers, compelled a partial abandonment of a portion of the original mail routes on the southern line, throwing it to the eastward, thereby causing an actual doubling of mails over nearly one hundred miles of the route. A similar doubling occurs for twenty-eight miles hence northward. We have not the remotest desire to favor the claims or advancement of one stage line or mail contractor as against those of the other, but we do say, first: that while service on the northern line should by no means be decreased, that of the southern road should be increased to not less than six times per week; secondly, that so long as this town of Independence remains the seat of justice for the county, in some respects its business center, likewise because of the nature of the whole case, it should be made the terminus of these two principal mail lines, the several lateral ones to branch off at the various points of nearest connection. It is true that it is a matter of indifference to the public who the carrier may be, or where the service of one begins or the other ends, so long as connections are made and the mails and express sent through as they should be. But just such interruptions as these we now complain of may always be expected, when the arrangement of time tables is subject to partially adverse interests, or by different companies not bound by terms of contract, circumstances or what not, to make their respective lines practically one, so as to best subserve the public interests. The existing arrangements will not do, and must be changed for the better, even though it causes an abrogation of existing contracts, as it is pretty certain to do, sooner or later.

—New gold fields have been discovered at the head of Tongue River, Montana, and a party of 160 miners have left other places for the diggings.

Superstition.

[COMMUNICATED.]

MESSRS. EDITORS—A striking incidence once occurred in the presence of the writer, showing to what extent the belief in superstious signs asserts itself among the Mexicans, and a better proof of its results is hard to be furnished than the following: One afternoon while sitting in an easy chair under the shade of an orange tree in one of the mining camps of Mexico, I was startled from my reveries by the heavy clatter of a horse's hoofs across the "patio." Looking up I beheld the "mozo" of an American who was working a very valuable mine some six miles from where I lived. The news that he brought was to the effect that his master was dying from the effects of poison, having been bitten by a rattlesnake. I immediately saddled my horse and together with two or three of the mill-hands (Americans) we started at full speed for "San Vicente Arroyo" where we arrived too late, our friend having died some minutes before. We found there a number of Mexicans and a few whites who had been summoned as we ourselves. Night had approached but no one had yet withdrawn from the house in which lay the body of our former friend. Among the discussions, one arose between the Mexicans on one side and the Americans on the other, as to where he should be buried. The Mexicans contended as the deceased was not a Christian in any sense of the word he should not be buried in consecrated ground—while his countrymen averred that as he was a good fellow anyhow, he should be buried in the churchyard. Of course it was out of the power of the writer to bring the angry dispute to a close, and it seemed as if a general fight would be the inevitable result. But, while in its hight, a white dove flew in through the door and settled on the feet of the dead. It was instantly seen of course, but no notice made of it until the attention of all present was called by myself to the fact that the dove had fallen over on to the dead man's legs and had expired. Immediately all loud talk and demonstrations ended, and the Mexicans after hurried whisperings among themselves, informed us that they looked upon the dove as the spirit of the child of the deceased which had died very young and much beloved by the father, sent by God to settle the difficulty, and that we could choose a spot in the burial ground as best suited us and erect a monument such as we pleased. The funeral was largely attended, and the dove was buried in the same grave, by the Mexicans. We could only account for the incident on the supposition that the dove was chased by a hawk and sought refuge in the presence of human beings and died with fright, accidentally lighting on the dead man's feet. However, it was remarkable, and the Mexicans have as much right in their belief regarding it as I have. Suffice it is to say if it was a messenger from heaven, it had its desired results. X.

Cerro Gordo, May 12.

The Independence Road.

[From The Anaheim Gazette, May 4.]

We are informed that Senator Jones, encouraged by the great success that has attended his venture so far, proposes to enter upon its extension in the direction of Salt Lake very shortly. And it is also said that he has decided to adopt the route via Anaheim and Santa Ana Canyon, in preference to running parallel to the Southern Pacific via Spadra. The route proposed would come right up to Anaheim, passing through the Hill place on the north side of town, and thence, keeping the left side of the river, through the Santa Ana Canyon to San Bernardino. It is easy to see at a glance the great benefit Anaheim will derive from the carrying out of this scheme. Direct communication with Santa Monica is in itself a great gain. We shall then be able to avoid costly transhipment by lighter, which has cost this district so many dollars heretofore. Freight from Anaheim will then run to Santa Monica wharf without change, and the great facilities afforded must eventually bring about reduced freights. Another advantage will be the possession of a competing road to Los Angeles. That once established we shall no longer be at the mercy of the Southern road; and competition will bring us cheap freights and fares in this case also. Then we shall have direct communication with San Bernardino and, further off, with the richly wooded and valuable mineral lands beyond. It will also eventually place us in a direct line communication with the East, via the Union Pacific, for such is the Senator's intention. Indeed, we can see nothing but gain, great and immediate gain for Anaheim, by the advancement of this project. And it would also seem as though Senator Jones might go on with his good work without fear; for the line would, no doubt, be productive as far as built from the outset. It could be operated right along for its local traffic independent of the large through business which would await its completion. Though there are portions of country through which the road would pass that are not as yet well settled up, those portions are of a character that the expense of building a road over them would be very light. We sincerely trust that this scheme will soon be put in operation. Once commenced, our past experience of Senator Jones' energy guarantees its speedy completion.

Tale Bearers.

Of all the contemptible people in the world the tale bearer wears the horns. Next, and of equal importance, is the person who, under the guise of friendship, bears back to a person every gossiping rumor that floats on the breeze. Many of these stories would die out, and be buried in oblivion but for these busybodies, who run between principals and stir up enmities by bearing back these floating rumors.

Merritt and Garcia as Writers.

Subjoined are true copies, words, spelling and punctiation, of manuscripts found in the cells just vacated by the writers, who are now en route for San Quentin. The pensmanship indicates that each was the writer of his own piece, the writing being better than ordinary. We suppose it was on account of the arbitrary rules of the house where the authors put up during their stay in this place that the now somewhat distingnished authors did not call upon us and present their articles direct. However, they are excusable, and here in turn is what they have to say:

TO THE EDITORS OF THE INYO INDEPENDENT.—MESSRS. EDITORS: I would like to say a few words in behalf of myself before leaving your town.

I have committed no crime or broken no laws, therefore I have nothing to confess. I go to prison not as a murderer, but as an innocent man. I am not a saint, neither am I as black as I have been painted. I go through the Prejudice of my enemies, men who would not hessitate to do anything to satisfy thier evil designs. I forgive them. I came here a stranger, in your midst, for the purpose of building myself a home, and becoming one of the people of Inyo Co. but, I regret to say, misfortune has befallen me, and I am compelled to leave, but, I hope others who come among you as strangers will be more fortunate.

I leave a heart broken wife and child behind me, to mourn my misfortune. I hope God will watch over, and care for them during my encarceration.

I most sincerly thank my learned and most able Counsel R. M. Briggs, Esq. for the manner in which he defended me, and the manly effort he made in my behalf, to save me from the place that awaits me.

I hope God will reward him for his kindness to a poor and friendless man.

I return my thanks to Sheriff Passmore, and his deputys, particular, the under Sheriff, S Gregg, Esq. for his, and thier many kindnesses to me, while in thier custody, thear kindness, I can never forget, and I hope, should it be the misfortune of any man to be Encarcerated and in thier charge, he will receive the same kind treatment. I write this in vindication of my character. I hope you will correct all errors, which are many.

Forgiving all my enemies, I bid them Farewel. LOYAL MERRITT.

My name is Gaudalupe Garcia. was born in Sonora Mexico. Am 26 years of age; have resided 19 years in California, never was in trouble of any kind before, always had the reputation of being a quite, orderly, honest, hard working man. I would respectfully ask your Honor, to be lienient with me, and show me mercey, for the sake of my poor Sister, who is to young to earn her own livelihood, and I am her only support. my Father & Mother are both Dead, and she has no other relative but me liveing, and I am her only support.

I expected to give this to the Judge.

—A good anecdote has lately crossed the ocean, of an American girl who was playing croquet in England, last Summer. "What a horrid scratch!" said she indignantly, when her mallet once failed of its duty and she missed her shot. "Oh, my dear!" said an English cousin, "you should not use such slang expressions." "What should I have said?" asked the American. "You might have said," replied the English maiden, after canvassing her vocabulary for a perfectly unexceptionable phrase—"you might have said, 'what a beastly fluke!'"

—General Thomas Mill and Mining Company have levied an assessment of 50 cents per share, delinquent June 15. This is the first assessment, aggregating $25,000. The stockholders expected a dividend instead of an assessment.

—A man arrived in San Francisco a few days since from Southern California, bringing with him the head of Chavez, the notorious bandit, for which the Governor of California offered a reward of $5,000.

—May 12, Senator Sargent presented a long petition from citizens of California, complaining of irregularties on the part of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, and making positive charges of mismanagement.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A Murderous Assault and Other Circumstances.

At Lone Pine, some two or three days ago, an Indian known as Chino, made a most murderous assault upon an Indian girl called Juana, inflicting a ghastly cut on the nose and lips, one stab in the abdomen, four upon her left arm, two in the chest and a large cut in the left leg. At the solicitation of some citizens Dr. Colleau, County Pysician, was induced for pity's sake to take charge of the poor creature. He complied so far as to dress the two cuts in the chest, when his stock of humanity became exhausted. Deciding that she must die in an hour or so, and without touching any of the remaining wounds, he he left her to her fate in the road. About sunset Dr. Gelcich hearing of the condition of the poor thing, went and dressed her wounds after which he had her conveyed to his hospital, where she now is, and, under his treatment, with fair prospects of recovery, notwithstanding the apparently fatal character of her numerous wounds. We don't see that our County Physician is entitled to any great amount of credit for soft heartedness as manifested in this particular transaction. We do not hear what became of the murdering devil of an Indian.

Brass Band.

Harris, editor of The News, and Ferd. Frost, foreman of the office, both excellent musicians, are the leading spirits in the organization of a brass band for Darwin. They have but lately received their instruments, six pieces, all of the best quality. The band will be a success without question, and we really think it will be something for Darwin to be proud of, and is worthy all due encourgement, particularly as the boys go away off to the water works building to toot in practicing Ned Reddy manipulates the big tuber and Billy Welch one of the horns: Charley Sharp takes a cornet—may be it is a horn, too—the fact is we are not very well up in the names of brass instruments, and it may be it is the other boys that take horns. Anyway they have secured the services of a competent instructor, are going into the business with spirit, each one intending to become the master of at least two of the instruments, and we have no doubt some if not all of them will succeed. Their enterprise is worthy of emulation in this and the rest of our rural localities, if our young men would only think so.

To Celebrate at Home.

The Coso News publishes a call for a meeting of the citizens of Darwin for the purpose of considering the propriety of holding a local celebration at that place. The reason for this step, as we were given to understand, is that of necessity the larger portion of the Darwin population would find it beyond their means to come so far to attend the Centennial at Lone Pine, and that this was for the benefit of the enforced stay-at-homes. There is nothing objectionable in this, yet it was hoped the Lone Pine celebration would be the occasion of a complete re-union, so to speak, to the exclusion of side attractions of whatever kind. Still, as before intimated, the proposed celebrate at Darwin is not intended as an interference in any way, but merely for the edification of those who could not participate in that at Lone Pine in any event.

A Specimen.

We are the recipient, from some kind friend at Darwin, of a curious specimen of nature's productions under certain (or very uncertain) conditions. It is a crystalization of a curious form, which to be fully appreciated should be seen, it being of the salt of the earth; and the sender knowing our weakness for such things wasn't pork enough to keep it all to himself. It may be inspected at the Aldine saloon, where Johnny Irwin expatiates upon its true character. It doubtless has some bearing upon the Darwin theory of natural selection, and ought to be pigtured out for some scientific society. Thus endeth an o're true tail.

The Celebration.

The advertisement of Inyo's Centennial celebration at Lone Pine, given this week, will be read with interest by all. So far as we can learn, our population generally are making calculations upon attending. Our turfmen will notice, in the same connection, the advertisement of purses offered to the fastest nags, in races to come off on the two days following the Fourth. In regard to the celebration exercises, the Grand Marshal will next week issue his proclamation of invitation to Inyo's citizens, concerning formation of procession, line of march, etc.

Gone Below

R. M. Briggs, Register of the Land Office here, started on a business trip to the lower portion of this land district, last Sunday. He will probably pay a visit to his home in Jackson, Amador county, before returning, but he authorizes us to say to parties having business before the Land Office that no preventing Providence, he will certainly be at his post by the 15th proximo. He went with T. F. A. Connelly in the private conveyence of the latter to Calicite.

Snow and Frost.

Our Benton correspondent, in a private letter, says the Mono people experienced quite a snow storm Tuesday night last. At this place on the same evening and the succeeding night, ice formed, corn was cut down and vegetables were badly demoralized and it is feared about half of the fruit crop is ruined. Strawberries had been in market several days previous to this visit from old Jack Frost.

Plead Guilty.

On the 16th instant, at Lone Pine, G. Palicio made an assault upon the person of Frank Dabeeny, his uncle, and then voluntarily went before Justice R. L. Peterson and acknowledged the fact. Justice Peterson fined him $7 with the alternative of an equal number of days in Passmore's hotel. Having no good opinion of the accommodations of the hotel, he paid the cash and went his way.

Exchange House, Darwin.

Among the numerous retaurants at Darwin, (there is no hotel proper so kept as to fully satisfy all the requirements of Swimley's happy boarders) there is none we can more cordially reccommend than the above named, kept by S. A. Densmore, well known to all our local readers. Densmore furnishes excellent "grub" and served up in the best of style.

Going to Leave.

Paul Houard, having sold his ranch near Fish Springs to Geo. Shedd, proposes now to take up his residence at White river, Tulare county.

To Physicians.

The attention of physicians and druggists is directed to the advertisement of Dr. P. G. Gelcich, of Lone Pine, given in this issue.

Preaching.

Rev. L. Case will preach in this place tomorrow evening—usual time and place.

Defiance Mine and Furnace.

Having occasion to pay Darwin a brief visit last week, we took advantage of John Reddy's buggy and kindly offices to see what the Defiance mine looked like. It has been several months since the writer had seen this mine, so that he felt truly astonished in observing how much had been accomplished in the interval towards putting it in shape for effectual mining. Foreman Hubbell trotted us through all its tunnels, shafts, upraises and inclines and we are glad to be able to say there is no part of the mine where there is not a goodly exhibition of both hard and soft ore. The largest of these deposits is in the shaft at the south end of the south tunnel, being the lowest point yet reached upon the ledge proper. Our visit to the mine, and town for the matter of that, was with no intention of writing a report, and as we made no notes at the time, we shall make no attempt to give a description in detail of the various shafts, tunnels, etc.—merely repeating what we have before said that there is no part of the mine from top to bottom or end to end that does not make a fine showing of ore, and that at no time in its brief history was the prospect really more encouraging than at this time. It should be borne in mind that almost simultaneous with the first blow on the prospecting tunnel the mine has been made to furnish a constant supply of ore for a big furnace, and all from the direct line of tunnels and shafts, stopping at no point to do regular stoping out. We have no knowledge of any other mine anywhere that could have done as much or anything like it—and without a shadow of doubt it can be made to do the same thing for months if not years to come, though operations were confined strictly within the ore bodies now opened to view by these shafts and tunnels. But such is not the intention by any means. An incline shaft 125 feet deep, below the mouth of the tunnels, has just been completed. In manner of construction and timbering no neater executed job in kind is to be found even on the Comstock. Steam hoisting works for this shaft were being put in place last week and are doubtless in operation ere this. The bottom of this shaft is considerably below any previous working. As soon as the connections are made, all to be to this level, the work of extracting ore and disposing of waste will be immensely facilitated and at a much less cost for handling. The south tunnel before referred to, is between two and three hundred feet in length, the shaft at its extremity being down sixty-five feet below its level, and about 250 feet from the surface at that point. It is in this part the largest deposit is found. The main tunnel so called, runs at right angles to this tunnel and the ledges, reaching 350 feet directly west into the hill. In the first 200 feet it crossed both the front ledges, its present objective point being the third or back ledge, known from the croppings not to be far distant. After crossing the second ledge the tunnel strikes into solid, unbroken rock—that at the extreme end being a white limestone, and of such changed character as indicates the close proximity of the ledge sought for. Should the croppings of this ledge develop as largly at this depth (over 200 feet), as did those of the two first ones at the same level, the value or extent of the mine would be beyond computation. The chances are it will do it. The Defiance is, even without this third ledge, a bonanza indeed.

THE FURNACE

Is the only one in Darwin that has kept up steam through thick and thin since its first start. It has done this in the face of some rather adverse or discouraging circumstances, but such as are nearly always to be contended against in the inauguration of such enterprises in an out-of-the-way country like this, and especially when starting in at the beginning of a hard Winter, against which it was impracticable to fully prepare, as in the case of a longer established operation. But for the Defiance furnace and mine pay roll—but for Superintendent Reddy's energy, unlimited faith and public spirited enterprise in maintaining his operations in the face of the adverse circumstances of the past Winter, the town of Darwin would of necessity have had a depressing time of it for some months past. The furnace has been running successfully as a whole, although at times it "bucks" as the boys express it; owing to peculiar combinations of the ores. The only result of this bucking is a somewhat diminished number of bars turned out, one shift with another, never, of late, making it necessary to cool down or totally suspend operations for an hour at a time. The Darwin ores appear to be somewhat more difficult to smelt than those of Cerro Gordo, the number of bars of bullion made in a given time being somewhat less though of a higher grade. Mr. L. F. Shepherd who has charge of the furnace is thoroughly up in his business, both by education and years of experience in Cerro Gordo and has done well. As the mine produces ore much faster than one furnace can reduce it, another cupola was to be in operation this present week. This addition will double the amount of bullion turned out, and yet add but little to the cost of running the one only.

THE GENERAL OUTLOOK

At Darwin is undoubtedly greatly improved of late. We were assured by persons upon whom we rely that with one single exception (and that because cutting away from the ledge) there is not a mine in the district upon which work has been prosecuted that does not show better and better as depth is reached. We cannot state the exact number in this category, but it is very nearly a score. Some disappointment has been experienced by two prominent companies in the fact that their mines did not yield in suitable quantities ores of a smelting character, the Defiance being the only one of any size that posesses all the constituents for successful smelting. The ores from the others taken as a whole are better suited for stamps, although the New Coso company have recently opened a body in one of their mines sufficient to justify starting up their furnace, which is being put in thorough repair ready to steam up by the 1st proximo. Several mines hitherto but little known, have recently been sold to capitalists at good figures and, among them, is the one known as the Santa Rita near the Promontorio, upon which it is understood a furnace is to be erected immediately. This mine, at a depth of over a hundred feet, is said to show a splendid body of ore. It is also said this company will have an independent system of water works, ending at their proposed furnace two miles south of Darwin. At last accounts the terms of trade for this mine, etc., had been agreed upon, but not fully consummated, so that the final result can be spoken of only as a matter of probability. The purchasers are Messrs. Crain & Frost, bankers at Santa Rosa.

A Good Thing.

H. H. Kinsey is canvassing this section seeking to introduce "Garrettson's Patent Window Lock," a perfectly simple, cheap and yet absolutely effective device to lock and immovably hold window sash at any desired point. It is a contrivance which, when seen in use, must commend itself to the good opinion of all housekeepers.

Arrived

In boring the artesian well near Lone Pine it was found that the augur in use was not equal to the requirements, as was mentioned last week, so one which lifts its own cuttings was sent for, and was received a couple of days since. With this work was to be renewed to-day.

The Lone Pine Postoffice.

Things are somewhat mixed down there at Lone Pine regarding postal affairs. R. A. Loomis was the appointed Postmaster, having fulfilled its duties correctly and satisfactorily for some years past. A few months since he tendered his resignation, as we understand it, recommending D. P. Macarter, who had purchased his business, as his successor in the Postoffice and also as Wells-Fargo's agent. Before any action was taken in the matter, Mr. Loomis departed for an extended sojourn in San Luis Obispo. Mr. Macarter taking his place both as agent for the express and as Postmaster. These duties he attended to very well so far as we know up to the past week or till since Mrs. A. D. Eames was appointed Postmistress and Jos. Seeley express agent, who entered upon his duties at once, but Mrs. Eames, not having been notified of the approval of her bonds forwarded but a short time since, declined to take the Postoffice of which Macarter was desirous of getting clear of as soon as possible, and which he tendered to her. Last week on one occasion Mac refused to deliver the mails to either the Independence or Cerro Gordo stage. Both left without their mails, though, through Sheriff Passmore, that for this place was subsequently put aboard and came through; the one for Cerro Gordo remained in the office; the stage having to go without it. The latest phase of the affair occurred on Tuesday, when Mac. refused point blank to receive the mails from the drivers. Loomis' bondsmen had to take them and delegated the Postoffice business to Justice R. L. Peterson, who is now acting Postmaster, and will, we suppose, until Mrs. Eames' bonds are returned approved, which will probably be two or three weeks yet. Altogether, it looks like a very curious way of doing business, and one likely to cause Postmaster Loomis some trouble.

Literary.

Mrs. Luna Hutchison, our erst while correspondent, is engaged in writing a book for the benefit of future generations. A few days since Fanny Queen McDougal, quite an elderly lady, passed through here for Bishop, for the purpose of aiding Mrs. Hutchison in her work, the nature and scope of which, we inter from the previous lectures and writings of the latter, to be in some way connected with the so-called women's rights question. Without intending to speak for or against her views upon this or any other question she is known to champion, the fact must be admitted that she is a writer of more than ordinary force and ability. We think the same is also true of Mrs. McDougal, a specimen of whose literary efforts we shall present ere long.

Delegates.

A majority of the Executive Committee of the Democratic County Central Committee met pursuant to call on Wednesday last. The only business transacted was the selection of delegates to the State Convention at San Francisco on the 24th instant, as follows: P. Reddy, J. E. Parker and W. T. Grant. Messrs. Reddy and Grant will probably attend the Convention and in person represent the Democracy of Inyo.

For San Quinten.

Sheriff Passmore started Sunday morning last with Merritt and Garcia, the last two intending to reside awhile at San Quinten. In order to avoid the risk in keeping his prisoners over night at Lone Pine, as would be necessary if he left here by stage, the Sheriff took private conveyance early that morning in time to connect with the stage at that point.

Merchandise.

Among the merchandising houses of the county represented in our advertising columns will this week be found that of the Camp Independence store, Edward Chenot, proprietor. His stock consists of groceries, provisions, liquors, tobaccos, clothing, etc., and will be found well worth purchasing from.

Social.

A social dance was given and well attended at the Blaney House Thursday evening. The disorganized string band of this place was partially resurrected and there was a delicious harmony of violin, ox-fiddle, tambourine, bones, swinette and divers musical nondescripts.

Little Off.

The U. S. Paymaster whom we robbed last week was the wrong man entirely; it should have been Col. Broadhead. Retraction is like a late frost on early vegetables, rather discouraging, especially when you obtain the information from a responsible source.

School Closed.

The Bishop Creek school, S. W. Blaisdel teacher, closed a six-months' term last Friday, having had an average attendance of forty. Mr. Blaisdel gives excellent satisfaction and is now employed by the year to teach in two districts, Irwin and Bishop.

Gave the Bond.

J. R. Norton, this week, filed the required bond of $5,000 and was released from custody. His bondsmen, H. J. Lent, P. W. Thompson, J. Wilson, Kliener and Jorgensen, were all of Darwin. Norton is now at the County Hospital, Lone Pine.

Prof. Graham.

Professor Graham, the illusionist, is expected here to-day and to give an entertainment this evening. His troupe played at Benton and gave better satisfaction than any previous show traveling in these parts.

For the Country Awhile.

J. B. White, who for some time past, has been in the hay and grain business at Crystal Springs, near Darwin, came in early this week, and has since returned to the Springs, taking his family with him.

Wake Up.

Will the parties to whom our circular letter of May 10 was addressed please go at it and get in their reports? It is necessary to begin putting the matter in type.

Postmaster For Panamint.

A Warning to Robbers.

Thursday night, May 9, the stage from Hamilton to Pioche was stopped by a man who ordered the driver to pass down Wells, Fargo & Co.'s treasure box. The driver did so, but the robber had no sooner received it than he fell dead, pierced by bullets from the express messenger's rifle.

—The pending suit between the Central Pacific Railroad Company and its former henchman, Cohen, promises to be interesting if ever brought to trial. Cohen demands a showing of books and the revealing of secrets, which, if granted, will make a stir in California —In the fight between Bing Williams' bulldog and a wildcat, in Virginia, May 7, the dog was victorious in a twenty minute fight.

—Harrington, the San Francisco Palace Hotel assassin, was sentenced to eleven years imprisonment last Saturday.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Cal., May 15.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Our camp has been deservedly noted for its sanitary condition, but despite all precautionary measures, the measles have come among us, and there has been several severe cases. It is the general belief that some roving Piutes from Walker River brought the contagion with them. Now is the commencement of the fly season, and judging from present appearances they will shortly become a terrible nuisance.

MILLING AND MINING.

The Kerrick mine, which is part of the property of the Comanche Company, is turning out a very superior quality of ore. In fact, much of it is almost the pure metal; this claim is supposed to be situated on the Diana lead. The Comanche mine is yielding a vast quantity of ore, and of a rich quality. The mill has been running steadily day and night, and producing a vast amount of bullion. John Howell, the able Superintendent of this company, during the past month has effected several improvements, thereby greatly facilitating the working of the ore. The Diana Company are progressing finely. During the past week, their mill has been working custom ore. They work free ores, by the barrel process, up to ninety and ninety-three per cent. The mill is now working a very rich quality of ore ($1,500 per ton) belonging to Mr. Thomas Albright. The Diana mine has a better appearance now than at any past period, with lots of rich ore in sight. Charley Heal, an expert miner, has been appointed Foreman, to succeed P. J. Kelly. Charly is in every respect competent for the position. The Diana Company will shortly be incorporated. The Laura Mining Company are still busily engaged timbering a tunnel, and erecting suitable buildings for the accommodation of their workmen. As soon as they have things in readiness, they intend to increase the number of workmen, which will add materially to the prosperity of our town.

ORGANIZATION.

A movement is now on foot to organize a Lodge of Good Templars here. It has the sympathy of every true friend of the Temperance cause, but such institutions ought not to be organized rashly or blindly. The proposition should first be thoroughly canvassed, and a sufficient number pledged to use their utmost endeavors to make it a social and reformatory success. It should have a responsible man at the head; one who is known to be devoted to the temperance cause, and who is not as fickle as chance—to-day one thing, to morrow something else. We have several among us who have been consistent temperance advocates for the past ten or twenty years, whose very names at the head of the movement would be a guarantee of its success. The failure of such an organization would be more injurious to the cause of temperance than fifty per cent. reduction in the retail selling price of stimulants would prove to be. Bro. Jabez Walker is expected to visit our town and deliver a series of lectures. He is without a superior in temperance oratory and will receive a hearty welcome from the citizens of Benton; we venture to predict that he will have full houses, and that much good to the cause will result from his visit.

KNOWS HOW.

Mr. Dan Ashley has leased the Comanche Hotel from the Comanche Company. Dan. has hosts of friends and well wishers, who are happy to see him assume the management of this hotel, as they know everything will now be conducted in first-class style.

DEPARTURE OF THE INNOCENTS.

Quite a large delegation of our prominent citizens have departed for Bridgeport; some summoned as witnesses in the Commons-Robinson case, while the balance are drawn to serve on the Grand Jury. We hope to see them return soon, as the camp has a dull appearance without their genial presence and influence.

ARRIVALS.

Jessie Somers, of the Benton meat market has arrived and dissolved partnership in the businesss. He will now conduct the business on his own responsibility.... Mr. Wm. Wetherill has returned. He is one of the pioneers of the town; and is a solid man, pecuniarily. He is one of the principal members of the new Comanche Company .... Mr. Geo. Hightower has returned from the Eastern States, bringing with him his eldest son.... J. C. Mitchell, LL. D., has returned from Independence exceedingly fatigued with excessive labor, and suffering with excruciating pain caused by a sprained ankle.... Judge Cross has inaugurated a new style in his saloon; namely, dispensing ambrosial cocktails to his thirsty customers. He has applied for a patent for this pleasant beverage, and is reaping a harvest of Benton bits from the sale of this new and delicious compound.

Hoping to be able to furnish you information in my next communication in regard to the doings of the Innocents while in Bridgeport, I remain.

MINION.

—William H. Grant, a lawyer, and Francis X. Brousseau, his former partner, have been arrested at St Paul, Minnesota, on a bench warrant from Judge Carter's court in Washington, on a charge of criminal complicity with one Lippincott in issuing fraudulent Sioux Halfbreed scrip, whereby the Government was swindled out of a large amount of money and many hundred thousand acres of pine lands entered fraudulently. Grant and Brousseau will be taken to Washington.

—California expects this year to produce 30,000,000 centals of wheat, of which about 8,000,000 will probably be needed at home, leaving 22,000,000 centals to be exported.

READ AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS. THE MOST IMPORTANT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

A Baboon Mother.

A Mr. Hazely, in a lecture on Africa, tells the following story: A woman belonging to a settlement of about 150 souls, went one day to gather some wood, and left her child on the ground to take care of itself. While the mother was gone, a female baboon appeared on the scene, and, espying the child, approached and began to fondle it. The child was allowed to partake of the baboon's milk, which deprived it of any appetite for its mother's. When the mother returned, she noticed that the child was carefully covered over with leaves, and had lost its hunger. This was done for several days before the mother ascertained who performed the unthankful act. When the mother did find out the doer, she induced the men of her tribe to lie in wait for the baboon the next day. The animal noticed the men raise their weapons to fire, and began to wave her hand or paw, as if asking them not to kill her, and, at the same time, pointed to a young one at her breast. But the natives killed her. No sooner had they done so, however, than the male baboon put in an appearance, and, by a loud shout, summoned others of the tribe to the spot. Then, in a body, the animals attacked the natives and forced them to flee for safety to their huts. One of the baboons tracked them to their settlement, and the next day they were visited by about 500 baboons, who assaulted them with cocoanuts and compelled them to run away from their homes. The animals kept a watch over the huts for several days, and prevented the natives from from returning to their dwelliegs.

What The London Times Says.

The London Times, in a lengthy editorial commenting upon the recent exposes of official corruption at Washington, asserts its belief that these shortcomings are the natural outgrowth of the system of small salaries to men occupying leading and responsible public positions. It is a notorious fact that English officials are far better paid than those filling similar positions in this country, and, as a consequence, instances very rarely occur where men intrusted with public property are guilty of fraud or corruption. The Times assumes that Belknap could not possibly live upon $8,000 a year and was almost compelled to traffic upon the influence and patronage of his office.

The Gallows Cheated.

The three Italians who murdered four of their fellow countrymen at Denver, Colorado, in October last were arraigned for trial on the 1st instant. Philomena Gallotti, the leader of the cut-throats and who is said to have drunk the blood of one of his victims, pleaded not guilty. As the case now stands, the peculiar construction of the Territorial law will not allow the court to inflict the death penalty upon a criminal who enters a plea of not guilty. Gallotti will, therefore, probably be sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Do not imagine when you see one of those broad-chested statesmen get up in his place on the floor of the house of Representatives, that your soul is to be aroused by a burst of sonorous eloquence. He carries his paper of chewing tobacco in his coat-tail pocket, and is too fat to reach it without rising.

A train was carrying a clergyman and five or six youths who kept scoffing at religion and telling disagreeable stories. The good man endured it all, simply remarking as he got out: We shall meet again, my children." "Why shall we meet again?" said the leader of the band. "Because I am a prison chaplain," was the reply.

We have been trying to work something out of the name of the Japanese commissioner, General Saigo. He comes from a foreign nation, and there ought to be something about his foreignaceous name, but we can't fetch it. Will The Norristown Herald assist us? —[Philadelphia Bulletin.

We'll try, but its Saigoing to be a difficult task.—[Norristown Herald.

New Mexico is to be admitted into the Union under the name of Montezuma. A more appropriate name, considering the prevailing weakness of the inhabitants, would be Threecardmontezuma—[Chicago Times.

Florida has a volcano in an impenetrable swamp, and the alligators loaf around it and tickle themselves that they have a big thing.

There is no special style of engraving engagements rings. A spider's web with a fly in it is a very pretty device.

—A Minnesota lady, in taking her morning gape lately, put her jaw out of joint, and it was two days before the doctor could get it in place again. Her husband says he hasn't had such a vacation since his married life began.

—At a California fair, recently, several bottles of strained honey were put on exhibition, when a chap put a bottle of castor oil with the rest. The opinion of all who tried it was that the bee that laid it was a fraud.

—The last volume of the "American Cyclopidia" is in press. The entire work is said to have cost upward of $450,000, exclusive of paper, printing and binding.

—The New York Sun of a late date contains an article giving "advice to a young convert." The editor of The Sun should print some "advice to an old sinner," and read it six times a day.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED out of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, in the suit of I. Harris and Nathan Rhine, Plaintiffs, against the Sunrise Silver Mining Company, Defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the tenth day of May, A. D. 1876, for the sum of Six Thousand One Hundred and Twenty-Seven 41-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of One Hundred and Forty-two 61-100 Dollars, duly attested the tenth day of May, A. D. 1876, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of Six Thousand Two Hundred and Seventy 1-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant in and to the following described real and personal property, to-wit:

That certain quartz mill and machinery known as the Sunrise Mill; also, the boarding house, blacksmith shop, office, lodging house, stable, corral and all the outbuildings appertaining to said Sunrise Mill; also, the lands and water-rights belonging to, and appertaining to said Sunrise Mill; also, all the right, title and interest of the Sunrise Mining Company in and to the Twilight Mine; also, 1,500 feet in the Sunrise Mine, together with the boarding house and lodging house at the said mines, with the appurtenances thereunto belonging—all of said above described real property being situated in the Panamint Mining District, county of Inyo, State of California.

Notice is hereby given that on Monday, the Fifth Day of June, A. D. 1876 between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, in front of the Court House in the town of Independence, county of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant, the Sunrise Silver Mining Company, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Isaac Harris and Nathan Rhine, doing business under the firm name of Harris & Rhine, Plaintiffs, vs. Frank Gross, Defendant. Summons: The State of California sends greeting to Frank Gross, Defendant. You are hereby required to appear before me in my office in the Second Township, in the County of Inyo, to an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiffs, and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, on or within five days from the service of this summons upon you.

The said action is brought to recover the sum of One Hundred and Sixty Dollars and Ninety-five Cents on an account of goods, wares and merchandise sold and delivered by the said Plaintiffs to the said Defendant at his special instance and request. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint as above required, said Plaintiffs will take judgment against you, together with costs of suit and accruing costs.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand at said Township, this 26th day of February, A. D. 1876.

JOSEPH SCHALTEN, Justice of the Peace of said Township.

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation.

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. A Valuable Recipe

The Journal of Chemistry publishes a recipe for the destruction of insects, which, if it be one half as efficacious as it is claimed to be, will prove invaluable. Hot alum water is a recent suggestion as an insecticide. It will destroy red and black ants, cockroaches, chinch bugs, and all the crawling pests with which infest our houses. Take two pounds of alum and dissolve it in three or four quarts of boiling water; let it stand on the fire till the alum disappears; then apply it with a brush, while nearly boiling hot, to every joint and crevice in your closets, bedsteads, pantry shelves and the like. Brush crevices in the floor of the skirting, or mop-boards, if you suspect they harbor vermin.

Of Some Use After All.

Some time since George Plank became possessed of two quails, a male and a female. When the mating period come on this Spring, the female set herself bravely to work, and not until seventeen eggs had been deposited did she take a rest. The rest was an eternal one, for after laying the seventeenth she gracefully keeled over and expired. The male immediately jumped on the nest, and like a faithful mother, covered the eggs until twelve juvenile quails had been hatched, which circumstance happened the other day. Who says the male species are of no earthly account?—[San Jose Mercury.

Spend your Money at Home.

Nine reasons why people should spend their money at home:

1st. It is your home; you can not improve it much by taking money away to spend or invest.

2d. There is no way of improving a place so much as by encouraging good merchants, good schools and good people to settle among you; this can not be done unless you spend your money at home.

3d. Spend your money at home because that is where you generally get it. It is your duty.

4th. Spend your money at home because when it is necessary for you to get credit, it is of your own town merchants you have generally to get it, and they must wait for the money. Therefore, when you have the cash in hand, spend it at home.

5th. Spend your money at home. It will make better merchants of your merchants; they can and will keep better assortments and sell at lower rates than if the only business they can do is credited out, while the money goes to to other places.

6th Spend your money at home. You may have sons growing up, who will some day be the best mechanics in town. Help to lay the foundation for them now. It is a duty. It may be your pride in after years to say: "By my trading at that store, I got my son a position as clerk, and now he is proprietor." Then you will think it hard if your neighbors spend their money out of the town. Set the example now.

7th Spend your money at home. Buy your dry goods, groceries, meats, and everything at home, and will see a wonderful change in a short time in the business outlook of the place; therefore deal with your home merchants.

8th. Spend your money at home. What do you gain by going off? count the cost, see what you could have done at home letting your merchants have the cash. Strike a balance and see if would not have been just as well off; besides helping your neighbors.

9th. Spend your money at home. Your merchants are your neighbors, your friends; they stand by you in sickness—are your associates; without your trade they cannot keep your business No stores, then no banks, no one wanting to buy property to settle on and build up your place.

Eighteen Hundred Years After Death.

A correspondent writing to Appleton's Journal of the excavations at Pompeii, says: "Among the most interesting of the objects found recently are two skeletons, one of a somewhat elderly man, the other of a woman They were found in the Via Stabia among the ashes of the last eruption, evidently overtaken in their flight and buried in the cinders. According to the usual method employed to preserve the external appearance of objects, liquid plaster was poured into the cavity, which serving as a mould, a facsimile of the forms was obtained; and thus perfectly preserved, the statue-like bodies were placed in glass cases in the Pompeii museum. While appreciating all the horror of such a death and the suffering endured, as shown by the position, I cannot but imagine what would have been the astonishment of that man or woman had some prophet informed them that eighteen hundred years after their death their forms, and even as much of their garments as were not consumed in the eruption, would be placed in a museum for inspection by a multitude of sight-seers, some from lands, the existence of which they had never dreamed of. The poor woman is lying on her face, and even the form of her hair, put up behind, is seen One arm shields her forehead, and she is supported by the other Her stony limbs are well formed, and traces of a garment are seen passing in folds around her The man, although placed on his back in the exhibition, when found was turned on his side One arm rests on his hip; the other was uplifted. The face is somewhat distorted, but massive and smoothly shaven Even the form of the fastenings of the sandals around the ankle and of the long button higher up on the leg to hold them, is clearly seen. The limbs are partially drawn up. The skeleton of a tolerably large dog, also recently found, is in the Museum of Pompeii, his whole form preserved in plaster, in the same manner as those just mentioned. He is laying on his back, writhing in suffering, biting his hind leg. The rings and collar are plainly seen.

Life in a Sponge.

Recent investigations have shown this curious fact about sponges; that no matter how long it may have been used kept dry, its life is apparently restored when it is wet. The sponge being wet with warm water and placed in a warm room, the extremities of the sponge, after a little while, appear to be alive and reach out like so many snakes—the longer they are, the greater the motion. Nearly half of all the slender points seem to come to life, but after they become dry the motion ceases. All sorts of dust may be put upon the sponge, but nothing but the pores show any motion. These moving parts when caught with the pliers, would pull out a portion of the sponge. When there is much water in the sponge they seem satisfied; but it is as the sponge is drying gradually that evidences of life are exhibited—this fact being discovby an instrument which magnifies only forty-two diameters.

How Silver Takes Among the Colored People.

[From The Lexington, (Ky.) Press.]

Some curious illustrations have been given in the last day or two of the unwillingness of the negroes to receive silver coin when they can get greenbacks. A colored man went into a dry goods house on Main street on Thursday, and after purchasing sixty cents worth of cotton, offered a two-dollar bill in payment. The change was handed back to him in silver. The old man looked at it a moment and inquired, "What's dis?" "That is silver," said the clerk. "Oh, go way, 'dis chile don't know nuffin 'bout it, give me some money as I knows somefin about. I don't want your silver."

Another case is that of a colored man working at Mr. Morgan's hemp factory. These factories paid off their hands in silver the other evening. A colored man came along Short street, with three dollars in silver in his hand and grumbling. In reply to a question, as to what was the matter, he loudly proclaimed that he did not want silver money, and he offered his three dollars in silver for two dollars and a half in shinplasters. Mr. Winship bought up the specie at that rate. This is not at all strange. There are many young colored men now grown up who never handled gold or silver money, and hardly know what it is. Of course it will not take long to indoctrinate them (very few people but learn readily how to count money), and after a little it will be difficult to get a colored man to take money that does not jingle. They will hanker after the silver, and the shrewd white people will be hoarding nice clean shinplasters.

MAKING A NAME.

According to reports published a couple of weeks since by The Californian, Colby, the County Judge of Kern county, is hard at work making a name for himself something of the Jeffries order, only without so much blood. Indeed, so determined was his Honor to satisfy the requirements of the cattle lords of that county, he was even more arbitrary and determined to convict somebody than Judge Jeffries was to hang Scotchmen in his day. If The Californian reports the facts correctly, a more high handed abuse of judicial power has never been witnessed in this State than that displayed by County Judge Colby in the trial of a man who tried to protect his crop and his all from utter destruction by huge bands of uncared for cattle. The cattle lords, demanded a salutary example, it seems, so his Honor sent the young man to the State Prison for killing a steer worth $15 or thereabouts. He was so fearful he would be baulked of his pray he ordered the Sheriff to start with the convict that very night, only an hour or so after pronouncing sentence. Judge Niles, of the Supreme Court, though, stepped in in time to spoil this little Jefferie's good intentions, granting a stay until the case could be reviewed. Defendant then demanded his release upon bail. Judge Colby refused this absolutely. The next we hear of this matter is the following from The San Francisco Post of the 18th:

The writ of habeas corpus on petition for bail pending Green's appeal from the County Court of Kern county to the Supreme Court, made returnable before Judge Campbell, here yesterday, was heard and argued by H. S. Dixon, Messrs Brown & Daggett for petitioner and by E. E. Calhoun in opposition. Judge Campbell took the matter under advisement until this morning when he admitted the petitioner to bail in the sum of $2,500. In his argument Mr. Dixon stated to Judge Campbell that he was indifferent what amount of bail was required—five, ten or fifteen thousand dollars—as his client could easily give it, and would not forfeit it.

It is but proper to add to the above that The Kern County Gazette denies the truth or justness of The Californian's charges against Colby, and proposes to show facts that will vindicate him beyond question. It is possible it may be done.

An Absurd Proposition.

We observe by a telegraph item that "Representative Wigginton will most decidedly oppose the consolidation of the Independence and Visalia Land Offices, and their removal to Bakersfield." This is our first and only intimation that any such fool operation was in contemplation. We do not know who is at the bottom of it, but we believe him to be a meddlesome ass. If this widely extended but sparsely settled agricultural region, with its still greater area of undeveloped mineral lands, is not entitled to as much as existing facilities for transacting its land business then we know of none that is. It is cut off from all the rest of the State, including the site of the proposed new office, by the Sierras, impassable for the entire length of the district except at one point near its most southern extremity. Every settler or miner having business at the Land Office would, by primitive modes only, have to travel from 100 at the lowest to 350 miles—nine tenths over 200, the bulk of such land lying wholly north of the central line, and so situated it can never be thrown or set off to any other district in this State. Mr. Wigginton is eminently right in his opposition to the scheme as regards this district.

Its Principle.

The Belmont Courier submits these deductions, which save us the trouble: The underlying principle of the much talked of Fryer process of reducing ores is that all elements which unite with the precious metals are oxydizable. The discoverer's theory is that while the noble metals cannot be destroyed, all others can, and when the treatment is severe to destroy the base metals, there will be nothing left but the valuable ones. He has made over 1,000 tests of ores of all kinds, and has never failed to obtain all the gold and silver contained in the rock operated upon. The process does away with stamp mills and amalgamating pans, and by preventing the flouring of mercury, is capable of saving many millions of dollars each year. Mr. Fryer claims that by his process of working ores, both free and refractory, he can save every particle of the gold and silver in them. Many mining men, however, believe that he can never accomplish anything on an extensive scale. Mr. Fryer claims to able to satisfy the most incredulous that his invention is all that he claims for it.

"CROOKEDNESSES."

Beginning with Washington city, a great many places now days are priding themselves, after a fashion, on the successful crookedness of officials and others. Now, if such things tend to local prestige or advantage of any sort it is our duty to present Inyo's claims for consideration in that line. We don't claim first rank by virtue of the very large amonnt of cash stolen, because, alack, our champion official thief's field of action was miserably circumscribed, but for natural aptitude and fervent desire to make the most of his opportunities our champion, in justice, should take precedence among the very first thieves of the country, even Pinney. Everything was fish that came to our George's net. (We should have mentioned that his name is George H. McCallum, late Register of the Independence Land Office). George was especially successful in nipping gudgeons, those who believed he was a man of vast influence at the General Land Office—that he could cause a change of routine business in that office sufficient to have a pending land patent taken up and passed out of its regular order, time of proving up stayed to suit individual convesiences, and other similar powers, none of which he nor any other subordinate land officer could exercise one bit more than Captain Jim of the Ancient Order of Piutes. But he made the gudgeons swallow such bait as that and he thereby accumulated considerable coin. When the thirty-three months limitation in which to prove up a pre-emption was about to expire George, in person or by letter, would so notify the claimant, and at the same time inform him if he was not ready to prove and pay up (especially the latter) just pay say twenty or fifty per cent or what ever he could on account, give his obligation for the remainder, and he George, would extend the thirty-three months, and at the same time he would order the patent to issue at once, which the party could have when convenient for him to settle the unpaid balance. Same way with commuted homesteads. McCallum's improved land system was considered the neatest kind of a thing up the country. During one trip up to Mono county and around some twenty or thirty pre-emptioners availed them selves of its advantages. And now some of those pre-emptioners begin to indite epistles wanting to know why in tophet their partly paid up patents don't come. They are all over twenty-one years of age, too, but have no guardians. For a fee of $20 or so George would also promise to procure any previously pending patent in thirty or sixty days as the case might be. He claimed extra facilities for hurrying them through the Washington office. This consisted, besides his own vast personal influence, of a clerical friend who would give the Commissioner a lay out from the bottom and thus bring things to his notice a good deal sooner than common, much the same as that clerk did in the Postmaster General's office with Josiah's supplemental straw mail bids. This influence and clerical friend of George's was all a myth of course, but it was a myth that netted our champion a number of twenties. Sometimes, though, he would get a package of patents, the available ones of which he would lay away perdu until they would avail something under this part of his system. George was an uncommon fine operator. He got down to his work like the brag mule in a seven-span team. O, if he could only have had Pinney or Belknap's chances he would have discounted those gentlemen, and he would have been such a card for Heister Clymer's fool committee! Even that committee could not have failed to have developed him into something that would have been the making of the Democratic party these corky times.

But to the text: George, at the outset, tried to steal extensively from the Receiver, but that wouldn't work more than about twenty dollars' worth, so he did business thenceforward directly with claimants outside the office and records, and in that way escaped challenge and averted proofs sufficient to convict or justify accusation through these columns till recently. There was plenty of suspicions, but it won't do very well, generally speaking, to publish a man as a thief without being ready to prove considerable: and George's victims kept very quiet. It needed time for incubation. Then if a man at a distance wanted to file a pre-emption George would write to him to send to him $3 Government fees, and $10 or so for making out papers, and he would attend to it. And so he would, and secure, all to himself, a pedro stake besides. George, except when obliged to, never troubled tract or any other book with superfluous entries of this kind. Of course nobody was any wiser as to the application, and of course the Receiver, the only officer who has any right to handle or receive or receipt for one cent of Government money, could not issue his receipt, therefore the applicant's claim was jeopardized just the same as if he had neglected to attempt to secure his title in toto. It was this feature, considering the small amount of his own ill-gotten gains, upon which we base our local claim of having brought out the lowest official thief in the United States service. There was some thirty-six of these applications, mostly from one locality, George gobbled in that way. But for the kind offices of his successor, Register Briggs and Receiver May, some of these claimants would have lost their lands entirely.

George was equally accomodating in the matter of final proofs and entries. The personal presence of the party and witnesses was not required if the party would send the money to him direct. This was an innovation on imperative rules of the Department, but demonstrated the advantages of his system. In that way he got away with $200 from a Mono man, a like sum from a Bishop Creeker, (the last was in part a note of hand!) and various amounts from others, as previously intimated. He also did pretty well as attorney in applications for mining patents, undertaking the whole work in a lump, cash in advance. Also as self-appointed agent for this paper by which we were swindled out of a half a hundred or so. However, as we are not used to money and therefore do not feel the loss of something we never had, that last item was hardly worth mentioning. Besides, like an eel to skinning, we are pretty well used to such losses anyway; the sums are generally small. George also advanced his fortunes slightly in the way custom has rendered legitimate by employing several clerks to do nothing at Government expense, he pocketing half or more of their salaries. One of these, a small boy, could barely scrawl his signature, if so much, to his pay voucher. George was born for a higher sphere of official usefulness, this Administration, than to waste his powers in this sage brush land, so the Commissioner one day notified him to turn over his office property to the Receiver and not be Register any more. He did, all save the most used tract books Those he boxed up with his goods, and leaving them to be forwarded per slow freight, departed with his household. Numerous creditors didn't know whether to be glad or sorry, but inclined to the former. He wanted those tract books to establish a little land office of his own out at Darwin or somewhere. George had a laudable ambition to be somebody, and but for the timely discovery and recovery by friendly hands of the stolen Government property would we suspect have become a trusty down at San Quentin. George also did something as a collector. An ancient schoolma'am, who was young and pretty may be forty years ago when the loss of such hardly earned money was in her power to more easily replace, got him to collect fifty odd dollars on a note due her in this county, she having gone to Nevada since the note was given. George was quite successful when he went for the money, and now like the others, the ancient schoolma'am is writing letters to know why it don't come to hand. This was most as mean as robbing the printers. The foregoing is by no means a complete list of such acts of the young man during his brief but brilliant career here, but it must suffice for the present, while we glance at his antecedents.

George was the nephew of his uncle of the same family name, and who stole himself rich in about a year while he was Register of the Sacramento Land Office. George was clerk and soon got the uncle's idea how to do business. Josiah Earl in looking about for a suitably pliant successor of himself in this Land Office, which place Josiah with much reluctance had to abandon, was recommended to try George. Josiah sought him out, and knowing the uncle, saw at once he was the very person to aid in carrying out the gigantic steals he himself had in view but for reasons would have to delegate to his successor. This pleased Congressman Houghton, who had the sole privilege of naming the officer, and thus George became our Register. We need only add that the veritable Pinney himself being George's bondsman, Josiah his discoverer, his uncle his instructor and Houghton his responsible patron, George would have been more than human and a fraud on them if he had not stolen everything he could. True, the uncle possibly excepted, we think they all expected him to take loftier flights, for we don't begin to believe any of them would commend or commit such petty thievery. But George did the best he could and we ought not to think hard of him. If he could not manage to wotk up a big steal according to programme, in which he failed signally, who can blame him if he devoted his energies to small things more commensurate with his powers?

Our Philadelphia Letter.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., May 11.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The day opened gloomily, but by 10 o'clock the sun had driven away the clouds and the noonday was as bright as could be desired. Long before 9 o'clock, the hour when the grounds were to be opened, an immense throng had assembled and it was steadily increased by the arrival of thousands upon thousands every few minutes for hours. Various estimates have been made of the number of persons in the enclosure and they varied from 200,000 up to 1,000,000. The programme laid down by the Commissioners was carried out exactly. When President Grant arrived Wagner's inauguration march was played and then Bishop Simpson prayed. The building was presented by Gen. Hawley to the President who responded in an address. The flag was unfurled, the hallelujah chorus shouted, bells chimed and one hundred guns were fired to announce that the Grand Centennial Exhibition was duly opened. Then a grand procession was formed and President Grant passed at the head of it into Machinery Hall where, assisted by Mr. Corliss, he put in motion the grand Corliss engine which furnishes all the power needed on the grounds. The Vice-President of the United States, all the members of the Cabinet, all the Judges of the Supreme Court and most of the members of Congress, all the members of the Diplomatic Corps at Washington, and the Governors of nine States, with many other distinguished men were present on the platform. The grounds were brilliant with uniforms and the varigated dresses of the representatives of foreign nations. Everything was not ready. This is more the fault of the exhibitors than of the Commissioners because goods have been held back to the last hour and then rushed in at the rate of three hundred and fifty tons per day. So that it was utterly impossible to put them in place. Many of the exhibitors delayed too long in preparing the cases and fixtures in which to display their articles and quite a number of them are yet unfinished. There was mismanagement to-day somewhere in the admission of visitors. Thousands paid to get in and when they did so found themselves in an immense mass of human beings crowded between the main building and machinery Hall. Goliah of Gath with his spear like a weaver's beam could not have forced his way through this swelling mass of humanity and thus thousands were prevented from seeing even the grounds and turned back disgusted, some of them being more emphatic than polite in their remarks upon the management. Not accustomed to give way to obstacles I passed round between Machinery Hall and the fence, part of the way being exceedingly muddy and by perseverance and a long walk succeeded in getting into the grounds Whoever had charge of this part of the business made a mess of it and had better give way to some man who can attend to his duties.

The hackmen and livery keepers of Philadelphia, deserve a first-class notice for their liberality. On the opening day they set the price of a carriage at twenty-five dollars for a day. When the devil gathers in his jewels the brightest of his ornaments will doubtless be the Philadelphia livery men. I heard many an earnest wish to-day that he (the devil) would commence at once and work fast until the last of the hack livery men of this city were testing his warmest hospitalities.

The display of military on the ground was very fine, the staff officers particularly having an eruption of gold lace and epaulettes. About 4 o'clock it commenced to rain and gave us a heavy shower, driving most of the people home.

Every house, almost every window in Philadelphia has a flag displayed. The Continental and Grand has a gay display of bunting, including that of almost every nation. MACK.

A Confessed Fiend.

Thos. W. Piper, sexton of Warren Avenue Church, who is under sentence of death for the murder of the child Mable Young in the belfry of the church, has confessed that he was the murd rer of Bridget Landegin in 1873, and that he was the principal in the mysterious and nearly fatal assault on Mary Tyner in Boston nearly two years ago. Piper declares he had no motive for these crimes, particularly the murder of the child, and he can not understand how he came to commit them It is assumed that he was actuated only by a fiendish love of bloodshed like the boy Pomeroy, who still lies in jail. Piper says he has hitherto lied about the matter to blind his counsel, knowing that he could not get their aid if they for a moment believed in his guilt. He has of late been rapidly declining in strength and health through his great mental agony, and it is thought if allowed to escape the gallows he could not live six weeks. His execution was set for the 26th of this month.

A Banker's Suicide.

W. H. Workman, of the late firm of Temple & Workman, bankers at Los Angeles, shot and killed himself at that place, on May 18. His property was sold at Sheriff's sale on the previous Wednesday, to meet the demands of the bank; and it is supposed that the mental depression caused him to take his life. Bankruptcy and suicide are closely related.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Fire at Lone Pine.

About 12 o'clock last Monday night a fire started in one of Frank Duprat's buildings, Lone Pine, in a room occupied by a Chileno woman known as Maraquita. It was only by timely discovery and strong exertion that the woman herself was saved from burning, as she was intoxicated and it is supposed had set the bed on fire. In a short time the entire building was in flames, which communicated to Dr. Colleau's drug store on the north and to two houses fronting on the back street, all of which were destroyed. As is usually the case in Independence upon such occasions, there was not a drop of water running through Lone Pine creek or any other of the small streams which generally course through town, but there was fortunately no wind and further progress of the fire was prevented by covering adjacent roofs with blankets. Mrs. Barry's Lone Pine Hotel, Zaun's store and Harvey's blacksmith shop had a narrow escape from destruction. There was no insurance, and the losses are as near as can be ascertained as follows: Frank Duprat, three buildings, $3 500; billiard table and stock, $800, and $250 in orders, $160 of the amount being of Cerro Gordo and the balance Darwin. Dr. L. Colleau, drug store and building, about $2,000. Total loss of stock of a small store kept by a Mexican, whose name we have not learned. The woman Maraquita had $250 in gold and $30 in silver buried under the floor of her room, which was of course recovered. The fire was one of the most extensive that ever occurred in Lone Pine, and in view of further contingences of this nature it would be well for the town to prepare in some way for such emergencies, by having at least a small stream of water constantly in the bed of the creek.

The Kearsarge Mill and Furnace.

For the past three weeks, Mr. Gray, aided by Mr. Calvert, has been busily engaged in thoroughly overhauling the Kearsarge mill from battery blocks to pans and gearing, and in prepairing to erect the Bruckner roaster. The machinery for this roaster has been lying at Rothschild & Co.'s for a week or two, but is now being transported to its destination at the mill. We did propose to give a description in detail of this furnace, which we believe to be the best roaster in use, but for the present we shall only attempt to convey a general idea of its form and manner of operation. In form of construction and mode of operation it is nothing more or less than a titanic coffee roaster. Approximately, the roaster is a shell of heavy boiler iron, some six feet in diameter by twelve in length. It is banded in two places with railroad rails bent to its circle, these to rest on large friction rollers just like the wheels of freight cars. The cylinder or roaster is lined with common brick, and when in use, is charged through suitable openings in either end, closed up and set to revolving, making a revolution in about three minutes. The charge can be easily inspected at any time, and when "cooked" is conveniently discharged through a man hole in the side of the cylinder. We are not advised as to its capacity, and will leave its further description to a future time when we hope to see it in operation.

Union Consolidated.

Operation on Cerro Gordo hill seem settled down to about the steadiest going thing in the county. Both furnaces are under constant fire, producing an average of 100 bars per day each, of a rather high grade bullion for that place, though the ore worked is almost entirely "soft," just as it comes in the mine. The new working shaft, which is being both sunk and raised from the main tunnel level, is open to the surface from a depth of 320 feet and is now being timbered. Machinery for the hoisting works is lying on the dumps, and the necessary grading therefor is under headway.

The Land Office.

Elsewhere will be found a somewhat extended account of the operations of G. H. McCallum, late Register of this Land Office. As his little crookednesses would naturally tend to occasion mistrust of the office no matter in whose hands it may have subsequently fallen, we deem it but right to assure the public that in our candid opinion there is now not the slightest occasion in the world for any such distrust. We really believe no Land Office in the United States has officers of higher integrity in every respect than those of this at Independence. This can be depended upon.

Farewell Party.

A social party will be given at the Blaney House on the evening of June 1, by our citizens generally and particularly by the many friends of Mrs. Isaac Harris and Mrs. Nathan Rhine and families, who depart on the day following, we believe, for an extended sojourn in San Francisco. They are among the leading families of this section, and their departure, for the purpose of educating their young folks, furnishes in itself a text for further argument in support of our pet project—the establishment of a high school at home.

Serious Damages.

Very many of the early sown grain fields in Bishop and Round Valley will have to be reseeded, on account of the late severe cold snap and frosts. Potato fields, the tops standing from eight to twelve inches high, were cut off to the ground. Vegetables and a great deal of the fruit suffered alike, but in the latter cases the destruction was not general. The frost seems to have run in streaks.

Interesting Spectacle.

Several boys, ranging from 17 years of age, up, are in the habit of frequenting the sage brush, not for the purpose of wooing the dusky maid of the forest, but for the purpose of squatting with the bucks and taking a hand at Indian poker, and for ought we know to the contrary, sup from the same bottle. We suggest tarring their heads and turning them loose.

A Good Firm.

The new co-partnership of J. W. McMurry and J. J. Moore, at Big Pine, in the business of general merchandising, declares itself in the field in THE INDEPENDENT'S advertising columns this weeks. Jack's well known buisness qualifications and McMurry's liberal mode of dealing ought to insure extensive patronage for the Big Pine store.

Benton Saloon.

Tom. Golden, a Nevadaite and friend of ours of old, has become proprietor of the well known "big saloon" of Benton, in the stone block partially occupied by Creaser's store. We can indorse Tom as a good Indian, and take pleasure in calling attention to his advertisement.

Bar Privileges, Etc.

At 4 o'clock, June 15th, the Committee on Races at Lone Pine will offer and sell to the highest bidder the exclusive bar privileges of the race course on the 5th and 6th of July, as well as the right to sell pools on the track.

Lee District.

Sixteen miles north of Darwin, and nearly midway between that point and Cerro Gordo is situated Lee District, one of the new mining localities now attracting so much attention in the southern portion of our county.

THE CACTUS MINE

At present the most extensively worked of any in the District, belongs to the Emigrant Mining Company, an incorporation having J. R. Fink, — Greenman and J. M. Taylor as Trustees, the former acting Superintendent. The company's mines, consisting of the Cactus, Valentine, Center, Philadelphia, Capitalist, Centennial and Mountain View, are nearly all situated upon the summit of a cactus pampa dividing the northern end of Panamint Valley from the slopes toward Big Lake, the altitude of which cannot be more than 5,500 feet above the sea. The country is chiefly lime—the ledges presenting all sorts of curious shapes, lying under black scoria croppings. The Cactus seems to be an irregular body of extremely rich chloride ore, of an average width of 5½ feet. At the date of our inspection, some three weeks or so ago, the opening in this particular mine was not deeper than 15 feet, but of a length and breadth three or four times that. Some 250 tons of ore, the poorest of which will readily work $300 per ton, was upon the dump. Of this class we have an interesting specimen showing the purest horn silver, flecked with bunches of free gold. The Valentine, which is evidently a continuation of the same and showing well for the permanency of both, is a nearly upright ledge, opened by shaft and incline to a depth of 60 feet, at the bottom of which some good ore is visible among the well defined ledge matter. The company have nearly completed a steam

FIVE-STAMP MILL,

Situate at Zacaton Springs, some six miles distant, which we confidently predict will produce more bullion to the stamp—for the first few months, at least—than any other mill ever erected on the coast. The company employ 20 men; have never levied an assessment, the expenses so far having been mainly defrayed by shipments of rich ore to San Francisco. There is no Emigrant stock on the Boards, and we understand none for sale.

THE OTHER MINES

Of the district bear the same general character, among which is the Mazeppa, a ledge producing the richest character of free chlorides, belonging to Messrs. Walsh, Jordan and Watson. The limited time at our disposal, we regret to add, did not permit of an examination of their workings.

CLARKSVILLE

The principal settlement and center of the district, is situated on an elevated plateau studded with cactus trees, and void of water nearer than the lake or the borders of the upper end of Panamint valley. Densmore's hotel and store is the nucleus around which the embryotic town is to grow—the place taking name after one of the original discoverers of the district, Johnny Clark. Unless we greatly err in judgment, Lee District and Clarksville will before long cut a most important figure in Inyo's social and financial affairs.

New Incorporations.

The following new companies have during the past week filed in the County Clerk's office certificates of incorporation: Darwin Con. Silver Mining Co.; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to conduct a general mining business and to buy, sell and own all kinds of real and personal property. Term of existence, 50 years. Trustees—Robt. Sherwood, W. H. V. Cronise, G. W. Kidd, E. M. Fry, B. L. Schmidt. Capital stock $10,000,000; No. shares, 100,000. Cuervo Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to do a general mining and milling business in California. Term of existence, 50 years. Trustees—J. D. Fry, C. E. Elliot, G. B. Cornell, L. Goodwin, C. W. Kellogg. Capital stock $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Cerro Gordo Con. S. M. Co.; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to conduct a general mining business and to buy, sell and own all kinds of real and personal property; term of existence 50 years. Trustees—J. D. Fry, Robert Sherwood, W. H. V. Cronise, G. W. Kidd, E. M. Fry. Capital stock, $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. South Modoc Mining Company: principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to do a general mining business. Term of existence, 50 years. Trustees—J. R. Coryell, E. T. Barber, E. M. Fry, G. Holland, J. S. Barrett. Capital stock, $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Inyo Lumber and Coal Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to carry on and conduct the manufacture of lumber and charcoal and all other business pertaining thereto. Term of existence, 50 years. Trustees—James B. Bond, Henry M. Hale, Edgar I. Shipman, Gilbert I. Keys and, J. P. Moore. Capital stock $500,000, in 5,000 shares. Inyo Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to mine, buy and sell mines, mill sites, water rights, in the States of California and Nevada and in the Territory of Arizona. Term of existence, 50 years. Trustees—William L. Chapman, N. B. Stone, Wm. M. Lent, A. J. Bowie, Jr., Archibald Borland. Capital stock $10,000,000, in 100,000 shares. Garibaldi Mining Co.; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to do a general mining business. Term of existence, 50 years. Trustees—A. J. Bowie, Jr., Archibald Borland, Wm. M. Lent, N. B. Stone, John T. Boyd. Capital stock, $10,000,000, in 100,000 shares. Modoc Con. M. Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to mine for gold, silver and other metals. Term of existence, 50 years. Trustees—Geo. Hearst, G. W. Kidd, Robert Sherwood, J. D. Fry, James Clark. Capital stock, $10,000,000, in 100,000 shares.

Assault.

McCann again comes to the front, but is ignominously knocked out of time by a small sized boulder—a trifle larger perhaps than the one David hit Goliah with, but it didn't do its work half as effectually. The root of all this contention was the usual water right question. It seems that Benigno Aquirre, living near McCann's, was engaged in turning the water from the creek, a short distance north of the Post, into his private ditch. McCann was on the same kind of an errand and tried to dissuade Aguirre from turning the water by following him up and calling him all sorts of pet names and repeatedly asserting that he, McCann, was absolutely spoiling for a fight. This thing becoming monotonous, Aguirre tossed a good sized pebble into the air and allowed the natural laws of gravitation to do the rest—result, McCann was badly wounded: Aguirre arrested and taken before Justice Schalten, but was discharged as by the examination it was proven he had the water right, likewise the privilege of self defense. In the sequel, Under Sheriff Gregg got a sound tongue wholloping by McCann's better half, for not incarcerating the "dirty spalpeen Benigno" in a dungeon dark and drear.

Changed Back.

From The Coso News we learn that the new style water jacket of the Defiance furnace has given place to the old one, for the reason of the new one being too small in size. All was working well.

MONO COUNTY'S GRAND JURY REPORT.

A Scathing Document.

BRIDGEPORT, Mono Co., Cal., May 20, 1876.

To the Hon. Judge of the County Court of Mono County: SIR—We, the Grand Jury of Mono County, empanneled for the May term of the County Court, A. D. 1876, respectfully submit to your Honor our final report:

In the course of our investigations and deliberations we have found a true bill in the matter of Robert Commons, committed from the Justice's Court in and for Benton Township, and have handed to the Court an indictment against the said Robert Commons for the crime of murder.

We have ignored three bills presented for investigation, and one we have referred to the Board of Supervisors; and we hereby order the said Board to cause a thorough investigation into the matter, to-wit: the reports and accounts of E. P. Robinson, Road Overseer for District No. 1.

We have examined the books and accounts of the several county officials, and regret to state that irregularity seems to have been the rule in keeping said accounts.

We find on examination of the Auditor's accounts that no account has been kept with the Assessor and ex-Tax Collector for hospital tax receipts by the ex-Auditor; also that the statements handed in to the said ex-Auditor by the Assessor and ex-Tax Collector were not sworn to according to law; and we also find that the ex-Auditor was derelict in duty in not seeing that the ex-Treasurer's accounts were kept correctly and that said ex-Treasurer handed in a quarterly report to the Board of Supervisors; also, that a forced balance was found in the books of the ex-Auditor.

We find the books of the present Auditor to be correct.

The books of the ex-Treasurer we find to be wholly unintelligible, having been kept in a most irregular and inefficient manner, and all we can state in regard to the correctness of said accounts is that the amount of money in the county treasury corresponds with the balance set forth in the books at the present time.

We also find in the Assessor's department that considerable irregularity has heretofore existed, in the statements handed to the ex-Auditor, as regards the amount of compensation deducted by said Assessor from moneys collected on account of personal property taxes; and in the returns handed in by the said Assessor for the year 1875 the information given therein is extremely vague and unsatisfactory. Further, that said statements have not been sworn to according to law.

In course of examination of the accounts of the ex-Tax Collector, we find that said accounts have been kept in a loose and very inefficient manner, inasmuch that no balances have been struck during the years 1874-5-6, and further that in searching the papers of said ex-Collector we found a number of poll and hospital tax receipts which had not been returned to the ex-Auditor at the time of settlement, and we cannot see how a settlement of accounts could possibly be had in the absence of the tax receipts alluded to.

We examined the books of the present Sheriff and Tax Collector and found them to be kept systematically and correctly.

In the examination of the books of the District Attorney we found no informalities; but it becomes our painful duty to censure the District Attorney for his inefficiency as an officer and legal adviser, caused by his inebriety during our session.

After having examined the books of the Superintendent of Public Schools, we find that the accounts kept prior to the term of office of the present incumbent are completely unintelligible, there apparently having been no attention paid to said books. The books of the present incumbent are kept systematically and correctly.

After having examined the county buildings, we would respectfully recommend that a sky-light be placed in the roof of the jail, immediately over the prisoners' cell, and that a bedstead be provided for the accommodation of prisoners, as we find the floor of said cell extremely damp; and we would also recommend that two ringbolts be fixed securely in the floor of said cell, and iron bars be placed over the windows of the county jail.

The Grand Jury would respectfully recommend that the Board of Supervisors direct the Assessor to return the numbers and full description of the legal subdivisions in all cases where assessing land on the Government survey, where title is obtained or to be obtained from the Government; and this Grand Jury would also direct the said Board to collect from the Assessor the amount of taxes delinquent on personal property for the year 1875, and previous years of his term of office; and in view of the flagrant irregularities discovered by this Grand Jury in the course of our examination of the accounts of the several officers of this county, we hereby direct the said Board to have a thorough investigation made of the books and accounts in the several departments for the two years last past from the 6th day of March, 1876.

In conclusion, this Grand Jury cannot disperse without expressing its dissatisfaction at the loose and inefficient manner in which the business of the county has been conducted, and at the same time to censure the ex-Auditor, ex-Treasurer, ex-Tax Collector and Assessor, and also the Board of Supervisors of this county, for gross carelessness in the performance of their respective duties.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, }
County of Mono. }

I, David Jeffreys, County Clerk and Clerk of the County Court, in and for the County of Mono, State of California, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a full, true and correct copy of the final report of the Grand Jury empanneled at the May term of said Court, A. D. 1876.

Witness my hand and the seal of said Court this 22d day of May, A. D. 1876. [SEAL]

Entertainment and Dance.

Profs. Graham & Cronk, after returning from Darwin will on Tuesday night give at the Masonic Hall building one of their most instructive and amusing entertainments. The boys are really good fellows, and since they give you your moneys' worth anyhow, ought to be patronized, as one of the best shows that has ever visited this region. On this occasion our dancing population ought to turn out, for they will furnish the most excellent music till broad day light if desired. There is no objectionable feature about the thing, in anyway.

Whooping Cough.

A malady something of the above nature, yet described as the "Indian whooping cough," has attacked both juveniles and adults of several families living about the Post. It is said the "whoop" part comes in less frequently than in the genuine white article, though the general effects are much more serious and less under the control of ordinary remedies.

Wool.

The wool clip of J. G. Birchim, of Round Valley, amounting to 4,000 pounds, passed through town this week, consigned to the Pacific and Mission woolen mills, San Francisco. Recent quotations of wool fates are 12@15c., for California common.

The Lone Pine Postoffice.

LONE PINE, May 22, 1876.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—I noticed a paragraph in your last issue reflecting seriously on myself, headed "Loue Pine Postoffice."

1st. I never purchased Mr. Loomis' business, he not having any to purchase in this place. I simply rented, or bought on conditions, his property, formerly his store, which had been vacant two or three years. Therefore never was his successor in business, or Postoffice, or agent of Wells, Fargo & Co.; as an inducement to perfect the bargain Mr. Loomis proffered a certain promise or condition that would insure us making our expenses, as he termed it, exclusive of our sales on them. But before we were in business one week Mr. Loomis broke that promise to us. It is true he brought the mail bags to us and promised to fulfill the balance of the contract in a short time. We took the mail to accommodate him, but not as dep., or "asst;" never took the oath required to constitute an officer in the P. O. He never recommended me in his resignation, for the simple reason I never aspired to the Postoffice.

2d. I never refused to give the mail to any stage driver. On the contrary I informed the Cerro Gordo stage driver that the mail was all ready put up, and for him to go to the P. M., or his dep. or assistant or his own agent to give him the mail. This I done by direction of Mr. I. W. Hunt, whom we had given the mail up to some 10 days before. Mr. Hunt was R. A. Loomis' bondsmar. Acting as such he took charge of the office, requesting us to keep it as an accommodation to him until he could get rid of the responsibility. When Mrs. Eames received her appointment he came to us stating how glad he was to get rid of the office. When Judge Reed passed through here Mr. Hunt consulted him with regard to the Postoffice. He states that Judge Reed said that when a person receives an appointment as P. M. and accepts by filing their [his] bonds, taking the oath, etc., he was then and there to all intents and purposes Postmaster. This, Mrs. Eames had already done before Judge Peterson. Receiving this information Mr. Hunt instructed me to go as he instructed. Then or as far as he was concerned the responsibility would rest on him if I refused to do what was fair and just: I done so; how could I have done otherwise, or by what authority would I do so now?

3d. Now, with regard to Mr. Passmore—he took charge of the mail as Mrs. Eames' bondsmen; declaring that he would withdraw from her bonds if she refused to take it. This Mr. Hunt considered his release. Mr. Passmore requested it as a favor for Mr. Phillippay, my partner, to attend to the mail till his return next day. Next day he failed to put in his appearance, therefore Mr. Phillippay, my partner, feeling that he was imposed on refused to receive the mail any more. Thus ended our connection with the Postoffice. This is a true account of the whole matter as near as I can give it, notwithstanding the contrary account given you by some lick spittle of Mr. Loomis' who deems it proper to misrepresent the matter to the public.

With respect, I remain yours truly,
D. P. MACARTER.

Appended to the above was a decided request that we should publish. But for that and the uncalled for fling at the assumed character and source of our authority, we should have done no more than present such parts as tended to exculpate Mr. Macarter, as far as giving his actual relation to the Postoffice could do it. We would always do that much for even an enemy whom we believed unjustly aspersed, and certainly with more pleasure where a friend like Mr. Macarter, with whom we have always held the most friendly relations, was involved. Believing that he has permitted his sensitiveness to warp his better judgment in the obnoxious fling referred to we shall this time merely say that he is wholly in error in regard to that matter and not a whit less so in the construction he has chosen to put upon our remarks of last week. This last however needs a word in reply. The original statement in regard to the trouble at the Lone Pine Postoffice was founded upon public talk, as well as upon the unquestioned authority of several persons in position to know, and yet not in the remotest degree disposed to be "lick spittles" for anybody—a charge that won't bear repitition; neither can it be sustained in the least by the tenor of our reference last week. We do not see that that was any misrepresentation upon any material point, or in the least "a serious reflection" upon Mr. Macarter.

Mr. Macarter denies that he purchased Mr. Loomis' business—merely his former place of business, and that only conditionally. The distinction is immaterial. The only object in the reference was to convey an understanding of how Mr. Macarter came to fall heir to the other business in issue, and which was associated therewith. Second, "that he never was appointed Mr. Loomis' deputy or as the express agent." In so many words we merely interpolated that as a matter of belief, and to further show the esteem or confidence supposed to exist. We had the same reason then as now for believing that Mr. Macarter had never been duly sworn in, and in reality a legal deputy. It was in that view we added our sole comment, to wit: "that this curious way of doing business would likely cause Postmaster Loomis trouble." It is a serious dereliction of duty for any officer to so loosely delegate or abandon his official duty. Mr. Macarter was not sworn in as deputy Postmaster. Still, for courtesy's sake he until recently attended to all the duties of the office, not only in receiving and delivering mails, but as we happen to know as a certainty, of affixing his signature to official documents as deputy P. M. Mr. Loomis, as it now appears, did not fulfill his promise to recommend Mr. Macarter as his successor in the express business. The latter did not want the Postoffice, so that far, our expressed belief as to the two proposed recommendations was wrong.

Thirdly, Mr. Macarter says he never refused to deliver the mail to any stage driver. We suppose he did not in so many words; still, he did not hand the bags to them according to custom, so that they had either to lay themselves liable by quitting their boxes and going into the office after their mails, or leaving without them. Properly enough they both chose the latter alternative. Had he or any Postmaster refused to allow the drivers at the proper time to take the mail he would have subjected himself to criminal prosecution. While no such liability was incurred in the present instance, and while Mr. Macarter had a perfect legal right to refuse to continue as acting Postmaster—to receive and distribute mails—yet having received and made up a mail as usual he need not feel surprised that his course which caused the stages to go without the bags according to custom should be considered not only "curious," but a matter of considerable interest to the community. We do not question his motive at any time, nor his fair justification in desiring to get rid of the office which culminated in the final refusal to take the mail at all. That was an indisputable right under the circumstances. The principal, and not the deputy whether the latter is under oath or not, is the party who is alone responsible to the Government, however it may be with the public.

Lastly, with respect to the new appointee's right to take the office, and consequent release of the bondsmen, we are very sure, the high legal authority to the contrary notwithstanding, that Mrs. Eames, the appointee, had no lawful right to enter upon the duties of the office until after her bonds were returned approved; consequently, Sheriff Passmore had no right to demand the mail as her bondsman, but a perfect right as this case stood to see after it as Sheriff. A similar right is also vested in Justices of the Peace and other law officers, and in the bondsmen of the absent or derelict Postmaster.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Cal., May 21.

MESSRS. EDITORS: For the past week we have been experiencing a second edition of Winter. Last Tuesday night we had a genuine, old-fashioned snowstorm, which proved somewhat detrimental to the Benton pleasure seekers, as this was the evening appointed by Prof. Graham for his exhibition of magic and display of ventriloquism, but he had a fair attendance in spite of the weather. He introduced a variety of new and pleasing illusionary tricks, and his performance is still the theme of conversation among the Benton juveniles; many adults now regret their non-attendance at the last exhibition. Graham is certainly an adept at the profession, and as a musician is hard to excel. I confidently predict for him a full house upon his return to Benton

THE INNOCENTS.

Some of the Innocents have returned from Bridgeport. They bring but very meagre information. W. B. Harbin, Esq. has applied for license to practice in the County Court, which application was granted. Geo. Whitman, District Attorney, is shortly to remove to Benton. Robert Commons was indicted for murder by the Grand Jury. No indictment was found against Robinson. The Bentonites made lively times for the Bridgeporters during their visit and a number have not yet returned home.

CHANGES.

The saloon formerly kept by Dan Ashley is now under the proprietorship of Thomas Golden, late of Reno. The saloon is now (as it has been for the past six months), a popular place of resort—everything being conducted in first class style. Ashley has leased the Partzwick hotel, and is busily engaged in having the house repaired and refurnished.

MILLS AND MINES.

Two large freight teams arrived Friday with machinery for the Indian Queen mill. This company have been very prosperous under the management of Mr. John Howell, and they have such a large quantity of ore in sight that they find it necessary to increase their working capacity. They intend to immediately add four more stamps to their battery, also put up two additional amalgamating pans and will put in place an engine of increased power. Their old engine will be used at the mine for hoisting purposes.

COMANCHE COMPANY.

The Comanche mill is still running night and day and is making weekly shipments of large amounts of bullion. The mine still continues to yield first class ore.

DIANA COMPANY.

This property continues to improve in quality and quantity of ore, and all that is now needed is hoisting works to make it a financial success. The mill is shut down awaiting a supply of quicksilver.

NEW BUILDINGS.

J. A. Creaser is about to enlarge his mercantile establishment. This will necessarily cause the removal of the post-office, barber shop, etc., to some other building. W. B. Marshall, P. M., is having finished a commodious building on the corner of Main and Partzwick streets, which he intends to use as a post-office—also in connection a barber shop, bath house and variety store. Deputy Assessor Rowan is having a comfortable and substantial building erected for a residence. The mason work for the foundation is being laid by Charley Bennett. Good for Rowan—he has always been remarkable for building on a solid foundation. [Why shouldn't he? for he's a "solid man."—EDS.]

ARRIVALS.

Deacon Hunnicutt has arrived from Bridgeport, and again his sibyl like form is seen and admired during his graceful peramulations on Main street. Stanford, the stock man, has arrived in camp, on his way to Bridgeport, with about 1,500 of cattle and 2,000 sheep. Our hotels still do a good business, and everything is as lively as the imagination of MINION.

The Fishing Grounds.

About these times will shortly begin our annual chronicles of the departures and return of fishing parties who revel in the glories of Kern and Kings river sports. In an unusually warm season the valley is well nigh depopulated, and we presume the present will be no exception. Among other things worth knowing while over there, besides quaffing soda water, is how to cook fish. Some fishermen, when they want to cook fish, cover it with clay about two inches thick, and then put it into the fire. The clay hardens at once, and in this close oven the fish bakes through and through, keeping all its juices. A blow breaks the clay, taking with it the fish's skin. Served with plenty of bread and mealy baked potatoes, what fisherman wants a better dinner? Here is a hint for some of the boys who will camp out next Summer.

Pi—

Of that kind known as printer's, is just now more than plentiful around this shop. A standing "galley rack," overburdened with fifteen columns of solid nonpariel and minion, suddenly gave way and precipitated the mass to the floor. Such of our friends as may desire initiation into the first mysteries of printers' deviltry (setting up pi) are invited to step in and try their hands at it. The prospect is about as discouraging to our typographical force as were the pied forms on the morning of the great earthquake, which then, as now, necessitated the resurrection of two or three boxes of disused and tied up metal.

Log Springs.

Since our last report we learn that the Broder & Moffat furnace has been working with fair results, a leak in the boiler having caused the only trouble of moment. Another shipment of 200 bars of $500 bullion passed through early this week, and a similar one is now due.

The Well.

The piping of the artesian well at Lone Pine, some 50 feet down, either telescoped or had a hole worn through the side, letting in the quicksand to such an extent that it is thought it will be necessary to raise out the whole of it—the whole of the pipe we mean, not the whole hole.

A Good Publication.

The California Agriculturist and Live Stock Journal is published monthy at San Jose, at the low price of $1 50 per year. It is by far the most interesting and attractive paper of the kind on the coast, and deserves a wide circulation. All classes will find instructive reading in its columns.

Missing.

Lansing, the Bakersfield bank robber, comes up missing and his bondsmen mourn some thousands of dollars worth thereat. He has gone to join Pinney and the host of other thieves that have gone before down to Peru.

—An Omahog, just returned from the Black Hills, reports the road from Custer City to Fort Laramie strewn with wagons, the owners having either fled or been killed or captured by the Indians.

INDIAN CORN SONG.

BY FANNY QUEEN M'DOUGALL.

O, generous Earth, we thank thee;
And the Water, and the Air
That smile upon our harvests,
And make our corn so fair.

We thank the Rain of April,
We thank the Summer Sun;
We thank our brave old Forests
With their shadows dark and dun.

We thank the good Leama,
Sweet Mother of the Corn,
Who wove the robe of greenness,
And filled the plenty horn.

She wrought the golden feather,
She spun the silvery silk,
And fed her tender children
From the fullness of her milk.

But, most of all, Contantowa,
Great Spirit of the Morn,
We bow ourselves and bless thee,
For the gracious gift of Corn.

We thank the Earth;
We thank the Air;
We thank the Water;
We thank the Sun—
But our best praises
We offer unto Thee,
Great Spirit!
Master of Life!
Father, and God of all!

A Sharp Youth.

The Shepherd's Bush Boy can stand up with any other boy in the world against an accusation. The other day when his mother discovered sugar on the shelf, she called her boy and said:

"Some one has been stealing sugar!"

"Is it possible?" he exclaimed, rolling his eyes in astonishment.

"Yes, it is possible, and the thief isn't far away."

"Ain't he? Do you suspect father?'

"No, I don't."

"Couldn't be the cat, could it?" he inquired glancing under the table in search of the feline.

"Cats don't eat sugar, young man."

"They don't?"

"No, sir; the thief is a boy about your size."

"He is? I'd just like to catch him in here once."

"If this sugar is disturbed again," she said, as she covered the box, "I know of a boy who'll get his jacket dusted."

"I wish you'd let me stay out of school so's to see you catch and maul him."

And he went out to devour the other lumps.

A Dog Funeral.

A dog in Kentucky, having manifested symptoms of hydrophobia, was shot by Judge Wickliffe. The dogs on the place immediately collected to prepare for a funeral. "Old Bull," the largest and fiercest dog, took the body of the dead spaniel in his mouth and started for the woods. The other dogs followed in procession. There the dog sexton dug a grave at the foot of a tree and deposited the body, and the other dogs joined in covering the remains with earth. The mourners then united in howling for fifteen minutes, when they dispersed. This almost incredible story is substantiated by several persons of high standing, some of whom are ladies of the family in which the incident occurred.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation.

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

READ AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS. THE MOST IMPORTANT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

California Politically.

The San Francisco Post, a paper of Republican proclivities, deduces the following political figures, which we give as something for politicians to consider about, that and nothing more:

During the last eight years the total vote of this State has varied from 94,738 to 122,917—a difference of 28,179 The official statements are as follows:

1868	(Presidential Election)	108,660
1871	(Governor's Election)	120,101
1872	(Presidential Election)	94,738
1875	(Governor's Election)	122,917

In 1868 Seymour had 54,077 votes and Grant 54,583. It was a bad year for the Republican party, because the year before that party made a machine nomination for Governor, and was defeated by 10,000 majority by Governor Haight (Democrat). It is fair to assume that many men who had been Republicans prior to 1867 voted for Seymour in 1868, or did not vote at all. The presidential election in 1872 was no test. Grant did not get as many votes as in 1868 by 563, and Greeley had only 40,718. Many Republicans refused to vote for Grant, and the Southern Democrats threw off Greeley, as was expected. In the gubernatorial election of 1871, the Republican State Convention defeated the machine politicians in the nomination of a candidate to head the ticket. The Democrats took their strongest man—Haight—who had the immense prestige of a splendid victory in 1867. It was a square fight between Republicans and Democrats, and a good test of party strength. Booth was elected by 5,061 majority, though at that time he was not personally as popular as his Democratic antagonist. Haight obtained 57,520 votes; and this was then certainly the full strength of the Democratic party. We think the vote was full on both sides (120,101). It was more than the State had ever before cast. In 1875 (last September) Irwin (Democrat) for Governor had 61,509 votes; all the opposition, including Phelps, Bidwell and Lovet (Temperance) had but 61,408—a majority of 101 for Irwin. No point is strained in saying this was not accurate test of party strength, although Governor Irwin was known to all as a Democrat. The war was bitterer between Phelps and Bidwell than between Democrats and Republicans, or Democrats and Independents. Phelps and Bidwell were engaged in the unprofitable work of drawing chestnuts out of the fire for Irwin to eat. The vote for Lieutenant Governor, as The Chronicle correctly observes, affords a better and perhaps the true test of the relative party strength. The Democratic candidate for that office obtained but 58,424 votes, against 63,569 for the opposition candidates. The opposition majority was 5,145. The total vote for Lieutenant-Governor was 924 less than for Governor. The total opposition vote for Lieutenant Governor in 1875 was 988 more than the Republican vote for Booth in 1871; and the total Democratic vote for Lieutenant-Governor in 1875 was just 904 in excess of the Democratic vote for Haight in 1871.

We deduce from these figures that there was last year and is now an honest Republican majority of about 5,000 in this State upon a full vote, and as complete a union of the party as existed at Booth's election in 1871. But to call out this full vote, and to insure the complete union of the party there must be a presidential ticket free from the manipulations of the machine politicians. Bristow will do, but Conkling will be dangerous.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18.

MESSRS. EDITORS—A gloomy day that makes one feel more like committing murder than anything else, is upon us. I should suppose that to day the bablers would do something desperate—they will probably order another investigation in one end of the tower and dissent to an appropriation bill in the other. Such unusual events might startle the community and electrify the nation. I suggested to an M. C. this morning that he introduce a resolution in the House reading thus: "Resolved, That a select committee of three be appointed by the chair, whose duty it shall be to ascertain, if any official (living or dead), of the first century of the Republic has not been investigated or against whom charges have not been preferred, and should said committee find such a one that a monument be erected to him, provided, however, that said monument shall be finished during the next century." Such a resolution would be a good and popular one, and the expense of erecting a monument would not be insured as the official could not be found, unless he was the fortunate holder of a twelve dollar Postoffice at some country cross roads store. The M. C. to whom I was talking was a Democrat and chairman of one of the sub-committees in charge of an investigation. He had a wearied look upon his face and indulged in profanity about investigations, to such an extent that my moral nature was shocked, and I had to reprove him. He had an immense disgust on him and I think the feeling is shared by the community at large.

Fitzhugh has not resigned. His cuticle is exceedingly thick, and he proposes "to stick" tighter than a postage stamp He will be removed and possibly his office be abolished, though I do not think it will be. There are several patriots waiting anxiously to step into his shoes. The one most prominently spoken of is Col F. A. Tyler, formerly editor of The Memphis, Tennessee, Appeal. Should the House select him, it will have the consolation of having a gentleman for doorkeeper; one who has sense and will grace the position. If he writes any letters they will be sensible ones and all the words will be properly spelt.

The Senate will probably decide the question of the jurisdiction in the Belknap case to-day. Yesterday they were in session with closed doors discussing the matter and as no one is allowed more than fifteen minutes to speak, they will probably get through to-day No one can even conjecture how the case will be decided, though a man could possibly guess at two trials, and I have no doubt the correspondents of "the great dailies" have made their guesses and sent them off by telegraph last night.

Clapp, the Congressional Printer, will be impeached, if the Judiciary Committee decides that he holds an office that is impeachable. There is no doubt that he is either a rascal or a fool, with the chances in favor of the former, from the condition of his accounts

Dr. Nichols, of the insane asylum, has been most fortunate in securing the testimony of a large number of Superintendents of other asylums, who testify to his ability and integrity and yesterday Secretary Bristow positively denied the testimony of the last witness against him, a woman named Mary Jane Van Kensen. The committee has not reported on his case yet.

By the way, I want to speak of a railroad. I desire to advertise it in your paper. It is the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore road, and extends from Baltimore to Philadelphia A man named "Humpley" is president and as he controls the only direct line to Philadelphia or New York from Baltimore, he, as a matter of course, makes a hog of himself. When I went over the road on the 9th Dom Pedro, of Brazil, had a special car in the train. When we arrived in a few miles of that city eight car loads of passengers were left standing on the track for half an hour, while the engine took in that special car. We were already an hour behind time because of the penury which made one engine draw about fifteen car loads of passengers most of the way. That road needs advertising and I suggest to every traveler to give it a wide birth whenever possible.

The Cabinet meeting on Tuesday had the troubles in Louisiana under consideration, and General Ayer was directed to give troops to the Governor of Louisiana, if in his opinion, they were needed to preserve peace. A good law for that State and Mississippi would be to remove all the fire arms and permit none imported imported. Then if the belligerent citizens wanted to fight, the result would be black eyes and bloody noses, instead of "cold corpuses." A dead negro or white man either, is of very little use, "except to point a moral or adorn a tail," while the noses would soon stop bleeding and the eyes in time regain their normal color.

The fight for the nomination waxes stronger and stronger. It would almost seem that both parties are so anxious on the subject of New York that the candidates will both be chosen from that State. The New Yorkers feel their advantage and press their "favorite sons," Tilden and Conkling, who now seem to be ahead. SAXON.

A Smart Boy.

A young man called on his intended the other evening, and while waiting for her to make her appearance he struck up a conversation with his intended brother-in-law. After a while the boy asked:

"Does galvanized niggers know much?"

"I really can't say," answered the amused young man, and silence reigned for a few moments, when the boy resumed:

"Kin you play checkers with your nose?"

"No, I have not acquired that accomplishment."

"Well, you'd better learn, you hear me."

"Why?"

"Cause. Sis says that you don't know as much as a galvanized nigger, but that your dad's got lots of stamps, and she'll marry you anyhow, and she said when she got ahold of the old man's sugar she was agoing to all the Fourth of July perceshuns an' ice cream gum sucks, and let you stay at home to play checkers with that hollyhock nose of your'n."

And when sis got her hair fixed and came in she found the parlor deserted by all save her brother, who was tying the tails of two kittens together and singing, "Oh, how I love the Sabbath School."

A New York View.

Referring to the Chinese question The New York Times says:

Mob law appears to be the corrective which Californians are disposed to apply to the Chinese evil. At one of their club meetings it was announced that somebody in New York had telegraphed the offer of 2,000 stands of arms at ten days' notice to the anti-Chinese leaguers. It would be interesting to know what organization in this city is interested in arming a mob of Californians. The whole movement, when one considers the smallness of the number of Chinese compared with the population, seems most intemperate. If the people of California believe, as they have declared, they have 200,000 they are fighting a phantom.

AT A DEAD LOCK.

The Democratic House of Representatives, in carrying out their plan of radical economy, lately passed a bill to cut down the salaries of our Ministers and Consuls abroad nearly one half. The Republican Senate refused to concur, and the House refused to recede, so there is a dead lock, the probable result of which will be their recall after June 30, the close of the fiscal year, beyond which the present appropriation does not reach. The necessity for the recall, if it should occur, will be because no appropriation bill can be passed in the present attitude of the two Houses. Republicans say that the salaries now allowed are barely sufficient to maintain the officers in a passably respectable manner, and that a reduction would force fourth rate men into their places—men who would accept such with no other hope or chance to live as the position demands except by peculation. The President has declared that if the House bill should pass the Senate he will veto it, and re-veto it if necessary. Both parties expect to make much party capital out of this business, that being about all the bill was intended for in the first place. But it bids fair to place Centennial America in a very contemptible light abroad, since, if the appropriation fails as it must, unless one House or the other goes squarely back on its record, we cannot have a single foreign representative to uphold her interests or dignity. All because of no pay allowed.

Some Figures.

The aggregate number of acres comprising Lux & Miller's posessions are estimated by The San Francisco Chronicle to be near 600,000. The famous stretch of fence between Firebaugh's and Hills Ferry on the San Joaquin, encloses about 200,000 acres in one ranch. The total number of cattle is put at about 100,000 (this must have been estimated for the Assessor's benefit), 3,000 horses, 2,000 hogs and 10,000 sheep. From 20,000 to 25,000 head of beef cattle are driven annually to San Francisco, and the firm employ from 500 to 1,000 men--according to the season.

Robeson.

The report of the Naval Investigation Committee will probably bring about the speedy removal of Secretary Robeson from office. Among other items, of an even more disgraceful character, it will be shown that when the Philadelphia Navy Yard was sold last Fall to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, $100,000 worth of naval stores and buildings were left on the ground, though not included in the purchase by the company, and not paid for.

Blaine.

A great "to do" has been made about a certain mysterious package that was handed to Blaine while he was Speaker of the House. It was said to contain the much-talked-of $64,000 worth of railroad bonds. It turns out, much to the disappointment of Clymer's committee, that it was only a lot of maps of some Arkansas coal lands presented to Blaine to induce him to buy an interest. He did not buy or become in any way an owner in those lands.

The Tunnel.

The work on the San Fernando tunnel is progressing more favorably than was hoped for at one time. At one place the tunnel is upwards of one thousand feet from the surface, and the air is offensive, though supplied fresh and freely by pumps. The men work in rubber suits. There is yet half a mile unfinished.

Industrial Fair.

The California Industrial Exhibition for this year, at the fair building on Eighth street, between Mission and Market, San Francisco, commences August 8. Entries of articles must be made before July 20. The preparations going on are upon a scale worthy of the Centennial year.

Getting Rich.

Ex-Senator Gwin, of California, (Duke Gwin, of Mexico,) is in a fair way to become rich. He and his son own the greater portion. if not all, of the Gwin mine in Calveras county, which yields from $16,000 to $20,000 per month, over one-half of which is clear profit.

New Song.

Messrs. Sherman & Hyde, music dealers of San Francisco, have favored us with a copy of their new and beautiful song and chorus, "Darling Little Jessie."

MORE ABOUT GEORGE AND OUR JOSIAH.

A letter from a Washington lawyer, received here a few days since, happens to give an additional chapter relating to the mode of procedure of those speculating ex-Land Office Registers, George H. M'Callum and Josiah Earl. A party named Altman made cash entry No. 101. After proving up, but before the patent was issued, Altman sold and deeded the ground to Dr. C. B. White. On the 25th of January of the present year Entry No. 101 was duly patented and the document immediately forwarded to M'Callum as Register at this Land Office for delivery. George examined it with care in his usual thrifty manner to determine how much black mail he could make out of it. For reasons we could very likely explain he saw it would be of no cash value to himself until put through another process. Accordingly he bundled it up and sent it back to Washington, endorsing on it: "Returned because uncalled for," and with a letter of instruction containing these words among others: "Forward patent for cash entry No. 101 to Geo. H. M'Callum, care of J. Earl, San Francisco," Well, it seems that this singular request was complied with, and that Josiah got the patent, and as probabilities indicate, has it yet.

Everybody in the least informed on such subjects knows such a patent of itself is of no value whatever to a third party or any one except the party to whom it is granted or his assignee. Well, then the question arises why did George adopt such a remarkable course with regard to this one? As a rule patents if not called for lie in the local office for years, if not demanded sooner. And here we will repeat what in substance and sometimes in plain words we have set forth nearly every time we published a list of patents awaiting owners at this Land Office, namely, that all the owner had to do was to present his Receiver's receipt and demand his patent, there not being a cent of fees to pay. Instead of that, though, a number we now know of allowed our George, the subject of this biography, to swindle them out of $20 or $25 each before he would deliver their patents. It is not likely, however, that this little sum of black mail was the only object in thus making the good Josiah a party in the transaction under consideration. George had the most unlimited faith in Josiah's ability to cinch people, particularly the doctor, who had some other landed interests besides this one, not fully settled, and in one at least of which Josiah had a possible contingent interest. That is the lot where the doctor's hospital stands, the possessory title having come down from the former to the latter. It being within the Post reserve the Government has never given Josiah a title to any part of his original claim of which this formed a part. Some hopes was awakened in the good man's breast that the patent for that quarter would give him a renewed claim on the hospital portion. This, though, is a digression.

It would seem that neither of these operators knew that Altman had made a full legal conveyance, after proving up, of his title in entry 101, to the doctor. Altman being a discharged soldier then in or about to go to San Francisco, it is not improbable George thought Josiah, with the patent in his own hands, could induce Altman to make some affidavits and then for a small consideration re-convey to Josiah for the benefit of both worthies together. For certain resaons we shall not stop to name Geoge knew it was no use to try to levy black-mail direct, so there was no way to make anything out of it except in this roundabout way, which promised to pay the best anyhow.

If Register Briggs should think it worth while, as we suppose he does, he will call the official attention of the United States District Attorney to these little operations of these worthy ex-Registers, especially George.

Those Diggings.

The latest from San Francisco in regard to those "Bernal Hights gold quartz discoveries," is that it was all a humbug—not a color. It created quite an excitement, that "discovery."

Some Snakes.

The Carson Tribune of May 18 is responsible for this extensive snake story: We are told that snakes, hundreds and thousands of them, of all sizes and ages—rattlesnakes principally—have been seen on the hill above the railroad tunnel between here and Washoe. The party who is responsible for the story says he stood upon a large rock from under which the reptiles came to bask in the outer sunshine, and counted 71,356 inside of fifteen minutes, scattered over the ground in all directions. Name given to reporter of a morning contemporary upon demand. Whether or not there is any foundation for saying there are any rattlesnakes in the neighborhood mentioned, many of the boys about town intend going out there to-morrow after Sunday school to spend the balance of the day in sweet companionship of these harmless pets.

THE BLACK HILLS.

Eastern advices contain a telegraphic order from Sherman to General Sheridan concerning the Black Hills movement and the trouble with the Sioux, which is of interest to those who have been afflicted with the new gold fever. General Sherman in his dispatch to Sheridan embodies the views of the President concerning the entry of whites upon the Sioux reservation. Grant looks upon the immigrants as intruders, and while that the strength of the United States should be employed in protecting the lives and property (i. e., moveable property) of those who have emigrated or are now emigrating to that region, reserves future action on the part of the Government until the determination of a proposed treaty with the Sioux. The troops are ordered to protect settlers and provision trains; but, failing an agreement with the hostile Indians on the part of the Government, they are at the same time ordered to convey all immigrants out of the Black Hills reservation. The reports concerning gold in that region are very conflicting. We have no personal knowledge of any well established placer. The reports of new men from the East have generally been highly colored; those of old Californians and Nevadians have uniformly been discouraging. We incline to think that the Black Hills country, superbly wooded and watered, has a great possibility for an agricultural future; but we doubt the mines; and we notice this action on the part of the Executive merely to warn miners and prospectors against a hasty emigration to an unproved country where, even if successful, they are liable to be confronted by hostile savages or driven off by the Government military authorities.

The Democratic Convention.

At the Democratic State Convention beginning May 25, the following delegates to the St. Louis Convention were elected: William Dumphy, George H. Rogers, J. C. Hayes, F. T. Baldwin, Judge Moultrie and T. D. Mott, with the following as delegates at large: Judge Hagar, Joseph P. Hoge, James L. English and — Taylor.

By resolution, carried unanimously, Tilden was indorsed for President. It was resolved that the vote of the State at the National Convention should be cast as a unit.

Here is a synopsis of principles adopted.

(1.) Fidelity to all the provisions of the Constitution of the United States.

(2.) A perpetual union of the States, with local self-government in every section.

(3.) Civil service reform; a restitution of the tests of honesty, fidelty and capacity in the qualifications of public officers.

(4.) Retrenchment and economy in Federal, State and municipal administration, lessening the burden on labor by the reduction of offices and taxation.

(5.) Exposure and a speedy punishment by penal laws of corruption and peculation in the administration of public affairs.

(6.) The private use and appropriation of public funds by official custodians means embezzlement and robbery. Official accountability exacted and enforced by the better administration of civil and criminal laws.

(7.) State corporations supervisable by and subordinate to State legislation in the interests of the people.

(8.) Free schools exempt from all sectarian control. A free press, accountable for abuses to civil and criminal laws.

(9.) Preservation of public faith and credit and the honest payment of the public debt.

(11.) A tariff for purposes of revenue only.

(12.) No Chinese imigration. It is so thoroughly obnoxions to our people and institutions that its prohibition is imperatively demanded, and all the powers of the Government should be exerted to that end.

J. W. Freeman, of Kern, is the member of the State Central Committee for this (16th Judicial) district.

The Convention for the Fourth Congressional district nominated Wigginton for Congress.

An English Swell.

Mr. Kortwright, her Britanic Majesty's Consul in Philadelphia, is a great swell, and represents the Queen with all possible dignity. No one can see him without being impressed with his appearance. The story is told that one day as he was walking down Walnut street, a stranger accosted him as follows: "Will you be kind enough to tell me, sir, the price of that house?" pointing across the street. "Sir!" said the Consul, "do you take me for a real estate agent?" "Oh, no, indeed, sir," replied the other respectfully, "but I supposed from your appearance that you owned the whole city."

To Be Quarantined.

In view of the prevalence of smallpox in San Francisco, the Nasty Club have decided to quarantine a prominent member now in San Francisco, who is expected to return to Austin in a few days. He will be kept at Clifton and fumigated, disinfected and forced to the painful necessity of changing his socks before being showed into the city.—[Austin Reveille.

—To maintain their hold of Metz, the Germans keep a garrison of 12,000 men there, and provisions and war material sufficient for 40,000 men for three years.

—The take of buffalo robes in Montana the present season is the heaviest for several years. Some of the dealers will ship from 8,000 to 10,000.

Our San Francisco Letter.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.

MESSRS. EDITORS—In accepting your proposition for a weekly news letter from this little burg, I am aware of assuming a big contract, and will not undertake to conform exactly to your every notion all the while. However, you can mark out and mark in, while I will go right along as if nothing had happened.

A rich quartz ledge has been discovered on Bernal Hights, and prospectors are crawling over the hills as thick as grasshoppers in Colorado. Several ore assays have been made, the result figuring up in the hundreds. Already a dozen claims have been located, and articles of incorporation filed. Simultaneously with the discovery here, the other end of the ledge cropped out in the penitentiary grounds at San Quentin, and the inmates are greatly excited. The prison yard is said already to resemble a mining camp in the days of '49. This is by no means the first mining scheme that has had an ending in San Quentin, and many more might end there with profit to the public.

Considerable activity prevailed in political circles during the past week, incidental to the meeting of the Democratic State Convention and one or two District Conventions. At one time there was promise of quite a little fight, and no end of fun. Mark McDonald, a stock broker, standing nearly seven feet in his boots, and having half a million at his bankers or in stocks, entered the field, against Piper, for Congress. It was a lively tusle, but Piper got away with the business. The next morning Mark made it very lively for the boys in the Boards, but by Saturday afternoon his usual amiability had been restored, and he danced a Scotch jig to the music of the bag-pipes at the Caledonia picnic in Oakland, producing immense applause.

The Senate Committee on the Chinese question have taken a voluminous amount of testimony. The poor typos that put it in type will be compelled to read it, but no one else ever will. No one single new fact has been brought out—nothing but what every person interested has long understood. The developments of the past week show: the organization of several more Anti-Coolie clubs; the receipt by the Presidents of the Six Companies of several letters, threatening death and destruction if they did not send the Chinese out of the country by the 7th of June; a tightening up of the police reins, as evidenced by the arrest of frequenters of gambling dens, and the violators of the pure-air ordinance. The amusing part of the week's business is the account of the official call of Mr. Piper and Phil Roach on the President and Secretary Fish; the latter remarking that he presumed the religious element of the country would urge the continuance of the Burlingame treaty on account of its value in facilitating missionary work; the President inquiring of the Commissioners which they regarded as the best climate for training young horses for the turf, the States or the Pacific Coast?

Robert Sherwood has brought suit for $100,000 damages against Edward Cahill for publishing an article which he alleges injures his good name to that extent. Injuring a stock-manipulator's name and character to the amount of a hundred thousand dollars! is good. Ed Cahill being able to do it! is better.

Gov. Stanford, having corralled all the railroad enterprises and steam navigation companies of the Pacific Coast, proceeded to build a palace on the hill, where he could enjoy his power and look down upon the pigmies of the earth. While sitting aloft in the great tower, looking out over the plains where his trains were speeding, and up and down the Bay at the majestic floating palaces, his eye happened to notice a small object creeping, without horses, up Clay street hill. "What!—a railroad!—cars drawn by steam, and I not own it!—oh! this is too much!—where's Mark Hopkins?" A few days later and he has a company organized to build a competing line only two blocks away. "I'll own it or kill it!—I'll have no steam opposition!" In this case, however, the public will probably side in with the railroad king, as he has accepted the five-cent provision in his charter.

We hear now and then that "everybody is going to the Centennial," but one sees no diminution in the numbers on our streets and in public places. Just now the school girls are the most conspicuous membrs of society, and the papers are giving long lists of graduates from our various schools, public and private, and their rank of merit. "Per cent." has an intense practical meaning to them now, whatever it may have seemed on the pages of the arithmetic. From the little eighth-graders in the primary schools up to the seniors in the University "per cent." is the absorbing topic. Of the latter class it is a pleasant thing to learn that in a graduating class of thirty a young lady takes the second honor. This is good testimony on the much vexed question of the comparative capabilities of the masculine and feminine mind, and shows the wisdom of those who opened the doors to both sexes. In the Oakland High School the public parade usual at the close of the year is dispensed with, and instead of the accustomed flutter of white muslin under gaslight in the presence of a crowded audience, the "sweet girl graduates" receive their diplomas in their school room, attired in calico, and during the customary hours of school. Score one for Oakland. It is a fact that many of the schools which stand first in many respects err greatly in fostering the love of display in their pupils which so often leads to grave evil in later years. A mother said to me the other day: "Annie is quite vexed that I will not buy her a pair of heavy gold bracelets—but I tell her that if she has such things now there will be nothing left for her to enjoy when she leaves school and becomes a young lady." The English and French are wiser than we are in marking the line between school girl life and young ladyhood. Nothing is more pleasing than a group of young girls who have about them the real simplicity and guilelessness of childhood—and unfortunately nothing is more rare at the present day.

What a blessed thing is fiction! How it keeps alive the idea that marriage is the offspring of love! Perhaps it once was, but not now. "Take a practical view of the subject, my dear child," is the parental injunction now-a-days. "She married well," or "ill"—the comment of old and young—the size of his pile being almost the only "well" or "ill" considered. To facilitate the marriage of those who have not time or inclination to go through with the almost obsolete roll of "courting," a Marriage Bureau has been established in this city by one Capt. Stout, where candidates can register their qualifications and hang their pictures on the wall for inspection.

What has become of Judge Ferris, of Oakland? It is supposed that he committed suicide; but the facts that he was largely in debt, that he drew out deposits of $20,000 or over just before his departure for Sacramento and that he was an excellent swimmer, give some plausibility to the idea, freely expressed, that he is simply a defaulter and absconder.

Representative Wigginton thinks he will be able to get a bill through to compel the Southern Pacific Railroad to build the road between Goshen and Hollister, or else get the company to run through Salinas valley, and to sell their Tulare lands to settlers at the Government price.

The young warriors have left Red Cloud and joined Sitting Bull. The indications are that Gen. Crook and others will have to contend against the whole war force of the Sioux.

The health of Speaker Kerr is not at all encouraging to his friends. He suffers much from illness, and is also annoyed at the charges against him, although they are of but little consequence, most likely. Their sum is that he accepted money to procure a friend an appointment—bad enough if true.

The new charges against Blaine give Conkling's friends, and the Democrats much comfort, inducing the hope that he cannot explain them away in season for a good fight before the Cincinnati Convention.

Blaine's chances for the Cincinnati nomination are said to be constantly brightening. Another charge or two and he will be assured of it.

Tilden's chances for the St. Louis nomination seem to be on the wane. Just now Roaring Bill Allen is forging ahead of everybody.

Rocking the Cradle.

The Philadelphia Ledger says: "The mother that rocks and sings her child to sleep is unconsciously illustrating a scientific principle. The heart and the system of circulation are popularly thought never to rest. But science shows that under usual and fair conditions their rest is perpetual. In other words, by their rhythmic or measured motion in health, the organs of circulation rest between each pulse—that is to say, eight hours out of the twenty four; as has been calculated by computing the pauses between the beats of the pulse. The monotonous rhythm of a simple cradle song, and the gentle motion of the rocking-chair or cradle are in harmony with the rhythm of the heart, and, the brain being disengaged, sleep follows. The brain may be said to be the part of the animal economy which sleeps entirely. During healthy sleep the brain is to a great degree bloodless, and this shown indirectly by the greater circulation of the blood in the skin and extremities during sleep. Healthy digestion, after a fairly full but not excessive meal, promotes sleep by the calling off of the blood from the brain to the stomach. A carious but familiar illustration of the accord between the heart movements, and external measured sounds or motions, is shown when the nurse stops 'humming,' and the troublesome baby wakes straight up and provokingly opens its staring eyes. The 'concert' is interrupted and the sleepy accord of the heart with the successive cadences of the lullably is broken. This is why the cessation of usual sounds will wake the adult sleeper. It is even stated that soldiers who have fallen asleep during a canonade have awakened when the noise suddenly ceased."

The Mustang Race Against Time.

A press dispatch from New York, date of May 25, says: The second great mustang race at Fleetwood Park took place to-day. The Mexican, Peralta, started at 12 o'clock in the attempt to ride 155 miles in seven hours. Peralta showed himself to be an excellent horseman. At the start the attendance was limited and it was not till nearly 3 o'clock that crowds began arriving. At that time the road leading to the race course was filled with carriages and pedestrians. Every train from the city arrived with loads of passengers. Fully one hundred thousand people were on the track during the latter part of the race. Peralta changed horses about every second mile and it was evident from the start that he did not intend to lose any more time than was possible from this cause. Parker, in his recent attempt, changed horses every mile, losing considerable time, besides over exerting himself. The track was in splendid condition and the weather beautiful. Peralta was also in good trim, and under the advice of Dr. Stanley took no nourishment except milk and water. He also changed his cap frequently, keeping it moist to keep his head cool He rode mostly around the course to the left, changing about every ten miles to the right, but would only ride a mile or two in the latter direction, when he would change again to his favorite course. The first mile was made in 2:22¾, and then taking a fresh horse he made the second mile in 2:22. The first 10 miles were made in 24 minutes 44¼ seconds, and during this run he used six mustangs. The sixth horse proved a vicious beast and balked It seemed as though Peralta must be thrown, but with the agility of a cat he threw his body forward, righted himself in the saddle and forced the mustang into a run. * * * * The actual running time of the 100 miles was 4 hours, 9 minutes and 40 seconds, including interruptions, 4 hours and 31 minutes The time lost by bolting horses was 21 minutes and 14¼ seconds. At 25 minutes past 5 o'clock Peralta completed his 120 miles, and was 9¾ seconds ahead. At 6 o'clock he was 8 seconds ahead, and at 6:19½ he completed his 140th mile. The best horses were kept to finish. On the 147th mile a negro attendant got in the way and was knocked down, the mustang going over him. The 150th mile was completed at 6:45¾, and he finished the race at 6:58, completing the 155 miles with two minutes to spare. The last mile was rode in 2:25. He rode 88 horses during the race. His victory was greeted with tremendous cheering by 15,000 spectators During the last ten miles the betting, which had been $50 to $40 on time, now changed to 100 to $80 on Peralta. He rode well to the finish. His accomplishment of the feat was unexpected.

Parker is to attempt the ride of 305 miles in fifteen hours next Thursday. David Stanton, champion bicycle rider of England, has sent a challenge to ride 100 miles against Peralta with mustangs for 160 miles, for from $100 to $200 a side.

Those Massachusetts Murders.

We are by our telegraphic dispatches informed of the hanging of Piper, the murderer of little Mabel Young, and also of the hanging of Frost, the Worcester murderer. Both of the offenses were committed in Massachusetts, and we are pleased to notice that the old Bay State is firm in its determination to render justices in such cases. We hope that the pardoning power in Massachusetts may not be exercised in the Jesse Pomeroy case, and that the necessity of exterminating semi lunatic murderers may be recognized everywhere.—[Eureka Sentinel.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

I. O. G. T.

G. W. C. T. Jabez Walker arrived here yesterday. After making us a brief call he went on to the Post, as the guest of Capt. Macgowan. Mr. Walker has devoted almost his entire life in an honest endeavor to better the condition of mankind, striking directly at the real cause of full ninety-seven per cent of all human misery and wickedness, King Alcohol himself. In this he has accomplished more perhaps, than any one man living. In this cause he has sacrificed almost everything; health broken, and yet but a very small share of this world's goods to compensate his arduous labors. But notwithstanding all that he is still on the war path against the arch enemy and to that fact we owe this visit. He proclaims his principles as: "Personal abstinence from intoxicants; total prohibition of the liquor traffic." His programme for lectures and sermons is as follows: At Honor (Military) Lodge, No. 4, Camp Independence, Saturday, 7 o'clock P. M.; at Milton School House, Sunday, at 10½ o'clock A. M.; at Independence School House, Sunday, at 7½ o'clock P. M.; at Silver Leaf Lodge, Big Pine, Monday; at Oasis Lodge, Bishop Creek, Tuesday; at Benton on Wednesday and Thursday: at Oasis Lodge, Bishop Creek, Friday; at Silver Leaf Lodge, Big Pine, Saturday; at Independence Sunday and Monday; at Lone Pine, Tuesday, and Darwin Wednesday. The public are cordially invited; no admission fee is charged, but a collection will be taken on behalf of the mission fund of the order.

New District.

John Redding and others have recently made some promising discoveries in a new district located in the White Mountains directly opposite the mouth of Bishop Creek. They are about organizing this into a new district to be called Eagle Peak. George Donnelly, Recorder. The ore specimens of which we have seen, contains gold and silver in about equal proportions. That from the Tone has an average assay value of $70 per ton. This seems to be a very promising ledge. We are assured that there is a five-foot ledge all of just such ore as that just mentioned, the shaft being down twenty-five feet. These parties have five other locations they think are no less valuable.

Sawmilling.

Our old time friend Jim Smith has engaged a full crew of men pursuant to again starting up the Black Rock Sawmill, and probably ere this the sing-song "six-two, ten-one" again vibrates above the hum of the big circular, and the melodious notes of ye male cattle whacker echoes back from the granite boulders "Stand up, Spot! GEE, MIKE!" and dies far away up the canyon. For further particulars read Jim's new advertisement.

A Pleasant Affair.

According to the local announcement last week the numerous friends of Mrs. Rhine and Mrs. Harris gathered at the Blaney House Thursday night. The elite were fully represented and the party complete with the exception of Mrs. Harris, whose absence was due to the recent death of her sister. Four set were made up, and altogether it was the most recherche affair of the season.

Car of State.

The managers of the big joint celebrate at Lone Pine are anxious to have the participants from this and other places bring along all of their little girls, to ride in the Car of State and represent the different commonwealths of the Union. Uncle Sam's farms are growing so numerous that it requires a large community to furnish the requisite number of young ladies to represent them.

Quite an Improvement.

Davis, the lessee of A. Parker's blacksmith shop, has torn away the old pioneer institution in which uncle Abe has done so much hammering, and upon its site erected a new one 30x40 feet. The new shop is not only commodious and comfortable, but adds much to the appearance of that part of the street. It is surmounted by a coupola ventilator.

Vegetation—California.

We are indebted to T. F. A. Mairs for a correction regarding the size of the cucumber that some of the Tulare papers have been blowing about—instead of nine feet it measured thirteen feet and four inches in length. The vine was in a remarkably healthy condition and did not seem at all worried by its cucumbersome load.

Condition of Spencer.

Louis R. Spencer, the U. S. Paymaster's clerk who was shot by highwaymen on his way to Camp Gaston to pay off troops, had to have his arm amputated at the shoulder socket. He is very low and but little hope is entertained for his recovery—he still lays at Lacompt's Ranch, 20 miles from Arcata.

Post Contracts.

The Post contracts were awarded as follows: To Harris & Rhine, wood at $12 78 per cord, currency; barley at 3¼cts. per pound, gold; hay at $14 50 per ton, gold; beans at 5 cts. per pound, gold. J. S. Rothschilds & Co. got the freight, and John Broder the beef—the latter at 9 cts. per pound, gold.

Painting.

It will be observed by referring to his advertisement that Mr. Oliver Seer has opened a paint shop on the ground floor of the Masonic Hall, and is prepared to do all kinds of house, sign, carriage and wagon painting.

Backsgreen.

Troops at Camp Independence were paid off in full on Monday last, by Major Chas. W. Wingard, Paymaster U. S. A., and his clerk Mr. Morse. The Major has been assigned to duty in Oregon—therefore this will be his last visit to Inyo.

The Scouting Party.

The scouting party under Lieutenant Wotherspoon started for Visalia from Camp Independence last week, to prospect for the nearest feasible wagon road to be constructed to this place. The party went via Kearsage trail.

Cerro Gordo.

The Belshaw Bros. have gone Centennialward. The active superintendency of the Union during their absence we understand falls upon Hugh Morrison. Mr. Porter is at present taking a jaunt through the Sylvania region.

Preaching.

Rev. Jabez Walker will preach at the Post school house at 10:30, and in this place at the school house at 7:30 to-morrow.

Masonic.

Regular communication of Inyo Lodge, F. & A. M., to-night.

A Juvenile Entertainment.

Two little boys, the younger pertaining to this institution, the other a son of Judge Conklin, have been leading out quite extensively lately in the way of business. First, as newspaper proprietors, they have been publishing a little 4x6 sheet, all on their own hook. One entire page of the last issue of this was taken up with the advertisement of their second enterprise, namely a "Show! Show!—Sleight-of-hand entertainment. Chalfant & Conklin, Conjurers," the said "show" taking place to a crowded house on Wednesday evening. This part of the undertaking devolved exclusively upon the last named gentleman and his little sister Maggie. It consisted of some well performed legerdemain tricks, ballet singing and dancing in costume, and in truth gave more satisfaction than any traveling troupe we have had, although it was in fact almost impromptu and put on by mere children. For real grace and self-possession and execution this little performance cannot be excelled.

The Piute Mill.

Mr. R. M. Johnson has recently become the owner of the entire mining interests connected with his five-stamp mill in Piute District, and we now learn that he has started up the mill for regular work, under very favorable auspices. Last Fall it made a start soon after completion, and a second one upon a later occasion, but both times had to shut down because of some trouble with the motive power, which is a turbine wheel. The second time it was stopped by the cold weather. In other respects the mill performed well enough. Now all of these draw backs, as well as some troubles associated with the ownership of the mines, have been done away with, and no doubt is entertained but the little mill at Piute will become an important addition to the financial welfare of both its owner and that section of the country generally.

A Letter for Somebody.

Postmaster Rowley has a letter in his office which somebody may want, but to find out who that somebody is, is the question that troubles Rowley. Following is the sum total of the address: "Indapendance, Inyou County, Callafornia," and across the end was this request: "Return to B. (or P.) W. Moor (or Moon), Sweetwine, Hamilton County, Ohie, if not called for in 20 days." Now, as Independence won't call for the letter, and as it is addressed to nobody else in particular, it is quite likely that Moon will get his letter again, and it is to be hoped will not again be so inexcusably careless in future. However, this is only one specimen of hundreds of such instances of imbecilty in addressing letters, and it is no wonder old Postmasters don't always have angelic dispositions.

Hauled Away.

A day or two since the immense cylinder for the Bruckner furnace at the Kearsarge mill was rolled on a big wagon, by mule power, and hauled away to its destination. It will be but a short time before Superintendent Gray will have it ready for a test run, the result of which will be of special local if not general interest.

Prof. Graham.

Friday evening Prof. Graham gave another entertainment in this place, and to the satisfaction of a somewhat larger audience than on the previous occasion. The performance gave better satisfaction than any troupe in their line, or any other perhaps, that has visited us.

Broder Bullion.

Connelly's teams are en route to Big Pine for loads of Sylvania bullion, at which point there are 103 bars, weighing 93 pounds each. The whole are of a high grade, but 53 of them assay $50 apiece in silver. With these facts considered, it would seem that Broder's final success is assured.

Placer Diggings.

Mr. D. E. Hunter, of Bishop, informs us that L. Tuttle and others are actively engaged in opening up their placer diggings, lying some six miles west of Bishop Creek. The same diggings were last year worked with very good results.

Going a-Fishing.

Mr. A. W. Pratt and Dick Runkle, both invalided, are preparing to take up a Summer residence at the Kern river fishing grounds, the recovery of health being the chief incentive.

An Outrage on Liberty.

The action of Judge Colby, of Kern county in refusing young Green bail, is a reprehensible outrage. The Constitution of the United States says:

"All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties; unless for capital offences, when the proof is evident or the presumption great."

This provision is the bulwark of American liberty. It is the supreme law of the land, every judge of either a State or of a United States court is sworn to obey it, anything in the laws or constitution of any State to the contrary notwithstanding. If Judge Colby has any thought of being able to overthrow the fundamental law for the purpose of venting his private spleen, we trust he will find he is wasting his time in cherishing delusive hopes. The interests of whole communities center in the case of Green, and it will be necessary to accord him that justice which is guaranteed by the supreme law.—[Visalia Delta.

Death by the Bite of a Tarantul

George Truine was brought to the County Hospital from Caliente on Monday with his face fearfully swollen from the bite of an insect, supposed to be a tarantula. The bite was said to be on his left eye, but his face was so swollen that no mark could be seen. He suffered great pain, and was delirious on Tuesday, requiring the strength of three men to tie him down. While in the midst of his struggles he straightened out and died instantly.—[Bakersfield Californian.

The Only Way.

The only process yet known by which disinterested, honest, firm and independent citizens can be sent to the conventions, is for those who wish to be so represented to go to meetings where they are to be chosen and see that the right selections are made there. This is elementary politics. But any attempt to bring about desirable political results in any other way will prove a very short cut to defeat.—[Boston Advertiser.

—Everything is Centennial, red, white and blue, or Star Spangled Banner. "Maria," screams Flora McFlimsley, "hand me down that Centennial pink silk of mine—that with the Revolutionary bias cut on the John Quincy Adams ruffle."

—An obituary notice in a Western paper contained the touching intelligence that the "deceased had accumulated a little money and ten children."

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Cal., May 30.

MESSRS. EDITORS — The oppressively warm weather constantly reminds one that the most celebrated day of this, our Centennial year, is rapidly drawing nigh. In speaking of the subject it reminds me that no steps have been taken as yet by the Bentonites toward having a local celebration on the Fourth of July. It is much to be hoped that some public-spirited towns man, such as W. B. M——, Esq., and others I could name, may take hold and get up something appropriate for the occasion. I assure him that he will have the cordial support and co-operation of the whole community.

GOOD TEMPLARS.

Your correspondent had the good fortune to see the list of names of charter members forwarded from this place to the District Deputy. It was a goodly array of names, with but few exceptions, and I was particularly happy to see the names of C. R. Thompson and Mr. Truman. Brother Thompson has belonged to the order some twelve or fifteen years, and would make a very efficient W. C. T. I would suggest the name of Parson McNaughton as Worthy Chaplain, while Bro. Hank Taylor could not be excelled as W. M. We expect Bro. Jabez Walker to visit our village for the purpose of organizing this lodge on or about June 5. I have it from good authority that he will be accompanied by a delegation of the Order from Bishop Creek.

VENTRILOQUISM.

Notice was received from Prof. Graham that he would be in Benton, and give one of his delightful entertainments to the Benton public, on Saturday evening, June 3. The juveniles of our burgh are wild with pleasurable excitement over this announcement, and "how does he do it?" is the main query among them, and as yet, has received no satisfactory solution.

GRAND JURY.

The report of our Grand Jury is anything but complimentary to a number of our county officials. To say the least, their report exposes a most deplorable and unpardonable neglect of official duties, on the part of most of our county ex-officials. We expect that investigating committees will now be the order of the day in Mono county.

NEW STORE.

The commodious building being erected for Marshall & Co. is nearly completed. W. B. Marshall will be the business manager of the new firm, and will open shortly a new and assorted stock of stationery, confectionery, dry goods, etc. William is a thorough business man, and I am confident that his new establishment will be a business success.

MILLS AND MINES.

Several large loads of machinery have arrived for the Indian Queen mill. This company have found it necessary to increase the working capacity of their mill. They will put in position a new engine and boiler, a new amalgamating pan and four additional stamps to their battery. The Comanche mill has been shut down a few days for much needed repairs, but resumed work last Friday evening. They are running on a rich quality of ore, and I expect will shortly have a good amount of bullion for shipment. Superintendent A. W. Hulse, of the Laura Mining Co., reports favorable progress in tunneling of their claim. Everything will soon be in readiness for the profitable extraction of ore from this mine. The Thompson and Truman mine shows a good quantity and quality of ore. This company is working its ore by the arastra process. Mr. Johnson's mill has commenced operations and doubtless will have a very profitable run. This mill is situated in Piute District, and Mr. Johnson is the fortunate owner of a good ledge of gold ore in this district. Piute is a very promising district.

BLIND SPRING RANCH.

Wm. Wetherill has bought the Blind Spring Ranch from Albert Mack and D. E. Lewis, for the benefit of some of the industrious Piutes of Benton. Some of the Piutes expressed a desire to engage in agricultural pursuits, and Mr. Wetherill, who is always willing to encourage them either by advise or purse, in the cultivation of industrious habits, bought them this property. The price paid was twelve hundred dollars. He has also bought the Half-Way Ranch, between Benton and Aurora.

ARRIVALS AND DEPARTURES.

Mr. Tozier, Superintendent of the General Thomas, of Columbus, was in town last week....Gov. Adams of the Indian Queen, arrived last Thursday....J. C. Mitchell and Prof. Geo. Hunnicutt returned from Bridgeport last week....E. C. Kelty has gone on a business visit to Columbus. A stream of travel is continually passing to and from our camp. Times in Benton are good and money plenty. MINION.

Darwin Mining News.

The Coso News, May 27, gives the following summary of local mining news:

DEFIANCE MINE.

The new developments since last week have been made in the new shaft from second level south, where has been exposed a fine body of hard and soft ore. The shaft has been sunk 25 feet since last report, its total depth now being 90 feet. The drift north from second level is showing fine bodies of ore. This second level drift is to connect with the main shaft north, there being some 200 feet yet to run to make the connection. There are now being extracted from the mine 40 to 45 tons of ore per day, without the aid of hoisting works. These works will be put in operation next Monday, when the developments in the mine will proceed more rapidly. Work in all other portions of the mine is going on as usual.

DEFIANCE FURNACE.

Furnace No. 1 has been running constantly and well during the week. There has been shipped for the week 705 bars; on hand 75 bars. Furnace No. 2 has not yet been started, owing to the non-arrival of the water-jacket, which has been delayed on the road two or three days longer than expected. It arrived yesterday, however, and will be placed in position and started to smelting next Monday morning The greatest care has been observed in the construction of everything connected with No. 2, and there is not a doubt but that she will start off all right and turn out more bullion than any furnace of its size ever constructed.

ROSE SPRINGS.

From Mr. J. K. Maddock owner in and assayer for the Garibaldi Mining Company, whose mines are located in Rose Springs Canyon, we learn that on the

GARIBALDI

the vein has been struck at the bottom of the incline shaft, which is down about 100 feet. The face of the dritt at the point of the crosscutting is in splendid ore which assays $600 per ton. There is no longer any doubt as to the continuity of the ledge, and its width is now shown by the crosscut and evidences on the surface to be 70 feet. Twelve men are employed on this mine in drifting, crosscutting and otherwise developing this wonderful mine. On the situated five miles south from the Garibaldi, a shaft has been commenced at the mouth of the tunnel, and from fair average samples across the vein at the shaft Mr. Maddock obtained by assay, $301 silver. The shaft is down ten feet, the casing being clay and lime, the walls being perfect and giving every evidence of disclosing a true ore vein. The tunnel is run in about thirty feet and cuts what is thought to be the main vein, and this is shown to be 13 feet in width. A drift to the south has been run 100 feet and to the north 50 feet, and the whole work has been through good average milling ore.

COSO CONSOLIDATED.

On the Bella Union the main shaft is down to the third level and crosscutting is in process for the ledge. The Summit shaft is down 50 feet. It has a good ledge and bunches of good ore. This shaft is located 500 feet north of the main shaft, and will connect with the first level drift north. The first level drift north is in 300 feet; the last 100 feet has shown a good ledge and bunches of very good ore. The winze from first to second level is down 40 feet. The winze is located 50 feet north of the ore body developed in the second level. It has been in good ore all the way down.

Yesterday he received an answer from the maternal side of the house informing him that his lamented aunt was afflicted with something of that during her life, but had always found relief in placing a mustard plaster on the sole of each foot and drinking a pint of catnip tea.

—Mrs. Logroller, whose husband is a delegate to a political convention, grins derisively upon reading that delegates have been instructed. "Heap o' good it'll do to instruct old Logroller!" she says, "I've been instructin' the pig-headed old fool for years, and he hasn't any sense yet."

A Wonderful Undertaking.

[From The New York Daily Graphic, May 13.]

Mr. Henry C. Jarrett, of the enterprising theatrical firm of Jarrett & Palmer, managers of Booth's Theatre, is now busily engaged in perfecting a railroad project, the consummation of which will identify the firm name with one of the most memorable enterprises of the Centennial year. The first intimation of the scheme was incredulously received, but now it is apparent to the most skeptical that the idea of reaching San Francisco, 3,317 miles away, in time to dine on Sunday—the train having left New York on the previous Thursday—is soon to be a fact accomplished.

The time usually occupied by the gigantic trip is seven days, but in order to reduce this to the proposed one-half the Jarrett & Palmer train is bound to keep up a maximum rate of speed night and day continuously, and with no stoppages, until the Pacific coast is reached. Relays of engines must be in waiting at frequent stations, and the entire signal force of each road over which the train is to run, aggregating over 6,000 men, will be required for service, by day with flags, and by night with lanterns. Every other train must give this special fast train the right of way.

That no accident may be possible, Mr. Jarrett has given consideration to every suggestion leading to the safety of the passengers, and to this end all the telegraphic stations will be kept open, and pilot engines sent in advance of the approaching special locomotives.

The train will consist of one combination baggage and mail car, one superb day coach, now being built by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company expressly for the trip, and one magnificent Pulman Palace Hotel Car, the mate of which is now on exhibition at the Gentennial Fair. But twenty passengers will be carried, and of these four are invited guests, including Mr. Lawrence Barrett, the tragedian, who is under engagement to Messers. Jarrett & Palmer to appear as the principal in Shakespeare's spectacular tragedy of "Henry V" the night after his arrival in San Francisco; special correspondents of The Paris Constitutionnel; Bull Run Russell, of The London Times; and correspondents of The New York Herald, Tribune, Times, Frank Leslie's Illustrated, and Harper's Weekly.

It is believed that the party will reach Pittsburg in about ten hours, Chicago in twenty hours—where New York papers of the same day's issue will be delivered to agents of the American News Company for distribution—and cross the Mississippi on the evening of the same day they started from New York.

The tickets gotten up by Mr. Jarrett are very unique, the coupons being elegantly engraved leaves of a sterling silver book, the title page of which contains the inscription: "Jarrett & Palmer's Special Fast Train—Continental Train, New York to San Francisco, leaving New York Thursday, June 1, 1876." It is illuminated by a picture representing the train turning the Horse Shoe on the summit of the Alleghanies, near Altoona.

The route adopted is over the Pennsylvania Railroad from Jersey City to Pittsburg to Chicago, over the railway of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Company; from Chicago to Omaha by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway; from Omaha to Ogden, over the Union Pacific Railroad; and from Ogden to San Francisco by the Central Pacific Railroad.

The excitement created by the competing Western agencies in Chicago for the honor of running the train was very great; but, after careful consideration of its advantage, Mr. Jarrett concluded to adopt the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad route. The President, General Superintendent and all subordinates of this great corporation, being pleased by the selection, have since entered enthusiastically into the spirit which animates Jarrett & Palmer. The principal officers will accompany the party over their road to Omaha, and personally direct the special arrangements made for their safety, comfort and expedition.

The day selected for the start is Thursday, June 1, and early enough in the morning to give the passengers a view of the glorious scenery between New York and Chicago. The majestic scenery of the Rocky Mountains will also be viewed by daylight, and the whole trip, it seems, has been organized with the view of making it delightfully exciting.

The Millenium Coming.

A Sacramento paper of a recent date relates the following: "We had never expected to see the lion and the lamb lie down together, but we've come as near to it as any one of the present generation may hope to. Passing through the alley leading from Second to Third streets, between J and K, yesterday, the driver of a grocery wagon yelled to us, "Here something you never saw!" Ever on the alert for the new and strange we stepped over to where the grocer's Jehu had halted, and looked upon a happy family outside of a cage for once. A large tin can, half full of water, had been tilted over against a brick; on that brick sat a large rat drinking from the can, and right beside him, with his head in the same can, squatted a lusty tom-cat unconcernedly drinking from the same recepticle. Open-mouthed wonder kept us still. The cat, having deliberately quenched his thirst, licked his chops, stroked his side, gave a whisk to his tail and trotted slowly off. The rat continued to drink until a convenient brickbat came in his way, when he jumped from his pedestal and scampered off, turning to look back at his prosecutor with a countenance expressive of pure contempt for the individual who would disturb him when even his natural enemy had permitted him to drink in peace."

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

FARMERS

READ AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS. THE MOST IMPORTANT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

Only a Country Weekly.

This is from an exchange, name to us unknown, but one who knew what he was talking about, just the same:

It is only a country weekly! Yes, that is all. But do those who allude to it with an intential sneer ever reflect upon the duties and mission performed by the poor, obscure, country weekly, which is as much, nay, more to its few hundred readers in the country, as is the great metropolitan daily to its thousands of readers in the city? Oh, no; they never think of placing any estimation upon the worth of a country paper; it has none within the narrow limits of their superficial and contracted brains. They will not admit of the utility of any form of a newspaper save one which is crammed full of telegraphic dispatches, giving the minute details of some revolting and nauseating social scandal; the hour at which the chamberlain of the imperial palace at Ispahan put his most serene and mighty highness the Shah to bed; that the savage Gallas of Abysinnia had abjured the tenets of the Coptic faith, and had bowed down in adoration at the shrine of Mecca's prophet; that the poor, unoffending Papuans of the Celebes were being slaughtered by the Dutch invaders from the neighboring isle of Macassar, and so on, in an infinite variety of detail, all of which is read with an avidity that betokens the importance of these things to a city gentleman. But the financial, commercial, agricultural, religious and social condition of the millions of his fellow-citizens residing without the environs of his mighty empire of a few miles in area is a sealed book; he has never opened its pages to inquire within; he knows nothing of it; put him to the test and you will find he knows more about the condition of the Berbers of Northern Africa than he does about the people in the neighboring county. We turn from the contemplation of this human superficiality to the practical and common sense man who wishes to be informed as to the pursuits, condition, and prospects of the people of his own immediate State and county. He finds in the rural paper the information he seeks. The country organ is to him the camera lucida which faithfully portrays all that occurs; it is in a great measure the reflex of the character of the people comprising the country wherein it is published. But what is the interest which even he derives from it, compared to that which is felt and entertained by the country people themselves? It is everything to them. In it is found news which they alone, probably, can appreciate and understand; information regarding their friends and neighbors, the condition of the crops and market quotations which, to the farmer and tradesman in the country is of primary importance; matters of local consideration wherein they are interested, and a hundred and one different things which affect and interest them both privately and publicly. The country organ performs another function which can only be effectually done by it. As a medium for advertising it offers facilities which are unsurpassed. By it the farmer, the laborer, and the mechanic are made acquainted with the goods and wares of the tradesman; they learn where they can purchase what they desire, and at the lowest prices. The country newspaper is to a county what nutricious food is to a convales-cent; it helps to build up and develop all that is good in it. The county that is without one is like a waste plain without elevation, from which a person desiring to examine the surroundings can make no observation.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 25.

MESSRS. EDITORS—A low estimate, made by our private statistician, shows that there are one million young men born in the United States who will for the first time, have the opportunity to vote for a President this year. We very often hear and particularly among the wealthier people, the privilege of voting decried and belittled. Many of them do not pretend to exercise it and rail against the abuses which they say it gives rise to. The writer of this was some years ago talking to an old friend in New Orleans. This friend was the proprietor of one of the largest hardware establishments in that city, and was complaining about "the high taxation, stealing and oppression," that the rulers of the city were guilty of. The election was near at hand and the registration closed that day. I asked, "have you registered?" "Me, no," was the answer, "I have not time." "Have your employees registered?" "No." "How many have you?" "Over forty." "Would they vote for candidates opposed to this high taxation, stealing and oppression of which you complain?" "Yes." "Then why not close your store, take your forty clerks and porters, go to the proper place and register and on election day see that they all go and vote?" "Oh, I can't do that, some of my customers might want to buy something." Just then the lecture delivered by Saxon commenced. He told this man, "you are a gentleman of wealth and culture, you have large monetary interests in this city and a great stake in its good government, you could legitimately influence forty votes in your own house in favor of that kind of government, by talking to your neighbors and friends you could influence many others similarly situated to yourself to take an active interest in political affairs and secure your city from men whom you call a band of thieves, and yet you deliberately refuse to take any part in elections. The truth is your taxes instead of being five per cent. as you say they are, ought to be made fifty per cent. so that your property would be taken from you and given to men who will take an interest in seeing that honest and competent men are selected to fill all official positions." This is what Saxon said to his friend years ago, and much of it applies to this one million of young men who this year have the high privilege of voting for the first time for a President of the United States. Your duties as citizens are of the highest order. Many men have classed them next to your duties to your God, and before those to your family, and they certainly rank with the latter. Even from a selfish stand point you are required to take an active part in politics. Good laws honestly administered help you no matter whether you are rich or poor, a courted darling of the upper ten, a mechanic, or a laborer. Every class of society is benefited by good government, so that even for selfish reasons you should use every effort to secure it. Then you are protected in life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, by the government. Think you that dishonest or incompetent men can do this work. Again remember that this year has peculiar claims upon you. One hundred years ago, your sires were fighting to obtain liberty. They accomplished their purpose and transmitted the country and the price for which they had battled to you. Will you by carelessness or neglect suffer the bright jewel to be dimmed or lost perhaps? I hope not. I hope to see all these young men—this million of maiden voters, actively engaged in selecting the proper men for officials, and then more actively engaged in endeavoring to elect them. The time taken from your business or your pleasures, for this purpose is not lost. The one will be enjoyed with greater zest when you return to it, and the other rendered more profitable by the certainty of good laws, well administered. Let the young men pay not the slightest attention to the grumblers who say that "its no use to dabble in politics," but let them go right in with a vim and the result will be that each of the political parties will put good men in nomination and the success of either will not endanger the country. The instincts of the young are very trustworthy in selecting honest men.

SAXON.

Tilton Drunk.

The Cleveland Leader charges distinctly that during his lecture at Wellington Ohio, recently, Tilton was irresponsibly drunk on the platform and at his hotel. A similiar report comes from Meadville, Pa., and from other places. In several instances he is said to have insulted his audience and engaged in noisy dispute with individual auditors.

—Rowell's Newspaper Reporter says there were sixty thousand newspapers on hand in the newspaper pavilion on the opening day of the Centennial Exposition.

—A Milwaukee man went to a meeting in London one evening, and when the cockneys said "'ear, 'ear," he took it for a personal allusion, and got out.

—Any excuse better than none. A toper says he would be a temperance man in a minute if it wasn't for his wife. He knows she'd be lonesome if she didn't have something to jaw about and find fault with.

The Land Commission.

[From The S. F. Chronicle, June 1.]

There is a general satisfaction over the appointment, by the Governor, of the Land Fraud Commission H. F. Crane is an old time Republican, and has had considerable experience in State land matters. He began the practice of law here in 1866. James D. Fay is also a lawyer and well versed in land matters. He has served five terms in the Oregon Legislature, and was defeated for United States Senator by Kelly by three votes. John C Ball of Woodland, was formerly District Attorney of Yolo county and is the man who lobbied through the bill creating the Seventh Judicial District, though his aspiration for a seat on the bench was defeated, as he failed to get Yolo county included.

The law requires the commission to meet and organize within thirty days. If they have any idea of the work to be done, they will lose no time in getting to work. First of all, a full and complete examination should be made into the affairs of the State Land Office during the last twelve years. Enough rottenness was revealed to put at least one Surveyor General inside of prison walls, and to warrant the belief that the two former administrations were little better. In fact, the trembling attitude of Gardner, Bost and Houghton, and their persistent efforts to defeat the objects of the bill, are akin to proof of guilt.

The condition of the swamp lands of the State is no better than that of the indemnity lands. When the State inaugurated the policy of giving away all her swamp lands, she merely opened the door for a series of the most outrageous frauds, and the number of outstanding swamp land warrants to-day is more than double the actual amount of swamp land within the boundaries of the State. Swamp land locations have been made where there was no appearance of overflow, as in the Sierra swamp land district, where a large tract, embracing many thousands of acres, was gobbled up, and ceded by the United States to the State, and by it to the speculators. The law provided that the applicants for swamp lands should pay in $1 an acre, and when the reclamation was completed the State should issue a warrant for the same amount. In many cases these warrants have been issued in excess of the amount paid in, and before a stroke of work had been done. Some of these speculators have never done any reclaiming nor do they intend to. This Commission have time and means at their command to make a full and thorough expose, and if they do their duty there will be more than one set of fingers pinched.

BLAINE.

The all absorbing question in political circles East is the Blaine investigation. He has been pelted with mud most unmercifully, but, until now he has shaken off every "dab," showing each time all the cleaner, his Presidential aspirations gaining new lustre every time. But now comes a dose of mud some, if not the whole, of which is likely to stick. This was his feverish efforts to obtain possession of certain letters he had written in former times to a man named Fisher, the said letters having by some hocus pocus come into the hands of a confidential clerk of those times named Mulligan. Blaine did after a while get hold of the letters, and acting by the advice of his lawyers' Mat. Carpenter and Jerry Black, declines to submit them to the Committee, claiming that with one exception, and that susceptible of favorable explanation, that they do not in any manner touch upon the matter at issue, but relate solely to his own private affairs in other matters, and that therefore, he will not give them up. The result is the worst possible significance is attached to these letters and his anxiety about them. In consequence of all this Blaine has fallen from his recent high estate. There does not appear to be but one hope for him, and that is for him to submit his alleged private business to publication, that all may know he has been most unjustly maligned or that he, too, is a public liar and fraud. In truth, for the sake of American statesmanship if not for his own we hope such publication will vindicate him triumphantly. The chances, however, are against that hope. In all save the cause of his alleged misdoings, Blaine's case stands before the public just as did Beecher's. This new turn of the cards occasions a very marked change upon the Cincinnati Presidential slate. The "Great Unknown," of whom Blaine said he was alone afraid of, seems to have become known, as far as he is concerned, and is only some private letters, after all.

A Worthy Judge.

In the Police Court at San Francisco, the other day, a man was fined $120, with the alternative of sixty days in jail, for stoning a Chinaman in the streets. The young "gentleman" pleaded guilty to the offense, evidently thinking that, as his victim was a Chinaman, he would escape with merely nominal punishment. Judge Louderback, however, seems to be impressed with the notion that his Court is the guardian of heathen as well as Christians, and he raised the value of these stones far above their ordinary market price.

"That Banner a Hundred Years Old."

F. W. Helmick, of 278 Sixth street, Cincinnati, favors us with the words and music of the new song and chorus bearing the above title. It is altogether the best Centennial song yet produced and is destined to have an immense run. Any one enclosing 50 cents to the above address will get not only this fine song but also five beautiful photographs of Centennial views at Philadelphia These pictures we have seen and consider them well worth that sum.

Tom Scott.

Tom Scott and his friends, failing to get Congressional aid, have put up $1,500,000 cash, and were to make it $2,000,000, and are contracting for steel and iron rails to build 120 miles of the Texas Pacific Railroad west of Fort Worth. The road is to be completed thus far in August. It is understood they will push the road west as fast as possible, lest the Southern Pacific get all the land grant. Contracts for all the work are to be let immediately.

What an Exchange Says.

Peter Cooper (86) has accepted the nomination of the "Hoodlum Hoosiers" for President. Now let the Democrats put forward Bill Allen (99), and the Republicans Simon Cameron (106, counting his villainy,) and we will have a high old President in any event.

The Eureka Sentinel.

On the 1st instant The Eureka Sentinel began its eleventh volume as a daily, and with good hopes and prospects ahead. The Sentinel is one of the fairest and ablest dailies of our acquaintance and has our warmest wishes for its prosperity.

—The police and firemen of Chicago have not been paid for three months, and they were never so well behaved and efficient in their service as now.

THE NEW APPOINTMENTS.

The changes in the Cabinet caused by making Pierrepont Minister to England, and E. F. Beale's appointment as Minister to Austria, have afforded texts for many newspaper articles. In the Cabinet, Judge Taft succeeds Pierrepont as Attorney General and Donald Cameron (son of Simon) succeeds Taft as Secretary of War. Pierrepont and Taft are spoken of as first rate men for their respective places; the other two appointments are generally condemned in the strongest terms, even by many staunch Republican papers. Simon's son, it is claimed, was appointed not because of any suitable qualifications or merits of his own, but simply because he was the son of his father, who is considered the most unmitigated old political villain of the age—and that is saying a great deal. Donald's preferment, it is asserted, was with the view of shaping the Presidential nomination. There is nothing that we have seen adduced by any of these papers to sustain that view. Apparently the only possible political influence it could have would be one adverse to the candidate Grant is supposed to favor. The chances are, reasons of that kind had no more to do with the younger Cameron's appointment to the same position in which his father stole himself rich at the beginning of the war, than it did in Beale's case. This last is our "General" Beale of Fort Tejon—ex-Indian Agent, ex-Surveyor-General and one of California's most extensive and successful land thieves. In view of Beale's well known record in these respects, and that of Donald's father in a somewhat similar line of successes, by which the son may be supposed to have learned a thing or two, it is not surprising people now days should think they begin to have a pretty fair idea what special qualifications are best to secure a high office.

The Green Case.

The Kern County Gazette has devoted several columns to a sort of a biography of Ellery Green, the young man whose recent trial for cattle stealing, as conducted by Judge Colby has been the occasion of considerable remark not complimentary to his Honor. The Gazette shows that Green was a regular cattle thief of the most aggravating kind. That no undue haste or unusually arbitrary rulings characterized the trial. That the Judge granted several postponements at demand of defendant, amounting in all to sixty-nine days from the date of the indictment, and that the prisoner was not immediately bundled off to the State Prison by order of the Judge. It further shows that Green was the nephew of Julius Chester of The Californian, hence the animus of that paper's strictures upon Colby. The Gazette will also submit a synopsis of the evidence, showing it to be amply sufficient to justify the verdict of guilty and sentence to one year in the penitentiary.

To Vote.

In about a month the people of Colorado are to vote upon the adoption of its State Constitution, upon the adoption of which she becomes a full fledged State. The result of the election is somewhat doubtful, it being said that the clause against the division of school money is sufficiently obnoxious to Catholics as to be likely to provoke a vigorous and possibly successful opposition. The Bishop has threatened such opposition. If such is the fact we hope the vote will give such bigotry a slap in the face that will keep it quiet for all time in these United States.

Visalia Court House.

The following bids were opened at Visalia, June 4th, for the erection of a new Court House according to plans of A. A. Bennett, architect: J. C. Sullivan & Co., Sacramento, $74,846; Carle & Croly, Sacramento, $74,491; M. C. Smith, San Francisco, $74,715; Hall & Kelly, San Francisco, $72,800; Powers & Ough, Oakland, $73,432; J. C. Byers, Visalia, $71,877; Albert Washburn, Stockton, $68,772; A. Wisher & Co., Visalia, $63,944; A. L. Stevens & Co, Santa Rosa, $59,700. Each bid was accompanied by a certified check to the amount of $2,000.

Quebec Nearly Destroyed.

A fire broke out in Quebec on the 30th of May which raged for many hours, causing immense destruction. Over 700 houses were burned. In money value the loss will exceed $1,000,000. A very high wind prevailed at the time. The fire was caused by children playing with matches; several children were burned up.

Falls Again.

The second mustang race of Parker, in New York, was a failure. He rode 216 miles, when he was overcome by blindness. The Mexican Peralta immediately jumped into the saddle and undertook to ride forty miles in two hours. He accomplished the feat in fine style, having 16½ minutes to spare.

AID AND COMFORT FOR IMMIGRANTS.

The Chronicle has repeatedly called attention to the necessity of taking measures to foster the large immigration from the East that is now steadily pouring into California, and has persistently urged the policy of establishing some institution which will afford the new comers such information and advice as they will naturally stand in need of on their arrival in a strange land. It appears that an effort is now being made to raise funds for the Granger's Emigrant Bureau, on the ground that said Bureau will undertake to carry on this work. If any difficulty is experienced in obtaining subscriptions it will not be in consequence of any lack of sympathy on the part of our citizens with the ostensible object in view. But it is a fact not to be disguised that a good deal of distrust and dissatisfaction exists in regard to the past administration of the affairs of the Bureau. There are many citizens who would contribute with more alacrity if they felt a stronger assurance than they do that the moneys thus far collected have been wisely and judiciously disbursed for the purposes contemplated by the State Grange in establishing the Bureau. The truth is, Mr. Earl, who manages the affairs of the Bureau, does not enjoy the entire confidence of this community. There are reports in circulation in regard to his conduct and career in Inyo county in connection with the Land Office which are of a character to leave the impression that he is not precisely the kind of a man to be placed at the head of such an institution. Whether these reports are well or ill-founded they are of a nature to impair his usefulness in the position he occupies and to prevent the Bureau from receiving that measure of support, which, if honestly and intelligently administered, it would amply merit.

The foregoing is from The San Francisco Chronicle, June 2. In the same is a recapitulation of the virtues of that other distinguished ex-Register, G. H. McCallum. Strangely enough The Chronicle does not associate the two worthies in the same article at all However, that paper probably did not know how many traits the two had in common, what gigantic steals and thieving schemes they hoped to work out together, how like Damon and that other fellow they were, so far as the same aspirations could make them so, and distance and the uncertainty of the mails would permit. It is no matter though, and except in one point of comparison, we shall, in the few words we add this time, confine our remarks to Josiah alone.

We have in times past expressed our surprise that the State Grange should retain Josiah Earl in the responsible position he holds, that body thereby becoming his endorsers. Not a member of it but knows enough about him before this to satisfy any ordinary man their Manager is not a person to invite public confidence such as the needs and objects of the Bureau demand. He was at one time repudiated by the Grangers, and it may be has never been reinstated except so far as he himself makes it so appear by his surpassing cheek in advertising his as the only Granger Bureau, and by virtue of the same asking contributions for its support. If he is sailing under false colors, as is probable, it is incumbent upon the State Grange to take as much pains to deny his claims as he does to set them up. If they do not they will be held morally responsible for his acts, even to the extent of being the willing agents as he is the paid agent of the worst land sharks and other thieving monopolists on the coast. As such he has been recognized by those who know him best. Those who would otherwise have taken some trouble to have shown him up in his true character, have, in consideration of the above fact and the following, thought it scarcely worth while to interpose an objection. Though consideredly perfectly unscrupulous and untrustworthy in many respects, it was thought he would devote his talents chiefly to cinching the land pirates whose agent he is, rather than to rob at least the poorer class of immigrants. So long as he made his money out of the pirates either as a bonus for finding renters for their ill-gotten lands or by any other means it was of no public importance. Unlike his protege, McCallum, he is not a man to steal small sums from poor immigrants as fees or otherwise, anyway without rendering some service in return. In fact he will do the needy a kind turn now and then without hope of pay, and but for the principles he seems to have imbibed during early youth leading him to believe it was better to accomplish his ends by trickery instead of by honest means—but for this trait and great error of his life Josiah Earl would have been a most useful, not to say valuable member of society, and the right man in the right place in the position he now holds. But unfortunately for society, for the Emigrant Bureau, for the contributors to the same, and for himself, by reason of that error of his life as manifested in scores of instances we shall name if circumstances demand, he is not the right man in the right place, and is not the man to handle Centennial, Emigrant Bureau, or any other public fund not conditioned to the most exact accountability.

Moving On.

According to previous announcement passenger trains began to run to a point fifteen miles this side of Caliente, on Monday of last week. We suppose that now becomes the terminus of our line of southern stages as well as of the Los Angeles line.

THE LIGHTNING TRAIN.

The greatest railroad feat the world has yet witnessed has just been accomplished through the energy of Jarrett & Palmer, who adopted this means of giving a world-wide notoriety to their theatrical company. The train ran the 3,317 miles between New York and San Francisco in just 83 hours, 59 minutes and 16 seconds, being a few seconds less than the time in which it was proposed to make the trip. The average rate of speed from first to last was 40 miles an hour, though at times they flew along at the rate of a mile a minute or more for stretches of an hour or so. This has often been beaten on short roads, but for such a distance it has never been approached, nor cannot be for the reason that such another long race track does not exist. Both the Pacific and the Eastern roads over which the train was run made the most extraordinary exertions to "clear the track and send her through," and succeeded most admirably, and without an accident or scarce a hot box.

Those Arrant Humbugs.

Judge Hilton, the confidential adviser and friend of the late A. T. Stewart, has received about eight thousand begging letters since the death of the great merchant, and Mrs. Stewart has received about half that number. The writers of many of these letters claim distant relationship with the dead millionaire, and modestly ask that a portion of his vast estate be divided amongst them. It is a significant fact that the most persistent and unblushing of these demands comes from professed spiritualists, who impudently forward with their letters pretended communications from the other world signed "A. T. Stewart." These communications order money payments to be made to the applicants, and express regret that their claims were not earlier recognized. If forging a dead man's signature is ever punishable by law, the writer of every letter of this class ought to be speedily consigned to the penitentiary. Spirtualism certainly has enough to answer for without making it responsible for such a system of attempted robbery as that described.

Conundrum.

We note that of late numerous country editors are on their travels, going upon trips which take lots of money, considered from a printer's standpoint—not a merchant's or lawyer's or such, as they don't think a thousand or so any money to speak of Among the last to go anywheres is Skillman, of The White Pine News. So far as our knowledge of the subject extends it is the hardest kind of work for an editor man to get money enough to stay at home, hence the conundrum: How did these chaps make the necessary raise to go such expensive trips?

General News Items.

The lightning train to Virginia City has proved such a success that another is contemplated down the San Joaquin Valley from San Francisco. If started, it will leave San Francisco at 8 P. M., (sleeping car attached) and reach Bakersfield in the morning and Los Angeles in the evening of the next day.

The Board of Health, of San Francisco, on the 3d, appointed twenty physicians to vaccinate, free of charge, all persons who present themselves for that purpose. Small pox is said to be abating in that city somewhat.

Mining at Darwin.

We make the following extracts from the very complete local mining summary of The Coso News, June 3d.

DEFIANCE MINE.

Since last report the shaft from second level south has been sunk 20 feet, making a total depth of 110 feet, and is in first-class ore for the whole depth. The drift north in second level has been extended 20 feet through fine ore, and the ore vein constantly improving. In the main tunnel, 360 feet from its mouth, a splendid body of ore has been encountered in what is denominated the third vein. In the crosscut running north to tap the second ledge from main tunnel ore has been encountered, the extent of which cannot be determined, although it is looking nicely. All other parts of the mine are looking well and the product of ore is rapidly increasing, 50 tons being extracted daily. The hoisting works were put in operation last Tuesday, and for new works are operating very well. A few simple changes are necessary to make them perfect. At the risk of being called an enthusiast we will predict that one or two more furnaces will be required in a very short time to reduce the ore that can be extracted from this mine.

DEFIANCE FURNACES.

We are gratified in being able to record in this issue of our paper that furnace No. 2 was started up last Thursday evening and under the most favorable auspices for a successful and extended run. At about 8 o'clock the shrieking of the Defiance whistle announced to the people that something a little out of the ordinary had taken place. Many supposed that it was an alarm for fire, and so it was for the furnace had fired up. Nearly the whole town, men, women and children, turned out to "see 'er go." The sight produced by the blue flames and gas, which was allowed to escape from the bottom of the furnace until the slag should settle, was beautiful indeed and gave to the countenances of the many spectators a weird appearance supposed to be continually worn by those inhabiting the infernal regions.

ON THE MODOC.

Sunset, Up-and Up cut, East Lookout, and South Modoc, no work is being done, the tools being used on the road, but a large quantity of ore is piled on the dumps, and also large quantities in sight that can be easily taken down. There are now on the different dumps mentioned over two thousand tons of first-class ore, which has been taken from different tunnels, winzes, and levels, but no stoping has yet been done. The company propose to put up furnaces immediately, Mr. J. C Brown late Superintendent of the K. K. Consolidated, being here to superintend the furnace work. Mr. S. McMasters is also here in the interests of the company, and with such competent men as the two latter to erect and manage their works, and so efficient and capable a Superintendent as Mr. C. J. Barber, the Modoc Consolidated Mining Company will soon take rank among the largest and most wealthy mining companies of the Pacific Coast. Even at this early stage in the opening of their mines the County Assessor, after a careful examination of their property, has assessed them in the sum of $200,000.

The Blue and the Gray.

Virginia City dates of May 30 say: Memorial Day is well observed. The procession is now at the cemetery decorating the graves. It consisted of Gen. Batterman and staff, four companies of infantry, a platoon of artillery, Mexican Veterans, the fire brigade and ex-soldiers of the Federal and Confederate armies walking side by side and without distinction, in long columns of fours. Several hundred children from the public schools bearing flags and boquets, and a number of carriages were also in the procession.

Judge Harris' Appointment Confirmed.

Judge C. N. Harris has been confirmed by the United States Senate as Register of the U. S. Land Office at Carson. The appointment is a good one, and will meet with the approbation of nine-tenths of the people of Western Nevada. We beg leave to tender the Judge our sincere congratulations.—[Carson Tribune.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Another Instance in Point.

A little over a year ago Mike Bishop, an Indian residing at Bishop Creek, made application at this Land Office to pre-emp- 80 acres of land. V. A. Gregg, Esq., to- gether with a member of this office, interested themselves sufficiently to make out the proper papers and present the application. Register McCallum refused to accept the filing. In this, however, he was sustained by the Commissioner to whom the parties referred to submitted the case. In March of that year the Indian Homestead Act was approved. Mike made another application under that act. This time McCallum accepted it so far as to take $20 fees ($4 more than he had any right to) telling Mike to go back to Bishop Creek and forward the necessary proofs, (which, as in the previous instance, he could have obtained here). Mike did so, and thought it was all right till a few days since he came to inquire about his receipt. He was then made acquainted with the fact that our high-toned thief had pocketed the money, and that no filing had been made. This put Mike to the necessity of another 90 miles ride, to obtain the amount of fees, and to renew his application, making the third time.

On Fit.

It is rumored, and we believe upon good foundation, that a sort of a special organization from this place is to make a feature in the Centennial operations at Lone Pine on the Fourth. We are not fully advised as to the title or aims of the organization, except that the latter is to be "way up." As to the name we guess it will be something like the "Rowdy Roosters," "Horribly Grotesques," "Falstaffian Bummers," "Furnance Order Brigadiers," or someteing else, we don't know what. We will state for the information of the Grand Marshal, and the committee that these high toned Brigadiers do not ask a place in the regular procession or any other special provisions, it being understood they claim to be fully able to take care of themselves. The programme, per posters, will be announced next week.

From Dr. White.

Through a private letter received a few days since from Dr. White, U. S. A., we learn that he and his family arrived safe and sound at the barracks, Columbus, Ohio, in nine days from this place—which was remarkably good time. He says: "We miss the dry, bracing air and clear skies of Inyo; it rains too easy here." He further states: "Our garrison is equivalent to a regiment, and is commanded by Col. Mason of the 21st Infantry, an officer who made a fine record for himself during the late war. The Post is a large and handsome one." The doctor adds that he had not yet met Major Egbert, but was sorry to learn of his continued ill-health. Col. Devon, in Wyoming Territory, expressed his continued attachment to the people and climate of Inyo.

Departures.

Some two weeks since, the wife and family of our worthy Under Sheriff, S. G. Gregg, departed for a somewhat protracted visit to the Eastern States. This week Mrs. V. G. Thompson, of the Blaney House, started for a Summer's vacation and a visit to her daughter at school in Oakland, and on the same day by private conveyance to Caliente, Mrs. Nathan Rhine and family, who propose to reside for an indefinite period at San Francisco, all for the sake of educational privileges which can not be had here. With them also went David Regensberger who, we believe, bids this section a final adieu. John Shepherd has gone to Oakland to return with his family where, on account of schools, they have resided for the past year.

The Lecture.

Rev. Jabez Walker will deliver a temperance lecture at the school house in this place on Sunday and Monday evenings next, and will have something to say worth the attention of every man, woman and child in the town. As announced heretofore he then goes to Lone Pine, thence to Darwin, giving a lecture in each place. He started Monday last, accompanied by a strong delegation from Honor (Military) Lodge, to go as far north as Benton. The Grand Worthy Chief is a most earnest temperance man, so earnest that, as he says himself, he may be called radical, but radical or otherwise he is a worthy man, and an honest worker for the good of others.

Log Spring Bullion.

One shipment (the first) consisting of 140 bars of base bullion from Broder & Moffat's furnace at Log Springs, gives the following returns: Weight, 12,570 pounds; cash value above all freight charges, $2,801 83, being an average net value of $20 per bar or $480 28 per ton, less freighting charges, which, approximately would give the aver- value of this bullion at about $530 per ton; considerably higher than that from any other furnace we know of on the coast.

Why Not?

The Piutes of Virginia City and vicinity have asked to be assigned a place in the procession on the Fourth in that city. We do not know whether their request will be granted or not, but presume it will be. Now, what objection could be raised to giving our Piutes a place in our procession that day? We submit the matter to the Committee of Arrangements.

By the Fast Train.

Thursday morning V. A. Gregg, Esq., received a letter from Mrs. G., postmarked Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, June 1st. This shows that this letter traveled half the continent, two hundred miles of it by stage, in the remarkable short time of seven days. Stamped on the letter was "Per Jarret & Palmer's Fast Train," which accounts for it.

The Artesian.

On account of having telescoped the tubing, as we have heretofore mentioned, Dodge & Passmore thought best to abandon their first artesian boring at Lone Pine, and commence another, which at last accounts, was progressing finely, being down seventy feet.

With a Looseness.

On Thursday the wind turned itself loose with rather a disastrous looseness as regards young fruit, much of which was blown off the trees. It likewise swept streets and dirty door yards as if by a hundred Mahala power.

Bullion Shipment.

Connelly & Mairs' team left here yesterday, loaded with 203 bars of bullion, from Broder & Moffatt's furnace, and at the same time another team took 120 more.

Notary for Cerro Gordo.

Gov. Irwin has just appointed Benjamin Russell Notary Public, to reside at Cerro Gordo. Mr. Russell is bookkeeper for the Union Smelting Co., and a very worthy young man.

Lone Pine School Report.

LONE PINE, June 5.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Following is the school report for the term commencing September 13, 1875, and ending May 31, 1876:

No. of months taught, 8¼; No. of days, 165; No. of days attendance, 3,960; No. of girls enrolled during the term, 25; No. of boys, 25; average daily attendance, 24; average daily absence, 3; percentage of attendance on average No. belonging, 90. No. of visits made by County Superintendent, 1; No. of visits made by School Trustees, 7.

Parents were so slack in sending their children early for morning exercises that I withhold the amount of tardiness. A great many seem to think that the first thirty or fifty minutes in the morning don't amount to much, but experience teaches me that one hour in the morning is worth two in the evening for study.

ROLL OF HONOR.

Following is the complimentary Star Roll of Honor, over 90 per cent.:

Zelia Meysan,	Mary Meysan,
Minnie Lasky,	Rosa Tynan.

BETWEEN 65 AND 85 PER CENT.

Annie Adams,	Mamie Ball,
Lillie Holland,	Emma Holland,
Felix Meysan,	Joe Rock,
Bennio Lasky,	Chris Carasco,
Sam'l Lasky,	Joseph Carrasco,
Chas. Hamilton,	Hi. Hamilton,
Cora Moody,	Lulu Moody.

A great many names do not appear in our Roll of Honor on occount of tardiness, which I hope parents will prevent hereafter. Our motto is, send your children to school early and regular or not at all.

Idaho Panamint Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—J. G. Riley, Benj. F. Scott, Morris Rosenberg, Robert J. Mercer; capital stock, $5,000,000; number of shares, 50,000. New Coso Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—L. L. Robinson, J. W. Gashwiler, H. T. Templeton, E. M. Fry, Geo. D. Roberts; capital stock, $10,000,000; number of shares, 100,000. The Hibernia Savings & Loan Society, of San Francisco, also file a copy of their articles of incorporation.

A Despicable Act.

Some contemptible wretch poisoned little "Fly," a harmless dog and a universal favorite on account of its beauty and brightness, belonging to Mrs. Harris, wife of the editor of The Coso News, at Darwin. It seems to have been a work of pure, cowardly spite, and for that reason we allude to it. No newspaper man, however well disposed to "do unto others as he would be done by," can perform his whole duty or any reasonable part of it "without treading on some very prominent corns," as The News expresses it, and of course must now and then become the object of some bitter animosities. That is to be expected, and borne as any other inevitable little misfortune. But when for such cause some two legged cur resorts to such cowardly, cruel and ineffably mean method of "getting even" as in this instance, it arouses a degree of indignation far beyond anything an open, manly enemy could do. It rarely happens that a dog poisoner is by nature anything better than a murderer at heart, and would commit murder if not a vindictive, constitutional, sneaking coward. The News animadverts at length upon the occurrence, and offers $50 reward for evidence to convict the poisoner, or half that sum for good presumptive proof as to the guilty party.

Thinks Well of It.

Mr. J. L. Porter, of Cerro Gordo, paid a visit last week to Broder & Moffat's furnace at Log Springs. He says that in his judgment the only thing required to make the smelting of those ores as perfectly successful as any other in the county is just such knowledge of combinations—to be soon gained by experience—as is requisite for every locality, each one requiring a process somewhat special to itself. Until this is gained furnaces must bank now and then and occasion expensive delays. In short, Mr. Porter thinks no fears need be entertained as to a permanent success at Sylvania. There is abundance of good smelting ore, hard galena only being somewhat deficient in the Uncle Sam, but abundant in the district. His judgment may be relied upon. At last accounts the furnace was running steadily, though of course not turning out bars as rapidly as in low grade bullion.

In Working Order.

The preparations for the celebration at Lone Pine are now fairly established and in excellent shape. The order of exercises will be found elsewhere in this issue. The prospects are firstrate for even a greater and more satisfactory seccess in every essential than was at first hoped for. The race track is in the best possible condition, and that supplemental part of the celebration is likely to be eminently satisfactory to all those specially interested, the losers excepted of course. Aside from the formal ceremonies on the Fourth there is going to be some others that are certain to promote the general enjoyment a little beyond anything yet witnessed in this county.

The Courts.

We understand Judge Hannah will fix the term for the meeting of the next Grand Jury for Friday, July 7, instead of on the preceding Monday when the term commences. The reason for the postponement is good and sufficiently obvious, since the Fourth comes on Tuesday. As yet we hear nothing about the adjourned term of the District court, at which, it was said a new Judge would preside.

Notice of the "Roosters"

Ye antiquated order of "Rowdy Roosters" are anxious to hold, in solemn conclave, a council of war. Their actions are mysterious, and the members, only, are expected to read the notice in this week's issue.

For a Trip.

Jos. Fernbach starts to-day for a six-months' visit in the East, which includes the little show at Philadelphia of course.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Cal., June 5.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—If a lively saloon business is a safe criterion to judge of the prosperity of a town, then Benton is extremely prosperous. 'Tis blue Monday, and our village is crowded with the boys from the hills, who are bent upon having a glorious time through and by the exhilirating effects of Benton crockedness—upon some of them it has has had a sinistrorsal influence—muddled heads, crooked tongues and tangled legs, but as the social' etc., is the only pleasure Benton affords' the boys are not to be censured too severely.

FREE DINNER.

Albert Mack gave a farewell dinner yesterday to the residents of Benton. Mr. Julius Partz presided and gave a very faithful history of Benton from its earliest settlement to the present time. In course of his remarks he but expressed the unanimous sentiment of our community, that the present prosperty of Benton was mainly due to the energy, enterprise and business sagacity of Mr. Albert Mack. Toasts were then offered by John Lewis and others, and were modestly responded to by the host. Mr. Mack leaves in a few days for Philadelphia, but it is believed he intends returning and permanently locating in Benton within a year. We wish him a pleasant trip and safe return.

EXCITEMENT.

A few of our prominent citizens are excited over a new mining discovery, it having been reported that a gold lead was found about seven miles from town in a southwesterly direction. The lead is reported to be about 27 feet in width; the rock has every appearance of being quartz. Placer gold has frequently been found in the same neighborhood, but not in paying quantities.

JUSTICE COURT.

Two men were up for a hearing before his Honor Judge Cross, on a complaint of disturbing the peace by engaging in fisticuffs. It appearing from the evidence that one of them was acting in self-defense, his Honor discharged the aforesaid one and and fined the other.

MINING NEWS.

The Comanche mine is doing well—producing quite a showing of splendid ore, and keeps the ten-stamp mill running constantly night and day. There has been a change in the foremanship of this mine—Mr. Murphy having been appointed vice Jones. Mr. Owen Farrell has been appointed foreman of the Kerrick mine, belonging to the same company. The Diana mill resumed operations to-day, and the mine is turning out a very fair quality of ore.

A PROSY FACT.

When your correspondent was on a visit to Bishop Creek he met an old acquaintance who informed him that he, S. H———, was visiting a friend, and during his stay he picked up a copy of THE INDEPENDENT and found in it just what he needed in the advertisement of Gilmore & Co. It appears that he was negotiating for some money to pay for a parcel of government land on which he had settled. He was an old veteran of the Mexican war, and this advertisement informed him that he was entitled to a land warrant; and this subsequently was the means of securing him a homestead—Gilmore & Co. having promptly attended to his case. If he don't subscribe for THE INDEPENDENT now, he must indeed be a mean man.

ON THE FLY.

Ex-Sheriff Welch and Jesse Somers are here on a business visit....Frank Hutchison and John Givens were here, but have returned to Bishop....Albert Mack has has gone on a visit to the Atlantic States and from thence will go to Europe. He shipped several tons of Kerrick ore to Germany....Doc. Griswold has returned from the Legislature, looking much better than he did when he left Mono.

Hoping to be able to forward you a full and favorable report of the new gold discovery next week, I remain

MINION.

A CARD.

Before leaving Independence I desire to return my heartfelt thanks to my many friends of this county—not only for the kindness and courtesy extended during a residence of five years among them, but more especially for the very flattering "farewell party" given on the evening of July 1. I leave for the sole purpose of enabling my children to receive more advantages than the present school facilities of this county can furnish, but still hope tnat at no very distant future to be able to return again to live amidst my Inyo friends with whom I so regretfully part.

MRS. NATHAN RHINE.

Independence, June 6.

School Meeting.

On Saturday, between the hours of 10½ A. M. and 12 M. of June 24, an election will be held at the District school house in Independence, for the purpose of electing School Trustees for this District. We trust good men and those who will take an interest in proviing good schools will be chosen. To this end let parents, who have the most interest at stake, turn out and shake off some of their ruinous lethargy.

Panamint.

From Judge Murphy, who arrived here from Panamint on the 1st, we glean the following items of news: The Surprise Valley Company has sent orders to Capt. Messic, Superintendent, to sink on the Hemlock and Wyoming mines and urge the work with all dispatch. Heretofore very little prospecting had been done on these mines, all the force employed being engaged in taking out ore in the upper levels, and when these were exhausted the mill was compelled to shut down. But under the new programme of the company, work is being prosecuted in sinking, with very flattering results.

Mr. Jacobs is running his five stamp mill on ore furnished by chloriders. He says he has ore enough on hand and at several mines to run the mill for three months to come. Nearly all the flourishing mining camps of Nevada such as Comstock, Pioche and others were at one time nearly abandoned, but perseverance and energy proved that true fissure veins never gave out. And if true fissure veins exist anywhere we believe they exist at Panamint.—[Coso News, June 3.

Darwin Brass Band.

The News of the 3d says: This organization, under the leadership of Mr. Henry Sharp, is making commendable progress, and as the band is practicing only such airs as will be appropriate for the Fourth of July we may expect very fair music on that day.

—The Hell Gate mine will be exploded in July or August. Those in charge of the work apprehend more danger from the surging of water than from the shock at the time the rock is shattered. The work at Flood Rock is carried on day and night.

Indian Atrocities.

Omaha papers of May 31 contain the intelligence that a citizen of that place, just arrived from Custer, says that on the night of the 18th that place was attacked by Indians, who burned the ammunition house in the central part of the town; this, when it blew up, destroyed several of the party, which numbered ninety six. They left at daylight the next morning. They burned John Schenck, of Yankton, who had been shot eight times, at Buffalo Gap, on the north side of the Platte between Red Cloud and Sidney. On the 17th the Indians attacked a miner's cabin at midnight, at Rosebud between Custer and Deadwood, surprising and killing all the occupants, literally hacking them to pieces.

There are about 400 people in Custer and 200 houses. Nothing can be done on account of the Indians. If a man goes a mile from camp he loses his scalp.

A Minneapolis dispatch of the 29th ultimo states that a letter from the Black Hills corroborates the statements in regard to the Indian scalping stories, and adds they are not half as startling as the facts. The writer helped every day to bury persons killed by the Indians. He give numerous instances of murderous atrocities committed by the red-skins.

Of Interest to Notaries.

A point important to notaries, banks and others dealing in commercial paper, was decided in New York in the case of Charles B. Richard and others against against Conrad Bollen. The General Term of the Court of Common Pleas holds that it was not proper to admit in evidence a notarial certificate of protest which had on it the stamp of a notary's seal in blue ink. The certificate should have had the seal pressed into the paper or else have been impressed on the wax or some other adhesive material. The want of this formal compliance with the statute is sufficient to reverse the judgment in the present case.—[S. F. Stock Report, June 2.

New Patents.

Through Dewey & Co., patent agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advanced list of patents granted to Pacific coast inventors: John M. Creal, Los Angeles, well borers; William H. Lininger, Salem, Oregon, shackles; H. C. Perkins, North Bloomfield, Cal., hydraulic nozzles; Wm. Quinlin and Alex. Peers, Mayfield, Cal., trace fasteners; R. M. Widney, Los Angeles, transplanters; Emanuel Blockman, San Francisco, sleeping car; Jacob Hoffman, Portland, Oregon, adjustable bolsters for beds; James Mayers, Gervais, Oregon, augur handles; James Ward, Winnemucca, Nevada, windmills.

Pioche Interested.

The Pioche Record says: "There are some prospects of Pioche having a railroad that will connect with the Los Angeles and Utah Southern at Nephi. The Los Angeles and Independence Railroad have had surveyed two routes to connect with the Utah Southern. The most direct runs from Los Angeles as straight as possible to the Cajon Pass, thence following the Mohave river to its bend where it strikes Point of Rocks; thence via. Camp Cady and the old Salt Lake wagon road, via. Pioche, to the drainage of the Virgin river near St. George, in Southern Utah; thence north to a connection with the Utah Southern road at Nephi.

A Great Work Begun.

London advices of June 2 are to the effect that preliminary work on the channel tunnel, to connect England and France, has been commenced at Margate, France. Shafts have been sunk to a depth of 400 metres. When these reach a depth of 100 metres below the sea, a gallery one kilometre long will be made in chalk. If this is successful and nothing indicates the impracticability of the project, the tunnel will be definitely commenced.

Doing Harm.

At a recent meeting of the Eleventh Ward Chinese Club, San Francisco, a letter from Senator Sargent was read, the point of which was that the recent incendiary threats made against the Chinese is doing more than anything else to forfeit she support of Eastern people, and he urged the clubs to be "wise as serpents and harmless as doves" as the only way to accomplish anything.

Dethroned.

The "sick man," Abdel Aziz, Sultan of Turkey, has been dethroned, imprisoned and all his ill-gotten cash taken away from him. The heir presumptive, Murad Effendi, was proclaimed Sultan. These facts are supposed to put a different complexion on the "Eastern Question," rendering the prospects for a war involving several leading nations, less threatening.

Music.

The Musical World for May is at hand, and contains besides seven pieces of music an unusual amount of valuable reading matter. No musical family can afford to be without a copy of this valuable magazine. Specimen copies are sent for fifteen cents. Subscription price $1 50 per year. Address the publisher, S. Brainard's Sons, Cleveland.

Pub. Docs.

Representative Wigginton has our thanks for bound volumes of public documents, besides speeches and other things of interest, in pamphlet form

Concerning Another Register.

In The Carson Tribune of a late date we find the following: "Adolphus Waitz, Register of the United States Land Office for this District, was arrested last evening by U. S. Marshal Augustus Ash, on a charge of extorting from a woman $200, attorney fees in a certain land matter in which the lady was concerned, thus constituting himself judge and attorney of his own court. It appears that the extortion had been referred to a practicing attorney of this town, and the lady informed by the attorney of the illegality of the proceeding, on which she at once demanded the return of the coin advanced, and was refused. The matter was then referred to U. S. District Attorney Varian, who brought the matter before the U. S. Grand Jury yesterday. The lady in question having a receipt for the $200 in her possession, it became of course short work for the jury to find a true bill of indictment for extortion. Mr. Waitz gave bail in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance on the day of trial."

Executive Clemency.

Governor Irwin has lately granted full pardons to nine Penitentiary convicts and reduced the terms of ninety-one more, making an even hundred, varying from two months to five years. This was all on account of their good conduct at the time of the fire. The names of none of our Inyo representatives figure in either list.

Spring Love Making.

Oh! the soft, sweet language of love! it's soft in the stilly night we hear its gentle murmur.

"Dost think Spring hath come, Henri?"

"Yes, Consatina, I feel that I may assure you this warmthness will be no more dispelled by the wind. But why so strange a question?"

"Because I fain would clothe my nether extremities in silken covering, were I assured of the continuance of the present balmness. To thee, who art so good and wise, your Consatina looks for counsel in all things affecting her happiness."

"Believe me, they are dear to me, sweet one, and I am proud that thou shouldst deem me worthy to advise thee in a matter of so grave import. I am confident that thou hast naught to fear in making the change thou desirest. I have but to inform you that only yesternight I laid aside me flannel."

"Oh, Henri!" she gasped clinging convulsively to him, "was it not premature? Horrid fears assail me. What if thou shouldst take cold and de-i! O me protector! me—ah—"

"Calm thyself, me angel. There is no danger. All will be well."

"I shall hope for the best, Henri, and pray nightly that no rude blast shall return to chill thy frame and place in jeopardy thy precious life. What would silk stockings be to Consatina wert thou gone?—a hollow mockery, stuffless fabric."

Then they clinched, and we left.

A Drunkard's Death by Spontaneous Combustion.

An inhabitant of Fontenay-sous-Bois, one of the most charming little suburbs of Paris, has recently departed this life under circumstances which merit the attention of everybody, but more particularly the scientific and medical world. The man in question had been a confirmed drunkard, and imbibed on an average, a quart and a half of brandy per diem. Conscious of the degration of his beastly vice, he kept aloof from his family, and at times shut himself up in his room for days together, in order to pursue his devotion to Bacchus unmolested by the reproach or remonstrance of the infidel. He had frequently been forced to abandon the brandy bottle by the approach of delirium tremens, but he was no sooner cured by the doctors than he returned to his favorite love. At length he was seized with an irresistible desire to destroy himself, which the medical sages call the "nostalgia" of alcohol. On Easter Sunday he shut himself up again; but remaining secluded longer than usual, the neighbors broke open the door. An overpowering smell of spirits struck them on entering the room, where the remains of a charcoal fire were found, and on looking on the bed there lay the body of the man reduced to cinders. The doctors say that spontaneous combustion must have taken place shortly after the drunkard lay down to die.

The Horrible Side.

An exchange remarks: The horrible side of the Black Hills fiasco begins to present itself. Waste of time, loss of money and unrequited toil are always serious experiences; but when to these are added great physical suffering and distress, and a tragical ending of them all, humanity sickens over the revolting details. It is now authoritatively stated that at least 183 men, women and children have been massacred by the Indians on the various routes of travel to the Black Hills. And yet parties at Cheyenne and Laramie, interested in keeping up the excitement about the new El Dorado, have continually insisted that there was no danger on these routes, and the savages were peaceable and friendly. Of course no one can be held legally responsible for the murders committed, but morally there is great need of a general hanging bee at Cheyenne and two or three other points.

Don't Laugh at Breaking Hearts.

Do not laugh at the drunken man reeling through the street, however ludicrous the sight may be; just stop to think. He is going home to some tender heart that will throb with intense agony; some doting mother, perhaps, who will grieve over the downfall of her once sinless boy; or it may be a fond wife, whose heart will almost burst with grief as she views the destruction of her idol, or it may be a loving sister, who will shed bitter tears over the degradation of her brother, shorn of his manliness and self-respect. Rather drop a tear in silent sympathy with those hearts so deeply sensitive and tender, yet so proud and loyal that they cannot accept sympathy tendered them either in word, look or act, although it might fall upon their crushed and wounded hearts as refreshingly as the summer dew upon the withering plant.

Failures in Prospect.

The Visalia Delta says: "A number of heavy failures are reported to be imminent among wealthy men in Fresno county, a number of whom are prominent wool growers. It is supposed that the merchants have tided them along for the past two or three years; that, owing to depression in the wool market and the low price of sheep, a number of them will have to commence again at the foot of the hill."

Piper.

The San Francisco Post asserts that the renomination of Piper for Congress was accomplished against the very determined opposition of the Central Pacific Railroad Company. This may account for the present anti-Piper movement.

—A Delaware lawyer was charged only one dollar for the privilege of calling a Judge an old rhinoceros.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation.

For Household Purposes—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

Practical Objections to the Metric System.

Messrs. Coleman Sellers and W. P. Pitman, a committee of the Franklin Institute, to whom was referred a circular from the Boston Society of Civil Engineers, asking the co-operation of the Institute in promoting the adoption of the metric system of weights and measures in the United States, have submitted a report which is full of interest and value. They give a minute account of the confused system that prevailed in France before the revolution, and made a change appear necessary. They also recite the difficulties that prevented the adoption of the metric system by the French people. The report proceeds as follows:

But whatever were the controlling reasons which incited the opposition to a change in France, they have much greater force with us from the absence of motive. We have no such confusion and diversity as the French had, and no such reform is called for. Our money is already decimally divided, and we enjoy already the chief benefits which the new system gave to the French.

If the measurements of the weights and the dimensions of substances, when ascertained, were only to serve as data for complicated calculations, the reasons for adopting weights and measures decimally divided would have controlled the practice long ago. This is actually the case with us in surveying land, which is measured by chains 22 yards long, divided into 100 links; in civil engineering, when embankments, excavations, etc., are measured by yards and tenths, or feet and tenths, as the case requires; in the measurment of ships for tonnage, when the three dimensions are taken by feet and tenths; and in gauging casks, which is done with a gauging rod marked in inches and tenths.

But the fact is, that the vast majority of weighings and measurings are followed merely by mental calculations; or by a simple multiplication of quantity (whole or fraction) by price (in decimals), a process which can oftener be done by vulgar fractions more easily than by decimals.

The meter is really as arbitrary a standard as the foot. About 80 degrees of latitude have been measured, but no two of them have been found of the same length, and there is good reason to believe that the length is not permanent in the same place. The only real thing about it is the rod in the public archives. The length of the meter is to be recovered, if lost, by comparison with the length of the seconds pendulum, and so likewise is the length of the foot or yard.

The meter was adopted in France for the lineal unit, in pendulum, only because the harmonious proportion between the meter and the length of the meridean would bring all local measurement into harmony with the rest of the world, and would be a great assistance in geography and navigation; but the decimal divisions of the quadrant and of time having been abandoned, and the adopted length of the meter having been found incorrect there remains not even a sentimental reason for adopting it as our unit of measure. Our own convenience should be our guide, and overwhelming reasons forbid us to incur the confusion, labor and expense of attempting to make a change of that kind.

In the opinion of your committee the meter, in any shade heretofore adopted, is a less convenient instrument for measurement than a two-foot rule. You cannot fold it into four without breaking the sub-units. If so folded, it would be ten inches long, which is inconvenient for the pocket. The meter is only decimally, whereas the foot rule, besides being divided into tenths and hundredths, is also divided into 12 inches and gives the even one-half, one-third, one-fourth, one-fifth, one-sixth, one-tenth, one-twelfth and one-one-hundredth of the foot, and the one-half, one-third, one-fourth, one fifth, one-sixth, one-eighth, one-tenth, one-twelfth and one-sixteenth of the inch.

By changing our unit of lineal measure for the sake of uniformity with France we should sever our uniformity with Great Britain, a country with which three-fifths of our foreign commerce is transacted.

The change in our units would entail much greater expense than is usually imagined. The measurements of every plot of ground in the United States have been made in acres feet and inches, and are publicly recorded with the titles to the land, according to the record system peculiar to this country. Hundreds of years would elapse before we could permit ourselves to forget these old measures. Beside this, the industrial arts during the last fifty years have acquired a far greater extent and precision than were ever known before. Take, for instance, the machine shops, in which costly drawings patterns, taps, dies, riners, mandrils, gauges and measuring tools of various descriptions for producing exact work and repetitions of the same, with interchangeable parts, are in common use.

It has been calculated that in a well regulated machine shop, thoroughly prepared for doing miscellaneous work, employing 250 workmen, the cost of a new outfit adapted to new measures would not be less than $250.000, or $600 per man. If, instead of changing the sizes, we adopt the alternative of giving the French dimensions to the old sizes, the irreconcilable discord between the inch and the divisions of the meter would furnish a precious example of the simplicity of the decimal system.

If new weights and measures are to be adopted, all the scale beams in the country must be regulated and readjusted: the thousands of tons of brass weights, the myriads of gallon, quart and pint measures, and every measuring rule and rod of every description throughout the land must be thrown aside, and others, which the common mind cannot estimate, must be substituted.

The great mass of English technical literature would become almost useless, and must be translated from a language which we, and the nations we have most to do with, understand perfectly, into a new tongue, which is strange to most of our people. As a question of cost let those who advocate this change consider it carefully.

To the teacher, to the closet scholar, to the professional man, to those who never handled a rule or a measure, but only use weights and measures in calculation, it may seem merely a matter of legal enactment; but to the worker, to the dealer in the market places, to those who produce the wealth and prosperity of the land, the question is a most serious one.

The Franklin Institute has never placed itself on record as opposing true progress; it has always advocated changes which were beneficial and not destructive. In this case a majority of your committee believe that the ultimate benefits of the changes proposed would be of less value than the damages during the transition. They think that the government of the United States has already done all that can fairly be asked of it by the most enthusiastic advocate of the metrical system, by making it legal. Those of us who choose to do so can use that system and no one can object to it; but for the government to require us to use that, and no other, would be an arbitrary measure which we are neither willing nor able to bear.

The majority of your committee are of opinion, and so report, that the objections to the attempt to adopt the meter as a standard unit of lineal measure are overwhelming, whether we consider the compulsory means proposed, or the end to be attained.

All of the objections to the metric decimal system do not apply to the adaptation of the decimal scale to our existing units. In the decimal harmony between the cubic foot and content of water weighing 1,000 ounces avoirdupois, whereby a cube of one-tenth of a foot on the edge becomes the measure the ounce of water, we have the means of constructing a decimal system of weights and measures which would interfere the least with existing institutions. But your committee do not feel called upon to consider this branch of the subject.

The German Tongue.

Students of the German language will rejoice to hear that the Germans are actually talking of adopting the ordinary Latin character in printing. The German type is a great stumbling block in the way of learners, and the abandonment of it may well be compared to the opening up of Japan to foreigners. It has made the Germans themselves a spectacled people, and is a torment to the eyes of every foreigner. The printed characters are so crabbed and forbidding in appearance as of themselves to dishearten the student, and have thus greatly hindered the study of German. If the Teutons would make their wisdom more generally known to the outside world they will hasten the introduction of this reform.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 1.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The sensation of the day is the charge against Speaker Kerr. It is hard to believe even in these days of post-tradership sales that Mr. Kerr sold his influence, yet that is the charge. A man named Lawrence Harney, a door-keeper of the House in 1866, says and swears, that during that year a friend of his named Green asked him (Harney) to help him get a commission in the army as Lieutenant. He agreed to do so and spoke to Mr. Kerr on the subject. An interview was agreed upon at Kerr's house, and there Mr. Kerr agreed to get the place provided Green would pay him $500 and procure some letters from prominent New York Democrats endorsing him. Green agreed to this; got the letters and gave Harney $450. which Harney says he gave to Mr. Kerr, who then went to the War Office and procured the commission which he directed forwarded to Green's address in New York. Green says he did speak to Harney, was by him introduced to Kerr, that Kerr talked with him about the commission, but said nothing about money. That he gave the money to Harney and got the commission through Kerr's influence, but never believed that Harney gave the money which he paid to Harney, to Mr. Kerr. The records of the War Office show that Mr. Green was appointed upon Kerr's recommendation. Mr Kerr denies knowing Harney, or receiving money, from him, but says he had Green appointed upon the letters of recommendation from political friends in New York. There is a direct question of veracity under oath between Kerr and Harney, the weight of character being decidedly in favor of Kerr, and the corroborating testimony in favor of Harney. It is hard to believe that Mr. Kerr was guilty of the act charged and both friends and enemies (political) hope he will free himself of the charge.

The Senate after a long session, on Monday night voted to take jurisdiction in the Belknap case. All the Democrats, but two, Eaton and Jones, of Florida, voted for jurisdiction, and with them voted Senators Booth, Carpenter, Dawes, Edmunds, Hamilton, Morrill, of Vermont, Sargent, Sherman and Oglesby. The other Republicans voting against it. It is supposed the trial will commence next week.

Decoration Day was observed here by appropriate ceremonies, all the departments being closed and immense crowd going to Arlington.

The news from abroad is startling. Abdel Aziz has been dethroned by the Softas, the most intolerant of the Mahommedans, and his nephew, Mahommed Murad, is now Sultan of Turkey. The deposition was affected without bloodshed and the late Sultan is under guard. It is supposed by many that this act means a fanatical religious war, but that could only result in the total destruction of the Mahommedans not only in Europe but in Asia. There are conjectures that the Rothchilds are in favor of such a war, hoping thereby to become the possessors of Palestine and re-establish the Jewish kingdom with Jerusalem as its capital. England will not agree with the programme made at Berlin by the Emperors of Russia, Austria and Germany, and is re-enforcing her fleet and forts in the Mediterranean. France, Spain and Italy sustain England in her position, and Servia and Montenegro want the provinces of Turkey adjoining their territory added to these principalities. Altogether the situation is threatening and may result in the greatest war of modern times, with northern and eastern Europe fighting the southern and western states. It is considered certain that England will not consent to any devision of Turkey that endangers her supremacy in India, or threatens Egypt, in which she now has such a great stake, as the highway to her Indian possessions. Such a war would be of vast benefit to this country in every way, but we can hardly be so selfish as to wish for it on that account. A few days will tell the story whether Europe is to be enveloped in blood or whether a peaceful solution to the troubles can be found. SAXON.

THE CINCINNATI CONVENTION.

Wednesday just past was the day of meeting for the Republican National Convention at Cincinnati. By this time it is probably known wherever telegraphs reach who it is that is to bear the Republican banner aloft during this rather ominous Presidential race. Let him be whomsoever he may, if he is at all sensitive or open to "investigation" with regard to his grand mother's character or his own the Lord have mercy upon him, for his opponents will not. Although Blaine is the hero of the hour, and is, we believe, the ablest man in the Republican ranks, and will certainly at the outset head all his competitors for the nomination, yet it is extremely probable the "Great Unknown" will lift the banner aloft, whether to defeat or victory deponent saith not. Of the prominent men now pressing their claims for the nomination, we think Bristow and Hayes stand the best chance. The most politic ticket the Republicans could name would be Conkling and Hayes. The most popular though in one sense would be Blaine and Bristow.

The Sultan as Was.

Cable advices from Constantinople announce that the "Sick Man" of Turkey or Sultan Aziz, expired somewhat suddenly, although not unexpectedly. All accounts agree that he died—for want of breath. Some of the doctors say it was a stroke of apoplexy, while others incline to the opinion that the much married defunct was smothered in bed after the fashion of the late Desdemona, better known in dramatic circles as Mrs. Othello. An inquest by nineteen doctors of different nationalities, after a critical examination say he might have killed himself after all. No doubt of it.

The Carsonites and Chinese.

The citizens of Carson, Nevada, have been laying themselves open to general condemnation, and at the same time hazarding a satisfactory settlement of the Chinese question, by mobbing the Chinaman employed on the Virginia and Truckee Railroad. A gang of over a hundred armed men went on to the line of the road early one morning last week, and drove all the Chinamen from the work. This foolish outrage occasioned a great deal of excitement in Carson, and seems to have met the approbation of but very few throughout the State.

Mormon Emigrants.

One of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messengers who resides at Ogden and has an opportunity of knowing whereof he speaks, informs the editor of The Silver State that the Mormon emigration from Utah to New Mexico this Spring has been very considerable, a fact which tends to confirm the report that they intend to take possession of that Territory, and enact laws to suit themselves in the event of its being admitted as a State, a bill for which purpose has already passed the Senate.

State Convention.

The Republican State Convention to nominate candidates for electors, and State Controller, will meet at Dashaway Hall in San Francisco on Wednesday, August 9th. The State Central Committee recommends that primary elections to choose delegates be held in the various counties, and that the delegates chosen to the State Convention be empowered to act as delegates to the Congressional Conventions of their respective districts.

Ex-Commissioner Burdett.

Soon after S. S. Burdett, Commissioner of the General Land Office, resigned he disappeared, and it was said had made away with himself, and that his body had been found floating in the Hackensack river. The body found has been identified as that of Dietrich Gephardt, of Jersey City, and it is as yet as much of a mystery as ever as regards the fate of the ex-Commissoner.

Exonerated.

Speaker Kerr has been formally exonerated not only by the Committee, but by the public generally in regard to that Harney-Green bribery case. Harney's testimony has been entirely upset—notwithstanding its explicit positiveness as to Kerr having procured Green's appointment, accepting pay therefor.

Its Cost.

It is stated the terms of running the lightning train was one dollar per mile, a sum that in no wise repaid the railroad companies for the expense of running it. The New York Herald man probably knows more about it than anybody else.

RATHER HIGH HANDED.

The Coast Review for May last published an article to the effect that the Pacific Life Insurance Company was insolvent, or that under its present management, it was drifting into inevitable ruin. Something more to the same effect was expected in the June number, whereupon the company went before S. C. Denson, of the Sixth (Sacramento) Judicial District and procured an injunction to restrain any further publication of like import in said issue or any subsequent number. The Court issued the injunction as prayed for, and at the same time appointed one Smith, (a bookkeeper to the same company), as Censor and Receiver, to whom was to be submitted galley proofs of The Review to be passed upon by him before any copy or part of a copy of the periodical should be published. In case he discovered anything that could be construed as libelous he was to suppress or confiscate the entire issue. The proofs were duly submitted. Two forms of sixteen pages each were accepted as in no way injurious to the aforesaid Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company. But in the last form of eight pages Smith found something that did not suit him, and therefore confiscated the entire issue, ordering the printers, Valentine & Co., to distribute the type immediately. It was so done. While this was being done, Edwards, editor of The Review, was at work getting out an extra, which to all intents and purposes, is the same as the regular issue. In this extra he gives an account of the unwarranted censorship exercised by Smith by the order of court, and assures us that "the end is not yet."

We would not be in the least surprised that this high handed proceeding will cost the plaintiffs any amount of aggravation and considerable cash before it finally ends. We know nothing of the status of the Pacific Life Insurance Company—whether it is insolvent, or run by a pack of swindlers or whether it is perfectly responsible and honestly managed, but we do know that of all things a Life Insurance Company should be so managed as to be above suspicion, and that swindlers in that branch of business are deserving of far worse punishment than almost any other kind, no matter in what line. There is nothing more disheartening, nothing better calculated to ruin that confidence so essential to commercial prosperity and the welfare of a confiding public, than swindling by, or even partially merited distrust of, a life insurance company. When a policy holder has struggled for years, half a life time perhaps, to maintain his policy that those depending upon him may not come to want when death makes its demand upon him, only to find that he has deprived himself and them of many present comforts, perhaps necessaries in meeting these ever recurring payments, to no purpose except to put money in the pockets of rich swindlers, he feels that law and justice are contemptible failures when he finds out, as he will, that it is only a failure of the common order, beyond the reach of punishment or redress of any sort. Hence it is that life insurance companies, above all other commercial enterprises, should be so managed as to be above even suspicion, and hence it is, that when such has not been the case and any publication has the courage to call public attention to the fact, such publication is deserving the highest public sympathy when it thus brings trouble upon itself, as in the case of The Review, provided, always that it has not acted through malicious motives. The Review has never hesitated to expose these swindlers heretofore, and as far as we know or believe, has never failed of justification. Unless it utterly fails in justifying its allegations, The Review is entitled to the good wishes of the public in this instance, not alone because of its warnings against possible swindlers, but because of the astounding censorship to which it has been subjected. It is ahead of anything in that line that we have heard of outside of Paris; certainly a most noticeable occurrence for free America.

Mean Business.

The Winnemucca Silver State publishes a call signed "Several Ladies," calling upon the ladies of Winnemucca to meet to consider the whisky question. The call is worded as follows: "All ladies of Winnemucca, who regard the increase of intemperance in our town as an evil which will at last ruin our husbands, sons and brothers and bring disgrace on our daughters if not checked, are invited to meet at the school house on Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock, to consider how the surging billows of this sea of destruction may be driven back, and our loved ones saved."

Jay Gould.

Incendiarism.

Last Saturday night an attempt was made to fire the hoisting works of the North Carson mine, Carson city. The watchman frustrated the attempt, the would incendiaries shooting at him, but without effect. He returned their fire, and it is believed wounded one of them. In concluding its account of the affair The Tribune asks "where are the 601," and adds:

We call on the Committee of Safety to meet forthwith and reorganize for the protection of property and life in Eagle Valley. The town of Carson is at this time infested with a lot of refugees from Storey and other counties; the dry weather is coming on, and the incendiaries of last year may be repeated if a proper watch is not kept. Be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer.

Blaine Suddenly Ill.

Ex-Speaker Blaine was on Sunday the 11th taken suddenly ill as he was about entering church with his wife. He was unconscious for some time, but soon improved in health. At last accounts he was recovering. He met with great sympathy from Democrats as well as Republicans. The report of his sudden and dangerous illness produced intense feeling throughout the city and country. Bulletins as to his condition were published every few hours. The pending political tournament had much to do with this. It was reported that it was an attempt at assasination, but that seems to be wholly untrue.

The Right Way.

The Virginia Anti-Chinese Union goes to work in the right way to discourage Chinese immigration. It has adopted a resolution that on and after the Fourth day of July, 1876, its members will not in any way patronize any storekeeper, hotelkeeper, saloonkeeper, boarding housekeeper, lodging housekeeper, laundrymen, the medical profession, the legal profession, or any other person or persons, who shall directly or indirectly employ or sympathize with Chinese labor. There is something practical about this, and a concerted and wide-spread movement of this kind will soon thin out the Chinamen.

Brigham's Intention.

A Salt Lake correspondent of The Detroit Free Press says that Brigham Young acknowledged during a recent conversation that the Mormons will soon emigrate to New Mexico. The alleged reason for the removal is a "revelation" to Brigham that the outlet (if anybody knows of such a thing) of Salt Lake is filling with a deposit of salt, which will cause the lake to overflow the city in five years. The real reasons are the revelations he is receiving that Congress and the American people have had about enough of Mormon rascalities and outrageous iniquities of all sorts.

Paper at Wallapai.

We are in the receipt of the first number of a new paper at Wallapai, Arizona, called The Enterprise, published by J. W. Leonard and C. F. Mitchell. The first number looks very well, and indicates a more flourishing state of affairs for Wallapai than has of late been generally supposed to exist. The Enterprise will no doubt possess considerable interest to numbers of our own readers, former residents of Wallapai.

His Voice Still for War.

Bowen says his expulsion from Plymouth Church will not terminate his warfare on Beecher, and threatens another statement ere long that "will fall on the community like a thunderbolt from the clouds." The people are becoming accustomed to that sort of thunderbolts, and will refuse to be startled unless Bowen concludes to tell the name of that mysterious woman.

Complimentary.

We are in receipt of our usual complimentary to the Tuolumne Re-Union at Badgers Park, Oakland, to take place to-day. This is the ninth annual gathering of the clans of "old Tuolumne," and from the programme set forth, we judge it will be quite up to the high standard of the previous meetings. Hon. Chas. H. Randall is the orator of the day.

Gone Democratic.

At the late election in Oregon for members of the Legislature and county officers the Democrats were generally winners, particularly in the Legislature, in which they have not less than twelve majority on joint ballot. This insures a Democratic United States Senator, there being one to elect at the coming session.

Would Rather Die.

A Black Hills miner named J. C. Dodge was attacked not long since by Indians and defended himself till all his cartridges but one had been exhausted and he was about to be taken prisoner, when with it he blew out his brains.

Trade Dollars Doomed

One section of Randall's silver bill, just passed by Congress, provides that trade dollars shall no longer be a legal tender, and that their coinage shall be restricted to the demand for export.

Eastern.

The Louisiana delegation to Cincinnati, headed by Pinchback, will go solid for Morton.

The House Committee on Ways and Means have reported that there is no ground for complaint against the Alaska Commercial Company.

In the session of the Grand Lodge of Free Masons, in New York, a resolution was adopted prohibiting spiritous or malt liquors in Masonic Temples

The New York Herald, which was hopeful until a short time ago, begins to entertain apprehensions as to the safety of Henry W. Stanley, the African explorer. He has not been directly heard since April, 1875, at which time, it will be remembered, he had literally fought his way into the country bordering on Lake Nyanza.

A gang of counterfeiters have been arrested in Illinois and Missouri with their implements of trade and false currency. Those captured at Mount Vernon, Illinois, were connected with the first families of that place and vicinity.

The United States has commenced suit against Jacob Thompson, ex Secretary of the Interior, to recover the value of certain bonds taken from the Interior Department when he was Secretary.

The Walnut street House in Cincinnati has refused to receive the Alabama delegation to the National Republican Convention because some of them are negroes.

Pacific Coast.

Preparations are being made in San Francisco for celebrating the Fourth in grand style.

The Winnemucca Silver State is informed that part of the C. P. R. R. track east of Corinne has been washed away by waves from Great Salt Lake. Year by year the lake encroaches on the land, and at the ratio of the last few years it will spread over the valley in the course of a couple of thousand years. No wonder Brigham wants to go to New Mexico.

There is considerable excitement in Nevada over some lately discovered mines at Pyramid Lake and rush has set in to the diggings.

In Sonora, Tuolumne county, June 5, a shooting affray took place between Harry Hyde and James M. Sloan. About 18 shots were exchanged, one shot taking effect in Sloan's right side, from the effects of which he died next day. Hyde was committed to jail to await examination.

The Delta says a Normal school is about to be started in Visalia.

The principal wife of the new Sultan of Turkey is a Circassian who was purchased to order for $12,000.

Smallpox has made its appearance in Sacramento.

Foreign.

According to intelligence received through Russia, the plague is still raging with violence in Bagdad, where 70 cases and 40 deaths are reported daily.

The Grand Vizier has issued a letter declaring: "The Porte accords full amnesty to all insurgents who will offer their submission. To give them time to do this the Sultan grants a six weeks' armistice, subject to the movements necessary to maintain the contraction of troops, and the revictualing of Nicsic."

In consequence of a judgment of the Berlin court, Bismarck has issued a notification prohibiting for two years the circulation in Germany of The Nord Amerika, a weekly edition of The Philadelphia Volksblatt.

Sixty thousand dollars is the fine imposed upon Turkey by Germany for the murder of her consul at Salonica by a fanatical mob. The new government of Constantinople will of course have to pay the indemnity, and it will probably assess the amount upon the tax payers of Salonica, to make them feel the inconveniences resulting from indulging their populace in so expensive a luxury as the massacreing of foreign consuls.

Sioux War.

The indications are first-rate for a general and lively Sioux war. The savages are gathering in force. A Cheyenne dispatch dated on the 7th says:

An Indian named Hard reports to Fort Laramie to-day through Little Bat, the scout, who was with Egan on his last expedition, that he met some northern Indians who report 1,200 lodges near the mouth of the Tongue river. They had moved north to meet Crook. Another band, that which has before been reported by Egan, was struck by Terry's command, the news of which drew reinforcements from the main Indian force, who with them engaged Terry the whole day. One company of the Fifth Cavalry arrived in this city to-day, and four more will be here to-night.

A special says the Indian courier from Red Cloud brings a report that just before he left an Indian arrived from the mouth of Tongue river. He found there 1,273 lodges under Setting Bull. Crazy Horse and others were on their way to Powder river to fight Crook. On his return he met the same band that Egan saw on May 17. They told him that they had met Custer's troops and had fought them all day. Many were killed on both sides. No result reported. This occurred about eight days ago.

Another Sort of a Puff.

Manager McGinley was arrested yesterday upon a complaint charging him with assault and battery upon the driver of his wagon. He plead guilty and was fined $32, which he paid and went on his way rejoicing. We did not learn the particulars of the difficulty nor the cause of it.—[Eureka Sentinel, June 9.

Hank Small.

After reading the interview of Hank Small, published in the San Francisco papers, one cannot avoid the conclusion that in the opinion of the reporters of those papers a locomotive engineer must be an uncouth, illiterate Jim Bledsoe sort of a fellow. The truth is that engineer Small is quite an intelligent gentleman, with more sense and better manners than the reporters who ridicule him in order to get up what they conceive, a funny article. It is a common mistake with young newspaper writers that the man who holds a throttle lever, shoves a plane, or swings a hammer must for the very nature of his occupation be both unpolished and unlearned. Mechanics is a science and the engineer who understands his business as Hank Small does is neither a fool nor a boor.—[Los Angeles Herald.

Fetch Along Grub.

We wish something could be done to have the "pedro," "stargo," and other card games postponed for awhile that the farmers up in the valley might find time to bring in here some potatoes, eggs and other truck. This is the best market we know of, prices for everything in the vegetable and hen-fruit line being high, and yet about half of the time one is compelled to live on beef and bread and butter. Not a potato or egg in the town, that we can find. The last small lot of new potatos brought fifteen cents per pound. Several wagon loads would meet with ready sale.—[Goso Mining News.

NOTICE IN RELATION TO HIGHWAYS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE LAWS in relation to Highways as applicable to the County of Inyo will be strictly enforced from and after date. Attention is called to the subjoined extracts of said laws:

SECTION 4, SPECIAL ROAD LAW FOR INYO COUNTY. The Road Overseer shall have the entire supervision of all the public roads within said Inyo County. Road Districts and District Road Overseers in Inyo County are abolished.

SEC. 2746, GENERAL ROAD LAW.—If the encroachment is denied, and the owner, occupant or person controlling the matter or thing charged with being an encroachment, refuses either to remove or permit the removal thereof, the Road Overseer must commence, in the proper Court, an action to abate the same as a nuisance; and if he recovers judgment, he may, in addition to having the same abated, recover ten dollars for every day such nuisance remained after notice, and also his costs in said action.

SEC. 2647. If the encroachment is not denied, but is not removed for five days after the notice is complete, the Road Overseer may remove the same at the expense of the owner, occupant or person controlling the same, and recover his costs and expenses, as, also, for each day the same remained after notice was complete, the sum of ten dollars, in an action for that purpose.

SEC. 2748. No gates must be allowed on any public highway duly laid out, except on highways running through lands subject to overflow to such extent as to remove the fences. When so allowed they must be erected and maintained at the expense of the owner or occupant at whose request or for whose benefit they were erected. If such expense is not paid, the gate must be removed as an obstruction.

SEC. 2750. Whoever obstructs or injures any highway, or obstructs or diverts any watercourse thereon, is liable to a penalty of five dollars for each day such obstruction or injury remains, and must be punished as provided in Section 588 of the Penal Code.

SEC. 2754. Road Overseers may put up on bridges under their charge notices that there is "Five dollars fine for riding or driving on this bridge faster than a walk." Whoever thereafter rides or drives faster than a walk on such bridge is liable to pay five dollars for each offense.

T. F. A. CONNELLY,
n313t4 Road Overseer.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Henry M. Isaacs, Plaintiff, vs. Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. Summons. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Temperance and School Trustees.

Pursuant to notice Jabez Walker, G. W. C. T. of the Good Templars of the State, delivered a lecture at Big Pine, while en route to Benton. His remarks gave great offense to certain whisky sellers. On his return to lecture again according to announcement, he was the recipient of a document signed by J. W. McMurry and D. Naylor, two of the School Trustees of said district, informing him that they had resolved the school house should not be used for lectures of any kind or purpose other than of a strictly religious character. This arbitrary and foolish order becoming known excited no little feeling in certain quarters, and the lecturer was told by several that he should have the school house in which to deliver his lecture, the order to the contrary notwithstanding. He, however, declined to do anything that could be construed as lawless, and delivered his lecture in the open air near by the school house. A number of his hearers to show their contempt for the order opened the school house and sat within during the time of the delivery. Silver Leaf Lodge, accepting the order as as a notification of ejectment, removed their lodge paraphernalia, and held their next meeting at a private house. It is due to state that J. D. Sears, the other Trustee, refused to sign the ill-considered, foolish order. And, on the other hand, it is fair to say that the objecting Trustees felt themselves justified in taking this course on the grounds that the lecturer had reflected in very strong language upon them, with respect to the whisky-selling portion of their business, as well as upon all others similarly interested.

Where are They?

Inasmuch as by a sort of a tacit consent, the feature of the coming Fourth of July celebration pertains chiefly to historical matters, relating to our own county, nothing could be more appropriate than a participation therein by the Owens Valley Pioneers, as a body Will some body tell us what became of the organization? The Lone Pine Committee would doubtless be glad to assign them a place in the procession By the way, as a matter of curiosity, it would be worth while knowing whether the Board of Supervisors of the county would so far comply with the request of the Centennial Commissioners (indorsed by Congress and the President) as to cause to be printed and filed in the Congressional Library copies of the historian's (wrongly designated as orator's) effort upon that day. Their idea was by this means to place on record a historical sketch of every county in the United States, and for every county, as such to pay for the printing of the same in accordance with certain specifications, for binding by States.

Shut Down.

Broder & Moffat have shut down their furnace for a time. It seems that the work heretofore done on the mine has been of rather a superficial character and now, in order to supply the furnace without incurring a heavy and uncalled for expense it is necessary to cut a tunnel to strike the mine at a much greater depth, and it is to wait for that that this suspension ordered. The Uncle Sam, the mine referred to, produces any quantity of soft ore, but not enough galena ore to make it run from the furnace. This deficiency has to be supplied from other mines We understand the company has contracted for 20,000 tons of lead ore to be used solely to make the richer silver ores run. The furnace, we are assured, will not be allowed to remain cool but for a few weeks, although the exact time when it can start up cannot be fixed until the work on the Uncle Sam is further advanced.

Returned.

Rev. Jabez Walker started on his return to Sacramento on Thursday last, having gone as far north as Benton, at which place he organized a lodge, for further particulars of which, see our Benton letter. He also instilled new life into the respective lodges at Big Pine and Bishop. That at Camp Independence was also benefitted doubtless, although it stood in less need of such encouragement than either of the others. That in this place he found in anything else than a flourishing condition and with little prospect of anything more promising for the immediate future.

Is a Citizen.

A couple of weeks since our old friend and former "towney" of this place, R. W. Woolard, of Darwin, paid us a visit. While here Bob abjured all national allegiance to Queen Victoria by taking out his final papers of American citizenship, and we will undertake to say American citizenship thereby receives an acquisition that will do it no discredit, let its standard be fixed as high as may be.

The Bridge.

Owens river is very high. At one time it was feared the foundation at one end of the Bend City bridge would be washed away by reason of a cross current created by a pile of drift on the opposite side, but Road Overseer Connelly had that removed, so the bridge is likely to remain intact.

Extinguish Him.

It was remarked by somebody on the street this week, that the weather was warm. Citizens with ropes and things are looking for the individual that said it.

Tight.

Some way or other this institution begins to realize the fact that our local money market is unusually tight. Not even a Benton bit, much less a furnace order, is stirring within our reach these days. There are reasons for this of course. The most obvious cause for the depression is the fact that in the aggregate something like $25,000 has lately been withdrawn from our immediate local circulation—mostly on account of the big show at Philadelphia. To the worth of that, perhaps twice as much to take the county through. Inyo ought to be credited for its Centennial patriotism, for very few of these dollars will we ever see again. The question arises "What's a hungry darkey gwine to do?" We pause for a reply.

Not a Tenant.

The health of the county, considered in its criminal aspect, was never better than at present—leastways Dr. Walker, of the Sheriffs office, has not a single patient in the county sweat box, nor has not had for some weeks. The warm weather may have something to do in causing this unwonted condition of affairs, either by debilitating those who otherwise would have energy enough to steal something or shoot somebody, or by giving them a realizing sense of what a regular course of sweats in those cells amounts to, as to effectually suppress their inclinations to do something that would subject them to it while early Summer lasts.

Heavy Blasting.

Judging from the booming reports of the blasts we frequently hear, the Kearsargers are doing some heavy powder work. The distance on an air line to the mine from this place is about nine miles—he elevation being on an angle of nine degrees The mine is on the side of the mountain facing this way, and so situated that the rocky declivity to the rear of the workings is favorable to sending the reports of the shots in this direction, so they reach us at times as plainly as if fired not more than a mile away.

Notice to Correspondents.

Parties writing on business of any kind connected with this paper or office will please address either the paper or firm, instead or some individual member or person connected therewith. Aside from the manifest discourtesy of the latter course, it sometimes happens that such apparently private communications are not subject to the proper hands until too late to be of avail, by reason of the temporary absence of the party addressed, or some oversight. These remarks have special application to certain pending Centennial operations.

Being Removed.

On account of the cessation of mill work in Panamint, and consequent scarcity of customers, Harris & Rhine decided to remove their extensive stock of goods in their branch store at that place back to this point, and commenced to do so some two weeks ago. If "the Company" continue prospecting on a scale commensurate with their interests there, we opine that our heavy merchandising firm will wish their branch establishment was back again before the lapse of a year.

Road Matters.

Road Overseer Connelly is preparing to commence his duties in fixing up the highways, but before it is too late to save trouble to those who offend the road law through ignorance of its requirements, he advertises in this issue certain leading facts worthy of the especial attention of quite a number of persons, who seem to ignore the existance of certain restrictions therein set forth.

Darwin Brewery.

Mr. Kliener having withdrawn from the firm, the Darwin Brewery is now owned and run by Messrs. Davis & Jorgensen. The advertisement of the firm as now constituted will be found elsewhere. We are told by those who ought to know that the Darwin Brewery turns out "goods" of the best qualits, and is quite a popular institution.

"Always a Calm," Etc.

If the adage that "there is always a calm before a storm" or words to that effect is to be depended upon, we may look for stormy times here pretty soon. This has reference particularly to "events," such as generally constitute local items. There is somehow a woeful dearth of things of that kind this week

Away Up.

It is mentioned elsewhere that the weather is warm. It is in order to add that the thermometer during each of the last three days has climbed to 105 degrees, with indications of an intent to go still higher. There was a slight shower on Thursday evening, but that did not help matters much.

Planted.

A granger sowed eight twenty-dollar gold pieces the other night in the street, but he wasn't certain about the fertility of the soil, so he engaged the services of the Sheriff and had the pieces resurrected the next morning.

Rooster's Meeting.

A meeting of the alphabetical Roosters will be held at the usual place to night. Members are cautioned by the Noble Shanghai to remember and also keep secret the pass-word published last week.

Preaching.

Rev. L. Case will preach in this place to morrow evening at the school house.

—The Spring meeting of the San Joaquin Valley Agricultural Park, Stockton, commenced on the 10th.

—A Constantinople telegram states that the eldest son and mother of the late Sultan have been murdered.

The Fenian Head Center.

A London correspondent of The Glasgow Herald in a late letter says: "It must be well known to Irish Fenians in our large towns—and it is certainly no secret in Ireland—that James Stephens, the renowned head center and former leader of the conspiracy in all the three kingdoms, has recently resumed his official title, and is actually busy with his duties as Generalissimo of the Forces After a conference held at New York among the Fenian exiles who foregather there, it was agreed, though not without discussion, that Stephens should take command of the Brotherhood over here. He has done so, and is now directing its operations from Paris as political refugee. But his reappointment to the leadership has produced a schism among his old associates in America, several of whom are no doubt of opinion that no leadership could possibly be so successful as their own. Stephens is charged by his rivals with cowardice, incapacity, tyranny in his former management of the affairs; but he has the support of the majority of the party in America, and is very popular with his old associates in this country."

Excitement in Washington.

A Washington dispatch brings an account of an exciting scene in Washington, June 7. In the Judiciary Committee room, J. Proctor Knott, Congressman from Kentucky, smarting under the strictures of Blaine for his (Knott's) suppression of evidence favorable to Blaine, advanced towards Blaine with an oaken stick clenched in his hands, as if to strike him. Blaine never moved from his seat, but eyed Knott, and that gentleman took second thought and withdrew from the room. The New York Tribune of this morning, in referring to the occurrence, facetiously says: "A blow (from Knott) would have given Blaine what the investigators have failed to give him—a black eye, and would have given him the nomination at Cincinnati and enough votes to make him President." The Tribune further says: "It is the first instance on record in this Congress where a prominent Democrat has failed to embrace an opportunity to make a mistake."

Anti-Coolie Troubles at Carson.

Sheriff Swift this morning arrested Hone, Captain of the anti-Coolie troupe, and placed him in the county jail, where he was joined in the evening by Chas. Cade, his lieutenant, and L. Circe, supposed to be the instigator against the Chinese and their employers.

It was reported yesterday that the officers are prepared to resist any attempts that may be made for their release.

It is reported that the anti coolie men threaten to tear down the jail if the prisoners were not liberated. Trouble is apprehended, as to-morrow is the day set for stopping Chinese labor.

The streets are crowded and nothing else is talked of but the anti coolie and Chinese trouble.

Cure for Small Pox.

Inasmuch as the small pox has made its appearance in San Francisco and may find its way to San Jose, we reproduce the following alleged remedy for the disease, said to be effective in all cases: When the preceding fever is at its hight, and just before the eruption appears, the chest is rubbed with croton oil and tartaric ointment. This causes the whole of the eruption to appear on that part of the body to the relief of the rest. It also secures a full and complete eruption, and thus prevents the disease from attacking the internal organs. This, says an exchange, is now the established mode of treatment in the English army in China, and is regarded in England as a perfect cure.—[San Jose Mercury.

A Good Man Gone.

Wm. P. Glissan, who had been sick for some time with gastric and other fever, died on the 7th instant, but, although far away from nearly all his relatives, he was surrounded by friends during his dying moments and received every attention from them while suffering from sickness. He was buried last Thursday, his remains being followed to the cemetery by the largest concourse of people we have every seen attending a funeral in a mining camp—[Coso Mining News.

If It Be So.

A newspaper correspondent in Egypt says: Formerly rain was unknown upon the northern part of the Red Sea, but since the building of the Suez Canal showers have fallen regularly about once a fortnight. The result has been to start vegetation up, even upon the Asiatic side, in the most wonderful manner. If things go on as they have begun, the sands of the isthmus will be covered with forests in another fifty years. What is the cause of this?

Health Reports of Notable Men.

Commodore Vanderbilt and Daniel Drew, both of whom were dangerously sick are improving and will soon be about again. Speaker Kerr at last accounts was entirely prostrated. There is but little hope of his restoration to health.

Singular Suicide.

At Nashville, Tennessee, Samuel M. King, formerly Deputy United States Marshal for East Tennessee, lately indicted for obtaining money under false pretenses, shot himself while in the Court room and instantly died.

—The escape of the Fenian convicts from West Australia was celebrated in Dublin on the 10th by a torchlight procession and the burning of Disraeli in effigy.

—A great hardship—an iron steamer.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Cal., June 11.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The weather during the past week has been such as to make a rational thirsty human fully appreciate the blessing of a bumper of —— sparkling ice water—although we Bentonites are located on the extreme boundary of civilization, yet, through the liberality of our business men, ice water is not to us a costly luxury. Speaking of ice water reminds me of the

GOOD TEMPLARS.

Bro. Jabez Walker, G. W. C. T., visited our camp last Thursday evening for the purpose of giving us a lecture and organizing a lodge of Good Templars in our midst. Owing to a misunderstanding in regard to the evening on which he was to deliver his lecture, he did not have as full an attendance as was anticipated, but he can rest assured that small as was his audience, he accomplished as much for the temperance cause in Benton as his heart could desire. Although he has left us, yet his words of exhortation and encouragement remain with us and through their influence is accomplishing a noble work; in proof of which, I will state that it is a common sight to witness between ten and twenty drunks in Benton on a Sunday, whereas to-day (Sunday) there is not one. Bro. Walker is not a superficial speaker, but a deep thinker and a bold, uncompromising advocate of the temperance cause. During his visit he organized a Lodge under the name of Silver Mine Lodge, and the following officers were elected: W. C. T., F. Swartz; W. V. T., Mrs. Edwards; W. S., Johnny Edwards; W. F. S., Henry Merrick; W. C., Mr. Tubbs; W. R. H. S., Belle Hart; W. L. H. S., Dora Hart; W. M., H. Taylor and W. T., John Hawthorne. A committee of Good Templars waited upon one of the Board of School Trustees and inquired the terms upon which the board would let the school building to the Templars once a week, and the generous answer was "five dollars per night." This piece of extortion is denounced by all concerned The average rent for school buildings throughout California to the Good Templar Order is $25 per annum—whereas our Benton Trustee demands $240 per annum exclusive of five dollars extra for each special meeting, such as degree meetings, etc. We sincerely trust that the other trustees will overrule this extortionate demand.

ILLUMINATION.

Benton is to be grandly illuminated by gas—not by etheral substance which emanates from the mouths of some of our visionary, speech prolific citizens, but by genuine gas. A project is now on foot and will shortly be carried into effect to procure a patent gas generator with enough capacity to supply the whole town. I understand that the new gas generator which they intend to purchase has been successfully tested in Reno, and has proved itself a thorough success. It costs our saloon men about $20 per month each, for coal oil and globes, but by this process they can procure a much better and safer light for $10 per month.

THE NEW DISCOVERY.

Work is being rapidly pushed in order to develop the worth or worthlessness of the gold lead which has been discovered in this vicinity. Your correspondent has every reason, however, to believe that it will prove a valuable claim. Experts pronounce the ore as rich gold bearing quartz, and there is almost an unlimited amount in sight The fortunate owners composing the company located on this lead are Wm McBride, Neill, J. C. Mitchell and Hank Taylor.

The Laura S. M. Co. are doing well They have comfortable quarters erected for the accommodation of their men, and under the supervision of their efficient superintendent, A. W. Hulse, are putting their claim in a splendid working condition, and have increased their mining force.

The Diana Co. have increased their number of workmen—having struck a body of rich ore. The Comanche mill is constantly running rich ore, and is the principal agency by which Benton is supplied with silver collateral. The mining claims of this company are all panning out well, and are all well developed ledges. The Piute mill is running steadily on rich gold quartz and will no doubt shortly make a rich clean up.

ON THE GO.

Assessor John Stewart arrived in town to-day on a business visit.... Mr Tozier, Supt of the Gen. Thomas, was in town last week, but has left for Columbus.... Al. Harkness is here on stage business.... Dick Pouning arrived last week and is engaged in examining the mines in this locality.... E. C. Kelty left to day for Columbus.... Dom Pedro has returned to Benton on a business visit. Progress is the countersign in Benton. Fraternally,

MINION.

Result of Marrying Early and Often.

There is a family in this town with nine varieties of children. The husband and wife have each been married twice before and had one child at each former marriage, which makes four children, each one having different parents. The present wife's former husbands had each been married before, leaving a child by their former wives, which makes six children of different parents. The present husband's two former wives had been previously married, leaving each one child, making eight of different parents The present husband and wife by this marriage have one child, making nine, all living and no two having the same parents.—[Los Angeles Republican.

—Old Johnny Bull is a Great Power yet. If he hadn't stepped into the ring, the three Emperors would have boxed Turkey before this.

How It Originated.

In an interesting account of the proceedings of a meeting of ex-Federal and Confederate soldiers, held in Virginia City, The Enterprise says: "Dr. St. George Hopkins, who held the rank of Major and Surgeon in the Confederate army, was called upon for some remarks, and in answer to the request gave the following interesting incident in relation to the origin of Decoration Day: "Shortly after the conclusion of the war, in 1865, at my mother's house, in Winchester, Virginia, were present Major General Torbert, of Delaware; Major General Ayres, of New York; Commodore Hopkins, of Virginia; Mrs. Hopkins and myself. My mother came in the room with her hands filled with roses culled from her own garden. These flowers had been cared for by negroes all the while during the war. They were so beautiful that General Torbert had placed a guard over them. Mother said, 'Wouldn't these be beautiful to put on the graves of the dead?' I replied, 'Yes, and if you will cut some we will put them there.' The idea was caught up at once by the three officers present. I got a market basket and the ladies, accompanied by the officers, cut the flowers and I held the basket for them. We then proceeded to the cemeteries known as the Stonewall and the Union, and there the flowers were distributed by my mother on the graves of both Union and Confederate braves. My brother's daughter, now Mrs. Wright, of San Francisco, assisted my mother in strewing the flowers. Memorial Day had its origin from the circumstance I have just described. The officers who participated are still living, and can substantiate what has been here stated."

—He was a very young man. A few stray hairs upon his lip attested the fact that he was engaged in a deadly struggle with a mustache. He went into a variety store on Main street, and said to the proprietor: "Have you Charles Reade's 'Lost Heir?'" "No, I haven't," replied the storekeeper. "But," he continued, looking into the young man's face, "I've got something that will make that mustache of yours start out like boils in Spring time."

—One Indiana journalist said to another: "Do you think that Don Cameron is corrupt?" The reply was: "He is Simon Cameron's son."

J. P. Spining has been interviewed by Benjamin, a revivalist from Chicago

Benj.—"Are you the manager of the Elm street Printing Co.?"

Sp.—"Yes, sir."

Benj—"I have a job I wish you to do for me."

Sp.—"All right; we can do it for you.'"

Benj.—"Well I want it done for nothing. I prayed to God to direct me to some kind-hearted printer who would not charge me for the work, and he directed me to your establishment."

Sp.—"Well, I guess the Lord don't know us, or he would not have sent you here. There was only one printer in the city that done work as you want it done, and, I guess, he is dead or moved over the hills to the poor-house."—[American Newspaper Reporter.

—Old Prospecting Bill of Gold Hill is just in from a big trip and reports to The Enterprise that he has found a big lead of petrified Indians. He has traced the lead about nine miles, the heads, legs and arms of the defunct red men cropping up strongly all the way He brought in some specimens from the wider parts of the lead, assays of which show at the rate of forty-six papooses to the ton. Before incorporating Bill will await advices from his correspondents at the "Bay."

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be, will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation

For Household Purposes—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and health ful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

READ AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS. THE MOST IMPORTANT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

Application for a Patent

....TO THE....

KERNVILLE QUARTZ MINE AND MILL SITE.

No. 66.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, INDEPENDENCE, CAL., April 23, 1876

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THOMAS Michell, whose postoffice address is Kernville, California, has this day filed his application for a Patent for Fifteen Hundred (1,500) linear feet of the KERNVILLE quartz mine or vein, bearing gold and silver, with surface ground Six Hundred feet in width; also Mill Site, containing 4 2-100 acres, situate, lying and being in Cove Mining District, Kern County, California, and known and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lots No. 45 "A" and 37 "B" in Township 25 South, Range 33 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian.

SURVEY OF EXTERIOR BOUNDARIES,

The exterior boundaries of Lot No. 45 A, the Kernville quartz mining claim, being as follows, to-wit: Commencing at a post in stone mound, the established S. E. corner of the Nellie E. Dent quartz mine,—in which mound is set a post marked "K-N-E 1" for N. E. corner of the Kernville gold and silver quartz mine, from which bears a white oak 48 inches in diameter, S. 2½° E. 4 links distant; thence, (variation 15¾° E.) S. 2½° E. 4 links, a white oak 48 inches in diameter: 18 50 chains a mining shaft bears West 175 links distant: 22.72 chains set post marked "K. S. E-2" in stone mound for S. E. corner of the mine from which bears a white oak 8 inches in diameter, S. 3° W. 78 links distant; thence N. 69¼° W., descend 4.54 chains to the post set on the south end of the Lode: 8 85 chains cross gulch 8 links wide, course south, ascend 9 09 chains set post marked "K S-W-4" for S. W. corner of the mine, from which bears a live oak 10 inches in diameter, S. 69° E. 56 links distant a nut pine 10 inches in diameter, N 1° E, 75 links distant; thence N. 2½° W. 22 72 chains, set post marked "K-N-W 5" in stone mound for N. W. corner of the mine; thence S. 69¼° E., 4 54 chains to the post set on north end of Lode 6 05 chains intersect the established S. W. corner of the Nellie E. Dent quartz mine; thence it runs parallel to the southern boundary thereof. 7 57 chains intersect mound set on south end of Lode of the Nellie E. Dent quartz mine, 9.09 chains to the place of beginning—containing 18 97 100 acres.

SURVEY OF MILL SITE—LOT 37 "B"

From the quarter-section corner on the north boundary of section 4, Township 26 South, Range 33 East, Mount Diablo Base and Meridian, it runs West 3 00 chains to a set post marked K-M-S N-E in stone mound for N. E. corner of the "Kernville Mill Site;" thence (variation 15° 45′ East) West 3.60 chains cross road bears N. 30° E and S. 30° W. 4 00 chains set post marked K-M-S-N.W. in stone mound for N. California Emigrant Bureau.

[From The S. F. Chronicle, June 14.]

An adjourned meeting of the Supervising Committee of the California Emigrant Bureau was held yesterday afternoon at the Grange Headquarters, No. 38 California street. Messrs. A. J. Bryant, F. A. Gibbs, Mark McDonald Charles Lux, F. A. Taylor, J. C. Wilmerding, Charles Kohler, Amos Adams, C. H. Dennison, A. Wason, T. D. Sullivan and J. Regensburger were present, and several others were represented by proxy. C. H. Dennison called the meeting to order, and on motion it was ordered that henceforth five members would constitute a quorum for the transaction of business and Mr. Dennison was added to the committee. A. J. Bryant was then elected as permanent Chairman of the Committee, and addressed the meeting at considerable length on the importance of emigration and the necessity for encouraging it. He had no doubt that the mercantile community would respond liberally when called upon, but suggested that heavy land owners and the transportation companies should be invited to contribute, as they are directly interested in the effort to encourage emigration. On motion of Mr. McDonald it was resolved to appoint suitable collectors immediately, to solicit subscriptions. On motion of Mayor Bryant a committee was appointed to examine the books of the Emigrant Bureau, consisting of F. B. Taylor, A. J. Bryant and C. H. Dennison, which was ordered to report. A committee, consisting of Amos Adams, F. B. Taylor and C. H. Dennison, was then appointed to audit the accounts of the new organization and the Grangers' Bank was chosen treasurer.

Straw Bids.

The bill reported from the Postal Committee and passed by the House with the expectation of entirely breaking up the straw-biding system, embodies the experience and best judgment of both the Committee and Post Office Department. It requires bidders and their sureties to make oath on their their bonds that they respectively own real estate worth double the amount of the bonds, and also under oath answer prescribed interrogatories as to the location, etc., of their property. The bill provides that in case an accepted bidder fails to commence service, the Deparment may contract with the next lowest bidder who will take it, or may readvertise the route. But in case of failing contractors, the Postmaster-General may either accept the next lowest bid, or if he considers it too high he may go outside the list and contract with any person willing to perform the service at such a price as he considers reasonable, giving preference, however, to bidders on the list as against outside parties. In case no satisfactory contract can thus be secured, the route shall be readvertised. Temporary contracts without advertisement are to be limited to six months, and to a price not exceeding those usually paid for regular service. The bill prescribes penalties of fine not exceeding $5,000, and imprisonment for not more than twelve months, for wrongful refusal or failures of accepted bidders to enter into contracts or to refuse to perform service after a contract is awarded.

—A female preacher at Leavenworth brought down her fist on the table in the midst of the sermon, and prophetically exclaimed: "Yes, my dearly beloved, when Susan B. Anthony marries, there'll be one less male tyrant in this world."

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 8.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The public certainly lost a great actor when Mr. Blaine went into politics. No man ever displayed greater dramatic power than did Mr. Blaine on Monday. He completely overwhelmed the Democracy and they have not yet recovered from their confusion. Whether the display improved Blaine's chances at Cincinnati is another question, and one upon which his friends and opponents do not agree.

The Belknap case is coming to a head. On Tuesday the Senate ordered him to plead within ten days or a plea of not guilty would be entered and the trial proceed. They also directed the managers to furnish Belknap's counsel within four days, with a list of witnesses they desired summoned and that Belknap's counsel furnish the managers with a similar list within four more days. They ordered the witnesses summoned to be here on the 6th of July, and it is understood that no further dilatory motions will be considered.

Both Houses have agreed to adjourn on Saturday until the succeeding Friday to permit members who desire to do so to attend the convention at Cincinnati. A similar adjournment will be made for the St. Louis convention. This takes two weeks from this month's session and renders it certain that no final adjournment will be made until in August, and that the appropriation bills will not be passed by the 30th of June, the close of the fiscal year, so that on the 1st of July we shall present the spectacle of a nation with a hundred millions of dollars in its vaults and no authority to pay out any of it.

The Kerr Committee adjourned until Friday. Mr. Kerr's defense rests upon his own testimony, supported by some collateral evidence and his own good character and he will most probably be acquitted. But good character ought not to count for much when we recollect the smiling Colfax and the bluff Belknap, both of whom bore the best of characters until facts were proven showing their corruptness. Still it is to be hoped that Mr. Kerr will effectually prove his innocence. All the other investigations drag, the interest being concentrated on Kerr and Blaine.

The quadrennial bear gardens at Cincinnati and St. Louis are centres of interest. You can see groups of men every where engaged in earnest and excited conversation, and when you approach and listen to the words, you hear "he must be nominated at Cincinnati (St. Louis) or we cannot succeed—our candidate must be a man of good character and able to carry New York, otherwise we are beaten." Each group may be and probably is talking of different men, but each believes, or pretends to believe, which is the same thing, that his man is the one and the only one that can be elected. It would be a source of congratulation if both the bear gardens would by chance select good men.

The "greasers" in Mexico have been fighting and it is reported that 2,000 were killed. To one who knows the greaser, as Saxon does, this is a source of joy only tempered by sorrow that another naught or two had not been added at the proper end of the line of figures. We want "to revel in the Halls of the Montezuma's" again, and to continue there when once possession is obtained. The good Lord never intended that a country so rich in all that benefits mankind, as is Mexico, should continue long to be the habitat of a race of mongrels whose only delight is throat cutting.

Every paper now has reports of base ball club plays. I have a bill prepared and shall have it introduced on the 31st of June to send all the lunatics who indulge in this game, to a grand asylum to be located in the National Park reservation in the Rocky mountains. The bill provides for the withdrawal of all troops from the frontier and the furnishing of the Sioux with new rifles, plenty of amunition and sharp tomahawks.

The Turk in Europe seems to be very sick and it is feared that his sickness will be contagious and cause a "breaking out" all over the continent.

To Measure the Height of Trees.

There have been, heretofore, various plans given for measuring the height of trees, by which a close approximation to the the height may be had. One of the simplest and at the same time a nearly correct plan is to take a rod of any given length, say five feet above the surface when driven in the ground so that it will be firm. Make the rod stand perpendicular by means of a plumb limb; then as the, as the length of the shadow is to the height of the rod above ground, so is the length of the shadow of the tree to the height of the tree itself. As an example, if your rod cast a shadow just its own length, the length of the shadow of the tree will be the height of the tree. Or if the rod, being five feet long, cast a shadow seven and one-half feet long, and the tree cast a shadow 120 feet long, the height of the tree will be just 80 feet. The rule is to multiply the length of the shadow of the tree by the height of the stick, and divide by the length of the shadow of the stick.

Centennial Historical Sketches.

WHEREAS, A joint resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States was duly approved on the 13th day of March last, which resolution is as follows:

"Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it be, and is hereby recommended by the Senate and House of Representatives to the people of the several States, that they assemble in their several counties or towns on the approaching Centennial anniversary of our National Independence, and that they cause to have delivered on such a day, an historical sketch of said county or town from its formation, and that a copy of said sketch may be filed, in print or manuscript, in the Clerk's office of said county, and an additional copy, in print or manuscript, be filed in the office of the Librarian of Congress to the intent that a complete record may thus be obtained of the progress of our institutions during the first Centennial of their existece.

And whereas, It is deemed proper that such a recommendation be brought to the notice and knowledge of the people of the United States:

Now, therefore, I, Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, do hereby declare and make known the same in the hope that the object of such resolution may meet the approval of the people of the United States, and that the proper steps may be taken to carry the same in effect. Given under my hand at the City of Washington the twenty-third day of May, in the year of our Lord one thous- [L. S.] and eight hundred and seventy-six, and of the independence of the United States the one hundredth.

By the President: U. S. GRANT.

A Mexican Battle.

A correspondent writes from Mexico: The battles they fight in this country are remarkable. In no other country in the world have battles like those fought in this country been witnessed. For fighting batties the Mexican go far ahead of all other people. The number of battles fought since the outbreak commenced is perfectly frightful, inasmuch as they run up into the thousands. The other day we had startling news at the capital. The newspapers, or at least some of them, got out "extras," and no little furore was created. Everybody wanted to see an extra. The offices from which they were published were speedily crowded with an excited throng. They wanted to read the particulars of the great Battle of Iguala. Well, the story was circumstantially told. A Federal force had encountered a Rebel host, a most sanguinary and destructive engagement had ensued, which finally ended in a victory for the Federals. As to the numbers engaged and the losses sustained, there was no intelligence concerning these unimportant items. In a day or two we had complete details of the great Battle of Iguala. The casualities were truly frightful. The total sustained by both armies engaged was—one horse, three cows, one turkey, two goats and one dog! A horrible carnage! The cows, goats and turkey were devoured by the battle worn heroes!

Don't Like to Tell Before Folks.

A horny handed phrenologist in a West end grocery of Madison, Wis., the other evening placed his hand on a friend's head, and said: "Bill, do you want to know your capacity and perceptibleness?" "Yes, if I've got any," was the reply. "Well, then," continued the phrenologist, "I place the tip of my thumb above the center of the ear, thus. Then I extend my fingers around the posterior portion called in phrenology, the occiput; then I join the tips of my fingers of both hands and endeavor to bring the thumb tips together, but the thumbs don't meet by—great good ness!" At this point the phrenologist looked puzzled and gazed up at the ceiling reflectively and gravely. "Out with it—I am prepared to hear the worst," said Bill. But the phrenologist said he'd have to tell him privately, and took him out and up the street till near a saloon door, when he paused and whispered in Billy's ear: "You've got a powerful brain, powerful intellect and orto to be in Congress, 'stead of using a hammer." Bill dragged his friend into the saloon and called for "the best in the house." They drank, and Bill asked: "Why didn't you tell me in the presence of those men in the grocery?" "Because," said the phrenologist, "I knew they'd call me a darned fool."

END OF VOLUME VI.

With the present number closes the sixth volume and year of THE INYO INDEPENDENT. For three hundred and twelve weeks it has appeared with the regularity of clock-work, and only once —mid earthquake disaster—has it ever been reduced to the "half-sheet" expedient. Deeming it somewhat of a duty to celebrate the Centennial year on the occasion of entering upon its seventh volume, THE INYO will appear upon the brightest, finest paper, with a changed style of mechanical get-up, and in a "new dress" of type.

No part of THE INDEPENDENT'S general course would be changed if its six year's past existence were to do over again, and perfectly satisfied with itself and lot, this pioneer sheet of Eastern California proposes to proceed upon the even tenor of its way—only strongly urging upon its friends and patrons the absolute necessity of coming promptly to the center in the matter of accounts now due and payable. If you don't want it for the next year, send notification for discontinuance; if you do, pungle at the earliest opportunity.

THE BURLINGAME TREATY.

Following is the text of the joint resolution concerning Chinese immigration, recently passed the House. It requests the President to procure the insertion of an additional article in the Burlingame treaty, as follows:

"The United States of America do hereby reserve the right to regulate, restrict or prevent the immigration of Chinese subjects into the United States, except for commercial purposes;" a similar right of course being reciprocally reserved to the Emperor of China. The words, "except for commercial purposes," were not in the resolution as proposed by Page, but were introduced as an amendment, and were, we presume, necessary to the success of the measure. Should this additional article be embodied in the treaty, and should the Sargent bill, restricting the number of immigrants on each ship, become a law (and it would appear to be only a sequence of this resolution), a practical stop will be put to Chinese competition in our local industries. Those now among us will gradually return to the Flowery Kingdom; the law will prevent the filling of their places by fresh importations; and the land that once knew the Heathen Chinese shall know him no more—a consideration devoutly to be wished.

Democratic View of the Situation.

A Washington dispatch of the 18th says: The almost unanimous sentiment of Democrats here is that Hancock and Hendricks is the only ticket that can possibly beat Hayes and Wheeler. The majority of the Democratic Senators and Representatives have been interviewed and express a decided preference for Hancock as the nominee for the Presidency.

The Mustang Riders.

Peralta rode twenty mustangs 110 miles in 4 hours, 50 minutes, 45 seconds, at Bacon Park, Boston, on the 17th, for $5,000 and against five hours' time. In a race with Parker, each to ride three mustangs ten miles, Peralta was beaten by a length and a half, in 25 minutes, 51 seconds.

The San Francisco Chronicle.

The above paper has entered upon its twenty-fourth volume, and is undoubtedly now one of the powers of the land, for it is to be found in every locality on the coast, it seems like. It is up to the times and requirements in all respects.

Resigned.

Bristsw has resigned his Secretaryship, and it is thought that John P. Jones will be appointed to the Treasury folio; also, that some other important changes will take place in the cabinet.

Massacre by Indians.

Seventh Plank of the Republican Platform.

The public school system of the several States is the bulwark of the American Republic, and with a view to its security and permanence, we recommend an amendment to the Constitution of the United States forbidding the appropriation of any public funds or property for the benefit of any school or institution under sectarian control.

THAT LAND OFFICE REMOVAL.

We learn that Senator Sargent and Congressman Page are doing their best to remove the Independence and Visalia Land Offices to Sumner, in Kern couny, the two there to be consolidated. We know nothing as to their reasons for this outrageous piece of business, but it is clearly the underhanded work of parties specially interested in Sumner and vicinity, most probably those official beneficiaries of the railroad who were presented with town lots in Sumner, and consider this step necessary to make them valuable; particularly as a lever to induce a final change of the Kern county seat to that place. That is what we surmise, on pretty good authority, to be the ground work of this removal proposition. The Kern county seat question is one with which this land district has nothing to do, but both this and Visalia have what we may designate as a vital interest in the Land Office removal question, and will most strenuously object. This objection will go so far as to insure those honorable Representatives in Congress the most bitter animosity of very nearly the entire people of both districts. The only exceeption in this district will be the small number of settlers in Tehachapai and the extreme southern corner of the district contiguous to Sumner, who could, if the change is made, have easier access to the office, having a railroad to carry them. Those few excepted, every other miner and settler in both districts would have to travel from 100 to 300 miles, with no semblance of a railroad to comfort them, to reach the Land Office.

In round numbers the area of the Independence Land district is 14,000 square miles; that of Visalia 10,000, giving a total of 24,000 for both, equal in area to New Hampshire, Delaware, New Jersey and Maryland combined. The whole of this vast expane, with trifling exceptions lies to the north and eastward and the whole of it would therefore be inconvenienced just that much. Sumner, the proposed site, is in the Visalia district, and only about twenty-miles north of the Los Angeles land district. It has direct railroad communication with the office at Visalia, only a hundred miles distant. Visalia is near the center of its district as the Independence office is of this. Neither could possibly be better located to accommodate their respective districts, taken from one end and one side to the other, Tehachapai only excepted in this district. Kern county settlers, a small portion only excepted, are now within easier reach, and by railroad, of their Land office, than any portion from this district would be to Sumner by any mode of conveyance.

While the Independence land district contains a large extent of lands worthless for agricultural purposes, yet there is scarce a township in it which does not contain either farming or mineral lands for which applications for entry will not be made some time or other. Now, would it be decent or right for Congress to cripple its development by lessening its facilities for this purpose as proposed? The Government would save the salaries of two officers. This would equal the sum of $1,000 per annum in greenbacks. On the other hand the people of the district would in a few years be put to tens of thousands of dollars extra expense for additional traveling expenses to reach the new office. It is an expensive hardship enough for a settler or mineral land applicant to take his witnesses and travel 50 or a 100 miles as they have now to do in some instances. When we come to double and quadruple this distance and expense, as will certainly be the result in case of this removal of both or either office, it amounts to nearly an absolute embargo on land entries of either class. Will this saving of $1,000 per annum in greenbacks be a justification for the proposed imposition on thousands of agriculturists and miners?

This land district lies along the eastern slope of the Sierras, a distance of a little over 300 miles north and south, and east and west on the parallel of Sumner, its southern boundary, of 40 township, or 240 miles. The Sierras, its western boundary for the whole of this distance, are utterly impassable by all ordinary modes of travel, and therefore it is cut off from all the rest of the State; cut off from any possible annexation with either of the three land districts forming its western boundary. These districts as well as the site of the proposed consolidated office, all lie west of mountains impassable at all points save at the pass at the southern extremity. Being thus topographically cut off from all political fellowship, or at least, have been so essentially ignored in that way heretofore in State matters, that were the Land Office the only semblance of an acknowledgement of our political existence to be taken away from us, we should feel that we had been most meanly treated, and, that, as a matter of right, should be assigned to the State of Nevada where geographically we belong.

Mr. Wigginton, our Representative, is doing his best to avert this positive injustice Messrs. Sargent and Page and their Sumner strikers propose to inflict upon us, and will succeed if the people of the two districts will sustain him with petitions generally signed.

CONGRESSMAN FOR THIS DISTRICT.

As the time is approaching when the Republicans are to name their candidate for Congressman for this, the 4th Congressional district, we have a suggestion or two to offer. We regret it did not occur to us to have offerred something of the same kind for the consideration of the late Democratic Convention at which Mr. Wigginton was renominated for the position, the same he now holds, and, we may remark, has very creditably filled. It is from no dissatisfaction with his course, nor because we think any thing we might have advanced would have changed results, that we make the above remark, but because it was due this important section of the State that its claims should receive at least a complimentary recognition at that Convention as well as the one yet to assemble.

Our point is this: This so-called sagebrush region, covering nearly one-half the area of this Congressional district, and possessing more known mineral wealth than all the rest of the State combined, has never yet been honored with a State or district office of any kind. Except in one instance it was never so far recognized as to be allowed a candidate on the State or District ticket of any party, not even for the State Senate. Now it is about time this way of doing business should be changed. It is about time the mining interest of this State should have a voice in State and National affairs. Owing to the peculiar topography of the country all this extensive portion of the State is a country to itself, its leading industries and interests differing materially from those generally of the rest of the State from which we are cut off by mountains impassable for nearly the entire length of our section. Owing to these noticeable conditions, including the fact that we have heretofore been almost totally ignored in matters political—overslaughed in fact even by other counties with which we have been yoked—we begin to feel as if we had been treated as a mere dependency. We do not propose to submit to it much longer without a protest, a protest that will, at the first suitable opportunity, make itself felt at the polls and otherwise. That is all we have to say about this now.

THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

All the world knows ere this that the late National Republican Convention selected Hayes and Wheeler for their Presidential standard bearers, instead of Blaine or any other of the prominent candidates to head the ticket. The record of the men chosen is unassailable, and therefore is likely to prove stronger than any other that could have been named. But there is a wide spread disappointment among Republicans, and Democrats, too, we suspect, that Blaine was not nominated. We cannot convey any better idea of our views in the matter than to quote the following from The Stock Report, which, referring to Blaine, says:

Here is a man who for long years has been in harness fighting his party's battles; he won his way to the front rank by the services he rendered, and for the past twelve months has been continually in the breach in that party's defense, and by his superhuman and almost unaided exertions, has sustained the integrity of the party which he represented. If, in the contest for Republican supremacy, the envenomed shafts of personal and political malice struck him, we ask was it the province of those in whose defense he received them, to cast him off? No! A thousand times no!

Senator Booth on the Silver Bill.

On the 15th the Senate had under consideration the bill to amend the laws relating to legal tenders of silver coin for all sums of $20 or less. Senator Booth delivered an elaborate speech on the subject, summing up his views thus: First, that the funded debt of the Government should be paid in gold. Second, that the "double standard" requires, at the time of its adoption, a common unit of value, and to avail ourselves of its supposed benefits we must increase the silver dollar. Third, that all forms of currency in use at any given time ought to be equivalent in value. Fourth, that gold, by the common consent of the commercial world, is the ultimate standard by which all values are measured. Fifth, that some form of credit is now and always will be used as money, in every civilized commercial country. Sixth, that with us, we ought to use the national credit in the form of national notes, and not lend it to the banks for that purpose, and that we can and ought, as a matter of wise policy, to make national notes as good as gold. Upon this last proposition the Senator proceeded to argue that our funded debt can be reduced to the lowest possible rate of interest, and United States notes appreciated to the gold standard and maintained there by an interconvertible bond, the interest upon which is payable in gold.

LOOK TO THIS.

Subjoined is a copy of the petition being circulated for signatures remonstrating against the removal of this land office to Sumner or Bakersfield, a couple of hundred miles further south This removal is a job put up by some of the railroad hangers on at Sumner. They were presented with some lots there, and find some gouge of this kind necessary to make them of some future value. Congressman Page and Senator Sargent have kindly consented to act as their tools. Congressman Wigginton is doing his best to defeat the thieving job. He must be backed by petitions or he will fail. Now, there is not a farmer or a mine owner in this district north of Tehachepi, who looks to his own interest, who takes a fair view of right and justice to the entire district, but must sign this remonstrance at the first opportunity. This land office should not under any consideration be moved to the other side of the mountains, hundreds of miles away. There is no practical change of lines or assignment of portions of this district to others that make it any better for anybody. The facts in the case are too obvious to all at all acquainted with the geography of the country to need recapitulation. It must also be just as obvious to every intelligent person that the removal of this land office, small as may now be the amount of its business, must seriously militate against the development of both our mining and agricultural interests. No man can secure a government title to a farm or a mine without an additional cost of an hundred dollars if he has to go one, two or three hundred miles further to attend to it, as all will have to do if this change is made. Let every man in Mono and Inyo counties sign the remonstrance. We say to those in localities where written copies may not reach for lack of time or some one to attend to it, cut out this copy, attach it to a piece of paper, sign it and forward it direct to Hon. P. D. Wigginton, Washington. It will only cost a three cent stamp and a very little trouble, and may result in a saving of several twenties to you or some of your friends. It is no matter how few or how many names are attached:

TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, U. S. CONGRESS: The undersigned, citizens of the counties of Inyo and Mono, State of California, included in the land district known as the Independence land district, the office of which is located at Independence, Inyo county, California, hearing that a proposition is on foot for the purpose of consolidation of the land districts and offices of the Visalia and Independence districts and removing the same to some hundreds of miles distant therefrom, would earnestly and urgently remonstrate against the same for the following reasons.

1st. That the Independence land district and office is the only office east of the Sierra Nevada, and includes a large scope of country subject to entry.

2d. That the office as now located is a central one, and accessible by the ordinary mode of traveling equi-distant from all points.

3d. That the proposed removal would subject those persons desirous of transacting business with said office and those desirous of entering lands to the expense and travel of some 250 miles from their place of residence in order to reach the office and officers of said district.

4th. That Bakersfield or Sumner, or the proposed location is from 200 to 250 miles south of the agricultural and mineral lands subject to entry east of the Sierra Nevada.

We therefore earnestly pray that the greatest good may be done to the great number, at least to those who need the fostering care of the government, and the facilities for doing busines therewith, that the Independence land district and office may remain where it is now established.

Not a Majority Representative.

No one one of the four Representatives in Congress from this State received a majority vote. There were three candidates in each district, and the vote was as follows: First District—Piper, 12,417; Rankin, 6,791; Swift, 6,103. Second District—Page, 13,624; Larkin, 12,154; Tuttle, 5,589. Third District—Luttrell, 18,468; Denio, 14,284; Reed, 5,670. Fourth District—Wigginton, 15,649; Houghton, 11,090; Thompson, 5,343

—The Governor of New Hampshire in his late inaugural, called attention to the "religious tests" which place New Hampshire behind Spain and Italy in the matter of freedom of conscience, and recommended a constitutional amendment that shall obliterate these relics of barbarism.

—It was said, when A. T. Stewart died, that he left no blood relations; but since his death two thousand of his kinsmen have come into view, or persons who claim to be his kinsmen, and all of them claim to be his heirs and demand a slice of his estate.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Cal., June 19.

MESSRS. EDITORS—On Saturday and Sunday we were visited by a high old southwester accompanied by rain. For a week previous the atmosphere was oppressively warm and sultry, but since the rain it has moderated and we are now enjoying as fine a spell of weather as could be expected at this season of the year.

WISE PRECAUTION AGAINST FIRE.

J. A. Creaser and Mrs. Laird have had a large force pump, with hose attached, placed between Mrs. Laird's hotel and Creaser's blacksmith shop. Their example in this precautionary measure should be followed by all the property-holders of Benton.

HOTEL CHANGE.

Our popular townsman, T. Golden, has leased Mrs. Laird's hotel and will take possession thereof on the 1st of July. From that time on it will be known as the Benton Hotel. Tom is decidedly a business man, and knows how to run a hotel. As I stated in a former letter, he has leased Creaser's stable, and now has carpenters busily engaged in remodeling it, so as to increase its stabling accommodations, and to add to the comfort of animals entrusted to his care. He will keep on hand good teams for the accommodation of the public.

NEW SALOON.

Mr. Thomas Richards has leased the new butcher shop and has had it remodeled and converted into a cosy saloon. Tom has hosts of friends and well-wishers, and we expect will run a very orderly house. He opened the new saloon last Saturday night with very favorable prospects. As saloons must exist, we are glad that Benton is blessed with such gentlemanly barkeepers as we now possess: men who do all in their power to maintain orderly houses.

PROPERTY.

Mr. Geo. W. Rowan's new dwelling is rapidly approaching completion. George has good carpenters engaged upon it and their work is a lasting evidence of their skill. Wm. Harbin has purchased from J. A. Creaser, the old saloon building formerly kept by Frank Sanguinetta, and has had it removed to a lot adjoining Richard's saloon.

THE GOLD LEAD.

The name of the principal company located on the newly discovered gold lead, is the A. F. Neill Co. They forwarded a piece of their surface ore to Crittenden, Superintendent of the Northern Belle Co., to be assayed; also gave a piece to the Comanche Company to assay. Crittenden's return was $75 36-100 per ton, and the Comanche's $125 20-100 per ton free gold. It is the intention of the Neill Co., to have several tons of this ore crushed by the Diana Company and the pulp worked by Thompson's arastras at Montgomery. This will definitely settle the question of the value of this new discovery, as there is an almost unlimited amount of ore in sight. There was a party of prospectors last year who struck a rich pocket of gold in the vicinity of the Neil Co.'s claim, and there is every reason to suppose that that the Neill Co. have a rich claim of gold bearing quartz; but we will positively know in a short time.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

The Diana Company posted notices that they were ready to receive bids for the contract of sinking a shaft two hundred feet on this claim and for excavating a room on the first level for a whim. The contract was awarded to Foreman Charley Heal at $4 70 per foot for the shaft, and $200 for the room for the whim.

The Comanche Company is meeting with unparalelled success Their mine is yielding ore abundantly, and the mill is working it to the greatest advantage The Thompson & Truman works at Montgomery are now running on good ore. The Laura Company are progressing finely.

NEW SUPPLIES.

Creaser's teams arrived in town with general merchandise for the Comanche and Creaser's stores. Tade's team also arrived with merchandise, etc, for private parties.

ON THE FLY.

Assessor John Stewart is with us on a flying business visit. He leaves tomorrow for Bridgeport; E. C. Kelty returned home on Sunday; Doctor Dewberry is in town, with the intention of permanently locating; there is also a legion of strangers in town seeking employment.

A delegation of Bentonites will visit Lone Pine on the Fourth for the purpose of seeing the Rowdy Roosters and the Great Shanghai, Dom Pedro.

MINION.

Resignation of Bristow.

The New York Times of the 18th says:

The resignation of Bristow was somewhat an open secret about a fortnight ago, and its formal announcement was delayed till after the Cincinnati Convention merely to deprive the act of any appearance being made for political effect. Bristow cites the demands of his private business as the reason of his retirement from the Cabinet, and we are bound to accept that as a true explanation of a step which is of no slight public importance. Bristow has proved himself a too capable public servant and too clear-sighted a statesman to be permitted to remain long in retirement. It would be somewhat singular should the next Republican Administration not find use for his services and be able to strengthen itself by the moral influence which has become associated with his name.

—Short of change—the man with but one shirt.

New Postal Route.

We observe by The Tulara Times that Congressman Wigginton has succeeded in having established the postal route petitioned for across the mountains from Visalia via Mineral King and Beulah to this valley. This route will be quite an advantage to the places named and also to numerous sojourners to be found every Summer on Kern river, and moreover, with an energetic carrier it is possible to materially reduce mail time from this section to San Francisco, but not near so much as The Times supposes. It says:

By this route the military post at Independence will secure the mails within thirty-six hours after its arrival here, which by the present arrangement requires a week in its delivery.

As a matter of fact it only takes fifty-two hours from here, via Caliente, to and from San Francisco.

—An intelligent foreigner, passing through the streets of Philadelphia, took out his note book at the end of a long walk, and made a little memorandum to the effect that "eighty nine per centum of the population of Philadelphia are members of a powerful family of Roomstolet."

BORN.

In this place, June 24, to the wife of Louis Wood, a son.

DIED.

At Visalia, Tulare county, June 12, MRS SARAH M. TURNER, aged 68 years, a native of South Carolina. Deceased was the mother of Mrs. N. E. Graves of this place.

A GOOD INVESTMEMT.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVE LOCATED AND prospected a quartz ledge named the ENTERPRISE, situated on the northwest side of Kearsarge Mountain, between the creeks flowing through Independence and Camp Independence. The vein is four feet in width, average assays of ore being $100 per ton. Said parties are desirous of selling a certain interest therein, to enable them to develop and further prospect the same. Any application will be favorably received at the store of J. S. Rothschild & Co., and every information afforded.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

Saturday, June 24.....1876.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

NOTICE.

The issue of THE INDEPENDENT for July 8th will contain the oration of Jas. E. Parker, of this paper, to be delivered at Lone Pine on the Fourth, together with a full report of the proceedings of the day at that place, and also, if possible, of those at Darwin, Bishop Creek and Benton. The oration will consist in the main of a complete and entirely authentic sketch or history of Inyo county from the time of Joe Walker's first visit down through all its troublous pioneer days to the first issue of this paper. It has involved both labor and research to collect and collate these interesting facts, which constitute the only historical synopsis of the county ever compiled. The same number will also contain some account of the doings on the Fourth of those handsome birds, the Rowdy Roosters, giving at length the "pome," Declamation of Impudence, "Docksologer" and the "noration" of the Hon. Dictionary Doodlesock, etc. The paper will be valuable for future reference. No orders for extra copies will be filled unless received by the evening of July 5th. The usual discount on agents' orders.

About Completed.

Assessor Dillon and his deputies are about winding up their work for the season, there remaining but a few scattering tax payers yet to corral. The full returns will be ready by the 1st proximo. As to the grand total we can only say, it that will approximate $2,000,000, or about 25 per cent above last year, a result largely due to the increase of values in the new mining districts in the southern portion of the county. Some complaint has been made as to valuations of certain mining properties. We shall probably have occasion to refer to that matter hereafter, but for the present shall merely remark that this cause of complaint of valuations claimed to be too high in one case and as much too low in another, illustrates what we have frequently endeavored to show, viz: That the only equitable method of taxing mines is not to tax them at all, but simply their products and improvements as in Nevada. There is, however, no system for assessing mining property yet devised not open to objections.

Darwin News.

Someway our last copy of The Coso News is not to be found just when wanted, therefore we are unable to give place to some items of interest it contained as we should like to do. From it, however, we learned that mining matters are progressing to general satisfaction. The Defiance furnaces are running splendidly while the latest developments in the mine are no less satisfactory. The Coso Consolidated furnace, as we learn from other sources, was expected to be in full blast by this time. Their mine, the Lucky Jim, is said to be showing up better than any other of its class in the district. Superintendent Reddy, of the Defiance, has gone to San Francisco. His brother John and Mrs. R. have returned to this place. The preparation for the local celebration has been so far advanced as to leave no doubt of its being a very fine affair. To this end all classes have subscribed quite liberally, considering that the money market there is by no means overstocked.

Some Artillery.

The Fourth of July Rowdy Roosters have caused to be cast, or else imported it, an immense cannon of six-inch calibre. It is something after the style of the old fashion Parrot gun and is no doubt able to raise the echoes from one range of mountains to the other. For the benefit of the curious, the boys will load with solid shot and take the Inyo mountains for a target. This body of ancient Roosters, as will be seen by their posters, will repair with their guns and things to Lone Pine on the Fourth for the purpose of winding up the legitimate observance of the day. These burlesque celebrations are being advertised quite as extensively in the older counties of the coast as in the Eastern States; but for elaborate preparations these Inyo Roosters will present an unique appearance indeed. As will be seen in our Benton letter, quite a number will be on hand from that place—and they certainly will enjoy the fun enough to amply repay them the trouble of coming that distance.

Celebration at Bishop.

S. W. Blaisdel, Chairman of the Lodge Committee mentioned below, writes from Bishop under date of the 16th, as follows: "The Good Templars and other people of Bishop Creek will celebrate the Centennial Fourth at or near Russell's flour mills by a picnic. Mr. Frank Almond, of Nevada, will deliver the oration. Mrs. Fanny Queen McDougal is to write a poem for the occasion and J. Alexander, Esq., will read the Declaration of Independence. This is to be no rival celebration to that at Lone Pine, but as a great many of us are obliged to stay at home we desire to remember the day. All are cordially invited to come and bring their 'bread and dinner.'"

Con's Pole.

Most every town in the United States has planted in the center a liberty pole, or else the town is planted around the pole. In this quiet old burg of ours the sage brush answered every purpose up to date, but to-day we notice Mr. T. F. A. Connelly has caused to be hauled in a genuine pole about 70 feet in length, and proposes to immediately place it in a perpendicular position. It is longer and tougher than any statement Con. ever made, so it may be considered a permanent thing.

The Difference.

There are some people who do not attach any particular coin value to children. These people are mostly old maids, old baches and such, but they are not the only ones who overlook the sometimes important fact that one or two children more or less may make hundreds of dollars difference in the wealth of the district where they live, or should live. This is in reference to the working of our present exceedingly beautiful school law. We will try to illustrate our proposition: Here is Lone Pine which has a few school census children in excess of the standard number of fifty. Under this law each and every district containing less than fifty census school children gets $500 school money, no more, no less, except the number of children should be but ten, when it gets but $300. Any surplus of the fund at the end of the fiscal year above the $500 to each district goes to the district or districts fortunate enough to contain above the fifty. If it should happen to be only one, that one would have a cash value to the district in which he or she belongs, (no distinction as to sex) equal to the exact amount of the surplus as above no matter how much it might be. This year the fifty-odd child owned in Lone Pine netted that district no less than $1,039 96. Now to see the difference in values: Bishop Creek, the next largest district, fell just one baby short of the maximum number. Her share of the apportionment was ten dollars and thirty-two cents, the exact sum also paid to each and all of the others, Lone Pine excepted. Then from this we deduce relative values of children in the respective districts this way—the fifty-odd child, (we do not know the lucky owner of that particular one) in Lone Pine is worth $1,039 96. The 49 children of Bishop are worth a fraction above 21 cents each. The values in the other districts increase in an inverse ratio. That is to say Independence children for instance having a still less number, have a little higher coin value each than those of Bishop, being somewhere about 30 cents each. This of course applies only to the apportionment at the close of the fiscal year. This time it took the $10 32 cents to make up the $500 to each district, that being the exact sum so apportioned to each and all save Lone Pine which gets eight times as much as all the rest put together. There are several of these that pay more taxes than Lone Pine, but none of them are quite so rich in children, hence the difference. We only mention this to show what a pretty school law it is, how fair and equitably it works. We mean no disrespect whatever to Lone Pine as she takes nothing more than the law justly gives her. Though a little late for this season, we also allude to this matter so that Bishop and any other district coming so near the maximum number of children to entitle them to a share of the surplus cash at the end of the year may see the propriety of a little extra exertion to produce the required odd child or fraction thereof above fifty. Next year that fraction may be worth $2,000 or more. The clear intent of this pretty law is to encourage this peculiar branch of horticulture. The time will not be entirely lost if the district, after doing its best, fails to show the required number; but still those little districts having but the minimum number of ten points or so to start with can use their own judgment on this matter, however, for it takes fifty to make game, and with only ten or so to start with, it would look a little hopeless to start in for next year—and by the succeeding one it is to be hoped the absurd law will be changed in this particular if no other. We also hope these people first referred to in this will now see that they have misconceived the facts, as to the value of children, inasmuch as it is now clear they do have quite a coin value now and then.

Broken Into.

V. G. Thompson, of the Blaney House, had the locks of his wine cellar broken open and a forcible entrance made therein by some gin dried miscreant. About $150 worth of liquors run to waste from the half-turned faucets after the vagabond left. This happened last week, but for the purpose of hearing some legal proofs against a suspicioned party the matter was not mentioned in our last issue.

At His Post.

Register Briggs returned from his trip below this week, and will be found at his post in the Land Office. We understand that he and his son have disposed of their interest in The Amador Ledger. Mr. Briggs now considers himself wholly identified as a permanent citizen of Inyo.

New Postoffice.

We observe that the Department has established a Postoffice at Col. Stevens' place, A. C. (Gus) Stevens, P. M. The new office is called "Inyo," so that mail matter for that place should be addressed, "Inyo P. O., Inyo Co., Cal.," instead of Cottonwood as heretofore.

Who Wants a Mine?

M. O. Donnell & Co., have a good mining prospect on Kearsarge mountain, which, for lack of means, they are unable to develop, and therefore would like to sell a share of the mine so as to receive the wherewith for that purpose. See their advertisement.

Dance.

A number of Independenceites and and others repaired to the Half Way House, George's Creek, Wednesday night, and shook the light fantastic some hours very pleasantly. That's what they say—but it is to be remembered it was quite warm that night.

"Ambrosial Cocktails"

Geo. Gross, of Benton, invites people who want something nice in a liquid form to come and try some of his ambrosial cocktails at the Pioneer Saloon, Benton. See his ad.

Results of the River Getting High.

The river got high enough to carry away the bridge above Bishop on the stage road, so that since the 19th the stage company have had to carry the mail on horseback thence down the east side of the river to the Big Pine bridge, thence, that portion for Bishop and Round Valley back again on this side. The approaches to the Bend City bridge have been washed away so that it is impassable. The Eclipse Company's bridge is likewise in the same category. This last has thrown the males off the usual track, too, and is considered disastrous by some.

From Log Springs.

S. P. Moffat and John Broder of the Log Springs furnace, are in town. The principal business now on hand in that camp is sinking the shaft on the Uncle Sam. As yet no developments of importance have been made in the shaft which is down nearly a hundred feet, but the prospects of soon striking sufficient ore in this shaft to again start up the furnace are good. Mr. Moffat will return in a day or two. If general good wishes would produce desired results, the Uncle Sam would prove second to no mine on the coast.

An Omission.

We discovered when too late for correction that the large double sheet posters in colors printed in this office for the celebration at Lone Pine did not include the name of Mr. John Givens as one of the aids as it should have done. We are quite sure this accidental omission of the printers will not make Mr Givens any the less an aid in fact, but we deem it but right to mention the fact of the omission.

Tunneling After a Mine.

Mr J. H. Holt has some pretty good mines high up on the north side of Kearsage mountain. Among the rest is one called the Artic, upon which considerable work was done last Summer, and from which quantities of good ore was extracted. Mr. Holt has been trying to find this mine again lately, and succeeded after tunneling through snow from forty to sixty feet in depth.

Fire Works.

J. B. Rowley of the Post office has on hand quite a variety of fire works, such as fire-crackers, torpedoes, Roman candles, rockets, etc., etc., and for sale. Last year people were disconsolate because they couldn't get something of this sort to fiz and with which to make a noise. Rowley has taken some pains to avoid a repetition of that trouble this time.

The Racing Entries.

By order of the Committee the times for closing entries for the Lone Pine races have been changed as follows: Entries for the first day's races, to take place July 5, will be received up to 7 o'clock P. M. of July 4; for the second day's races, to take place on the 6th, entries will be received up to 7 P. M. of the preceding day.

The Lone Pine Hotel.

Mrs. M. A. Barry, at the solicitation of former patrons, has re-opened the Lone Pine Lodging House as a hotel for the accommodation of regular boarders and the traveling public as well. For neatness and comfort the Lone Pine House has no superior in the county.

School Election.

An election is being held to-day for School Trustees for Independence district.

Eastern.

Harrington, ex-Assistant District Attorney of the District of Columbia, and A. B. Williams, have been indicted for bribery—the first named for having taken from the latter $15,000 to procure a new trial for R. H. Slatter, convicted of murder.

General Grant has written a letter to the editor of a Philadelphia Sunday School paper, in which he advises the children to hold fast to the Bible as the sheet anchor of liberty.

The trial of Belknap is likely to prove expensive. He has already given the names of 197 Post-traders as witnesses to swear he is not a rascal so far as they know, and is also given power to fill up a supplemental list if these are not sufficient.

Congress adjourned on Saturday, the 10th, to the 16th, the time of the Republican National Convention, the Democrats having agreed to it with an understanding for a similar adjournment for the St. Louis Convention.

A bill has been passed by the House intended to prevent straw bid frauds.

The Fourth of July celebration in Philadelphia includes a reception by President Grant in Independence Hall in the morning, a grand military and civic procession, reading of the Declaration of Independence by Richard Henry Lee, of Virginia, grand chorus, oration by Hon. William Evarts, airs of all nations by the orchestra, poem by Bayard Taylor, congratulatory messages from different States and nations of the world, pæans of peace by the orchestra and chorus, benediction, and thirty-eight guns.

Pacific Coast.

Hank Small, the engineer of engine No. 149, which brought the lightning train through from Ogden, has received a present of $1,000 from the builders in Utica, New York.

Sheep are offered for sale in San Diego county, this State, at fifty cents per head.

Johnny Tuers, who killed one Dowling a year or so ago, attempted the murder of a woman named Lydia Livingstone, in San Francisco a few days since.

The Carson Tribune learns that Congressman Woodburn purposes being a candidate for re-election to the office of Congressman for Nevada, this Fall election. The Tribune thinks Mr. Woodburn will do well to keep quiet.

Chas. E. De Long has been elected City Attorney for Virginia City.

A San Francisco grain operator estimates that California's surplus wheat this year will reach three quarters of a million tons—exceeding the crop of 1872 about two hundred tons.

The stage between Kingsbury and Grangeville, Tulare county, overturned in one of the irrigating canals near the latter place on the 17th, and the driver and a young lady named Mary Potter were drowned.

A desperate fight occurred on the 15th instant between two highwaymen and the Sheriff of Trinity county, assisted by a stage driver, in which one of the robbers was killed.

Letter From Darwin.

DARWIN, June 20.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Darwin is just now laboring under the heat of excitement (or excitement of heat). The extreme heat of the last week, in connection with the dry, sandy country surrounding us, renders it oppressively warm. If I am allowed the expression, "red hot" would be better. The Defiance furnaces are also red hot and turning out red hot bullion. The Modoc, Minneatte, and other mining companies, are pushing things ahead in a "red hot" manner. So you see we are all hot out here.

The Rev. Jabez Walker paid us a visit of a couple of days, and delivered a lecture on Friday night, after which he organized a lodge with fourteen members. I do not know who all the officers are but believe the principal ones are: W. C. T., Wm. Goodman; W. V. T., Mrs. R. A. Clark; W. S., —. Sharp; W. M., —. Johnson; P. W. C. T., John Hopkins; L. D., M. S. Clark. Mr. Walker commenced a good work here, which only needs energy and perseverance to result in great good to the people of Darwin.

We are making great preparations for a first class celebration here on the Centennial Fourth of July, in reference to which I refer you to The Coso News.

Inyo Independent.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

Saturday, June 24.....1876.

—Brigham Young spoke a few words of wisdom the other day to a youthful Chicago enthusiast who called upon him. He said: "Young man be sure you are through with your search for the kind of partner you want—be sure you have got the pattern of women that suits you, before leading her to the altar. Don't wait till after marriage, as I did, and then be obliged to keep on sampling."

—The lightning struck a Patchogue darkey on the head, but he refused to budge an inch, and muttered doggedly: "D t makes free times I'se been hit, and now I shouldn't wonder if it luff me alone."

—A Captain caught a boy in the middle watch frying some salt pork and eggs he had stolen from the ships store to whom he called out: "You lubber, you, I'll have none of that!" "Faith, Captain, I've none for you," cried the lad.

LEGAL.

NOTICE IN RELATION TO HIGHWAYS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE LAWS in relation to Highways as applicable to the Cou ty of Inyo will be strictly enforced from and after date. Attention is called to the subjoined extracts of said laws:

SECTION 4, SPECIAL ROAD LAW FOR INYO COUNTY. The Road Overseer shall have the entire supervision of all the public roads within said Inyo County. Road Districts and District Road Overseers in Inyo County are abolished.

SEC. 2746. GENERAL ROAD LAW.—If the encroachment is denied, and the owner, occupant or person controlling the matter or thing charged with being an encroachment, refuses either to remove or permit the removal thereof, the Road Overseer must commence, in the proper Court, an action to abate the same as a nuisance; and if he recovers judgment, he may, in addition to having the same abated, recover ten dollars for every day such nuisance remained after notice, and also his costs in said action.

SEC. 2647. If the encroachment is not denied, but is not removed for five days after the notice is complete, the Road Overseer may remove the same at the expense of the owner, occupant or person controlling the same, and recover his costs and expenses, as, also, for each day the same remained after notice was complete, the sum of ten dollars, in an action for that purpose.

SEC. 2748. No gates must be allowed on any public highway duly laid out, except on highways running through lands subject to overflow to such extent as to remove the fences. When so allowed they must be erected and maintained at the expense of the owner or occupant at whose request or for whose benefit they were erected. If such expense is not paid, the gate must be removed as an obstruction.

SEC. 2759. Whoever obstructs or injures any highway, or obstructs or diverts any water-course thereon, is liable to a penalty of five dollars for each day such obstruction or injury remains, and must be punished as provided in Section 588 of the Penal Code.

SEC. 2754. Road Overseers may put up on bridges under their charge notices that there is "Five dollars fine for riding or driving on this bridge faster than a walk." Whoever thereafter rides or drives faster than a walk on such bridge is liable to pay five dollars for each offense.

T. F. A. CONNELLY,
n313t4 Road Overseer.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Henry M. Isaacs, Plaintiff, vs. Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. Summons The People of the State of California send Greeting to Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in Second Township, in the County of Inyo, in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, on the Ninth Day of September, A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The said action is brought to recover judgment against said Defendants upon their certain promissory note dated July 20, 1872, payable on demand, for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of three per cent per month from date, principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United States of America.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint as above required, said Plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, together with all interest thereon and costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand at said Township, this 16th day of June, A. D. 1876.

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

READ AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS. THE MOST IMPORTANT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The Senate has adjourned and the House is doing nothing. All the interest centres at Cincinnati. Who shall be the candidate is the question of the hour with Republicans, and who will be with the Democrats. Before you receive this the question will be decided, and all eyes will turn towards St. Louis. The only thing the independents, as well as the non-politicians ask, is that both conventions select honest, capable men, that will make it easy for every man to vote and whatever way he votes will be right.

Some of the investigating committees still continue to drag along. The one on Speaker Kerr exonerated him completely, and the House was unanimous in adopting the report. The Speaker was confined to his room at the time and the friend who notified him and told him of Danford's (Republican) complimentary speech, says Kerr's eyes brightened as the news was told, but the public may as well understand that the race of Speaker Kerr is about run. He may linger on for a few months, ere he passes away, but none the less surely is he going to "the land of the hereafter." Consumption has him in its deadly grip and from it there is no escape.

Mr. Jos. R. Stewart has published a card in which he declares that ex-Speaker Blaine had nothing to do with the Kansas Pacific Railroad, and that the testimony of T. A. Green is absolutely false. There has been so much swearing and counter-swearing in this case, that with Stephen in "Hard Times," I must say "Its all a muddle." The general opinion is that Blaine will come out all right, before the committee though many condemn his mode of defence.

Now is a good time to come to the Centennial. The trunk railways are waging a bitter war and fares are being reduced wonderfully. It is only $13 now from Chicago to New York, and Tom Scott put a coupon on all his tickets over the Pennsylvania Central to Philadelphia, which entitles the holder to go and return free to Cape May, and as this is a most delightful seaside resort all the visitors to Philadelphia go out on Saturday and spend Sunday drawing in the salt breezes.

The news from abroad does not tend to lessen anxiety on the Eastern question. The last proposition is one from Russia to divide the Turkish Empire into four provinces, but this does not meet with favor. The election at Brussels, and elsewhere in Belgium, resulted in the triumph of the Catholic candidates and mobs are at work in Ghent, Antwerp and Brussels. I opine that Prince Bismarck could tell us something of how these mobs were started, should he choose to unbosom himself. That astute believer in the rule of "blood and iron," casts longing looks towards Belgium and would like to add it as another gem to the diadem of the German Empire, in which event he would hold the Rhine from where it rushes out of the Alps to the sea. Reports from Mexico say that the Federal troops have defeated the Revolutionists near Queretaro. The aggregate of killed was only 106, which is to be regretted.

There was a small riot at Gibraltar on the 12th. A German sailor belonging to the German iron-clad fleet insulted a lady on the wharf. This was the beginning and as the other German sailors took his part the British authorities put all the Germans on their vessels and made them stay there.

The Winslow extradition case is not yet settled. Secretary Fish has gotten the best of the argument all the way through the case, but the English Ministry do not like to give up the position they have assumed. Some of the opposition in Parliament have called for the papers and so far have not got them. In the meantime Winslow is in jail, but will probably be released on the 15th when he will "skip out" and let the diplomats settle the question to suit themselves while he enjoys the liberty of some country where no extradition treaty exists.

SAXON.

Our San Francisco Letter.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.

MESSRS. EDITORS—It is a singular fact, indeed we might say a wonderful case of pre-knowledge, that at least one-half the people you meet in San Francisco knew that Gov. Hayes would be the nominee of the Cincinnati Convention. True, they never mentioned the fact to any one; but then the people here are very reticent except upon "dead points in stocks;" and so they allowed the other half of the great public to be taken by surprise. To a few of us, however, the green fields of Republicanism seemed to have been mowed, and without any cocking or priming, assumed the proportions of a gigantic haystack. The telegram announcing the result of the seventh ballot did not create any very great excitement owing to the fact that that so many "knew that Hayes was the coming man." One opinion is universally expressed, and that is, if the Democrats carry the next election they will have to nominate a mighty good man.

Everybody is out of town. Those who could not afford the cost or spend the time of a visit to the Centennial have gone to the mountains or the various spring and watering places of the Coast. Hundreds of well-known faces are missed from the street, and still they are going. It is fashionable to go to the country. The minister, the lawyer, and the tired man of business, all need rest and recreation. A trip to one of our delightful summer resorts cannot but be productive of much mental and physical good, even though our city's climate is so cool and pleasant. On the Atlantic slope, comfort-seekers are fleeing the crowded cities, and directing their course to more congenial climes. To some the watering places will hold out temptations. Others, who have little taste for fashionable life, will seek a wider field, where profit can be blended with enjoyment. Of these California may expect her full proportion. The journey is a long one from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific slope, but the sublime and novel objects to be seen on the journey will induce many to undertake it. The few discomforts and dangers with which it is attended, compared with a visit to foreign countries, will serve to make it attractive. There is no ocean, with its interminable spread of waters to shut out the land scenery on this seven-day trip—no sea-sickness, no terror, inspired by storms and apprehensions of wreck, but a succession of landscape and mountain scenery to divert the eye and bring knowledge to the understanding. The poet, the artist, the merchant, the mechanic, the farmer, who make the journey, will all discover objects to interest them and obtain a better insight into the geography and topography of the country in which they live than if they had studied American history for an entire collegiate course. This is becoming well understood, and leads us to believe that the tide of travel will have a flow to California nearly equal to that of previous Summer seasons. There are now rail or wagon roads leading to every place of interest in the State—to the Geysers, to Yosemite, to the Big Trees, to the petrified forest, and the favorite bathing places, with medicinal waters, hot and cold, found in nearly every part of the State.

If the attractions of climate, healthfulness, and wonderful and surpassingly beautiful scenery are not enough to attract the tourist or immigrant hitherward, will they not come and look at our wheat fields. The grain harvest of 1876 is the greatest that California has ever produced. It is almost double that of 1864, the year next to it in prolific yield. There is a vastly increased acreage under cultivation, and our broad valleys, from San Diego to the borders of Oregon, nurtured by the abundant rains of the Winter, are golden with the ripening grain and the sheaves which have already fallen before the sickle. All the the estimates of the wheat crop this year agree in placing it at no less than 1,000,000 tons, and one of the prominent merchants in this city even places the surplus at 1,000,000 tons. This, however, may be conceded to be an exaggerated figure, and 750,000 or 800,000 tons may be accepted as the probable quantity available for export. One of the estimates gives the total crop at 1,100,000 tons. Of this, 350,000 tons are deducted for consumption at home, and 750,000 tons are left for shipment abroad. This estimate, it must be borne in mind, does not include Oregon, but there the crop is held on the average from militating circumstances of weather. In California, the grain is in prime condition and unusually fine quality. How this immense crop is to be moved to San Francisco for shipment is a question that excites anxious attention from the farmer and the railroad officials. Unusual efforts will be put forth to accommodate the farmers in the matter of shipment. A statement appeared in an interior journal that the Central Pacific Company had reduced its tariff from Stockton to San Francisco per car load of ten tons, $10. The real facts are that the tariff maximum for this distance is $2 50 per ton, and finding that at this figure shipments were not readily made, the company directed a reduction to $1 50. On the Visalia division the grain shipments will be heavier than ever before, and the same may be said of the Oregon division. If the wheat comes forward regularly and steadily, commencing soon after harvest, there will be no trouble or delay in moving the crop to the coast, but if farmers hold back as they did last year, the subsequent rush for a few weeks may overtax the carrying capacity of the road. The General Freight Agent, however, asserts that the road will successfully respond to all demands.

The People's and Granger's Immigrant Bureau is now earnestly at work. A new Immigration Committee has been organized, of which Mayor Bryant was elected chairman. In accepting the office, Mr. Bryant remarked that California owes her present prosperity and hopes of future importance to the industry and enterprise of immigrants. He hoped that the community would generously second the efforts of the Committee to protect and encourage immigration, as we have room here for millions, and the more come the faster will we progress. He regretted that many were leaving the State now; but the efforts of the Committee, rightly directed, will prevent all that in the future.

The one hundred and first anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill was celebrated in this city Saturday by an almost general display of bunting, which gave the streets quite a gala appearance. The American and foreign vessels in the harbor were also decked out in their colors, in compliment to the day. At mid-day salutes were fired from the various forts, and many persons made a half-holiday of the afternoon. Several large excursions and picnics were held, and literary and musical exercises were held appropriate to the day.

California has been legislating for years, attempting to destroy the squirrel pest without making much progress. There are still localities all over the State where the inroads of these depredators are very destructive to the wheat fields. Now appears another equally voracious enemy, in the shape of rats, which, it is said, have invaded the Kern Lake region by the millions, and are consuming the grain on hundreds of acres of ground. They have been driven from the tules—their usual place of abode—by the high waters. It is feared that, having once obtained a taste of the ripening grain, they will burrow and remain on dry ground, and become a perpetual nuisance.

The discovery that the contractor to build the road to the top of Mt. Hamilton—the spot selected by Mr. Lick for the location of his observatory—has been remiss, if nothing worse, in the performance of his duty, is to be regretted. His bondsmen will be held to account—a responsibility which, we understand, they do not seek to avoid—and the work will go on to completion. The energetic people of San Jose are determined upon that, and are making arrangements accordingly. Mr. Lick resides in Santa Clara county, and his presence, we presume, will be a stimulus to the county authorities to proceed vigorously with the improvement.

The death is announced by private cable dispatch from Queenstown of James H. Latham, of Latham & Co., stock-brokers, California street. Mr. Latham, accompanied by his wife, was on his way to Europe to recruit his failing health, and it is presumed that he died at sea. He left San Francisco about four weeks ago, and was quite ill when he reached New York. After resting there for some days, he recovered sufficiently to undertake the Atlantic trip, but the voyage seems to have been too much for him. He was a brother of Milton S. Latham, and a prominent member of the old Stock Board.

LOCAL SUMMARY.

The Insurance companies have paid the losses of the Brittan, Holbrook & Co. fire, aggregating the sum of $278,687 60.... During the first half of the current month we shipped $2,032,342 in treasure overland, of which $1,098,000 was in gold coin. Besides this $1,802,800 was sent to China and Japan, making a grand total of $3,839,300.... The Central Pacific earned $1,700,000 in May, and $6,262,000 during the first five months of the year, against $1,798,500 for May, 1875, and $6,171,800 in the first five months of that year. The total thus far in 1876 is the largest in the history of the road.... There was quite a scare among the silver coin brokers, Saturday afternoon, and the situation is no better to-day. All are full of coin, and yet the offerings are continued. The best price which brokers offer to-day is 5½ per cent. discount, and this only for small lots. They are themselves sellers at 5@5¼ per cent. discount, the latter figure for lots of $1,000 and upwards. For trade dollars they are offering 8@9 per cent. discount, and selling at 7@8 per cent. discount.

Volume VII.

With this issue THE INDEPENDENT enters upon its seventh volume and year of existence. It appears adorned in almost entirely new dress from head to foot. Its style typographically is also changed, and being now in the most approved fashion, makes its most respectful bow.

A SIGNAL SERVICE INDEED.—Nothing has better shown the great value of the national signal service than its efficient work during the recent gale on the New England coast. Though several vessels were wrecked or stranded, it was not the fault of the vigilant watchers along the bay. Storm signals were hoisted at Thatcher's Island and on all the stations in ample time for vessels to gain a harbor, or at least a safe offing. When the signal of danger was shown at Thatcher's Island, there were 43 vessels in sight, but had all disappeared in a short time and were beyond the reach of serious damage by the gale. It may, indeed, be reasonably assumed that the amount of property saved by this one signal more than covered the cost of the Signal Service for a whole year. When the work done by its faithful operators in preserving life is taken into account, its actual worth must be pronounced inestimable.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE.—The two-thirds rule, which has held in Democratic National Conventions since 1844, is attracting a good deal of attention now, and is everywhere condemned. The rule that a candidate shall not be nominated unless he receive a two-thirds vote of the delegates was instituted by political intriguers to defeat Van Buren, and there never has been any good reason for its detention. It is apt to cause a dead-lock between powerful candidates, and thereby bring about ultimately the nomination of some compromise candidate, who may be unobjectionable to the other contending candidates, but at the same time not be the choice of the people. A simple majority ought to carry the nomination; and it is to be hoped that the obnoxious rule will be abrogated before the balloting shall begin at St. Louis.

A CENTENNIAL PAPER.—Chase & Boruck of the California Spirit of the Times favor us with a copy of their Centennial paper, and a large one it is—no less than 40 large pages, profusely illustrated with portraits of distinguished Californians, prominent buildings, etc. It also contains quite a large amount of interesting and useful reading matter. It is printed on tinted paper and its typographical execution is of the very best, so that altogether this issue of the Spirit of the Times is a most creditable production.

AN EDITOR ASSAULTED.—Webb, of the Amador Ledger, has been showing up the Amador county official thieves, and in so doing, incurred the deadly animosity of the District Attorney, who seems to be the meanest of the lot. The upshot was that the District Attorney, whose name is T. J. Phelps, got a friend to help him and entering the Ledger office while the editor was alone, gave him a severe mauling. Webb, however, is still on the war path and it is to be hoped will make Amador too warm for that gang.

PAINTER & Co., of San Francisco, the heaviest firm of type founders on the Coast, are entitled to our very best thanks for their especial and most successful efforts to fill our recent difficult and somewhat exacting orders of news and job-type, fully meeting the expectations engendered through nearly six years of dealings with them. We opine that if the prints of the country had a trial with type as peculiarly got up as is this font no other kind would be used.

A FOUR HOURS' FIGHT.—Gen. Crook's command engaged the Sioux on the morning of June 17 and fought them for four hours. The Indians retired from the field, but the result was by no means a triumphant victory for Crook. Quite a number were killed and wounded on both sides. The Indians numbered about 2,500, the soldiers about half as many.

SENATOR SHARON was the first public man on the Pacific coast to give expression to the opinion that Hayes of Ohio would be nominated for the Presidency. He was a member of the Nevada delegation, but was not present at Cincinnati. Senator Jones, being a personal friend of the President, was of course a Conkling man.

Through to Los Angeles.

The Virginia City Enterprise and the Los Angeles Express have recently published articles pointing out the advisability of changing the route of the Los Angeles and Independence railroad, or rather its extension, so that instead of running for Utah to continue it northward from this place to Virginia. We most profoundly hope this programme may be carried out. Such a road cutting along the eastern foot of the Sierra Nevadas where is found the most extensive agricultural and richest mineral region in this whole inland basin, would build up a wonderful empire, one far beyond the conceptions of railroad companies and others who judge its capabilities by the desert outlook along the Central Pacific. Why, taking Walker and Owens river valleys alone, both on the proposed line of the road, and we have an area of highly fertile land more than equal to Delaware and Rhode Island combined. And taking the aggregate of other similar lands directly upon or within easy reach of the line, we have half as much more. Bordering the route for full two-thirds its length is what we believe to be the finest mineral belt on the American continent. For a good portion of the distance on the mountains and table lands, but of easy access, is the greatest abundance of the finest fuel and mining timber on the coast. In the Mono lake region is one body of this timber estimated at four or five hundred square miles.

With rapid and cheap communication, such as a railroad would give, our mines by hundreds if not thousands could and would be worked, and at a profit. As it is we are now beyond the pale of "commercial civilization," and it is not possible to even prospect but the very fewest of the most promising. The extra cost which two or three of those are constantly incurring to maintain operations under present adverse circumstances amounts day by day to about as much as would the interest on the whole estimated cost of the road; that is to say the lack of cheap freights now involves an extra cost to two or three successful mining operations (all we have) in amount sufficient to command or pay for money that would very nearly build the entire road.

This road skirting the mountain foot would people valleys and mining camps so wonderfully that the local traffic itself would most assuredly pay more than current expenses thereof. In time and but brief at that the road would create such a traffic as would simply be immense. This would not be a road spanning a 400-mile desert, with nothing to sustain it except at the extremes. As far from that as any road in this State. As it would bring Virginia and Los Angeles in a day's travel of each other the through business would surely be unusually large. Altogether we feel justified in saying it is the most promising railroad investment this day offering west of the Mississippi.

SETTLED, PERHAPS.—By to-day, if not sooner, the question as to who is to lead the unterrified to defeat or victory, as the case may be, has been settled by the St. Louis Convention, which met on Thursday. The attendance at St. Louis is said to be greater and to manifest even more interest than that at Cincinnati. Prognosticators, however, are even worse at sea as regards the probable result than they were at Cincinnati, but let who will be chosen now the surprise won't equal that occasioned then. We will probably hear what was done by the Fourth.

WHAT IT COSTS.—In the last issue of the Kern County Gazette something near fifty summons for delinquent school taxes appear. The several delinquencies vary generally from fifty cents to three dollars. To each is to be added $10 cost of collection. Now, school tax payers over there in the 5th township must be extremely hard up, or extremely foolish to subject themselves to such an enormous cost for nothing.

THE O'Leary walk, in San Francisco, came to a close at 12 o'clock on the night of the 22d ultimo, owing to his refusing to become responsible for the gas bill. The papers came out heavily on him for making such an exhibition, and the last night there was not a dozen present. It is said that O'Leary will never walk again, as he has burst a blood vessel.

FOR THE RAILROAD.—The citizens of San Bernardino, Riverside and that section are fast waking up to the necessity of doing something for the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. They are holding enthusiastic meetings, and will furnish their pro rata to complete the road to San Bernardino.

SUNSET COX.—This brilliant but erratic individual, went philandering off to St. Louis, whereat the House of Representatives of which he was Speaker pro tem., got vexed and removed him from office.

THE indications are that Morrill will decline the proffered Secretaryship, preferring to remain in the Senate.

The Presidential Outlook.

In the coming Presidential election the two great parties will be more evenly matched than they have been in any National contest since the close of the war. With the exception of South Carolina, the vote of the entire South is confidently counted on by the Democratic party for its candidates. This vote with that of the tolerably sure Democratic States, and of New York, lacks only one of being enough to elect a President. The contest will be decided by the votes of the doubtful States, Colorado, Indiana, New Jersey and New York. The following table is based on the votes in each State at the Fall elections of 1874, corrected in some instances by the returns of later contests. Illinois in 1874 gave a united Opposition majority of over 19,000, but this included a large German vote, which is always uncertain:

COMING TO A FOCUS.—Unless those killingly economical Democrats in the House of Representatives receded from their high stand for retrenchment on or before yesterday, June 30, so as to allow the appropriation bill to become a law, public business will be brought to an absolute stand still. The two branches of Congress have been at a dead lock on these bills, the House being resolved to pass them only so cut down as to be utterly insufficient for their several purposes. At least it is so considered by the Senate, which with equal positiveness, refused to concur. After amending the House bill so as to bring the appropriations up to the alleged requirements, the Senate sent them back to the House, upon which the responsibility again falls. If it refuses to accede to the Senate amendments the result will be that every mail route in the United States must suspend or carry mails for nothing, all Foreign Ministers be recalled, all army and navy contracts be annulled, etc. Army Quartermasters have already received orders to pay not another cent to contractors from and after this date, till further orders, these orders being contingent on the passage of these bills. Similar orders have doubtless gone forth to the other departments. Randall, of Pennsylvania, is said to be the reponsible man for this extraordinary, not to say fearful condition of affairs, in, so far, having managed to hold his Democratic confreres up to the work. At last accounts, however, it was said the more sensible of them were showing a disposition to break from his lead and act with common sense in this all important matter, so that while we do not fear for the final result, shall await news on this point with quite as much interest as from the St. Louis Convention.

SMALL POX.—One hundred and six cases of small pox, many of them fatal, are known to have occurred in San Francisco since the disease broke out there. Its ravages appear to be rather on the increase, and on this account the outside attendance on the Fourth will be much smaller than it would otherwise have been.

SCARCITY OF LABORERS.—The Kern county papers say the harvesting and threshing machines in that section are lying idle for the want of hands, for which the demand far exceeds the supply.

BLAINE is no better, and his physicians fear his malady is assuming a typhoid character. There is no probability that he will again appear on the floor of Congress this session.

HE was too solemn a preacher; he didn't suit in Nevada. The chairman of the farewell committee expressed it well; said he: "Now, you can git, pard; we ain't agin religion out here, and it riles us to see a feller spilin it. Git."

THE White Pine News says: "The McGinleys are big trumps—in their line—and manage to keep their audience on the keen verge of expectation—for the play to end, or like the Chinese drama, for some of the actors to die."

IF YOU can give to the fainting soul at your door a cup of water from the well of truth, it shall flash back on you the radiance of heaven. As you save, so shall you be saved.

IN THE affairs of life, activity is to be preferred to dignity, and practical energy and dispatch to premeditated composure and reserve.

Life Shadows.

There are times in our lives when the soul, weary of its earth struggles—childlike—seeks for rest and longs to find it even in the grave.

Sad hearts there are that have outlived those which once beat responsive to their own, whose loved ones all lie hushed beneath the clods of the valley, or so it seems to the unaided vision and the yet unfolded mind; and they turn away from the world's cold gaze and its bitter strifes, and hide their griefs and tears in solitude; leaning alone for sympathy upon the ever welcoming bosom of mother Earth.

How many Gethsemanes have never been recorded, and what bitter, burning tears have rolled down, unseen, from the faces of those doomed to live the bitterest of living deaths!

Oh! the unknown agony of hearts, breaking with untold grief, with none to wait and watch with them in that hour of sorest need—the darkest hour of trial! Why are souls thus made to drink this bitter cup of mental agony, unless there is some victory gained or spiritual strength thus obtained in compensation of this intense suffering? For the agonies of death are no compensation to the anguish of these soul conflicts. Death, to one thus suffering, is a boon to be desired, and is sought by some as a respite from present grief and trouble. But this is desertion from the battle of life, and there must be corresponding penalties attached to this greatest wrong against self love—the deepest principle of life's preservation.

Reader, have you ever been thus tempted to desert the duties and responsibilities of this life? Sick and heart sore, no doubt you may have been from the many misfortunes and wrongs you have suffered, and longed perhaps, to lay your burdens down with your life, and to seek the quiet of the grave! You should, however, remember there is an awakening awaiting the soul on the other side; and, most fearful must it be to those, who may find themselves unbidden, and an unwelcome guest there, where your crime is known to all, and your sphere is made repellant, thereby, to your dearest friends, who are thus prevented from giving you a joyous welcome to your spirit home.

There was a time in my own life, when I seriously thought of leaving the world uncalled for and of summoning the death Angel to come at my command.

The fatal cup was ready, and sadly I knelt to pray a last prayer for God's forgiveness for the act, when these words came to me with great power: "Go out into the sunshine!" I felt forced to obey.

I went out—wandered on by a brookside, and, at length, seated myself on its grassy margin. At first, I thought, "I will throw myself into its limpid waters and die!" But as I sat gazing, abstractedly, upon its rapid current, and listening to the musical murmur as it went joyfully rushing along its winding way, a little bird came and alighting on the branch of a small tree, just over my head, it broke forth into a wild burst of song as if its little heart was too full of gladness to keep from singing, and I felt reproved in spirit, and these words came with a deep impression I can never forget: "Live for a purpose!" Instantly a resolve came into my mind; I will live and battle with ills in every form, no matter what others may do or say, I will try to do right, and do my duty, and leave the result to the Judge of all. Since then, I have passed through far greater trials and sufferings, when I have felt

"The white sea foam of sorrow,
Whiten to my finger tips."

I have said to myself, there is far more courage in facing "the ills we have," than in "flying to those we know not of." Better to say with Job: "I will wait all my appointed time 'till my change comes."

Let me say to the sad and lonely hearted everywhere: look beyond the shadow. No cloud so dark but there is sunlight above it. No night but hath its morn. When we turn our faces to the sun the shadow falls behind us. Never think or believe that no one loves you, for every heart that has felt the pangs of deep sorrow, sympathizes with you consciously or unconsciously, since all souls and worlds are united by the magnetic chords of love, binding them as with loving arms, to the great pulsating heart of the Infinite.

LUNA HUTCHISON.

Owens Valley, June, 1876.

The Value of a Name.

[From the Los Angeles Express.]

One McNalla was indicted by the Grand Jury of last term for the murder of John Walker at the San Fernando Tunnel. At the trial the proof showed that the man killed was William Walker. So McNally was acquitted, under the law, from the variance between the allegations in the indictment and the proof, and remanded to an ensuing Grand Jury for indictment for the murder of William Walker. But further investigation shows that the true name of the murdered man was John Walker. The result is that McNalla is again on the community. Had the Grand Jury indicted him for the murder of William Walker, the proof would be that he killed John Walker, and he would go free. If indicted for slaying John Walker, he would necessarily be discharged on the ground of jeopardy; for he had already been tried and acquitted on an indictment for killing John Walker. By this kind of refining, a man is set free who, perhaps, under the proof, might have been a proper subject for severe punishment. This is the second case within a short time in which justice has been either defeated or bedeviled by an error in names in indictments. It seems to us that a District Attorney can easily avoid such dilemmas, and make trials more certain of resulting in substantial justice. If there be any doubt as to the name of a man slain, error can be avoided by designating the person indefinitely, and leaving the name open to the proof in the trial. In the case of Walker the indictment would have held if it had said "by killing —— Walker at San Fernando Tunnel, whose full name is to the Grand Jury unknown." This easy and frequent defeat of justice will work great injury if suffered to continue.

Proclamation by the President.

This is the centennial anniversary of the day on which the people of the United States declared their right to separate and assume equal stations among the Powers of the earth. It seems to demand exceptional observances. The founders of the Government, at its birth and in its feebleness, invoked the blessings of Divine Providence, and the thirteen Colonies 3,000,000 people have expanded into a nation in strength and numbers, commanding a position which then was asserted, and for which fervent prayers was then offered. It seems fitting that on the occurrence of the hundredth anniversary of our existence as a nation, a grateful acknowledgement should be made to Almighty God for the protection vouchsafed our beloved country. I therefore invite the good people of the United States on the approaching Fourth day of July, in addition to the usual observances with which they are accustomed to greet the return of the day, further, in such a manner and at such times as in their respective localities and religious belief may be most convenient, to make it manifest by some public, religious and devout thanksgiving to Almighty God for the blessings which have been bestowed upon us as a nation during the centuary of our existence, and humbly to invoke the continuance of His favor and protection.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this 26th day of June, A. D. 1876, the one hundredth year of the independence of the United States of America. U. S. GRANT, President.

By the President: Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State.

THERE is a prospect of some trouble at and around Indian Wells. Since the passage of the act giving the Railroad Company the alternate sections the Government has established an Indian reservation at the Wells, and there are quite a number of Indians collected there. Many of these Indians have been in the employ of the Railroad Company for some time, and have proved themselves good workers, laying track with the thermometer marking a degree of heat which no white laborer could stand. Since the location of the Indian Wells station a number of persons have gone there and built huts on the land reserved for the Indians. The greater portion of these structures are occupied as places to sell whisky. The Railroad Company permits nothing of the kind on its land. It seems to be a case demanding the immediate attention of the Indian Bureau.—Los Angeles Herald.

IN TROUBLE AGAIN.—George Perasich, one of the notorious Perasich brothers, of Carson, is in trouble again. Last Tuesday he bit a piece out of the lip of R. Fred Brooks, a storekeeper of Carson. Maybe they can find a jury to say that Perasich was hungry and bit the lip in self-defense.—Reese River Reveille, June 23.

ABOUT A NAME.—The parents of the first child born at Barcelona City, Spanish Belt district, are named Roach, and the Belmont Courier suggests the name of Barcelona Roach for the infant. A much more convenient name to inflict on it, though not quite so pretty, would be Cock Roach.—R. R. Reveille.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 1,..... 1876.

NOTICE.

The issue of THE INDEPENDENT for July 8th will contain the oration of Jas. E. Parker, of this paper, to be delivered at Lone Pine on the Fourth, together with a full report of the proceedings of the day at that place, and also, if possible, of those at Darwin, Bishop Creek and Benton. The oration will consist in the main of a complete and entirely authentic sketch or history of Inyo county from the time of Joe Walker's first visit down through all its troublous pioneer days to the first issue of this paper. It has involved both labor and research to collect and collate these interesting facts, which constitute the only historical synopsis of the county ever compiled. The same number will also contain some account of the doings on the Fourth of those handsome birds, the Rowdy Roosters, giving at length the "pome," Declamation of Impudence, "Docksologer" and the "noration" of the Hon. Dictionary Doodlesock, etc. The paper will be valuable for future reference. No orders for extra copies will be filled unless received by the evening of July 5th. The usual discount on agents' orders.

CERTIFICATES FILED.—The following certificates of incorporation have been filed in the County Clerk's office since our last report, under the provisions of the new law requiring such filings on or before July 3: Green Monster Gold & Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to mine for gold, silver and copper in the "Green-Eyed Monster Lode No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and Pride of the Valley Spur, Owens River, Tulare county;" Trustees—John Center, C. B. Polhemus, Henry Gerke, Richard L. Ogden, Samuel L. Palmer; capital stock, $150,000; divided into 1,500 shares. Swansea Mining Company: principal place of business, San Francisco; object, to do a general milling, mining and fluming business in Cerro Gordo and Swansea; Trustees—George S. Mann, W. Allison Wheeler, Henry W. Schmidt, Gustave Wiss, Thomas B. Valentine. Capital stock, $5,000,000, divided into $100,000 shares. Kearsarge Mill and Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—Edward Martin, Joseph Frank, C. H. Van Gorder, M. Rosenbaum, Peter Donahue; capital stock, $2,500,000, divided into 50,000 shares. Union Consolidated Mining Company of Cerro Gordo; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—Mortimer W. Belshaw, Egbert Judson, Victor Beaudry, Galen M. Fisher, George S. Mann; capital stock, $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Silver Sprout Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—Nathaniel Page, A. Wingard, F. H. Alberding, Wm. N. Wade, Almarin B. Paul; capital stock, $250,000, divided into 250 shares. Sunrise Silver Mining Company; principal place of busines, San Francisco; Trustees—J. S. Niswander, H. C. Rollins; N. A. Bechdel, Wm. M. Donnell, T. B. Wingard; capital stock, $5,000,000, divided into 50,000 shares. Dorgan Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—T. B. Shannon, Horace L. Hill, A. C. Morse, William K. Sharp, Henry S. Smith; capital stock, $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Consolidated Slate Range Gold and Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—J. B. Haggin, George Hearst, Joseph Clark, Geo. W. Kidd, J. C. Cousins; capital stock, $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Keystone Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—Charles M. Blair, Patrick Carroll, James Morton, Samuel C. Bates, John R. Hite; capital stock, $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Mountain View Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—A. J. Meany, Charles Blair, James Morton; Patrick Carroll, Michael Skelly; capital stock, $10,000,000, divided into 100,000 shares. Minneatta Belle Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—James B. Beck, John H. Wise, Michael Skelley, John R. Hite, James Morton; capital stock, $10,000,000, in 100,000 shares. "La Société Française d'Epargnes et de Prévoyance Mutuelle," of San Francisco file a certificate of renewal and extension of incorporation. Some of the foregoing represent our mining companies as they stood when formed, years ago, while two or three are of companies just incorporated. The law has the effect of letting us know what companies are bona fide, as well as to compel innumerable fees to the office of the Secretary of State, San Francisco notaries and the San Francisco County Recorder.

ACCOMMODATION STAGE.—In order to accommodate those who desire to go to Lone Pine on the morning of the Fourth, and have no private mode of conveyance, Agent Thompson will change stage time so as to despatch one or more on that morning. To this end Mr. Claggage will arrange along the line north for the mail to reach here very early that morning instead of at noon as usual. This will give parties from up the country a chance to go through direct, which will be quite a saving in time and money.

TRUSTEES ELECTED.—At the school election held here last Saturday, Omai Mairs, P. A. Chalfant and Nathan Rhine were elected Trustees, to serve one, two and three years in the order given. Their is one of these officers we can recommend—that is the second one named. The others can doubtless do as much for "theirselves."

LAW CARD.—Elsewhere will be found the professional card of W. H. Woods, Esq., of Darwin, late of the law firm of Woods & Grant. Mr. Woods has already established himself as a very competent and reliable attorney. He will practice in all the courts of the county.

ATTEMPT AT INCENDIARISM.—About midnight last Saturday, Mrs. Benson, residing close by McMurry & Moore's store at Big Pine, was awakened by the glare of fire shining in through her window and at once gave the alarm. It was soon discovered that the store was on fire in the roof, but, with a little active work, it was soon extinguished. Then, on investigation, it was discovered that the fire was the result of a deliberate attempt by a sneaking coward to destroy property, and take life, too, maybe, since two men were sleeping in the building, one in the store, the other in the saloon adjoining. Neither of these were awakened until after outside parties had fairly extinguished the flames, which was not done until a large hole was burned in the roof and overhead lining inside, the room being full of smoke. The danger to the two men would have been greatly increased had not the cowardly heart of the incendiary failed him in putting his original design into perfect execution, which will be understood from the following: A lot of shavings, whittled with a knife, had been placed in a sugar box and thoroughly saturated with kerosene. In the same box, with their necks projecting through holes in the cover of the box, were two bottles filled with the same explosive liquid. In the midst of the shavings was a short piece of candle held in place by nails, and so arranged as to be easily lighted without disturbing the surroundings. By means of a ten-foot measuring pole sharpened at one end the incendiary placed this very effective sort of a torpedo on the shed roof over the store part of the building. At this stage it seems he became fearful of the results to himself if he set fire directly to the contents of the box by means of the short piece of candle, and, to avoid this risk, he took a sack filled with hay and placing it along side the fire box set fire to it, and made off hurriedly as his foot prints plainly proved. The hay blazing up so brightly caused the timely alarm, as first stated. The party first on the roof found the outside of the box in a blaze, but without giving it a thought, occupied himself some little time with the blazing shingles before throwing it to the ground upon which it fell right side up, and with original contents in place, though the outside of the box was yet burning. Jack Moore threw a bucket of water upon it, and thus it came that the whole devilish contrivance became known. Very little, if any doubt exists among those on the ground as to who the guilty party is, but we cannot undertake to give his name. It was a most diabolical attempt to do harm to a neighbor, and in a way that excites that sort of contempt and indignation which is extremely dangerous to the incendiary, the meanest of all criminals, and the most difficult to guard against. The matter will be judicially investigated.

THAT POLE.—If the old adage that "the longest pole knocks the persimmons" holds good, it is evident Connelly will secure the Independence persimmons July 3—when up goes his staff seventy feet high with appropriate ceremony before and after the hoisting. Salvos will be in order, and the little funeral will be made impressive as the occasion requires. By the way, this being a private enterprise, it is but right to say that J. W. Smith, of the Black Rock saw mill had the pole cut and hauled "off" the mountain after which Connelly took it and paid all expenses. The staff is about fifteen inches in diameter at the bottom with a splice two-thirds the way up, iron bound, and painted white throughout. An iron rod projects some six feet from the top, and on this is to be a fine specimen of our national bird and weather-vane, constructed to order by Davis & Matlack; above is to be a gilt ball. The pole is to be planted on the street corner at the Aldine saloon.

HISTORICAL COMMITTEE.—We are pleased to know that the general Committee of Arrangements for the celebration at Darwin have added a historical committee, consisting of J. M. Murphy, Dennis Searles and Bart. McGee, whose duty it will be to collate historical data of the southern portion of the county in particular, but to be used in connection with similar productions by other individuals and committees elsewhere in the county, so as to make a complete county history for permanent record. Searles and McGee of this committee know Inyo history almost from the beginning, and their personal experiences alone would no doubt make a most interesting book.

STAGE MATTERS.—Frank Cluggage, managing owner of the Northern Stage line is here on a business visit, one point in view being the hope of arranging connections with the Southern line at Lone Pine, so as to avoid some of the inconveniences now complained of. It looks as though this might be done now, since the Southern line has been shortened up by the advance of the railroad enough to give the time for reaching Lone Pine some two hours earlier than heretofore, and thereby permit the stage to this place to come through the same evening.

POST ORDER, No. 18.—Elsewhere we publish Capt. Macgowan's order for the movements of the military under his command on the Fourth. The programme will add a feature to the proceedings of the day that will be looked upon with interest. The time set for the evening parade happens to be identical with that the "Roosters" had intended to occupy with some of their occult demonstrations but no doubt both can go on at the same time without marring anybody's enjoyment materially.

THE PROGRAMME.—It is well to have it understood that the Horrible Roosters will not make their grand entree into Lone Pine until after the close of the regular exercises of the day, with which it is no part of their design to interrupt in the least, as probably would be the result were they to appear earlier.

PAY UP.—That is the sum of B. L. Brown's new advertisement in this issue which is worth reading by all those specially interested.

The Military.

CAMP INDEPENDENCE, Cal.,
July 1, 1876.

2. Immediately after the camp is pitched, a guard of 6 men and 1 non-commissioned officer will be regularly mounted.

3. On the morning of the Centennial, at sunrise, a Federal salute of 13 volleys blank cartridges will be fired by the Company.

4. At 7 o'clock A. M. a full-dress guard will be regularly mounted.

5. At 10 o'clock A. M. the Company will join in the public procession.

6. At noon, or immediately after the procession is dismissed, and before the public speaking commences, a Centennial salute of 100 volleys of blank cartridges will be fired by the Company.

7. At 5 o'clock P. M. a full dress parade will be held.

8. At sundown a National salute of 37 volleys (one volley for each State) will be fired by the company.

9. Tattoo will be beaten at 8 o'clock.

10. Taps at 8:15.

11. Company will return to Camp Independence on July 5, 1876.

By orders of Capt. MacGowan.

W. W. WOTHERSPOON,
2d Lieut. 12th U. S. Infantry,
Post Adjutant.

A SUBSTANTIAL STRIKE.—From the News, and also through private sources, we learn that all Darwin is highly elated at recent developments in the Defiance mine. The especial strike is located in the main tunnel, about 300 feet from the mouth and 250 feet from the surface. The News says of this: "To say that this is the finest smelting ore we have yet seen in this mineral section would give no conception of its true value. It is the finest body of ore to be seen outside of the famous Raymond & Ely mine when it was in all its glory. As to its permanency we have no doubt. The vein dips into the hill; the ore is soft, compact and solid, with no foreign substance intermixing, as in the front vein. The ore resembles the rich yellow ore of the Raymond & Ely. From three assays made yesterday, and taken at random—for there is no choice in the ore—they went $234 25, $443 14 and $465 44. We are overjoyed at the good fortune of the lucky owners. They spent their money without squealing, and now may congratulate themselves on their success." Yet this is by no means the only bonanza lately opened in this wonderful mine. At all points large bodies of fine ore are being uncovered, so that the owners never had occasion to feel prouder of their mine in their lives, and we rejoice with them most truly.

LEE DISTRICT.—Considerable general interest is felt as to the result of pending operations in Lee District, particularly as reports concerning the smallness of the principal mines have led many to think but little was to be expected from the district. Work has been going steadily on upon the mill. Last week it was all ready to steam up, and is no doubt now pounding away upon a lot of as rich ore as the State produces. The following extract from the Coso News will give an idea of the extent and value of the mine, the Cactus, from which it was taken: "The main ore channel or ledge has been cut at a depth of 60 feet from the surface and at this point the ledge is full twenty feet wide, and the entire space from wall to wall is filled with ore that will mill $200 per ton without assorting. The vein shows a dip of over 45 degrees and the foot wall is polished as smooth as glass by ascillation. The ore chimney on the surface has been uncovered a distance of 400 feet, showing a continuity of the vein and same quality of ore. But the vein can be traced by the croppings 2,000 feet, running northeasterly and southwesterly, showing ore the entire distance, with every appearance of maintaining that width."

CONCERNING A JUSTICE OF THE PEACE. As Squire Schalten is going into business at Kearsarge, it leaves us without a Justice of the Peace for this town, though Kearsarge is in the township, but too far away for practical use in this particular. Justice Schalten informs us that he expects to be at Kearsarge most of the time for an indefinite period, and advises that another magistrate be chosen to fill the office here. No doubt this should be done, and we think it will devolve upon the legal fraternity to see about it.

JOB PRINTING, ETC.—Though we are not desirous of any new orders just at this time, yet we wish to say to all who are needing job printing of any sort done (and there is no business man that does not), that we have received a variety of the finest and latest styles of job type and material in the market; also, that we are prepared to do paper ruling to order and in a perfectly satisfactory manner or no charges.

BOOT AND SHOE SHOP.—Mr. G. Walz, as will be seen by his advertisement, has taken the boot and shoe shop lately occupied by Dugal, and is ready to fill all orders in that line, also harness repairing. Mr. Walz carried on business in this place prior to the Panamint excitement which carried him off, and then established a reputation as an excellent workman and as a reliable man.

RAIN.—A shower of several hours duration surprised this region before daylight last Tuesday morning. Since then the weather has been somewhat variable, but the variations generally went from warm to warmer on to hottest, as near as the shorter thermometers would permit without running over at the top.

SETTLED WITH THE STATE.—County Treasurer Isaacs has just made his semi-annual settlement with the State for the half-year ending June 30. The amount paid over was $1,811 15.

WANTED A TOWNSITE.—It seems that Geo. H. McCallum, late Register, thought to do quite a valuable stroke of business in the way of securing a townsite of his own. In anticipation of the pending allowance of lieu lands to this State, he a short time since filed on Sections 23 and 24, Township 19 North, Range 40 east, covering 320 acres, as lieu lands. When the filing was offered Register Briggs saw by reference to his tract book that it was upon vacant land, and not being familiar with the numbers of any of the outlying tracts in Range 40, presumed it was some bit of pasture land and therefore, and as a matter of duty, accepted the filing and forwarded it to Washington for patenting. Yesterday Receiver May, on examing office papers, noted this filing, and being well acquainted with the "lay of the land," saw that it was the identical tract upon which stands the town of Darwin. Register Briggs immediately notified the General Land Office of the facts in the case in order that the application might not be passed to patent, as it would in due course, without a contest. No doubt the patent would have eventually been set aside on the ground of it having been a clear case of fraud, but as it would have cost time and money, it is very likely George could have negotiated a sale of his townsite directly to the original owners, as being the easiest and cheapest way to settle it. This constrains us to repeat what we have before suggested, viz: that it would be much better for the citizens in all such cases to pre-empt their townsite as provided for by law. By so doing it would totally ruin the occupation of lot jumpers and proper owners could rest secure in a perfect title, whether in occupation of their ground or otherwise.

APPLICATION.—It will be noted that the Green Eyed Monster mine applies for a patent. This monstrosity of verdant optics was located in '62, one of the very earliest in this part of the county. It is a huge, silver-copper ledge, situate just across the river, and is now in the hands of a San Francisco company.

GATHERING IN.—W. J. Gill, Jack Horton, and some others to us unknown, passed here yesterday with race stock bound for the Lone Pine races, which occur on the 5th and 6th instant. These races are exciting unusual interest, and will no doubt be largely attended.

EXCUSABLE.—This issue is not as complete by any means as we would like. The excuse is good and patriotic—from the "littlest" devil to the biggest, all hands are more or less responsibly connected with the coming celebration observances.

THREE DAYS' HOLIDAY.—Gov. Irwin has appointed July 3d, 4th and 5th as legal holidays, for this year, so we suppose our officials can lay off with the gentlemen during that period.

NOTA BENE.—Send in your orders for extra copies of THE INYO of next week, containing the oration, noration, poem, pome, declamation of impudence, etc.

"Compositions."

The following truthful criticism is uttered editorially by the National Teachers' Monthly: "For people who have been apparently so well drilled in writing compositions during their school life it is strange what a small percentage of Americans can write a simple letter with ease or correctness. The cause, in our opinion, is to be found in the way in which composition is taught in the great majority of schools. In the first place, it is commenced too soon. Before the child has either ideas or vocabulary, he is called on to write a composition. In the absence of any ideas of his own, he borrows them from the most accessible source. The result is, that in nine cases out ten the composition is a number of unmeaning phrases, blended in such a way as to betoken industry if not honesty on the part of the pupil, and culpable negligence or downright ignorance on the part of the teacher who does not detect the plagiarism and prevent its recurrence. Another cause—and this is peculiar to high schools and colleges, so-called—is the use of false eloquence and highly wrought rhetorical flourishes. Schoolmasters must give common sense topics on which to write, and where the subject is left to the choice of the pupil he should be directed to choose such. No such topics as the 'Higher Æsthetics,' 'Talks with Angels,' 'Nights with the Gods,' 'Travels in Jupiter,' or 'Visits in the Moon,' should be permitted, and least of all should they be subjects of essays for Commencement day."

MASTER (smiling)—There's a most extraordinary smell, James; I've noticed it several— Hall Porter—I don't wonder at it, sir. I've spoken about it down stairs. The butler, sir, you see, is "'igh church," which he 'as fit up a horatory in the pantry, and burns hincense. We could stand that; but the cook is the "low church" persuasion, and she burns brown paper to hobviate the hincense. It's perfectly hawful of saints' days, sir.

Land Scrip in 40, 80, and 160 acre pieces for sale. This Scrip is assignable, and can be located in the name of purchaser upon any Government land subject to private entry, at $1 25 per acre. It is of equal value with Bounty Land Warrants. Send stamp to Gilmore & Co., for pamphlet of instruction.

Arrears of Pay and Bounty.

Officers, Soldiers and Sailors of the late war, or their heirs, are in many cases, entitled to money from the Government of which they have no knowledge. Write full history of service, and state amount of pay and bounty received. Enclose stamp to Gilmore & Co., and a full reply, after examination, will be given you free.

Pensions.

All Officers, Soldiers, and Sailors wounded, ruptured, or injured in the late war, however slightly, can obtain a pension by addressing Gilmore & Co.

Cases prosecuted by Gilmore & Co., before the Supreme Court of the United States, the Court of Claims, and the Southern Claims Commission.

Each department of our business is conducted in a separate bureau, under charge of the same experienced parties employed by the old firm. Prompt attention to all business entrusted to Gilmore & Co. is thus secured. We desire to win success by deserving it.

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

READ AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS. THE MOST IMPORTANT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT

BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

LEGAL.

NOTICE IN RELATION TO HIGHWAYS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE LAWS in relation to Highways as applicable to the County of Inyo will be strictly enforced from and after date. Attention is called to the subjoined extracts of said laws:

SECTION 4, SPECIAL ROAD LAW FOR INYO COUNTY. The Road Overseer shall have the entire supervision of all the public roads within said Inyo County. Road Districts and District Road Overseers in Inyo County are abolished.

SEC. 2746, GENERAL ROAD LAW.—If the encroachment is denied, and the owner, occupant or person controlling the matter or thing charged with being an encroachment, refuses either to remove or permit the removal thereof, the Road Overseer must commence, in the proper Court, an action to abate the same as a nuisance; and if he recovers judgment, he may, in addition to having the same abated, recover ten dollars for every day such nuisance remained after notice, and also his costs in said action.

SEC. 2647. If the encroachment is not denied, but is not removed for five days after the notice is complete, the Road Overseer may remove the same at the expense of the owner, occupant or person controlling the same, and recover his costs and expenses, as, also, for each day the same remained after notice was complete, the sum of ten dollars, in an action for that purpose.

SEC. 2748. No gates must be allowed on any public highway duly laid out, except on highways running through lands subject to overflow to such extent as to remove the fences. When so allowed they must be erected and maintained at the expense of the owner or occupant at whose request or for whose benefit they were erected. If such expense is not paid, the gate must be removed as an obstruction.

SEC. 2750. Whoever obstructs or injures any highway, or obstructs or diverts any watercourse thereon, is liable to a penalty of five dollars for each day such obstruction or injury remains, and must be punished as provided in Section 588 of the Penal Code.

SEC. 2754. Road Overseers may put up on bridges under their charge notices that there is "Five dollars fine for riding or driving on this bridge faster than a walk." Whoever thereafter rides or drives faster than a walk on such bridge is liable to pay five dollars for each offense.

T. F. A. CONNELLY,
n31314 Road Overseer.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Henry M. Isaacs, Plaintiff, vs. Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. Summons. The People of the State of California send Greeting to Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in Second Township, in the County of Inyo in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, on the Ninth Day of September, A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The said action is brought to recover judgment against said Defendants upon their certain promissory note dated July 20, 1872 payable on demand, for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of three per cent per month from date, principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United States of America.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint as above required, said Plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, together with all interest thereon and costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand at said Township, this 16th day of June, A. D. 1876.

Oration.

Delivered at Lone Pine, July 4th, 1876, by Jas. E. Parker.

Mr. President, Ladies and Fellow Citizens: As the descending rays of the noonday sun have in successive order caused the sun dial's shadow to mark the meridian hour in city and hamlet across the western continent, on this great day of days forty-four million sovereign people have been represented in more than two thousand gatherings. A spirit of Centennial '76 pervades the land as we assemble to celebrate the triumphal close of our proud nation's first century of existence. Far away to the east, where our western sun now in its zenith is fast sinking toward the horizon, are collected to-day in one grand commemorative mass, assembled in the city which guards that hallowed spot where Liberty's inspiration had first fruition, a vast populace numbering more than the whole colonies contained a hundred years ago. There is being portrayed to the magnates of all the world's monarchies and despotisms, drawn hither from Orient and Occident, a grand attestation of America's political and material progress—that solid enterprise and advancement which is born of equality and free thought, pertaining alone to our system of free, democratical government. There is being celebrated upon a scale of grandeur and magnificence unequalled in modern times this centennial anniversary of that day—the Fourth of July—which adorns history's tomes as marking the era of profound ideas, as relating to the actual inauguration and progress of the soundest principles and science of human government as most illustriously exemplified in this vigorous republic of the New World, which bears in theory the nearest approach to the idealities of Plato and Moore. There the clanging tongue of that brazen bell which bears upon its swelling sides the divine inscription "Proclaim Liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof," has again joyously pealed forth as it did a hundred years ago that God has ordained and Liberty decreed Freedom! There has the earnest and ringing eloquence of America's famed orators, there have the proud pæans of America's noblest poets, been offered in praise of the deeds of Jefferson and his Congress—those inspired patriots who, assembled in solemn and portentious conclave, promulgated and ratified that apex of sublimity, the Declaration of Independence, a document which declared and has maintained the liberty of a continent! Such a triumphal effect could not have resulted from a mere fortuitous concourse of causes, but rather that they recognized that civil and political Liberty, secured through the instrumentality of written constitutions and laws prepared by elective legislatures, is like Truth immortal and hence eternal!

From the immortal Washington and his heroic successors Republican America is our heritage. Span the hiatus of national history. Dwell not upon the wonderful advancement in arts and sciences, pause not to recall the giant strides of conquest and purchase, recount not the vast and unprecedented increase of population, but think for a moment upon the political present. Demanding as it does our most devoted consideration, let every native and foreign born citizen forget not the responsible relation he bears toward the corporate whole. Purely republican governments are so constituted that where the subversion of a principle is menaced it is within the province of the corrective ballot to forever enforce its maintenance. The study of how to wield such power wisely and well is then the paramount duty of each and every member of the body politic. But without a certain degree of natural and acquired intelligence an independent and comprehensive exercise of the prerogatives of citizenship is impossible. Out of a full appreciation of this self-evident truth has grown the corner stone of the Republic—our munificently endowed and all prevalent system of public schools. Then protect them; expand them, make them absolutely unassailable! Let no present or future political economist blind his vision to invidious attacks upon them. Rather by far emulate that bright feature of the political ethics of ancient Athens, which exacted from all under its care a solemn oath of fealty to her institutions. Let this proud government, based upon the approval and consent of the governed, throwing open its protecting arms to refugees from every land, swear every free man and citizen to forever stand by the grand bulwarks which alone perpetuate its existence—the Constitution, the colleges and the free, unsectarian schools, for they comprise the Mishna and the Gemarra of our national Talmud!

But, Mr. President and ladies and gentlemen, beyond an appropriately brief reference to the origin and principles of our general government, it becomes my task to speak of California and trace the history of Inyo. The expansion of a century enables us, three thousand miles away from the scenes where was formed the compact of States, to make a contribution to the general recount of glorious deeds enacted by the vanguard of that class who conquer wilds and deserts to the uses of civilzation. The State's own historian can tell its tale; of Cabrillo's discovery of the land in 1548; of Sir Francis Drake's attempted appellation of New Albion thereto in 1758; of the first white settlement through the foundation of missions by Junipero Serra in 1768; of the Mexican overthrow of Spanish power in 1822; of the declaration of independence thereof and selection of Fremont as Governor by the American settlers July 4th, 1846; of the discovery of gold in '48; of the '49 immigration and California's admission to the sisterhood of States in '50—all this more are familiar embellishments of history's bright pages. But for the yet uninscribed annals of our own locality, for the records of discovery and early attempts to habitate this fertile valley and develop these mineral-charged mountains, there yet remains the duty to collate and prepare. Less than one score years ago began the troublous times and experiences of our earliest pioneers, some of whom are now within hearing; yet in the passing and changing pageants of life every hour diminishes our recollection of by-gone days, and without a recall and recording thereof a few short years would obliterate all save vague and tradition-like memories.

At this day, confronted by the prosperous towns of the county, surrounded by the peaceful homes of the valley and listening to the hum of mining industry in the mountains, few can realize Inyo's great isolation and remoteness. Far away from the lines of rail and telegraph communication which have been and are working such wondrous changes throughout the coast, it is even now apparent that to but little appreciable extent have these advancements innured to our special interest. What, then, must have been the trials and hardships of those mountaineers and explorers who sought fame and fortune by bold dashes through the wild and forbidding deserts which surround us? To what high courage and intrepid daring—amid the terrors of an almost unknown land, far from the usual haunts of men and confronted by cruel and wily foes—do we owe the fact that Inyo county now exists?

In 1845, a branch of the Fremont exploring expedition, headed by that famed mountaineer, Capt. Joe Walker, accompanied by Prof. Richard Owens and Lieut. Kern, with 12 assistants, entered the valley from the north, passed down on the western side of the river to the lake and from thence southward. From a spot within eye reach the lake's expanse was first gazed upon by white man, Richard Owens, in whose honor the party by common consent named the lake, the river and the valley. Atkinson, a member of the party, relates that the wagons of the train struck terror to the hearts of the Indians, and that the same, through the exhaustion of the animals, had to be abandoned near the foot of the lake. Gody, another member, circumstantially details an Indian attack of seven day's duration very near this spot—but the stories conflict, and I consider the latter as unauthenticated. Contrary to general impression, the Pathfinder himself never saw the valley, having passed in his terrible expeditions of '44 and '48 both to the north and south of it.

From this brief note of the discovery thereof, there is a notable blank in the country's history for nearly ten years, unless we recount the awful sufferings of the emigrants of 1850 whose skeletons have bleached and passed away in the Lost or Valley of Death. In that time when the sea shall give up its dead, when the morn of resurrection shall have come, then, O barren and torrid desert, yield thy victims! Men brave thy dangers now, while the echoes of miners' blasts are reverberating through the rolling hills which surround thy depths.

To hasten on. Townships plats in the land office set forth the Summer of 1856 as the time of the surveying and sectionizing of the valley, by contractors under Von Schmidt. It is stated that in 1858 the Pierce party, four in number, visited the valley in search of a cattle range, coming via Mono. The placer mines of Mono had been discovered, and in November, 1859, a company of five started thence from the southern country. They discovered and explored the surroundings of Big Lake, which they supposed to be that of Mono. Pressing northward, they passed on the east side of the river, and upon the route found relics of the Walker party, the only indication of any previous presence of white men. The Indians were shy, but were treated with and fed, rendering much valuable assistance. The breaking out of the Washoe and Esmeralda silver excitements were nearly cotemporaneous, and shortly the valley became a route of travel for venturesome prospectors passing northward. The red man's importunate demands were such as to well nigh impoverish many before they reached the silver land.

May 24th, 1860, a party known as Dr. French's, mainly from Butte, consisting of 15 men, arrived in search of the wire and cube silver of the Gunsight. They located mines near what is now called old Coso, to work which the Olanche mill was afterward erected. July 15th the construction of an arrastra was begun, from which came the first precious metal ever produced in Inyo, unless we except the unseparated specimens taken from the Gunsight itself ten years before. Darwin Canyon and Falls were discovered by Bailey, Kitchena, Hatch and Farley of the same expedition, who gave the place its name and the latter of whom published in the year following interesting accounts of the wondrously painted rocks and canyons "south of the Coso Region." From a point about 6 miles northeast of the present great smelting center, pack loads of rich ore were taken to Visalia and from thence to San Francisco, where amidst the wild silver excitement of the times stock certificates representing shares in the fabulously rich mines were sold at high figures, but the explorers returned no more. July 23, 1860, by the organization of Argus mining district, was the first establishment in what is now Inyo of anything bearing the semblance of civil government, and was in what is now considered the new districts and in what is the most prosperous mining portion of our county of to-day.

In that year a small party from Solano and a more extensive one from Tulare and San Francisco located the first argentiferous-galena ledge of the country. The two last named parties had formed a consolidation of interests, and this first location came to be called the "Union," upon which claim and the "Eclipse," the old Union quartz mill was subsequently erected. The mining district, which then included the whole western slope of the Inyo range, was named in honor of the Tulare party's leader, Col. Russ. During the Summer a surveying party under Capt. Fordham examined the valley, and before the close of that year followed the organization of the White Mountains and Deep Spring districts; prospecting became general from the rocky canyons of Montgomery to the rugged steeps of the Telescope Range.

Prior, however, it had been proposed to set aside this valley for Indian reservation purposes, but such action was never really taken, although upon different occasions the military commanders ordered settlers out—a requirement which was never fully complied with. But the country's fame as a grazing land had reached the overrun cattle plains of Tulare, and from thence and elsewhere came venturesome stock men born to frontier life, whose destiny it was in after years to bear the brunt of the hardships and exposures incident to the settlement of a new country occupied by treacherous and marauding foes. Prominent among this class are so many of our present citizens that to enumerate them would be but a repetition of names familiar to us all—men who were chosen to authority and made leaders then, while they have since been honored with the highest and most responsible civil positions within the gift of our franchises.

In the brief time allowable upon this occasion, to present in chronological order an account of the inception and progress of the various mining, agricultural and manufacturing industries of the county would require a power of accurate condensation far beyond my ability, and except incidentally must perforce be omitted, while an effort will be made to tell of the Indian wars.

With true conservatism, your historian attempts only to reach truth. The desire for dominion by the superior white race, assuming the right of civilization to rule and finally conquer, doubtless led the impetuosity of some men to overt and unjustifiable acts, which the untutored mind of the savages naturally but unfortunately attributed to a concert of action or indorsement by the whites. There are records of incessant levies by the Indians for stock for food, notably complied with for the sake of peace by some who afterwards became the most bitter Indian haters. Occasionally bad Indians, not under the control of the chiefs, were punished with death for stealing and killing cattle and horses, a sequel to one of these affairs being the killing of an unknown white man by self-authorized avengers from the tribe.

In the month of October, 1861, a train of six teams, laden with lumber and grain, accompanied by a large band of cattle, arrived in the northern part of the valley and effected a settlement for Samuel A. Bishop, from Fort Tejon, who arrived with his family January 2, 1862. Prior to that the only habitation in the valley was a stone house still standing at Independence. During the Summer season of '62 two adobe structures, belong respectively to Ault and Moore & Begole were buit at Lone Pine, and old Owensville and Round Valley became sparsely occupied by stock-men.

A man known as "Yank" had been killed by the Indians at the ford near Owensville. The citizens proposed the hanging of Joaquin Jim for the commission of the deed, which would doubtless have been carried into effect but for the opposition of W. A. Greenley. On the day following a red marauder was shot and killed while attempting to steal cattle. Through great effort a council between the whites and Indians was called, at which a cessation of hostilities was proposed and agreed upon, the old Indian Chief Captain George marking scores upon the ground to indicate that so far accounts were even, as one white and one red brave had met with death. The treaty then formed set forth as follows:

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, citizens of Owens Valley, with Indian chiefs representing the different tribes and rancherias of said valley, having met together at the San Francis Ranch, and after talking over all past grievances and disturbances that have transpired between the Indians and whites, have agreed to let what has past be buried in oblivion; and as an evidence of all things that have transpired having been amicably settled between both Indians and whites, each one of the chiefs and whites present have voluntarily signed their names to this instrument of writing.

And it is further agreed that the Indians are not to be molested in their daily avocations by which they gain an honest living.

And it is further agreed upon the part of the Indians that they are not to molest the property of the whites, nor to drive off or kill cattle that are running in the valley, and for both parties to live in peace and strive to promote amicably the general interests of both whites and Indians.

Made but to be broken, the Indians respected this compact of peace no longer than the 27th of the following month. Marauding began, and a state of general alarm ensued. March 22d, 1862, in the rocky foot-hills to the east of this village of Lone Pine, occurred the first regular fight. Swarming among the boulders' crevices were an unknown number of Indians, against whom 20 settlers moved to the attack. Thirty-seven Indians fell victims to the deadly American rifle, while J. S. Broder and Thos. Hubbard carry scars from arrow wounds received during a four hours contest.

A lull occurred, both parties sleeping upon their arms—the swift Indian couriers calling in allied tribes from near and far, while the tidings of an open Indian war in Owens Valley spread abroad. April 5th Col. Geo. S. Evans arrived at the site of the present town of Independence, then called Little Pine, with detachments of 10 men each from Companies D, G and I of the 2d Cavalry California Volunteers, under the respective commands of Lieut. Geo. D. French, Capt. James Winne and Lieut. Wm. A. Oliver. Coming from San Francisco via Los Angeles, this small party had exchanged many a shot with the Indians from Haiwai northward. At Little Pine a band of warriors who had surrounded the old stone house, containing a half dozen besieged settlers, fled at their approach.

The valley then contained nine tribes of Indians, seven of whom had regular chiefs, the whole being under old George, then big chief of all the Pah-Utes, old Shandau, the former chief, having a short time before received his quietus in a skirmish near "Putnam's." The bad element of tribes from the valleys of Kern, Walker and Carson were rapidly joining, aggregating 2,000 warriors. In an almost savage state, their swarthy visages arrayed in the hideousness of war paint, with heads encircled by eagle feathers and rattle-snake skins, armed with poisoned obsidian-pointed arrows and guns collected in years before, covertly supplied with ammunition by treacherous outlying tribes on the north and west—this army of red devils, familiar with the country's rocky recesses and accustomed to predatory warfare, were by no means an enemy contemptible in either cunning, skill or numbers. All treaties had been ruthlessly violated, mainly by and through that chief fighter and instigator of many murders, Joaquin Jim, a renegade from Fort Tejon, who met with a deserved but mysterous death in Round Valley after all the troubles were over.

Hanson and another citizen were killed by the Indians at Big Pine, and on the 4th day of April, 1862, Indians in numbers estimated from 1,000 to 1,500, arrayed in line of battle nearly one mile in length, defiantly provoked a fight with the settlers at Bishop, the Indian hordes of more than twenty to one proving victorious. With a warrant of arrest for the notorious Joaquin Jim, Sheriff Scott and posse had come to the valley from Mono and joined in this affray, as they had in the previous one at Lone Pine. While lying in a water gully, surrounded by Indians, the citizen soldiery made a gallant resistance, reserving fire for only the braves who presented a fair mark. In a seeming interim, Scott, in attempting to light a pipe, raised his head too high and received a leaden missive which caused instant death. Pheasant fell and Morrison received a mortal wound, soon after which the Indians attempted a charge. At this juncture a quantity of loose powder, lying convenient for use, became accidentally ignited; the flash, while it wounded and burned some of the brave band, caused a sudden halt and dismay of the whooping horde, during which a hasty retreat was made by the remainder of our small force. Drs. Owens and Mitchell participated and attended the wounded, and our subsequent Sheriffs, Greenley and Passmore, fought through all this and many later conflicts. By coming down through the center of the valley, the party avoided an ambush well laid for them by their bloodthirsty foes at Big Pine.

Had the succor which was then rapidly moving toward the scene been commensurate with the task before them, a different story might now be told of the fight which followed at Round Valley the next day. Lieut. Noble, with Co. A of same Regiment, from Fort Churchill, arrived at Bishop; our citizens, fleeing with their wounded, met Evans with his command and turned back. With a force of 120 all told, Evans pursued the Indians through freshly fallen snow to Round Valley, where occurred the most hotly contested fight of all, the Indians endeavoring with consummate daring to draw the whites into ambush. Advancing to the mouth and up the sides of an arroyo, horses were left behind and all fought in true Indian style; the stentorian tones of Evans rang out, "Now, every man for his life!" Col. Mayfield, who led the citizens, was shot dead and by two soldiers dragged back to the plain and buried. Another citizen and two soldiers shared his fate, when our men beat a retreat to avoid being surrounded by the numberless foe. Now ensued a general stampede from the valley. All citizens joined, and with their stock moved out to the north and south under escort of the two bodies of soldiers. Under the presumption that the savages would burn the stone house at Independence, a mine of blasting powder, with connecting fuse, was carefully placed around it; but the wily Indians had watched the maneuver and they just as carefully unearthed it.

Evans, impressed with the country's general value, reported it well worthy of Government protection, and in June of the same year received orders to return with a force of 250, rank and file. From where Cartago now stands a portion of the command was sent southward to the Coso country, while the remainder made rapid movements up and down the valley as bodies of Indians were reported. Many of the miners and stock men returned and resumed their former avocations. July 2d, by some swift movements which so confounded the Indians that their usual mountain fire signals availed them not, Evans surprised a small camp at the foot of Big Lake and placed 13 Indians hors du combat. The force moved from this place to Camp Independence, stopping opposite the old Union mill across the river to fire a national salute, and on the ever memorable Fourth hoisted the stars and stripes on the parade ground of their future military home—hence the name Camp Independence, a most appropriate piece of nomenclature.

These California volunteers had arrived at the point of hating the treacherous Indian nature worse than the stinging viper, and upon scouting expeditions took no prisoners. By incessantly harrassing them and destroying their caches of food, peace for a time was enforced, and the country began acquiring population. Mills were built upon the river, and the first attempts at agriculture inaugurated. In September Evans was called to headquarters and the military management, after an interval, fell upon Capt. A. M. McLaughlin.

Nothing transpired worthy of note in a hasty sketch of this kind until February 27, 1863. Then Captains Jack and Jim proclaimed that since their taboose had quedowd (gone), they were going north to share with Tinnemaha. Next day Hank's cabin at Bend City was attacked and robbed. On the 2d of March, at Big Pine, occurred an unprovoked and cowardly attack by Indians upon McDonald and the Ayres brothers, the first named being killed and one of the latter badly wounded. On the 3d Mr. Bellows was killed with an arrow near the Union mill, and a squad of soldiers under Lieut. Doty had one man killed and two severely wounded in a skirmish at Black Rock. March 7th, while traveling down from Aurora, Mrs. McGee, her daughter and son-in-law, Jesse Summers, her son Allie and a negro known as Charley, arrived at Big Pine and there camped. Next morning Charley discovered the remains of McDonald, and the party took hasty flight. Following the main road till within 18 miles of the Fort, they turned to cross the river, with the Indians now in close pursuit. Cutting the animals loose from the wagons, they finally succeeded in crossing the river, under fire of arrows and bullets. Summers hung by the mane of the horse upon which his wife rode (Mrs. McGee and son taking the other), and thus they escaped—while the negro, in attempting to lasso a loose horse for his own use, was captured by the Indians and suffered death at the stake, after three days torture. The burning was subsequently confessed by the chiefs, and its truth may be assumed from the fact that the black man had made himself a terror to the Pah-Ute race, having with his own hand killed four at the Lone Pine fight, and being one of the participants in the very first Indian killing. An excerpta from the chronicles of the times may here be taken, to the effect that no effort was made to punish these outrages by the troops then at the Fort; citizens were told by the officers that the garrison lacked ammunition. But in the light of facts, it does not appear that they were remiss.

About a week subsequent, 35 citizens and the companies of Capts. Ropes and Nobles, numbering about 120 men, engaged the Indians in large numbers at and around the site of the present village of Big Pine, which resulted in the driving of the Indians to the mountains, an unascertained number being killed. Two soldiers were badly wounded. Several days afterward, Broder, Owens and another citizen, with 6 soldiers under Sergt. Huntington, had a running, defensive fight with old George—clad in citizen clothes—and about 300 of his band, from Charley's Butte to the hills surrounding Fish Springs, killing perhaps half a dozen savages and finally effecting escape.

On the evening of the 18th, at Chief George's rancheria, on the beautiful stream which does but should not bear his name, the Indians slaughtered some cattle, and upon the next day the band moved southward. A hasty consultation of citizens, who had previously organized themselves, was called and messengers despatched to Camp Independence, to the Union mill and to Lone Pine. By 10 o'clock of the following day a party of 13 soldiers and 13 citizens were armed, in the saddle and on the trail. Upon the western border of the lake, opposite the place on the mountains marked by an old land slide, the band of 33 spoil-laden Indians were attacked, but one of whom survived. Here were recovered blankets and guns belonging to the Summers party, including an ivory mounted pistol formerly carried by Negro Charley—showing that the retributive blow had been directed aright.

June 4th, 1863, the first band of Indians, numbering 400, under Capt. George, came from across the Inyos bearing a white flag, sued for peace and unconditionally surrendered to the Post Commandant. A large quantity of arms were given up, among which were many borrowed from outside tribes. George and his band had been confronted by Connelly and two or three others of Bend City, who secured from him a virtual surrender. On the strength of this, committees from the citizens demanded from McLaughlin his prisoners of war, to deal with as they should elect. This officer, himself anxious for a wholesale slaughter of the Indians, most properly refused this request.

An Indian messenger was sent to Coso to urge submission on the part of tribes there; a band of some three or four hundred did come in, who had five of their number killed at the point of the Alabama mountains by a small band of unknown white men. McLaughlin made a wide circuit northward and across the Sierras for Joaquin Jim and band, but failed to bring him in. Altogether 1,500 were corralled, with a certain Indian agent on hand to plead for their safety. But many escaped, and when, June 17th, in compliance with Government orders, McLaughlin started for the Fort Tejon reservation, but 996 of all sexes and sizes were in file. However, but 400 ever reached Fort Tejon. From thence they were taken to the Tule River reservation, and in a few months the original Indians were back in the mountains surrounding the valley to all intents and purposes the same as before, while the Government doubtless continued to pay for their subsistence. With the Indians went the entire command, and McLaughlin, without authority, sold the military ground and buildings.

Becoming aware of the Indians' return, and hoping if possible to avoid attacks upon prospecting parties in the mountains and raids upon stock on the plains, ambassadors were sent to the Indians asking for their return to the valley and for future peace. The first part of the request was readily complied with, but the Indians' jealousy and unreasoning hatred perhaps made them less loth to substitute white men's herds for food after they arrived, for their usual game and taboose.

Late in the Summer of '63, while traveling down from Aurora, Mark Cornish and W. L. Moore were hostilely accosted by two well armed Indians on the southeast border of Adobe Meadows. They shot and killed them, and were by the rest of the band pursued for many miles southward. Reaching Owensville, they found what was called the "Church party," who had trusted the Indians implicitly, and seemed to consider that the red-skins would behave if the whites would. This company, consisting of Long, Erickson, Parker and Merryman, proceeded up through and beyond Round Valley, guided by an Indian decoy. Upon the following day, in a canyon near the river, the first three were murdered and horribly mutilated by the Indians, the latter effecting an almost miraculous escape by dashing into and down the rocky river bed. Fifteen citizens from the valley, headed by Passmore and Hanks, went to the place, recovered and interred the remains.

The Union, Ida and Chrysopolis mills on the river were in a more or less flourishing state from '62 to '64. Citizens were continually losing their finest horses, the Indians killing them to eat. November 4, 1864, a wounded Indian, confessed and proven guilty, "was taken out and shot"—by two men, one of whom had received a severe arrow wound a night or two before. Petitions were sent to Gen. McDowell asking for military protection, but receiving no encouragement, many left the valley. October 23, 1864, at a meeting held at Bend City, the remaining few resolved to stay and protect themselves and property by fighting it out to the last. A company of 24 men, under the command of Greenley and Moore as Captain and 1st Lieutenant, was organized; and it is due to those men and a few subsequent allies—whose names will in some other manner be given to the public—to say that to them almost solely and alone is due the final and most effectual settlement of the troubles. In Owensville, a citizen company was likewise organized, numbering twenty men, under the leadership of Capt. Graham. The first named company began moving over the country, and when coming upon Indian camps notified the tribes of the whites' determination to condignly and indiscriminately punish Indians for violations of property rights. W. Watkins, owning the Tinnemaha Ranch near Fish Springs, was made a victim to Indian ferocity.

November 27, 1864, three Indians made a not unusual visit to the Cinderrilla mine, in Deep Spring, where three men were at work. Demanding a drink of water they were sent to the cabin for it, and while there one of them shot and maimed for life Wm. Matthews. The other two killed with arrows a man named Crough, at the windlass, who fell into the shaft. Byrnes, almost buried in the depths by the rolling rocks sent down by the Indians, and wounded with shots from a pistol left above by the murdered man, had to remain in his terrible position until the Indians tired. Matthews had run at first, and finally reached the valley more dead than alive. The miners of White Mountain district, under the leadership of J. S. Broder, also organized and came to the valley, leaving their effects in charge of old Joe Bowers, a faithful Pah-Ute chief who never betrayed his trust—who is to this day honored by all who know him, and who enjoys reward therefor as a pensioner on the Government's pay roll of Indian scouts.

A portion from each of these companies joined, proceeded to the scene to bury the dead and if possible to punish the perpetrators. They found a burned and plundered camp, interred the remains of Crough and returned.

All industrial interests had reached the lowest ebb, owing to the universal failure of the ill-advised mining ventures, and here occurred a still further decrease of population.

At midnight of the 31st of December, 1864, a number of citizens, assembled at Lone Pine—then a collection of perhaps half a dozen habitations—received tidings of the murder of Mrs. Maguire and child at Haiwai. Maguire himself had gone to Big Pine for a plough, leaving two men at his home during his absence. As was afterwards clearly ascertained, Indians to the number of 14 attacked the house; set fire to the place and murdered the woman and child. The men, two craven cowards who deserved the death afterwards threatened them by the irate citizens, fled at the first alarm, taking guns and a pistol, only to soon drop them in their wild flight, loaded as they were. The remains of the two victims were found in an attitude and condition indicating a defense to the last—the woman having received thirteen and the boy seven arrow wounds. This was the return made for her long continued liberality and kindness toward the Indians.

In immediate and rapid pursuit the white men, 30 in all, set out, and after trailing the separating band of red murderers for two days, finally tracked one-half of them to their camp near the mouth of Owens River. At daylight on the morning of the 5th of January, 1865, began a slaughter of Indians in which nearly 100 were killed or driven into the river and lake to drown. Greenley and Moore led different divisions; Maguire and friends had joined, and their vengeance spared neither young nor old, squaws or children, notwithstanding Greenley's plan of allowing the latter class to escape. Two more had been killed the night before by Begole and others, while attempting to escape from custody at Lone Pine. A vengeful fever of excitement pervaded all classes as the news spread up the valley. It was told at Camp Independence, then occupied by Warren Matthews, and a bystander named McVickers dropped two Indians as they run; a party of 18 citizens destroyed a rancheria near the same place, and on the same day, in the foot-hills near the present Taboose Ranch, the lives of 17 Indians went to swell the fearful expatiation.

April 1, 1865, Capt. Kelley, commanding Co. C, 1st Nevada Volunteer Infantry, who had been in camp at Bishop from January 13 preceding, took possession of Camp Independence. He was finally succeeded by the Regulars under Devin, since which time the Post has been occupied by different commands thereof.

Thus in briefest outline is given an account which might fill a volume. Completely subdued and whipped, the savages have since observed the profoundest respect and most peaceful relations toward the whites within the valley itself, though the arrival of soldiers during the same month, and the continuous military presence since, had and doubtless has much to do with their perfect quiescence. However, the Coso region to the south continued subject to merciless forays; the Willow Spring and Lotta quartz mills were burned and the owners and operatives forced to abandon that country.

Turning from these topics, a relief comes in referring to the discovery of gold placers by Baker at Big Pine; Kearsarge, Fish Springs and the Alabama mineral deposits were opened; cereal and fruit culture had gained headway; the pioneer saw and grist mills had begun operations; Montgomery had enjoyed for a time a weekly newspaper called the Pioneer; further and more valuable mineral developments were being made; the first regular stage line and postoffice was established; the country began to rapidly regain its lost population, and by act of the Legislature, approved March 22, 1866, the county of Inyo as originally bounded, was erected, out of portions of Tulare and Mono.

Under the organic act the Commissioners named therein—T. J. Goodale, L. F. Cooper, Wm. A. Baker, L. Tuttle and W. A. Greenley—called an election April 25, 1866, against which Alexander and Warfield protested; but the following first officials of the county were chosen and in due time assumed their duties, polls being opened at the precincts of Fish Springs, Chrysopolis, Independence, Kearsarge and Lone Pine: Sheriff, W. A. Greenley; Clerk, Thomas Passmore; Treasurer, J. W. Symmes; District Attorney, John Beveridge; Assessor, Jno. T. Ryan; Coroner, R. D. Blaney; County Superintendent, J. Earle; Supervisors, J. R. Westerville, J. R. Hughes and C. D. Begole.

The waning hour warns that time has come for mingling in other scenes. Closing at the time of the organization of the county, at the point where many of to-day's historians have begun, the story's thread is dropped, with the hope that some future follower of Clio may take it up, and as the ever-turning cycles of time roll on weave a woof that so long as time shall last may never lose its chain.

Mainly of the contest with our immediate predecessors in occupancy has this history had to do, but ages and ages ago a far nobler race lived and died amid these hights and vales. Here and there, graven upon the adamantine crags, are sculptured heritages of an unknown race—mysterious symbols mutely pleading for translation, time-defying and awe-inspiring emblems of an ancient and forgotten civilization, the sole evidences of a strange existence, the origin of which seems lost in the mysty abyss of unexplored antiquity. Now well worn highways penetrate the silent fastnesses of the rugged ranges and rudely jostle the craggy monuments of nature upon which are written these mystical hieroglyphics—modern progress in startling juxtaposition with memorials of prehistoric mankind!

Little dreams the busy outside world of the number and vast extent of Inyo's metal bearing mountain chains, comprising more than 12,000 square miles of the most diversified region of the globe. From only the most accessible portions, the world's wealth has been increased by more than eight millions of treasure. From Casa Diablo's inferno on the north to Panamint's abysmal canyon nearly two hundred miles below; from the White Mountains' rugged ranges; from Darwin's silver-loaded hills; from Ubehebe's distant deserts; from Waucoba's marble canyon and Russ' steeps neath the shadows of Winnedemuh's crag; from the gold fields of Bishop, Big Pine, Fish Springs, Alabama, Coso and Argus; from Cerro Gordo's smoke-stained hights and Lee's cactus plains; from Kearsarge's majestic peak and Sylvania's wooded hills; from Lookout's promontory to in and beyond Death Valley—from these and scores yet unknown there is not far distant the time when the magic touch of Enterprise, thrilled with power by the advent of steam transportation, will cause to flow therefrom a golden and silver stream that shall more than doubly swell the tides of commercial seas.

Sages of empires yet unborn shall study wondrous nature here. From the Union's dome 15,000 feet above the sea, cold and castellated peaks look downward and afar upon a burning desert 300 feet below the ocean's water line. In granite-locked repositories mid the clouds, perrennial snows pure as a bridal veil are wafted in wintry winds or glisten in the summer sun like tiaras of diamonds in the sky. Crystal streams come tumbling and purling down from hoary mountain domes, kiss the shades of speaking pines, ripple over golden sands, lend verdure to the grassy meadow and give life to the fields of waving grain. Down the river's tortuous course they speed to the broad lake, upon whose buoyant waves ploughs the rounding bows of that steamer which proudly bears the bars of wealth sent abroad by Inyo, the Silver County of the Golden State!

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 8,.....1876.

This Issue.

It was our desire and intent to give in this issue a complete record of all the various local transactions on the Fourth, including as far as possible the names of all active participators in whatever capacity. We find it impossible, however, to do so; first, failing to attend to the matter at the time and place we have no means of ascertain but a limited amount of the information desired, particularly names: second, we are limited so much in both time and space we are compelled to leave out much that we are sure would add something to the value of the paper to preserve for future reference, though, like much else that does appear, a portion of it might be of but little present interest. From necessity we are also compelled to ignore all matters of general news from the outside world, even our usual excessively brilliant editorials, the result of the St. Louis Convention, etc., and all that sort of thing. We find it rather up hill work to do six day's work in less than three, and therefrom our readers can get a clue to the "peculiar taste in the water," or at least understand why this is thus.

The Regular Proceedings.

With the usual anvil salute in lieu of cannon, and by an additional Federal salute of 13 volleys fired by Co. D, 12th U. S. Infantry, the Fourth, at the central celebrating point of Lone Pine, was ushered in, and proceedings duly inaugurated. In compliance with the following order, the day's programme received its most attractive and prominent feature of the entire affair—the military:

CAMP INDEPENDENCE, Cal.,
July 1, 1876.

[POST ORDERS, No. 18.] Company D, 12th U. S. Infantry, will leave Camp Independence at 4 o'clock A. M., July 3, 1876, and proceed to Lone Pine and camp in the plaza.

2. Immediately after camp is pitched, a guard of 6 men and 1 non-commissioned officer will be regularly mounted.

3. On the morning of the Centennial, at sunrise, a Federal salute of 13 volleys, blank cartridges, will be fired.

4. At 7 o'clock A. M., a full dress guard will be regularly mounted.

5. At 10 o'clock A. M., the Company will join in the public procession.

6. At meridian, or immediately before the public speaking commences, a National salute of 37 volleys will be fired by the Company.

7. At 5 o'clock P. M., a full dress parade will be had.

8. At sundown a Centennial salute of 100 volleys will be fired by the company.

9. Tattoo will be beaten at 8 o'clock.

10. Taps at 8:15.

11. Company will return to Camp Independence on July 5, 1876.

By order of Capt. MacGowan.

W. W. WOTHERSPOON,
2d Lieut. 12th U. S. Inf. Post Adjutant.

Lone Pine itself is without doubt the most cosmopolitan small town in America, there being no less than seven flag staffs which upon occasions of this kind are borne their proper national colors, viz: The United States (most prominent, of course), Mexican, French, German, Chileno, and two others equally prominent but what they were has passed our reporter's memory just now. Crowds lined the sidewalks, and circumspect navigation through the streets by pedestrians was out of the question by reason of the numerous gaily rigged and somewhat reckless horsemen.

Promptly at the appointed hour Grand Marshal Hughes began the formation of the procession, which was carried out substantially in accordance with the announced programme as follows:

Mounted Police.
Grand Marshal, John R. Hughes.
Aids—A. J. Chelius, A. Leyda, H. C. Wright, John Givens.
BAND.
Color Bearer.
Co. "D," 12th Regiment, U. S. A.
President of the Day and Vice Presidents.
Orator, Reader and Chaplain.
Executive Committee.
CAR OF STATE.
MEXICAN SOCIETY,
With National Colors.
CHILENO SOCIETY,
With National Colors.
John Rittgers, Marshal.
Citizens in Carriages.
Citizens on Horseback.

Without attempting to particularize, suffice it to say that all who participated in the march presented an appearance creditable in the highest degree. Passing down Main street to the Mexican Hall, when the Mexican and Chileno societies, mounted, joined in line, the procession counter-marched and proceeded to the grand stand at the grove about one-fourth of a mile west of town.

In the absence of the regularly choosen President of the Day, Mr. Reddy, the Executive Committee had invited Judge A. R. Conklin to perform the duties, an honor which he accepted and performed with grace and credit to himself. He was introduced by John Alexander on behalf of the Committee, and who, in turn, after a few eloquent and appropriate remarks, presented the Chaplain, Rev. L. Case, who eloquently and feelingly invoked the divine blessing. The prayer was extemporaneous, as had been the President's remarks and we regret our inability to place them on record. Next was appropriately introduced the young ladies representing the thirteen colonies in the Car of State, who gave an opening national ode. Throughout the entire exercises the excellent singing of this band of elegantly attired young ladies, taken in connection with the music by the brass band, went far to enhance the enjoyment of the occasion.

In due order followed the reading and oration by the regular officers. The latter is given unabridged on our first page.

Competent judges upon such matters place the number in line and in attendance at the grand stand at 1,000. The remainder of the day's proceedings will be found given under different headings, and our lack of space must be sufficient apology for not going into further details of this portion of them.

The Rowdy Roosters.

We shall not undertake a detailed account of each individual Rooster, nor go very largely into the operations of the body as a whole. We will say in the outset, though, that the whole thing was a number one success. We doubt if a better or more appropriate or striking set of masks and costumes were displayed anywhere else in the State that day. The credit for this as well as being the prime mover and chief manager pertains to County Clerk, W. B. Daugherty. But he was ably seconded by several leading spirits some of whose names we would give, only, if we don't name all, which would hardly be proper, it might be considered invidious. There were thirty maskers and no thirty ever "jumped" together on short or long notice, ever pulled together more agreeably or with better zest. They gave themselves up to partial martyrdom, weather and circumstances of the long day's work considered, in a manner worthy of especial commendation. Pursuant to programme at 10 A. M., the devil in fiery red costume, horns and tail, hideous countenance, and gaily caparisoned steed, sailed through the streets here, sounding a whirling rattle as a signal to turn out. Soon the streets were filled with Roosters representing as many different characters as there were individuals, all the horses caparisoned like the devil's and like the devil they rode and carried on. The tall Captain, Uncle Sam and his leftenant soon managed to marshal them in line, and after going through some pretty well executed evolutions finally circled about a stand erected in the middle of the street in front of the Blaney House. Along side in open buggy was a most outrageous Goddess of Liberty driving her own one-horse shay. By her side was the formidable 16-pounder ready to defend her life and liberty and character if she had any. In a carriage was two grotesque little bankers, with their printing press, money and passes ready for delivery. The driver who was to deliver the Declamation of Impudence was a sorry visaged cuss indeed. By his side sat the Hon. Dictionary Doodlesock fixed up to kill. Near by was the band wagon, old Father Time driving; by his side sat one of the neatest dressed and most buxom, not to say prettiest, lasses in the town, also a Bridget, got up most gorgeously; "Bones," with a face black as the ace of spades, a mule on two legs and numerous instruments, among which was the "bull fiddle;" some cow bells, completed this outfit. The Hon. Dictionary and his gesticulator, the tall poet with forked hat and flowing hair, and the President, dressed as an exquisite darkey, took their places on the stand. The President duly introduced the forked-headed poet and then the norator, both of whom spoke a portion only of their pieces, but in first rate style. The exercises for this place were necessarily limited, for, to undertake to go through the whole would involve so much time in various ways as to materially interfere with the intended principal display which was to come off at Lone Pine, sixteen miles distant. In conclusion as to what was done here, we will simply say that the whole display was witnessed apparently by every man, woman and child, to say nothing of numerous Piutes, in town, and highly enjoyed by all. Some of the most telling "remarks," to judge by the effect produced, was the long drawn out and remarkably well executed brays of that two-legged mule, or rather jackass, as the spasmodic close of his "remarks" would seem to classify him. After taking dinner at the Blaney House, the whole outfit, in costumes but unmasked, sailed out for Lone Pine. Quite a number of the boys from Lone Pine, all masked in style, came out and joined forces a short distance this side. With this welcome reinforcement to the general ugliness, and led by that red devil with his horns and rattle, the mounted portion in single file and open order went through town as if pandemonium or the devil's stronghold had broke loose. The effect was something amusing as well as surprising, no doubt. Those gorgeously gotten up females, including one strapping bloomer, that wonderful goddess with her one horse shay and fearful cannon, old Time, with Bones and his string band, the carriage with the norator, declamator, grotesque bankers with their press and sinews of war, the mounted Comanches, Modocs and Piutes, the idiotic boy from the country, the scared, open-mouthed peasant, the bland and childlike Chinamen, Capt. Sam and his leftenant, the spangled Docksologist and other wonderful get-ups too numerous to mention, all flashing after the devil in that sort of a way, could not fail to make any crowd stand open mouthed. Parading through the streets once or twice more, all drew up at the grand stand. The President introduced the several enunciators, beginning with Little Pete, the declamator; then Dolphinius, the poet; next the Hon. Doodlesock, and finally the leader of the docksologer. As a matter of fact, each of these characters delivered their respective parts in surpassingly good style. Each and all made some telling strokes that were received by all, even those who "got a lick," with uproarious laughter and applause. Elsewhere will be found their remarks in full, but in justice to the speakers we will say that the manner in which they were delivered certainly produced a better effect than can the mere reading. Bones and that scared countryman with his cannon, and the gesticulator and other etcetras in the way of by-play helped the matter out very much. Though it was quite a commodious platform, yet it was still too limited in area to admit of several funny performances that were included in the original programme. Had these found a place it would have added something to the fun, no doubt. The general, not to say unanimous, verdict was that the Roosters made a first class success. Following is

The Declamation of Impudence.

1. When, in the course of destiny, it becomes necessary to regulate human wants, and to dissolve the baseless fabric of a dream that binds party men by party ties to party principels, a decent respect to the opinions of old Mother Goose, John Alexander, the Roaring Gimlet, et id omnes genus, requires that the Rowdy Roosters shall define the principles of natural philosophy, and let the world know "what's the matter with Hannah,":

2. We hold these truths to be self-evident: That all men are equal when not blind drunk; that they are endowed with numerous inalienable rights. That, among these, are the right to drink all the whisky they can pay for, bum, or get on tick; to live without work if they can; liberty to sell tarantula juice to the Piutes on the sly, and the privilege of connubiating on the Fourth of July. That, to secure these rights, governments build iron-clads, establish houses of correction, homes for the inebriates, Indian reservations, and sell Post traderships at Fort Sill and other places, for big figures limited only by the size of our wives' feet and wants of their relations, and the economical notions of our mothers-in-law. But when a long silk train of our abuses (and that is only another name for it), usurpations, brigamies, divorces, suicides, separations—pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to fetch us men under an absolute petticoat despotism—it is our right, it is our duty to bolt from the tyranny of female suffrage, and instruct our heirs, our administrators, our executors and assigns to beware of hoop-skirts, Shaker bonnets, striped hose, fancy lace trimmed pants—mustn't-mention-ems, and palpitators. To prove this let bald assertion be submitted to the unreasoning mob.

3. Our mothers-in-law are freckled faced as a catfish, eat more pie than anybody at the table, and instruct our wives to caudle-lecture us in an annoying manner if we accidentally get a little drunk.

4. The man who has a long nose and a high forehead will have his eyes under it, and will therefore live out his days if he don't get married, or get permeated with Roaring Gimlet tarantula juice, or do some other equally fatal thing.

5. To prove that cold water straight is too thin for a regular beverage in this climate, all doubting Thomases, if any there be, are referred to John Knippel and Chris. Dockweiler.

6. Taxation on crooked whisky should be reduced, otherwise the Federal Treasury will be bursted up to pay the enormous expenses of the Centennial election.

7. The Central Pacific railroad is a burdensome tax on the people, and a gigantic fraud to which we can never feel fully reconciled till the company allows us a fair share of the swindle, and builds us a branch road through Owens river valley.

8. The State capital is injudiciously located, and we should instruct our Assembly to move for a reconsideration of the previous question, and have it located in Saline valley, and have Bob Gardner sent to San Quentin, and the Mariposa Blacksmith employed to hammer newspaper men by the year.

9. Our Codes are perfect in every respect, but should be amended and an elegant steal engraving of that great law luminary, Creed Haymond, should adorn the frontispiece of every copy, so that the simplicity of our laws and the majestic intellect of our great lawgiver may ever appear inseparable, and show all the admiring dunces of the age what eggregious asses we Californians are.

10. Wife-beating should be made a special feature of legal exemptions, and public flogging done privately and in strictly secluded places.

11. Bribery and corruption should be legalized at once to enable the balance of the nation to avoid the fines and imprisonments which are threatening to ruin and render powerless our brightest and most brilliant scholars, and no man should be eligible to any office of honor or trust or profit who is not ready and willing to steal everything he can lay his hands on, and to judiciously divide the proceeds with his dear relations to be used by them as a fund to corrupt the people.

12. Investigating committees are a costly administration of brotherly love, and at best only succeed in destroying the chances of our most illustrious statesmen for the Presidency and succeed in proving to the admiring gaze of the barbaric world that such men as the great Republican leaders like Blaine are deficient in those indispensable accomplishments of the modern statesmen, such as drunkenness, bribery, corruption, larceny and embezzling, without which no man should have the cheek to ask for our votes.

13. Steamship lines are the grandest auxiliaries to the advancement of civilization, and without them the coolie trade would simmer down to an insignificant bugbear.

14. We view with virtuous admiration the literary advancement of the followers of the heathen Joss, on the principle that the hair of the dog is good for the bite.

15. The Government should build and equip Tom Scott's Southern railroad and present it to that loyal Modoc, Schacknasty Jim.

16. Chris. Dockweiler, old Cobe, Charley Begole and Big Jim should join the Good Templars and thus avoid a watery grave.

17. Land grabs and subsidies should be general, and every man should be allowed to steal everything in sight. The keys of the National Treasury should be placed at the disposal of Tweed, Belknap and Simon Cameron. Every man should have all the money he and his wife want. And the public debt should be held in statu quo for the benefit of future generations, and its volume increased to meet the wants of all self-constituted public pensioners.

18. Plymouth church at ye city of Brooklyn should be required to pay ye revenue of ye State of New York a license proportioned to ye amount of business done.

19. California street should be fenced in, and the Superintendent of the Insane Asylum should remove his office to the Merchants' Exchange to oversee preliminary operations upon the raw material when preparing patients for said Asylum.

20. Female suffrage should be legalized, so that Laura Divorce Gordon might be placed in nomination as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency with orders to split up the party.

21. The survivors of the Black Hills should be pensioned by the Government on a reservation under the charge of Boss Granger Earl, that he might teach them the errors of their ways, and acquaint them with the art of living on the twentieth part of what Government provides for their maintenance.

22. In this hour of danger, when the war cloud of politics threatens to eclipse the Centennial, the Piutes and other vagabonds should be trained to keep step in our torchlight processions, and jubilate boistrously on free whisky for the candidate that throws the most money into the fight.

23. Public opinion should be so moulded early in the fight that the best men can never be nominated, and the ballot boxes so contrived that honest men shall never get near them, thus insuring the election of the idols of American glory, the successful politicians.

24. Our newspapers should be subsidized and instructed to fight hardest over the good men who will never be nominated, that the political tricksters may be enabled to carry out their schemes unmolested.

25. In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms. To secure needed legislation we have elected those noble patriots, Schuyler Colfax and John Morrissey, Newton Booth and Senator Pinchback, Matthew Griswold and Rag Baby Bill Allen, John P. Jones and Senator Dilworthy, and we have concluded that a people whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a dolt is unfit to handle the Chinese question. Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. When Queen Victoria was made Empress of the East Indias we asked, where is the ghost of Pocahontas? and echo answered from the halls of Randolph of Roanoak, that justice and magnanimity conjures us by the ties of our common kindred to disavow such usurpations, and the Lone Pine Supervisor exclaimed, "Now, genteelmen, you must pass dis littell bill for my fren and countreeman, Doctair Colleau, but you shall pass not dat bill of Bob Peterson, an' dat constabbel bill is notting but a Dutch swindell."

Therefore, we, the representatives of the Rowdy Roosters in outdoor disorder assembled, appealing to a sympathetic world for the ridicule of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of our wives' relations, defiantly declare that it shall be high treason for anybody to jump the hotel of old Cobe and Paul Bennett at Little Cottonwood creek, that Judge Hannah ought to remit the fine of Johnny Briscoe for stealing the poles at Cerro Gordo, that Hoff ought to be sent to Death Valley and John Alexander to Congress—that Charley Johnson and Col. Stevens ought to furnish our historian the full description of the sea serpent they saw in Owens Lake, backed by a certificate from Connelly as to how big it was; that Frank Duprat should be restrained from loaning any more money at 5-per cent per month, that we are suffering examples of married humanity, are, and by rights, ought to be free and independent; that our back hair requires more tender care; that we don't like curtain lectures; that our matrimonial and all other connections are, and of right, ought to be totally solved, and that we, as free and independent Rowdy Roosters, have full power to leave this world and climb a tree if we want to, to levy war and bury the hatchet, drink Lubkens' beer and pay for it in shinplasters; contract new alliances and forget the old in the smiles of the new.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the L. A. & I. R. R. is a brick; that paper money is way up; that the Roosters' bank is one of the substantial institutions of the country; that Panamint is a way down; that Darwin is a "bhurd;" that grangers are the fathers of their children; that Yankee Doodle is the sum of our liberties; that Hail Columbia is the watch dog of our Treasury; that Uncle Sam and Brother Jonathan are the greatest men in America; and that the Screw Driver has liberty to publish this Declamation.

And, for the support of this Declamation, we pass around the hat with a firm reliance on the generosity of our fellow sufferers, and emphatically and mutually pledge to the man in the moon, President Grant and all his and his wife's relations, and also those champion thieves, Belknap, Babcock and last but not least, George H. McCallum, and all the money he and they have stolen.

Mid gorgeous music and etcetras, the spiked-hatted Dolphinius took the stand and delivered

Joaquin's Poem.

Now's the hundreth year
Since the roaring British lion
Got right upon his rear
And started for us a-flyin'.

The eagle gave a screech and hollered—
Liberty's fices he gave a-blazin',
Columbia got hot in the collar
And worked his chunk am zin'.

To the lessons of these castigations
Johnny Bull whimpered and demurred;
While France and other foreign nations
Looked on and said he actuer sh'e a bhurd.

'Tis the year of election. Presidential;
This year of America's first centennial,
And what is more consequential,
A start of a local millennial.

The silver winged angel of peace
Is smiling upon the community;
We can rake in all sorts of riches
And give you h— with impunity.

There's the Coso News and INDEPENDENT
Who fought in unctious spasm,
Appear salubrious and resplendent
Shaking hands across the chasm.

I could many recollections bring
Of political contests hot;
But Gregg has got over the sting,
And old Hannah stays with the pot.

Connelly's got an office at last,
And Goodale's chances are growing;
Curtis' matrimonial show is past—
Alexander's joy is o'erflowing.

There's much cause for congratulation,
Begole has ceased to turn the other hand;
Then there's John Belshaw's reformation
Following Peterson's virtuous stand.

There's the great horse racing crew,
Of whose plugs they brag and boast,
To take in flats like me and you
Each one seems to strive the most.

Of our merchandising houses many
Employing clerks so gay and frisky,
Stop not to turn an honest penny
By selling lots of Indian whisky.

In land matters your poet conceives
That honesty stood at zero—
Fortunate Tom May among the thieves
Came through it like a hero.

The real odds between seven and ten
Our citizens now may know;
Treasurer Isaacs, with his pen,
Can tell how warrants ought to grow.

A Lone Pine firm wanted the Express—
Had the Postoffice for a starter;
But the government couldn't stand the press,
And Wells-Fargo couldn't stand Macarter.

No more the vigilantes curse
Pat. Reddy and his clients;
Bot Nathan Rhine loads not his purse
With orders on Defiance.

Josiah, the arch-devil's biggest deals
Are but memories of other times;
Sweet-scented McCallum's little steals
Are conducted in other climes.

The roaring temperance reformation
Is very good for high—
Takes the neatest kind of calculation
To get it on the sly.

Of all our failures here to-day,
There's some I fain would mention;
Of Parker's history gone astray
And Hughes' bad detention.

The Republican nigger-loving party
Training under Hays and Wheeler
Are pitching in both stout and hearty—
Dropping Grant the great concealer.

The Democracy in dire distress,
In the worst conceivable fix—
Like a cock-tail, for complete success,
Depends entirely on the Mix.

But there's some things you'll never forget,
Those these few remarks are scoring;
'Tis ten to one or more I'll bet
You're tired of Rooster crowing.

The moral of all this is plain,
If you can't stand a raking,
Do not listen to any strain
Of a Rowdy Rooster's making.

Then followed the Hon. Doodlesock's Noration.

Feller citizens, Whang doodles, Yankee-doodles, Alligators, Hosses, Grangers and Grangeresses, Fifteenth Amendments and Rowdy Roosters Aldiborontiphoskiphoronioskikites and everybody else in creation, from the beginning of the world down to the present time, hear ye all—ATTENTION: We are a band of belly-achers, fed on taboose roots and nourished with tangle-leg and crooked wickedness, who come on this occasion to celebrate in a quiet and unostentatious manner the palladium of E Pluribus Unum, Par Blue de Franci, Viva la Carajo, Der Wacht am Rhine, Tin ne-muck-a-hi, or any other man and Susan B. Anthony.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO,

none of us were here; and if anybody doubts that, I am ready to prove it by Connelly, the man that parts his beard in the middle, and Bob Peterson will substantiate this proposition. No, sir, we weren't here; neither was old father Adam, nor mother Eve, nor George M. Pinney, nor Boss Tweed, nor Susan B. Anthony. But we came. In the ordinary course of humorous events we got here. We were sired by a Revolutionary soldier and born by a Continental dam. As children we sucked the sweets of the bumble bee and flourished by robbing our neighbors' henroosts. We waxed strong in our love of liberty, grew saucy as a bamtam rooster, give our old dad, George III, a good drubbing; boxed his ears, sent him home to run his nursery, while we wore out the rockers to the cradle of liberty, and passed our boyhood in kettling jackasses and burning witches. Our patriotism was fired with good old Kentucky Bourbon until, in the language of Rhoderick Dhu and the good Ben Ahdam, we exclaimed:

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself hath said;
'I wish my gal's hair wasn't red.'"

And so we flourished; we grew ambitious and got so inflated with paper money we nearly busted up. We trained our muscles in whipping all the balance of creation—one at a time. We got away with nearly everybody, and confiscated about all the land that was good for anything on the North American continent. In fact, we have cleaned out everybody except the Heathen Chinee, and we have got a pry under the foundation of their prosperity, and as soon as we capsize their wash tubs we'll make bird nest soup of the whole caboodle. Then our Government will be on a firm basis; defunct pig-tails and red tape will slumber together, and Si-wash-ti-kee will be salamagundi. In the language of the immortal Washington when he chartered the Central Pacific railroad and sentenced Major Andre because he couldn't catch Benedict Arnold:

"He who steals that isn't his'n,
Will surely, some day, go to prison."

No, sir; the American Eagle stretches his wings from the Atlantic to the Pacific, with one foot on the Rocky Mountains and the other on stretches his tail over the north pole, and with his beak pecks away at the ragged edge of South America, while he shrieks his hallelujahs for Henry Ward Beecher and Brigham Young—and the whang doodle mourns the while he munches peanuts!

Yes, sir, we are getting old, and we "likes to shake somepody mit the dice, aint it?" We have done more in the last hundred years then we'll ever do again. We have raised George Washington and Petroleum V. Nasby and Longfellow and Mark Twain and a lot of other fellows. In the words of Minister Schenck, "we have raised a full hand and started in on no pair." We have the greatest ministers of the gospel from Henry Ward Beecher down, that ever saw the outside of a State Prison, and we have the greatest thieves that ever lived since the days of Warren Hastings. Yes sir, civilization has advanced under our administration. We have more railways and steamships and patent churns and wooden nutmeg factories and bunko thieves and pedro players than we know what to do with. And they are showing more of those fellows to-day in Philadelphia than were ever seen together since the building of the Tower of Babel. And with these brightly shining lights to cheer our true inwardness on the ragged edge, where's Inyo county and the Rowdy Roosters? Nearly all in Lone Pine to-day, I guess, and we are glad of it. Yes, sir, Inyo county is a long way ahead of Salt Lake in everything but women and children, and the Rowdy Rooster aint to blame for that neither. Here, in this remote region where a few years ago nothing but the horned toad and the coyote frisked about with the rattle-snake and the owl, where only the earthquakes held their shindigs, and the Piute warrior hunted the rhinoceros in the jungles of Owens river and dived for whales in Owens lake—where the dusky maidens of the forest made willow baskets to carry around their half breed papooses in—what have we now? Look at the wonderful changes and weep till your noses turn red! We have more people now than the county jail can accommodate. We have more election precincts than we have school houses and churches put together. We have more lawyers and doctors than we have preachers and we have more sense than a last year's bird's nest. And we've stage lines and steamboats! Well, I never counted the steamboats, but we've enough to navigate any inland county in the United States. We have Fisherman's Peak, the highest land, and Death Valley, the lowest; one higher than Hayes's or Tilden's Presidential hopes, the other lower depressed than a stock sharp when his broker calls for "more mud." We are in fact, feller citizens, at the same time nearer to heaven and yet closer to hell than anybody on side the insane asylum. But, in the language of the three-card monte sharp,

"Life's but a fleeting show,
And Johnny comes marching home."

We have more big mines and furnaces and quartz mills than we can keep running; and we have more miners than we have hard money to pay with; but we keep even with the world by issuing more paper money than we can spend in San Francisco. So "what's the hods as long as we're 'appy?"

But, feller citizens, I haven't told you about

MY GRAND DAD'S BRINDLE DOG.

I wouldn't tell you anything about it if I thought George Washington's little hatchet story would interest you. The history of modern times hasn't anything to compare with the skill of a Mississippi nigger cook in making alamagoozelum. Demosthenes wouldn't eat any because it wasn't made in a tub. Queen Salamagundi didn't like it because the moon wasn't made of green cheese then, and the moon, to get even with her, has not turned to green cheese yet. This, feller citizens, is a solemn fact. It's too weighty a subject for the Rowdy Roosters to tackle; if you want to know all the particulars you can go and ask Charley Begole. Woman suffrage hasn't anything to do with it. Senator Jones said so once before he was elected, but he has kept mum ever since, and tries to divert public attention by making long winded speeches on silver currency, while he practices what he don't preach by issuing paper orders in Panamint. Senator Stewart don't know anything about the Emma mine swindle. He busted up before the investigation, and sold his ranch in Washington to Ben Butler for the spoons he stole at New Orleans. Yes, sir, feller citizens, we stand to-day at an elevation of 4,000 feet above Tar Flat where the sportive hoodlum garrotes a man for four bits. We shake the finger of defiance at the fanaticism of Plymouth church, and gazing proudly at the monument of Bunker Hill, we exclaim lovingly in the language of the lamented John Smith: "An Angelo for Claudio; put a little sugar in it."

Yes, feller citizens, that reminds me of an anecdote. When General Bonaparte whipped Julius Cæsar, he had a dream. When Confucius, the great heathen Chinee philosopher was first born he hadn't any teeth, and in those days that was considered a mark of talent. But that is not the case nowadays, and so when the Supervisors of Inyo county dedicated the court-house to the use of the Rose Bud dancing club Justice balanced her steelyards, and John Alexander said it was a shame, and Supervisor Meysan said "Ish lieb a diesch von guintzen hartzen," and that's what's the matter with Slim Jim. Such of progress were never before known since the days of the Liliputians, when Shakespeare's grandmother commenced wearing pull backs, and she was the greatest woman of modern times, but the public don't know much about her, and if anybody here wants to know, they can find her history in the case of Bardel, vs. Pickwick 63 Cal., p. 90 of Hin. digested. Yes, sir, feller citizens, and that's the reason why we are all so proud of Inyo county to-day. Inyo county is a big county, in fact she is a "burd, partners." She has more agricultural land than can ever be cultivated. She has all the public buildings she wants, and a county jail chock full—of bed bugs. She has a county hospital on wheels. She has county bridges to let on contract—and she don't owe anybody a cent. And that's the reason the Assessor missed coming around this year. And that's why we all feel so thankful to George Washington and Dom Pedro. Yes, feller citizens, we all worship Dom Pedro. The oldest inhabitant and our brightest youths fall at his shrine daily, while the heroes our forefathers worshipped with the deck hands on the Erie canawl have passed out of sight. Yes, feller citizens, Pedro is the man now, and those old three time losers, draw poker, ten and take and keno have gone out in the country to see their uncle. And now, feller citizens, before commencing my brief address I desire to say something, all of which no doubt reminds you of a little story. I am very much interested in the advancement and multiplication of

THE HUMAN RACE.

There's nothing more interesting except the temperance cause and taxes. King Kalakua of the Sandwich Islands says we talk bad grammar because, as a rule, we drink crooked whisky straight. King William of Germany says our lager is a fraud, and Duke Alexis was as mad as a wet hen because we named our boot and shoe stores after him; but that is only our way; we name everything after the people we like best. We name our biggest mines after those illustrious patriots, San Felipe, the old war horse, Defiance, that festive rooster, Bully Boy and other famous men too numerous to mention. Yes, sir, the Centennial is a big thing. It is going to leave more senseless fools without a cent than were ever sent to a Centennial since Noah sent the dove from the ark at Mud Springs. And now, all you Grangers from Dutch Flat and Yankee Jims and Red Dog and You Bet, "mind your eye," for the times are out of joint. Guided by the elbow grease of destiny and the snort of the iron horse, you can cross the continent like a flash of kettled lightning when it strikes a boarding house doughnut, and in the flying language of the dead Shakespear, "Honesty is the best policy." But none of the life insurance companies now issue that kind. When Marc Anthony sold his country for a mess of pottage—when Christopher Columbus discovered Jamaica rum—when Cleopatra dived into the dark sea of the Egyptian future—when Moses Bozarris climbed the North Pole—when Julius Cæsar and Andy Johnson studied medicine—when Joe Seeley surveyed Mount Ararat—when Brutus and Rackensack Jake swam the Hellespont—when Mad Anthony Wayne and Uncle Toby invented sewing machines—when Venus and Adonis discovered the Northwest passage—when Loney Munzinger went to Bingen on the Rhine—when the Sultan Aziz was the Sultan As was—when Victor Hugo whipped the boy who stood on the burning deck, when Lord Cornwallis sold peanuts by the peck, when the Woman in White was dressed in blue, the American Eagle screamed for a pint or two; and thus this great nation flourished when Gov. Irwin and Frank Hutch let loose the dogs of war. All over our land to-day the fires of liberty are being kindled by the flames of torches saturated with the patriotism of a hundred years, soaked in tarantula juice and crooked gin. Plain cocktails are preferred to Adam's ale; soda water is rampant and women despair; pull backs are "getting tight," and striped stockings are "full;" water pails slop over; preachers are "dry;" our merchant ships are "three sheets" in the wind," and Congressional investigations are all the go. Hoga pa mea, Hi yu nu wada nann ga ni. Ots so, usch, ik hoga ka mea. E Pluribus Unum. Yes, it does. Its the greatest nation in California. Over forty million gullets are being stuffed today with sour doughnuts and ginger pop. Cannons boom, and little dogs bark, and fire crackers fizzle, steam whistles shriek, railroads are shipwrecked, steamboats go up in a balloon—

"We never think of water till the well runs dry.
This glorious Yankee nation and the goose hangs high."

And what did Pontius Pilate say about greenbacks? Look into the future. Down the ages with reverberating roll, distant generations raise their voices and echo returns their answer as it bounds from comet to star from sun to moon, from moon to earth, and from the capitol at Washington it is disseminated all over our land in the disconsolate accents of the Duke of Argyle "Go West, young man, and learn from the pioneers of '49 the art of making saleratus slapjacks. Go herd with the howling hyena, and with Josh Billings count the long-legged stockings on Brigham Young's clothes line. Learn the multiplication table backwards, and then tell us what you know about the geneaology of a mule." All through Inyo county are strung the LAND-MARKS OF THE PIONEERS.

In South Africa the ourangatang chases the gallinipper, while the lion roars "I want to be an angel." And Coburn, though he sold whiskey and chopped down his house in early days, says that he will never again be a candidate for Sheriff. Yes, feller citizens, Parker's railroad is coming and so is Christmas. Stocks are down, and "peanuts has taken a riz." In the language of Tom Scott—

Through the shadow of the globe,
We sweep into the younger clay;
Better than fifty years of Europe
Is Independence day.

Feller citizens, standing to-day on the pinnacle of our nation's greatness; viewing the world through the horoscope of national infirmities; shuddering over the anticipated report of the next investigating committee; realizing the inadequacy of the water supply in San Francisco; dreading the heat of the next election, it behooves us to educate the rising generation to beware of the pitfalls so numerous in the crooked whisky business. If we fail to guard against this danger, how soon will the American eagle turn all the sour-mash tubs into soap factories? Then the tax on all the necessaries of life will be doubled. Fine cut tobacco and French corsets will pass out of use. Shoddy influence will swell the female lobbyists in Washington, the secluded walks of private life will lose their charms for Victoria Woodhull and Tennie C. Claflin; Newton Booth will retire from politics and The Coso News will increase its rates. If it wasn't for the press who would manufacture public opinion? Where would we ever see the delinquent tax list if it wasn't for THE INYO INDEPENDENT, or from whence would come the hideous nightmare unless from its leading editorials? Who would ever get married or who would ever be born if it wasn't for the newspapers? No, feller citizens, when the halls of the Montezumas are used for chicken coops at the white house; when Granger boots are sewed with atlantic cables; when the Bonanza Kings rides on velocipedes; when the Pacific ocean turns into bonny-clabber; when from San Diego to Siskiyou and from Gospel Swamp to Swansea, the mountain torrents shall turn into gin, then will trade dollars roll uphill and we may be happy yet. Now, feller citizens, of our discontent. Politicians and grass widows are looking anxiously for the coming man. Presidential candidates are scarce. The historical legends of Tom Goodale throw no light upon the subject. Since the days of 1840, when Gen. Harrison won the log-cabin prize in the Mercantile Lottery; when gun boats and ironclad monitors were exchanged for hoop skirts and patent bustles, we as a nation have been able to chew gum without a receipt. We are on the high road to posterity, and through the angelic tears of our literary mothers-in-law we note the approach of our national wash day. With the aid of glycerine soap and millions of gallons of gin, under the control and influence of ward politicians and Methodist camp meetings, we can expect to scour the deck of the Ship of State and remove the political parasites from their lower quarters by the cheese, and obtain the services of a superior kine of bloodsuckers, whose mouths are watering for the flesh-pots of Egypt. Then the old war horses who have been grazing in the green pastures of private life and cultivating rum blossoms in the shade of the bit saloons, will come gallantly to the front at the joyful sound of the political bugle call when all hands are invited to take a drink, and cavorting with delight nip their oats from the public crib in the polished style of the days of old. That's the medicine to start the battle of political mud daubers. It's better than catnip tea for the measles or a dose of pennyroyal for the itch. It will rejuvenate all the old bums and prove more effications than inflation, and virtually settle the hard money question. Old father Time will hang up his sickle, and Ponce de Leon's Fountain of Youth flow forth in sparkling streams of Dr. Jayne's Hair Dye, Burnett's Cocoaine and Creme de Lis. And fourthly and according to Hoyle,

IS THE FLY TIME

"There is a tide in the affairs of men,
Which taken at the flood"

will increase private expenes 87½ per cent. Beware, oh beware, young men, of the matrimonial rock on which are wrecked so many incidental expenses. Love in a cottage doesn't insure the safety of the ghost of a bottle of schnapps in the closet, and the cradle of bliss is sometimes big enough to hold twins. In the language of Peter Funk when he endowed the home for aged women, "There was an old nigger, and his name was Uncle Ned. The saddest thought of all is, what might have been did." When the Arkansas Traveler was first discovered the Wandering Jew took a back seat; when Gov. Norton was crowned King of the San Francisco Guttersnipes Bill Allen's rag baby said, "how is that for high!" When the lightning express train accomplished the enthusiastic feat of skipping across the United States in 84 hours, and reached the Palace Hotel on Sunday Warren Leland opened his wine cellar and then went to church. And now, feller citizens, relying (which was something Geo. Washington couldn't do) on our providential escape from jury duty on this momentous occasion, I appeal to you in the language of the weary emigrant as he viciously punches his bulls as the lonely orphan of a grass widow that's lost her fortune and all her front teeth in the pursuit of knowledge under difficulties, and yet in the support of the American eagle I pledge my unanimous co-operation when ever invited to take a drink. And on behalf of every chicken belonging the Rowdy Rooster Lodge I pledge their divided support in going for the property of the lonely widows and orphans of our land, guaranteeing that no guilty man shall escape while leap year invitations hold good; assuring a virtuous public that we can do adequate justice to first class hotel tables—in the language of Gov. Bradley, never miss a meal or pay a cent—and disputing with the great North American Pi Eater for the first prize in demolishing hash poultice in fly time, bean pot pie on toast, or any other man. And now, feller citizens, having given you the benefit of the concentrated quintessence of literary legerdemain and logic as practiced by the leading member of the last Legislature in Sacramento assembled, I appeal to the fag end of sober common sense that ramifies the multo parvius veins of soda water patriotism and fire cracker allegiance on this day so dear to the average American's pocket book; in the patriotic language of the Centennial hotel keeper when he replied to Jim Perham, "Charge, Chester, charge." And when you return to the girl you left behind you, tell her in the mournful accents of a biled Hottentot, as she unbuttons the last remnants of your wilted paper collar, since the Winter of '49 and the Spring of '50 the wrinkles on the horns of the American eagle have been softened by the sweltering patriotism of old Davy Tucker and forty millions of the game cocks of all creation.

Now, you little boys, scamper off to school and take your lickings for playing truant while you turned the grind stone for Uncle Sam.

Air—"Coming through the Rye."

If a Rowdy meet a Rowdy
Going down the street,
If a Rowdy ask a Rowdy,
Must a Rowdy treat?

CHORUS—Every Rowdy has his toddy,
Never a toll have I;
But all the Rowdies follow me
Whenever they are dry.

If a Rowdy sees a Rowdy
Take a glass of grog
Should a Rowdy call a Rowdy
A cussed, unfortunate hog?

If a Rowdy meet a Rowdy
Anywhere in town,
Should a Rowdy cuss a Rowdy,
Or knock a Rowdy down?

If a Rowdy meet a Rowdy,
Trying to raise a "fout,"
Should a Rowdy say to a Rowdy,
"Go in; let's clean him out."

COMPANY D.—The officers and men of Co. D speak in high terms of the hospitalities extended them while in Lone Pine, while on the other hand the command, particularly the officers, are credited by the managers with having done much to aid them in various ways. Following is a list of those of the company who were there: Capt. A. B. MacGowan, Commandant; Lieut. W. W. Wotherspoon, Adjutant; Washington Matthews, Surgeon. Non-commissioned officers—J. O'Dwyer, 1st Sergeant; H. Hunter, 2d do.; G. W. Ford, 3d do.; C. B. Terry, 4th do.; C. Fischer, 5th do. Corporals C. O'Neil, W. Goodlow, V. Langland, J. Hone. Privates P. Allen, Myers, E. Allen, J. Arnwed, Boetter, J. Hartman, T. O'Marra, Mulligan, E. Cheatham, O'Neal, Dowling, Hennings, P. L. James, Mackey, Leonard, Freedman, Reed, Muldowney, Sullivan, Altman and Norton.

PERSONAL.—Robert Broder, District Lecturer, F. and A. M., was here early this week in connection with lodge matters. He started on his return on the 5th accompanied by his brother John who goes to the Bay on business.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JULY 8,..... 1876.

THE RACES.—Although the races at Lone Pine were extensively advertised and the committee done all in their power to make it a success, it seemed to lack the interest usually manifested in sports of this character. Perhaps it was due to a low ebb of the "solid" among the sporting fraternity or perchance the horses were too well known and the odds too great. Pool selling was rather light—the heavy horse, Fireman, selling from $5 to $8 against the field which only brought an average of $2. Our limited space will only admit of the following synopsis: First day's sport set for the 5th, two purses of $100 each were offered. In the saddle-horse race, half-mile, three horses were entered:—Croppy, by Wm. Gill; Grey Eagle, by Olds; Red Bird, by Peterson. Croppy won the heat by one and one-half feet. Grey Eagle flew the track near the Judge's stand—demoralized the crowd and shot his head through a saloon by the wayside. The next, a 600-race, free to all—entered Fireman, by Harrington; Kingsley, by Horton; Caliente Grey, by Miller. Fireman came in ahead about 18 feet; Caliente Grey flew the track and cut across the middle of the course as if posessed of the devil—or a bad rider. Second day—for the $200 purse, half-mile heat—Fireman, Billy Kingsley and San Diego weae entered—the latter put in merely to make up the requisite number, and he took it leasurely "cross-lots" after being started. Fireman won and they say, went in "cahoots" with Kingsley, and all were made happy except, perhaps, the parties concerned in making up the purse. The quarter-mile brush was run by Sleepy Dick (the soldier horse), Engle's horse, Johnny, and Horton's buggy horse for a purse of $50. Sleepy Dick won the heat by about three lengths. Johnny made an effort, but his bridle rein broke and he brought to like a ship minus a rudder. The track was in the best possible condition, and quite a crowd was assembled on the course. The legitimate sport was interspersed with the usual scrub racing, etc.

ASSESSOR'S STATISTICS.—Assessor Dillon has closed up his part of the work for this year. From his report, now held for approval and equalization by the Board of Supervisors, we have the following: Whole value of real estate, $1,114,049; improvements, $384,131; personal property, $665,389; making a grand total of assessed values, for Inyo county, of $2,163,569, or a little over half a million more than last year. This is a much better showing than was indicated at the beginning of the work, and is largely due to the increase of mining values. The estimated total population is 3,000, or 1,000 more than last year. The number of actual voters is estimated at 973. The Great Register for 1875, shows 1,193. The apparant falling off is due to the fact that only those who voted last year are included in this estimate. There is no doubt a slight increase in the actual number of voters also. The number of acres reported enclosed for 1875 is 7,247, and 5,148 in cultivation. Bushels of wheat, 226,333; barley 16,880; oats, 15,812; corn 437,666; hay, 5,004 tons. Of live stock we have 3,436 horses, 823 mules, 13,075 horned cattle, 5,487 sheep, 1,517 hogs and 495 Angora goats. There are 4 saw mills, all water power, which produced in the aggregate, 8,628,500 feet of lumber; two grist mills, also water power, which turned out 4,500 barrels of flour, and ground 16,891 bushels of corn; 3 quartz mills which crushed 8,400 tons of quartz. Lands are placed in four grades with valuations respectively of $2 50, $7 50 $12 and $17. Thoroughbred horses are valued at $210, American $84 10, half-breed $25 82, colts $7 66. Thoroughbred cattle $78, American $16 60, Spanish $11, calves $4 67; common sheep $2 20, fine $10. Lack of space forbids further detail or remarks at this time.

THE BALL AT LONE PINE.—All of those we have seen who attended the Centennial ball at Lone Pine speak in very high terms of it; some of them go so far as to say it was the best they ever did attend; but circumstances make a vast difference with some folks. For instance if a young man's Mary Ann sours on him at such a time he, at least, will depose that the whole thing was a lamentable failure; and, vice versa, if Mary Ann is as sweet as she might be as well as not, it spreads an aromatic influence ruinous to that particular young man's judgment. Nevertheless, we are prepared to substantiate the high encomiums upon this one. It was a fine attendance in all respects. The managers did all in their power to make it pleasant for strangers and all alike. The music, led by our old time friend, Wm. Hoskins, was as good as any we have yet heard in a ball room—just the kind to put everybody in the most exuberant dancing spirit. The hall was roomy, pleasant and tastefully decorated; not much praise is to be accorded the special committee for this last result, for they put that part off so long it came near going by the board; otherwise, though, they did firstrate.

CENTENNIAL DRUNKS.—It is a noticeable fact that drunks were prevalent beyond precedence in this place on the Fourth. Very near all of Independence proper had gone to Lone Pine, and so some of the boys coming in from the mountains around thought to relieve the loneliness by numerous strong appeals to Bacchus. They succeeded admirably: had an "enjoyable time," one or two of them, in blacking each other's eyes.

GOT A "SIT."—Our printer friend, W. C. McFadden, of Benton, has taken a "sit" as teacher in the Round Valley school. We are certain Mac has energy and zeal enough in whatever he undertakes to make a successful pedagogue, and in the "make up" at the end of the term will show good and clean "proofs." Leastways, that's our "impression."

"NOTHING TO MAR," ETC.—It is a very agreeable fact to record that no accidents worthy of notice occurred to mar the pleasures of the celebration at Lone Pine or elsewhere in this vicinity so far as we have heard. True, there was a stage load of ladies and children a little bit frightened, but not at all hurt. To accommodate as many as possible, Agent Taylor, of the Southern Stage Line, sent a six-horse coach to the grove where the ceremonies were to take place. This coach was loaded to the guards, and in passing over some soft ground the wheels on one side cut down so as to render the prospects for a mud bath far more imminent than agreeable to the numerous ladies and little ones inside. The deck load of hombres slid overboard and, while some held to the coach the others began to snatch out the cabin passengers, babies taking precedence. A pretty complete delivery was effected, the coach righted, re-loaded, in its place in line, and no harm done. There was another circumstance, though, that spoiled the fun. That was every man (so far as the returns have come in) said to every other man from nine to twelve times, that "it would be a hundred years before we would have a chance at another centennial spread, and as it might so happen that he, the speaker, might not be here at that time, he felt it a sort of a duty to come and look on this time." But for having to make and listen to this remark or words to the same effect, so often, there would have been but little to regret or feel annoyed about.

RAISING THE OLD FLAG.—On the evening of the 3d, just at sundown, "that banner an hundred years old" was for the first time flung to the breeze from the beatiful flagstaff just erected in this place by Mr. T. F. A. Connelly, as mentioned heretofore. Though impromptu, the ceremonies were appropriate and quite complete. Half cartridges of giant powder, fired in the middle of the street for a national salute, awoke the echoes one might think clear from the Piute Monument, twenty miles away. After the large flag was bent on and began streaming out, slowly moving upward, it was greeted and cheered on its way by that grand ode, the Star Spangled Banner, which was well sung by a chorus of ladies and gentlemen stationed close at hand, in front of Harris & Rhine's store. Col. Briggs, of the Land Office was then called out and delivered in good style a very neat oration or address to the old flag. A grand salute of 37 guns was then fired, after which the choir sang the Red, White and Blue. Then came a display of Roman candles, fiery, high flying rockets and fire-balls, after which Home, Sweet Home, by the choir, closed the ceremonies.

FIRE ALARM.—No little excitement was created in Lone Pine at the cry of fire on the morning of the 3d. By some wholly unaccountable means fire caught in the top of a stack of hay standing between the stables of the two stage companies, and in dangerous proximity to both. Lieut. Wotherspoon and nearly the whole of Co. D were on the ground in almost an instant, and soon after a large number of citizens. Ex-Sheriff Elder claims "first water" for Gelcich's force pump, handled by Jim Fitzgerald, of the Darwin fire department. Each and all worked with such a will and effect that the flames were soon brought under subjection, but not until they had swept over the entire surface of the stack. It was new hay, and therefore not very combustible. There was also little or no wind, or else in spite of all that could have been done the flames must have spread to the stables and other buildings, among which was the residence of Mr. Macarter. Mrs. M. received quite a serious fright, from the effects of which she scarcely recovered that day.

BENTON MATTERS.—Our Benton correspondent says that the recently organized Lodge of Good Templars at that place, W. C. McFadden, W. C. T., is gathering in numerous recruits and is doing splendidly. Their charter, regalia, blanks, etc., have just been received. The ladies of Benton are to be credited for their good works and earnest co-operation in this connection. The lodge has taken steps to have delivered a number of lectures, which, with this lodge as a basis, must do much to improve the moral atmosphere of the place.... No preparations for an elaborate celebration were being made, but it was expected that after the Reading of the Declaration, and an oration, the day's proceedings would conclude with a fancy ball.... Frank Hutchison had made a mining discovery which was producing a great excitement.... The Diana and Comanche companies paid off on the 1st and money was plenty. The bullion shipments from the Comanche are steadily on the increase.

OUR MONO LETTER.—"Minion," our Benton correspondent, furnishes us a very excellent letter this week, but owing to the peculiar press upon our columns and time this issue we can only present the principal items briefed down as locals. We will here take occasion to remark that "Minion" and other Benton correspondents preceding him, have placed us under lasting obligations for their numerous and decidedly interesting letters.

FILED.—The Hayes Silver Mining Company filed their articles of incorporation in the Clerk's office July 1; purpose, general mining in Lee District, Inyo county; principal place of business, San Francisco; Directors—B. W. Mudge, S. W. Putman, Geo. E. Clark, J. W. Risdon and Philip Falk; capital stock, $5,000,000, divided into 50,000 shares.

IN SESSION.—The Supervisors met yesterday as a Board of Equalization. No business of importance, however, will be transacted till after the 17th, as will be seen by notice elsewhere.

LAND PATENTS.—Following is a list of land patents now ready for delivery at this Land Office: A. H. Cashbough, L. B. Akers, Paul Z. Houard and T. D. Lewis

The Celebration at Bishop.

BISHOP CREEK, July 5.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The morning of the Fourth opened with firing of anvils both at Snedenville and at the grist mill. The people of Bishop Creek, and a number from Round Valley and Big Pine assembled at Russell's mill during the forenoon to the number of 250 or 300. Mr. Russell was appointed President of the Day and filled the office with honor to himself and pleasure to the people assembled. He made a neat little speech, in which he stated that the object of our meeting together was to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birthday, and to do honor and praise to the men who had fought and bled that we, their posterity, should enjoy the blessings of freedom. The Rev. A. Clark was then announced as Chaplain of the Day, and he came forward and offered up to God a prayer of thanksgiving for the great blessings and privileges which we enjoy under our free Government. Here followed

Our Centennial.

WRITTEN FOR THE CELEBRATION AT BISHOP CREEK, JULY 4TH, 1876. BY MRS. FRANCIS Q. M'DOUGALL; READ BY S. W. BLAISDELL.

The storied past in splendor reappears;
The shadowy curtain of a hundred years
Lifts at our building; and, behold the sages,
Whose peerless lives are writ on living pages,
For their pure precepts nevermore will part
From the quick tablets of the nation's heart.

Old forms and potencies before them cower,
And every look is redolent with power;
And, as they move along, their steps rebound,
Waking with emphasis the conscious ground;
And passing thus at freedom's sacred call,
They enter silently the humble hall.

But not alone, for angels lead the way
To set their seal upon the glorious day,
Ready to open wide the "gates ajar"—
Whose vibrant echoes shall be heard afar—
With echoes electric all the ages span,
And throw new lights upon the life of man.

Never before, since first the earth awoke
Had such a morning on her history broke.
Never, as yet, were time such royal state;
For every moment now is big with fate;
And Ages—Nations—embryotic still—
Shall then own the power of this Almighty will
That reaches out into eternity—
And holds and stamps the seal of Destiny.

That stately group we follow to the hall,
To hear what purpose may their minds enthrall,
For out from every look and every motion,
Pulsates the power of deep and stern commotion;
And from the firm mouth and the kindling eyes,
Beams forth unbidden thoughts of bold empires,
Which amid the darkness of that awful hour
Hurls defiance unto royal power;
And with a will to win and wear the crown,
Proclaims the rights that kings have trampled down.

They gather round the table and unroll
The lettered length of a mysterious scroll.

It is the word for all men to be free—
The world-wide Charter of humanity!
Affirming for the first time since the sun
Behind his orbs in circling courses run
That all the rights of life and liberty
Are born, not made; man is by nature free,
His happiness he holds by his own right
Inalienable—in his own man-born might;
And tyrants, though the strongest, have no power
To weaken or withhold his priceless dower.

Then one came forth alone from that brave band,
And on the parchment laid his strong right hand;
And with the other lifted, lo! he swears
To hold the truth, and keep the word it bears
True to the very letter. Hear him now,
While mystic light illumes his manly brow!

"By all that's holy, great and good, I swear
To keep the spirit of the record there—
Affirm its precepts with my latest breath—
Through good, or ill report—in life or death—
By camp or court, wherever duty leads,
Though pampered princes rule and Freedom bleeds.

"I stand by this, though gathering hosts appal,
Till the last blow is struck and tyrants fall
My life, my fortune—all the powers of mind,
Aye heart and hand unto this cause I bind;
Also by the sacred honor of a man
Vow to arrest the doom—reverse the ban—
To bow no more beneath oppression's rod,
But stand, erect and free—so help me God!"

Then all the others came, and nothing loth,
Solemnly made and registered the oath.
Affixing the impress of their hand and seal—
Alive in power while circling ages wheel.

And summoned, pure patriots arose
To try the question with their lordly foes.
Jeered, ill armed, undisciplined, yet free,
They met the flower of England's chivalry;
Nor deigned they ever at the haughty sneer
Flung at their awkward gait and paltry gear.
There was a power that held their hearts as low,
As they with bare feet trod the crusted snow,
Or cold and hungry laid them down to rest
Upon our common mother's icy breast.
It shone around them with a charmed light;
It was faith in the omnipotence of right.
This was their arrow, this their potent shield;
Invincible through many a crimson field,
They bore it on to final victory,
And saw their rights retrieved, their country free.

And as if evolved by sudden flame,
Out from the tumult fair Columbia came,
And stood among the nations. The young queen
Waved her small sceptre o'er the First Thirteen
With a wild grace that called forth bitter scorn
In that, the dark hour of our country's morn;

Then at her head a thousand bolts were hurled
Of sneers and curses, and the grim Old World
Clapped her hard hands and cried "Aha! Aha!
Thy light will soon be quenched, Plebian Star!"
But fair Columbia rose above the strife,
By power supreme, that formed and fed her life.
Upon her brow the star of Freedom shone,
And the oppressed poor of every zone,
Hailing its lambent life came forth to see,
With their own eyes the land of Liberty!

Our young Republic, safe from war's alarms,
Sweet welcome gave, and opened wide her arms:
And wooed by the bright honors of her name,
Into her courts Earth's suffering millions came.
By Freedom taught they learned her glorious plan,
And the poor peasant rose into the man.

By Freedom nurtured, Art and Science woke,
And with new impulse, and new power they spoke.
By liberal learning fostered—free to all
Who would respond unto her gracious call.

Then latent cities, quick with kindling light,
Sprang forth like mushrooms of the summer night,
As if sown broadcast o'er the wide domain—
Nooked in the mountains, scattered o'er the plain,
Perched on the rivers, sitting by the sea—
Homes of the Brave, the Beautiful, the Free.

Homes, too, of honest labor, whose rich dower
Hold at their spring sources of wealth and power.
Though with the other arts we hold a truce.
We value most the noble powers of Use,
Simple in detail, in their wholeness grand,
Be strength and honor to the Working Hand.

Our noble commerce rides on every sea,
Our policy is large, our schools are free:
For wealth and enterprise are well combined
To aid and strengthen the aspiring mind—
To call forth all refinements that may grace the individual, or improve the race.

With a free press, wisdom and wit to guide,
Our means of knowledge held at highest tide
Flow forth unchecked to camp and cot and hall;
The welcome messenger is sent to all,
Bearing its treasures, words of happy cheer
To the lone miner and the pioneer,
And o'er the wilds, wherever men are found,
It wanders off, for some log cabin bound.
The papers we must have at any cost;
And of all the saints, we first honor Faust.
The spreading light even infant thought imbues,
For toddling babies play they read the news.

That sapient question, "How's the world to-day?"
We answer confidently, as we may:
For tidings, whether bearing weal or woe,
Upon Ithuriel pinions come and go
From the old Orient, robed in shadows dun,
To the far confines of the setting sun,
From cold Alaska wrapped in wintry wilds,
To where Tortugas clasps his burning isles.
And the poor prisoner hails with delight
The power that lifts a shadow from his night,
And so forever, to our farthest round,
May books and periodicals abound,
Off from the new day hurl the vaporous night,
And hear the voice of God: "Let there be light."

At length our daring sons, whose will was fate,
Still westward bound, unlocked the Golden Gate.
They strode unchecked o'er territories worn,
And fixed their last seal by the setting sun.
The land was all their own—and there's to be
From Shasha to the Caribbee;
From where old Plymouth Rock arrests the wave
To where the Pacific's sunny waters lave
The feet of San Francisco, and they stand
A liquid wall along the golden land.

Then Art and Science wedded offspring gave,
Whose power, Omnific, woke the tidal wave
Of ages, and our glorious Fulton came
To write on history's scroll his honored name.
He studied, suffered, till the dawning light
Gave form to thought, and on his raptured sight
Evolved; behold! the spirit of his dreams
Athwart the day in sudden splendor beams.
And then his flag of triumph was unfurled,
And the young steam god stood before the world!

And a young Ætna flashes from his eye.
By speed and strength he holds the peerless dower.
Ten thousand Titans could not match his power,
Nor twice ten thousand giants tear apart
One single sinew of his iron heart,
As with thunderous cry he moves amain,
Over the mountain or along the plain.
But later, the experiments of Morse
Woke power to rival even Iron Horse,
He caught the storm-steed by his shining mane,
And curbed his fiery mouth by bit and rein.
Electric force he made a simple toy,
And trained the lightning for an errand boy.
And thus our fire-fed Mercury was taught
To traverse kingdoms with the speed of thought.

To trace, unswerving still, his wirey track—
Carry his message, bear his tidings back—
Nor can the broadest ocean build a bar,
That may arrest his light, imponderous car.
As down he plunges, mid the deep serene
And flies unchallenged through the submarine;
Thus time and distance dwindle into naught
By this concretion of a mighty thought;
And if we rightly future secrets prone
He soon will put a girdle round the globe:
And as his sparkling speech is fast unfurled,
Bind heart to heart and fraternize the world.

The Old World sneers no longer, but ignores
Her ancient spleen; and now, unto our shores
She brings the varied gifts of all her powers,
On honorable terms to vie with ours.
Our Centennial Birthday she will grace
With the grand presence of her grave old face—
Our institutions in the nearer view,
Will seem more practical and good and true;
Our childlike wisdom honestly she'll greet,
And sit instructed at our youthful feet;
And in the future near no longer blind—
She will invite freedom to all mankind.

Now at this solemn moment, while we stand
Upon the century's verge, O, let us pray
For truth to guide us on our future way.
Father Almighty! open now Thy hand,
And bless with richest gifts our own dear land;
Honor the pledge, our patriot fathers gave—
And from corruption foul, our nation save!
And keep, as we resist the shining lure,
Our Rulers honest and our people pure—
Blest with material ease, O, may we find
Wealth in the culture of the immortal mind!
O, grant us from this unforgotten hour,
To consecrate our spiritual power,
For noble uses, in that higher state,
Towards which we journey now with steps elate!

The poem was well received. Col. Alexander then read the "Declaration of Independence," with the names of the illustrious signers, saying that on this the One Hundredth Birthday of the Government which they had planted, he believed it was eminently proper to do them the honor to read their names. The President then introduced Miss Annie White, who read a poem entitled "Columbia Welcoming the Nations." It was a good poem and the reader was heartily applauded. The Orator of the Day, Mr. Frank Almon, was then introduced and delivered a fine oration, even surpassing the expectations of his most sanguine friends. The oration was liberal and broad in sentiment, national in character, and containing nothing to offend any party, and appealing to the patriotism of every one who has the least interest in the government of his country.

After the oration came the call to dinner, which the ladies had spread upon the tables in the shade, from the various lunch-baskets. It is the unanimous expression of the company that the dinner was most excellent, and upon some new comers here expressing surprise at such a sumptuous repast, old settlers here would straighten themselves up and say, "that's the way they always do it on Bishop Creek." Our drinks were pure mountain water with snow in it and lemonade. The company were consequently sober and happy. The people of Bishop Creek have made a noble record on the temperance question and our order, through their committee, do extend them their thanks.

The young people remained and had a dance in the evening which we believe passed off pleasantly.

The Committee also thank Messrs. Russell & Dugan for their liberality in opening their house, mill, stables and grounds for the free use of the celebration.

MAYHEM.—We have some particulars of a brutal affair which took place at Benton July 2. There is some uncertainty as to the correctness of the names of two of the parties, our information on that point being merely rumor. A recent arrival at that point, whose name we understand to be Bill Harbin, got full of Benton lightning, a not unusual occurrence with him, and thereupon raised a muss with Pat Gilfoy. Before this ended the drunken "pilgrim," as he is called, seized Gilfoy's lip with his teeth and bit it entirely off, thereby disfiguring him for life. Immediately after this brutal act he drew his six-shooter and boastingly informed the citizens that that kind of work was only fun for him, and that he was strictly on it. Failing to find another victim just then, he repaired to a saloon at the lower end of town and there got into a fight with W. B. Harbin, a well known citizen of the place. In this affray the drunken desperado hacked this second victim over the face and head with his revolver, although on the whole he does not appear to have come off decidedly first best. Here, again, while both were down, the pilgrim endeavored to do some more biting, and it is said did succeed in bitting out two of his opponent's teeth. That part of the story will probably admit of another explanation. Soon after Judge Cross issued a warrant for the arrest of the desperado. Constable Edwards and Deputy Hunnicutt proceeded to make the arrest, whereupon the pilgrim took to flight, making for the mountains at a rate of speed never before equalled in that region. The officers, though mounted, had quite a chase before they overhauled him. Edwards finally headed him off, and captured him with a drawn revolver. Close in the rear was Deacon Hunnicutt, with another revolver in one hand, and (as the story goes) a prayer book in the other. At this the wretch wilted and surrendered unconditionally, and was safely locked up in the calaboose to await his trial for mayhem. Both of his victims are lying in a rather critical condition.

EXTRA COPIES.—Notwithstanding the demand for so many extra copies this week we have a few extras left—first come first served.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—James Dowd was instantly killed last Sunday in the Defiance mine, Darwin. He was engaged in putting in a set of timbers, when a quantity of rock became detached, falling upon and killing him outright. He leaves a wife, formerly Mrs. Ed. Kane, who has been particularly unfortunate. Her former husband deceased almost exactly two years to a day previous to this second fearful dispensation, and during that time she, if we have been informed aright, has lost two children, all she had. Deceased was formerly of Fish Springs, where he was well and favorably known.

FROM PANAMINT.—Isaacs Harris, of Harris & Rhine, returned from Panamint two day's since, having completed the removal of their store from there to this place. We also note that our lengthy friend J. A. Brown who has been in the store out there all this time, was also shipped in here with the rest of the truck. Mr. Harris is confident that in due time, perhaps less than a year, Panamint will be a better place than it has ever been. We are fully disposed to concur in that opinion.

FIRE WORKS.—One of the completest successes pertaining to the celebration at Lone Pine was the fire works in the evening, which were witnessed by all and merited the high applause bestowed upon them. The display lasted about half an hour, and included two pieces, one representing the national bird with wings outstretched, and the other a combination of the dates—1776–1876. The managers of this part are entitled to credit.

DANCE AT THE BLANEY HOUSE.—The horrible Roosters assisted by quite a number of Independence ladies and others enjoyed an impromtu dance last night at the Blaney House—a pleasant affair it was too, but we tarried not to tender fatherly advice concerning the lateness of the hour.

A DEBILITATING SHOCK.—"I feel devlish bad to-day" said one Gold Hiller to another this morning. "On a tear as usual last night, eh?" "No, I went to bed perfectly sober." "Then I don't wonder you feel bad." "How's that?" "Oh! the shock to your system." They grinned.—Gold Hill News.

FARMERS

READ AND CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING FACTS. THE MOST IMPORTANT INVENTION OF THE AGE.

GLIDDEN'S PATENT
BARB FENCE WIRE.

WE CHALLENGE THE WORLD TO PRODUCE as good a Fence for the money. It has been tested by thousands of practical farmers, and all are enthusiastic in its praise, for the following and other

GOOD REASONS:

First—It takes less Posts than any other Fence;

Second—It can be put up for one quarter the Labor of any other Fence;

Third—Cattle, mules and horses will not rub against it and break it down;

Fourth—The Wind has no effect upon it and Fires will not burn it;

Fifth—You will know that your Crop is Safe by night as well as by day;

Sixth—Because two men can fence 160 acres in two days;

Seventh—The change of Season has no effect upon it;

Eighth—The wire is manufactured entirely from Steel, which has a relative strength of over Thirty Per Cent greater than any Iron Wire;

Ninth—The Barb cannot be displaced by thumb and fingers or cattle horns;

Tenth—It is the Cheapest and Most Durable Fence made;

LEGAL.

NOTICE IN RELATION TO HIGHWAYS.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE LAWS in relation to Highways as applicable to the County of Inyo will be strictly enforced from and after date. Attention is called to the subjoined extracts of said laws:

SECTION 4, SPECIAL ROAD LAW FOR INYO COUNTY. The Road Overseer shall have the entire supervision of all the public roads within said Inyo County. Road Districts and District Road Overseers in Inyo County are abolished.

SEC. 2746, GENERAL ROAD LAW.—If the encroachment is denied, and the owner, occupant or person controlling the matter or thing charged with being an encroachment, refuses either to remove or permit the removal thereof, the Road Overseer must commence, in the proper Court, an action to abate the same as a nuisance; and if he recovers judgment, he may, in addition to having the same abated, recover ten dollars for every day such nuisance remained after notice, and also his costs in said action.

SEC. 2647. If the encroachment is not denied, but is not removed for five days after the notice is complete, the Road Overseer may remove the same at the expense of the owner, occupant or person controlling the same, and recover his costs and expenses, as, also, for each day the same remained after notice was complete, the sum of ten dollars, in an action for that purpose.

SEC. 2748. No gates must be allowed on any public highway duly laid out, except on highways running through lands subject to overflow to such extent as to remove the fences. When so allowed they must be erected and maintained at the expense of the owner or occupant at whose request or for whose benefit they were erected. If such expense is not paid, the gate must be removed as an obstruction.

SEC. 2750. Whoever obstructs or injures any highway, or obstructs or diverts any water course thereon, is liable to a penalty of five dollars for each day such obstruction or injury remains, and must be punished as provided in Section 588 of the Penal Code.

SEC. 2754. Road Overseers may put up on bridges under their charge notices that there is "Five dollars fine for riding or driving on this bridge faster than a walk." Whoever thereafter rides or drives faster than a walk on such bridge is liable to pay five dollars for each offense.
T. F. A. CONNELLY, Road Overseer.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Henry M. Isaacs, Plaintiff, vs. Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. Summons. The People of the State of California send Greeting to Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in Second Township, in the County of Inyo in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, on the Ninth Day of September, A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The said action is brought to recover judgment against said Defendants upon their certain promissory note dated July 20, 1872, payable on demand, for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of three per cent per month from date, principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United States of America.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint as above required, said Plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, together with all interest thereon and costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand at said Township, this 16th day of June, A. D. 1876.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.

MESSRS. EDITORS—All through yesterday the pavements in front of and adjacent to the telegraph offices were thronged with crowds anxiously awaiting the developments of events at St. Louis. The telegrams continued to come in at short intervals, but conveyed no important intelligence. About 6 o'clock the quick gathering of dark clouds in the northwest gave indication of a coming storm of no ordinary character, and about 7 o'clock the torrent of rain that poured down confirmed the predictions of the desciples of "Old Prob." As the rain began to fall one could readily imagine that he heard the "sizzle" (if I may use an expressive word not in the dictionary) of the big warm drops as they fell upon the hot crowd around the telegraph offices. The zeal and anxiety of the gathering induced them to stand it for a moment, but when the rain began to pour down in good earnest a mighty scattering took place. The Metropolitan, the National and St. James hotels being the nearest, were soon thronged with an excited crowd and as the balloting had just commenced at St. Louis, bets upon the favorite contestants were freely offered and accepted. The National afording the most room the greatest crowd had there assembled and the excitement was intense; Hancock appearing to be the favorite of most. This state of things had lasted about half an hour, when in rushed a gentleman wringing wet, his umbrella torn and capsized, in his hand he held aloft a scrap of paper and shouted at the top of his voice "Tilden nominated on the second ballot." You may imagine the effect. In a short time the rain ceased and the booming of guns in Judiciary Square announced to the citizens that a nomination had been made. This morning the weather is delightful and judging by the quiet air of the people on the streets, no one could imagine that anything of importance had taken place here since the war. The nomination of Hendricks appears to be a foregone conclusion and will probably be announced this morning.

The city is now and has been for some time filled with strange visitors who go this way to the Centennial and others who have come from there. Foreigners making a tour of this country and members of Congress have their hands full showing their constituents the sights and some of them say it has already become a bore.

Though the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate is notifying witnesses to appear before that body July 6th, to testify in the Belknap trial, it is still thought the trial will be postponed till November.

Senator Morrill has informed the President that he hopes to see his way clear enough in a few days to say whether he will accept the position of Secretary of the Treasury, his nomination having been long since confirmed by the Senate.

In the Senate yesterday, Mr. Morton, from the Committee on Privileges and Elections, submitted a report in the matter of the Congressional Printer, with a resolution that the Committee on Printing be directed to investigate the official conduct of A. M. Clapp, with power to send for persons and papers. Mr. Clapp has already been investigated by the House, but he now wants to hear what the Senate has to say about him. The committee has made a report saying that the printer is an officer of both Houses and of the Government, elected by the Senate, and that while they have nothing to do with the complaints as to the action of the committee of the House of Representatives, in his behalf they think Mr. Clapp entitled to a hearing and that it should be had with open doors.

In the House Mr. Atkins from the Committee on Appropriations reported back the army appropriation bill and moved non concurrence in the Senate amendments on the appointment of a committee of conference.

Much regret is expressed here over the death of Rev. Geo. L. Cummings, senior bishop of the Episcopal Reformed Church. Bishop Cummings preached in Lincoln Hall here a few months since before an immense audience. He was at one time the rector of Trinity Church in this place and was immensely popular. SAXON.

Gratifying Information.

[From the Los Angeles Express, June 30]

The information we gave yesterday in reference to the certainty that the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad would be constructed to a connection with an overland line is the most gratifying piece of news we have been able to lay before our readers for a long time. This information is authentic; it comes direct from Senator Jones himself, and although we are not advised of the combinations which that gentleman has under way and perfected, yet we may rely upon the fact that he himself is fully satisfied that he will be able to push the road to its overland connection. There is one very stisfactory feature about this information. Senator Jones will not call on this section for a dollar of aid. He truly says that whatever assistance in money could be contributed by our people would be but a drop in the bucket of capital required to prosecute his great enterprise to completion. Yet, while he will ask no money aid from this section, he will lay out his line as nearly as is consistent with the ultimate design in the interest of the convenience and accommodation of all localities that are to be benefitted by the road. Senator Jones will not swing his surveys from their course for the purpose of compelling struggling communities to compound with him in large douceurs for the benefit of a depot. He will rather stretch his lines out of their course to accommodate such communities, believing that the friendship of the people is necessary to the prosperity of his road. The information we have settles two important questions, one of which we have never had a doubt about—that the Los Angeles and Independence railroad will not, in any event, pass into the hands of the great monopoly, and that the road will form the Pacific division of a transcontinental railway. We have always had faith in the ability of Mr. Jones to make such combinations as would ultimately secure this much desired consummation, and when the clouds were darkest in the financial skies, we had an abiding faith in the resources of his genius to carry out his designs. We know that he was measuring lances with the most powerful and least scrupulous corporation on the continent; but we also knew that he was a man of no ordinary mettle. It was something to learn, at the very time when the croakers were predicting his downfall financially, that he had out-generaled the great monopoly in their control of the Panama route, and become the preponderant power in the Pacific Mail Steamship Company as well as the ally of the Panama Railroad Company. This did not look much like the Central Pacific getting away with Senator Jones. And we believe that the event will show the same kind of getting away with him in reference to the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad. It must not be forgotten by those wishing to form a correct judgment on this subject, that the great East is deeply interested in securing a railroad outlet to the Pacific ocean. It cannot be excluded from this, and Senator Jones can use this powerful desire of the capitalists of the East as a means to facilitate him in his designs. No man occupies a better position than he does to work out a problem which is of so much interest to Eastern commerce. He possesses in his present road and its partially graded bed to the Cajon Pass, a key to the entire situation, and with these essential factors in his favor, he will succeed in working out his important project.

THE PERASICH who dined off a man's lip in Carson, the other day, was discharged by the Justice of the Peace, on the grounds—first that the accused had no intention to commit mayhem; and second, that no mayhem was committed, as the injury was not permanent in its character. If he had committed mayhem there would have been no intention, and if he had had intention there would have been no mayhem. We suppose when one man inserts his teeth in another man's lip, in order to make the offence mayhem, it is necessary he should have a copy of the statutes under his arm, with the leaf turned down at "Mayhem," in order to show the intention. Carson justice seems to be particularly favorable to the Perasich family.—R. R. Reveille.

A NEGRO about dying was told by his minister that he must forgive a certain darkey against whom he seemed to entertain a very bitter feeling. "Yes, sah," he replied, "if I dies I forgive dat nigga; but if I gets well that nigga must take care."

IN New Orleans, one day last week, on Canal street, a deacon of one of the churches inadvertantly stepped on a banana skin, and as he skated off to the gutter he knocked great chunks out of the third commandment.

MRS. PHIL. SHERIDAN thought that a parrot might amuse the baby, and said so, but when she saw an eighteen-pound Parrot gun come trundling up to the house on a dray, she knew that Philip had misunderstood her.

Hostilities Commenced.

[From the S. F. Bulletin, July 6.]

War between the Turks and the Servians has commenced. This possibly may be an encounter which will involve the best part of Europe. Anything like a solution of the Eastern question seems impossible without the intervention of the great powers. But the idea is now current in Europe that the great powers will observe neutrality. This may be so with regard to Germany and Austria; but there are other considerations likely to produce hostilities between Great Britain and Russia. The tone of the English press for the last three months has indicated that war with Russia was imminent. The disturbance in Turkey is only one of a train of circumstances which are precipitating a conflict between these two powers. The departure some three months ago of the Duchess of Edinburgh, the Czar's daughter, from England to visit her father at St. Petersburg, was regarded at the time as manifesting a want of cordiality between the two governments. This marriage of Queen Victoria's second son with the Czar of Russia's only daughter, which was to have cemented the friendship of the two nations, has really been provocative of ill will.

Less than two months ago a book was published at St. Petersburgh, under Imperial sanction, written by a Russian military officer, charging the English with duplicity in their negotiations concerning the recent annexations by the Czar, in Central Asia. The London Times in reviewing this book denied the allegation, and explicitly said that by the sword English rule had been established in India, and by the sword England was prepared at any time to maintain it. The purchased of the Suez Canal shares by the English Government was only a preparation for the contingency of war. This has been followed up by the strengthening of the Mediterranean fleet, and placing the whole of the English possessions in the Mediterranean Sea upon a war footing.

What position Germany and Austria propose to take is not yet clearly defined. Our dispatches imply that Germany is not wholly satisfied with the course of Russia. The London Times of the 7th ult., in an elaborate article reviewing the situation, expressed the opinion that Austria was opposing Russia in the position the latter had assumed with regard to the Principalities. That journal, however, was not so certain about Germany, but argued that it was to the interest of that Empire to act with England on the Eastern question.

Reverting to the struggle between Servia and Turkey, the first blood seems to be in favor of the latter. But this by no means indicates what may be the outcome, although if numerical strength and the resources of war be the prime factors in the contest, the advantage is all with Turkey. Servia entered upon the contest evidently with the hope that her rising would be the incentive for the whole Christain population throughout the Principalities to take up arms, and possibly with the promise of assistance from Russia. The Turkish army was on a war footing at the commencement of hostilities. The Servian army has to undergo a course of training, and with the help of Montenegro, Bulgaria and other provinces the Turkish army will have all it can do, to reduce the Christian population again to subjection. The bombardment of Belgrade, the capital of Servia, is threatened by Turkey. Belgrade is a citadel, well protected, and is considered one of the strongest fortresses in the Turkish Empire.

Perils of the Rail.

The engineer had gotten off to snowball a chipmunk, and the conductor was minding a young widow's baby for her; and the result was that the train happened to get on a down grade and was started off at a terrific rate, every bit of four miles an hour, I should think. We were just half a mile above the Annapolis junction, and the first thing we knew—there being no one to whistle and wake up the switch tender—we were turned off into the Annapolis road and went down the wrong track at full speed. Imagine our consternation when just at the moment we heard the whistle, not half a mile ahead of us, of the Annapolis up train. We were paralyzed with terror. Here were two trains on the same track approaching each other at the dizzy speed just mentioned. Evidently our time had come! In a few short hours the engines would meet, and then—destruction!

Pale, but calm, the doomed band of passengers sat, and though with the very show of death upon them, raised their voices in a parting hymn.

"Send for the baggage-master," said a young man with a sad smile.

"Why?" was asked.

"Because we are about to pass in our checks."

Everybody wept. From the rear platform we could see the miserable engineer straining every nerve to catch up but he had tight boots on and didn't gain anything to speak of.

At this moment a ray of hope dawned upon us. I had just finished writing my will on the back of a visiting card, when I observed a young lady detaching her bustle. Placing the article—which was composed of egiht hundred papers and a hair mattrass—under her arm, the heroine marched through the car.

We followed her anxiously.

She climbed up on the tender and then over the engine. It was very interesting and thrilling to see her climbing over the wheels and brass things, on her way to the cow-catcher. It reminded me of a country girl getting over a wire fence. But never mind that now. Let me see where I was. Oh, yes—on the cow-catcher. Holding on by the cross-bars with one hand, the noble maiden tied the bustle on the sharp prow with the other.

You can guess the result. In the course of the afternoon the collision came off. Protected by the bustle, we received a gentle bump and were saved.

I took up a collection for the woman on the spot. I always take up collections on such occasions—always. And what's more I never forget to give the object interested something nice out of it—never. There is nothing mean about me. I suppose you have noticed my clothes?

"CAN a politician be honest?"—Ex. Can a potato wink?

The Custer Massacre.

No event connected with our Indian wars for years past, if ever, has created such a profound sensation as the news in relation to the utter annihilation of Custer and his command, wherein not a man of five companies was left to tell the fearful tale. Nothing, except the result, is yet or possibly ever will be known of the incidents after Custer ordered the charge. The story in brief is follows: Gen. Terry, chief in command of one division of the Yellowstone army, planned a general attack upon the Sioux under Sitting Bull on Rose Bud creek. Custer was to take his twelve companies of the Seventh Cavalry, and so time his marches by a specified route as to allow Terry to be in position to co-operate with his division. Custer, it seems, forced his marches and reached the ground forty-eight hours sooner than Terry expected He came in sight of the Indian encampment, which, as he remarked, "was the biggest on the American continent." Giving Major Reno seven companies with which to attack the apparently fleeing enemy at another point some distance away, Custer charged with the remaining five. Not a soul of those five companies but was slaughtered. Meantime Reno's command was so sorely beset by such hordes of yelling savages as to be in the most imminent danger of all being trampled to death by sheer numbers. Finally, after great loss, the demoralized survivors attained a tenable position on a high bluff, where, after two days of the intensest suffering for lack of water and the enemy's onslaughts, were rescued by the approach of Terry's command.

PRESIDENT GRANT has a peculiar way of getting rid of every conspicuous honest man that turns up in his civil service. His latest blow was aimed at one Clark, who had been giving the San Francisco whisky ring some trouble. Clark had ho sooner established a reputation for honesty as a revenue officer than off rolled his head. This is what Bill Stewart, Tom Fitch, Timothy Guy Phelps and the rest call "reform within the party." The San Francisco papers are bitter in their denunciation of this last reformatory proceeding on the part of the President, and some of them go so far as to say it removes California from the list of doubtful States in the November election,

WILL NOT BE REMOVED.—We are in receipt of the gratifying information, direct from Washington, that that bill to remove this Land Office is dead for this session at least. Both Sargent and Page have pronounced against it. They had given it their countenance in the first place as matter of economy, having been informed by some interested party that the fees received did not equal the officers' salary. Senator Booth is deserving thanks for his kindness in looking after the interests of this section in this matter; also, Sargent and Page for their sensible second thought, and Wigginton throughout.

THE Centennial celebration in Philadelphia on the Fourth was one of the most magnificent demonstrations of the age, judging from the dispatches published. The Vice-President of the United States, in the absence of the President, presided on the occasion. The Governors of several of the States were present, as also the Emperor of Brazil, several of the most distinguished officers of the late war and other notable personages.

WANTS TO AVENGE CUSTER'S DEATH. Jo Shelby, the noted Confederate General of Missouri, sent the following telegram to President Grant on the 7th instant: "Gen. Custer has been killed; we fought him once, and now propose to avenge him. Should you determine to call for volunteers allow Missouri to raise 1,000."

GEN. GEO. A. CUSTER was 36 years of age. He was during the war the youngest officer of distinction in the whole army, being a Major-General of Volunteers at 23. His actual rank when killed was Colonel, and he commanded the Second Cavalry.

THE strength of the different political parties in the next Oregon Legislature is reported to be as follows: Democrats, 50; Republicans, 34; Independents 6. The Democrats have a majority of eight in the Senate and two in the House.

THE Democratic Convention resorted to strategy in that of selecting Tilden to represent hard money, and Hendricks to accommodate soft money votes. In that particular the ticket is mongrel in its component parts.

In Bad Taste.

It is aggravating in the extreme to all fair minded people to note the efforts of certain party papers to make party capital out of every public event, even such as a whole nation mourns over as for the loss of a near and dear friend or relative. What satisfaction can it be to these contemptible journals to deliberately pervert facts only that they may make a little party capital out of a great disaster, knowing as they do, that it has no political bearing whatever? Gallant Custer and his noble band charged, every soul of them, to an untimely death; they did that as soldiers in the fulfillment of a soldier's duty; it was an error, that charge, one a whole people regrets beyond expression. Had it been a triumph, a whole people would have thrown up their hats in honor of the more than brave officer who lead it, who ordered it, who was alone responsible for it. It was just such deeds as this appeared to promise which gave Custer a name before the world. This last daring act, the last of a most brilliant career, differed only in its disastrous ending from half a score of apparently equally rash exploits by the same officer. If those previous exploits were not always perfect successes they were none of them great disasters, so the question of responsibility was not raised, only that it as well as the credit were both his own. He refused to accept another regiment which, with Gatling guns, Gen. Terry tendered him. Making forced marches so as to be in ahead of other claimants for the anticipated glory, he arrived on the expected battle ground two days ahead of the time agreed upon. Coming in sight of full 7000 Indians he rose in his stirrups and exclaimed: "Hurrah! Custer's luck! The biggest Indian camp in North America!" and at once laid his plans to capture that camp with but a single regiment! Bravery never attempted a more ill-advised thing—as it turned out; but he was only doing his gallant best to retrieve his own error, for he believed the enemy were in full retreat, and if they got off scot free the blame would rest upon him in having outstripped his orders and order of march and thus brought it about. In any event Custer made his own election. There was no blundering superior there or elsewhere to order a repitition of Lord Cardigan's "charge of the gallant six hundred."

Then how mean it is, in the face of known facts, to make this great disaster but most gallant and glorious effort, a text for contemptible political sermons. Republican journals, we are told, lay the death of Custer and his men at the door of the "Confederate" House because of its legislation to cut down the army, thereby leaving Custer without a sufficient force. This is false and absurd—first, Custer refused to accept any additional force; secondly, no reduction has yet been made in the army. On the other side such sheets as the Los Angeles Herald and Virginia Chronicle insult common intelligence by asserting it to be a natural sequence of the Quaker policy inaugurated and maintained by a corrupt Administration. While it is certainly attributable to mismanagement of Indian affairs, that mismanagement begun full eighty years ago, and has so continued without any change for the better until since the adoption of the present Quaker policy. This, though far from fulfilling expectations—though under it robbers and thieves have in some instances flourished and rode the red men down as before—yet, on the whole, it has accomplished more for good than any that has yet been tried. But supposing it to be the worst failure of all, who is responsible for its continuance? Not this Administration, corrupt as it is, but this same investigating Congress. Twice, at least, has the Administration advised it to abandon the present policy, and place the whole Indian business in the hands of the military as the next best thing to do. No time could be spared from the investigating business, and the President's advice was not acted upon. But the Chronicle don't stop at that; it tells its readers this was nothing more than righteous retribution upon the officer who caused the Black Hills excitement, and subsequent violation of a solemn treaty by our corrupt Administration, upon which retribution must also fall, but, as intimated, by voting it out of power therefor since its misdeeds are not punishable by Sioux bullets. These papers are less fair than the Indians.

THERE are now thirty-seven States in the Union and a new one (Colorado) has to be added, so that by the 4th of next July the thirty-seven stars in our flag will be increased to thirty-eight. By Act of Congress, passed in 1818, it is ordered that a star should be added for every new State upon the 4th of July following the admission thereof.

GETTING OLD.—The Reese River Reveille has entered upon its twenty-fourth volume and twelfth year. It is little, but old in wit and wisdom, and Austin wouldn't amount to much without it.

Good News.

A Salt Lake dispatch of the 9th says that Jay Gould and party were expected to arrive there in a few days when the Utah Central Railroad will be turned over to the Union Pacific. That road already owns the Utah Southern road, which runs from Salt Lake to York, 75 miles distant, and the understanding is that a 400-mile connection will be made with the Los Angeles and Independence road, thereby saving about 170 miles between Salt Lake and San Francisco. An outlet to the Pacific is greatly desired by the Union Pacific, and the opportunity offered by this route is the best, as it is the only one which that company can avail itself of. If the Union Pacific will add four hundred miles of road to the Utah Southern, the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad will build the rest, as no doubt, is the intention of Senator Jones, as outlined in the extract on the outside of this issue taken from the Los Angeles Express. Though it is probable this particular locality will be off the line of the through road, yet its construction will prove of incalculable benefit to this entire region, even without a branch road to connect us with the main line. We have no doubt but that one company or the other will go to work at once to build a connecting line through this valley to Carson, and then, if no sooner our county will take the lead of any other in this State perhaps without exception.

THOSE SHAM FIGHTS.—The sham battles by "our Army and Navy" at San Francisco on the 3d and 4th have afforded lots of fun because they were such fiascos. The operations of the militia on the 3d did pretty well, however, and were pretty well managed. While a cavalry regiment was making a most desperate charge upon the enemy an old gent and his wife seated in a one-horse buggy got directly in the line of the charge. Result—buggy smashed to smithereens, the horse capsized, the old gent and lady scattered all over the plain. The old lady got her face badly scratched, the old gent more scared and mad than hurt. He fell to swearing at the whole arrangement in a mild sort of a way, but didn't keep it up long; an ex-soldier of the rebellion who had had some experience, told him he had better git, for the army doctors were coming, and pursuant to rule on all battle fields, would never be satisfied till they cut off his leg. The old gent gathered up his scratched better half and left at once. The navy and forts on the following day covered themselves with glory. They fired big guns incessantly for an hour and a half at a sham monitor and couldn't hurt it at all. Finally a revenue cutter sneaked up and set the old scow on fire and thus saved the day. It is proposed to arm all the larger hoodlums with flint locks to be ready in case the China Emperor should send one of his war junks over to take the city, which he could do so far as the big guns are concerned, if they did their best on this memorable occasion.

HAYES' LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.—In a lengthy and well considered letter, Gov. Hayes formally accepts the Presidential nomination. He declares for civil service reform. In so many words he says that if elected all Federal officers, no matter what their politics, shall be secure in their tenure of office in all cases where they have shown themselves capable, and their personal character remains untarnished. This is a sensible resolution, and the first time any Presidential candidate has ever dared to adopt it. He considers this principle of even more importance to the welfare of the country than even the financial question. He, however, declares for hard money, and in short places himself squarely upon the announced platform of the party.

GEN. SUTTER.—The House Private Land Claims Committee has voted to recommend the passage of a bill appropriating $50,000 for the relief of General John Sutter, in consideration of his services to early California immigrants, his losses of personal property for want of legal protection, and his equities in the Sobrante Grant, confirmed by the lower tribunal, but denied by a United States Supreme Court decision. This sum is to be in full satisfaction of his claims for lien, lands, and all other claims for losses or services.

A CONFERENCE between the President, Secretary of War and Generals Sherman and Sheridan in regard to the late Indian troubles will soon take place. The official report of the late massacre gives the result as follows: Killed, 261; wounded, 30; missing, 2.

THE latest news from Belgrade is to the effect that the Servians have fought ten actions, and lost 5,000 men. In the Turkish attack on Belina all the Christian inhabitants were massacred.

MILITARY.—Major General John M. Schofield relinquished, and Major General Irwin McDowell assumed command of the Military Division of the Pacific on the 1st instant.

Pasturage Lands.

The following is the full text of the bill introduced into Congress June 5th by Mr. Lane, of Oregon. The bill is the joint production of Mr. Wigginton and Mr. Lane:

A Bill to provide for the settlement of pasturage lands in arid regions of the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be lawful for any six or more citizens of the United States, or any six or more persons of the requisite age who may be entitled to become citizens of the United States and who may have filed declarations of intention to become such, to organize and acquire titles to pasturage lands under limitations and conditions hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2. That all of the lands in that portion of the United States and Territories where irrigation is necessary to agriculture are, for the purposes set forth in this Act, classed for pasturage lands excepting, first, all lands that can be redeemed by irrigation, and for which there is accessible water for irrigating a tract of land of not less than six hundred and forty acres; second, all land bearing timber of commercial value; third, all coal lands; and fourth, all town-sites or tracts of public land on which towns have been built and for the sale and disposal of which provision has been made by law. And provided, That no person shall obtain title under this Act to any mine of gold, silver, cinnabar, copper, or other mineral, for the sale or disposal of which provision has heretofore been made by law.

SEC. 3. That it shall be lawful for the requisite number of persons designated in section one of this Act to select, from the public lands designated as pasturage lands in section two of this Act, for the purpose of settling thereon, an amount of land not exceeding two thousand five hundred and sixty acres to each person, but the land thus selected by the persons desiring to organize a pasturage district shall be in one continuous tract, and the same shall prescribe: Provided, That no one person shall be entitled to to more than two thousand five hundred and sixty acres: And provided further, That no tract of land of two thousand five hundred and sixty acres selected for any one person shall be entitled to a greater amount of water for irrigation purposes than that sufficient for the reclamation and cultivation of twenty acres of land.

SEC. 4. That whenever such pasturage district shall be organized, the clerk or recorder of such district shall notify the register and the receiver of the land district, and also the United States Surveyor-General of the State or Territory within which the pasturage district is situate, that his district has been organized; and each citizen of the district shall file a declaration with the register and the receiver of the land district that he has settled upon the tract of land within such pasturage district, not exceeding the prescribed amount, with the intention of residing thereon and obtaining a title thereto under the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 5. That within three years after the organization of a pasturage district, the residents therein, in their organized capacity, shall cause the district to be surveyed, and a plat of the same to be made, and on this plat each tract or parcel of land into which the district is divided, such tract or parcel being the entire claim of one person, shall be numbered, and the measure of every angle, the length every line in the boundaries thereof, and the number of acres in each tract or parcel shall be inscribed thereon, and the name of the district shall appear on the plat in full; and this plat and the field-notes of such survey, duly certified and sworn to before the register or the receiver of the United States land office, the clerk of the court of record, or a notary public, shall be submitted to the United States Survey-General of the State or Territory in which the pasturage district is situate; and it shall be the duty of that officer to examine the plats and notes therewith, and prove the accuracy of the survey in such manner as the Commissioner of Public Lands may prescribe; and if it shall appear after such examination and proving that correct surveys have been made, and that the several tracts claimed are within the provisions of this Act, he shall certify the same to the register of the land district, who shall, within three months after the receipt of certified copies furnish to the recorder of the pasturage district and to the United States Surveyor-General of the State or Territory, and the State Surveyor-General, if there be such an official, and the recorder or clerk of the county in which the pasturage district is situate, a copy thereof to each, and a copy shall be retained in the office of the register, and the original shall be transmitted to the General Land Office for preservation.

SEC. 6. That any person applying for the benefits of this Act must conform to the methods provided by law for the acquirement of a homestead in sections twenty-two hundred and eighty-nine to twenty-three hundred and seventeen inclusive of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and may obtain a patent under the conditions and limitations therein provided so far as they are applicable and consistent with this Act.

SEC. 7. That the lands patented under the provisions of this Act shall be described as pasturage farms, and designated by the number of the tract or parcel and the name of the district.

SEC. 8. That it shall be lawful for the residents of the district who are owners and claimants of land therein to make such rules and regulations as they may deem wise for the use of waters in such district for irrigation or other purposes, and for the pasturage of the lands severally or conjointly; but the same must accord with the provisions of this Act, and be subject to the laws of the United States now in force or which may hereafter be enacted; and the form of such rules and regulations shall be prescribed by the Commissioner of Public Lands.

THE Northern Belle mining company has declared another dividend of $1 per share, aggregating $50,000, and payable to-day, July 15. This is the fourteenth consecutive monthly dividend, and the total is $700,000.

GEN. CROOK'S position at last accounts was about 70 miles from the scene of the Custer slaughter. It was reported in despatches of the 10th that Crook had been attacked and he himself killed. This is a canard. A detachment of two companies in charge of a long supply train had had an all day's fight, but without serious results.

THE Government is receiving tender of volunteer cavalry regiments from the Western States and Territories enough in number of men offered to effectually clean out the whole Sioux nation in forty-eight hours. The chances are none will be accepted.

WAR IN EARNEST.—War in Eastern Europe has began in earnest, the Turks on one side, the Servians on the other, with a fair prospect of drawing all Europe into the bloody vortex. Two heavy battles have been fought, the Turks winning both.

THE Indians on the upper Missouri are becoming very uneasy, and many are leaving the reservations. A general outbreak at the agencies is feared.

TORNADO IN IOWA.—A most fearful tornado swept through Iowa on the night of the Fourth. A large number of lives were lost, and over a million dollars worth of property destroyed. A Chicago dispatch of the 7th says:

A Des Moines special gives further details of the terrible tornado in Central Iowa Tuesday night. It appears that the actual facts are much worse that at first reported. Mrs. J. P. Morton and child were both killed, and Charles Flager badly injured. E. S. Bramble, Mr. and Mrs. Graves and Mrs. Delay are all badly injured. Many families are left without clothing, and the scene is heartrending. Reports from other parts of Warren county show that the storm was general and disastrous. About fifty houses were blown away, and their inmates killed or badly hurt. From Madison county reports are equally disastrous. Reports from Norwalk state that the house of Mr. Gideon was swept away and his wife and three sons drowned. Between Winterset and Norwalk eleven persons were killed, seven drowned and four struck by lightning. The devastation is terrible and cannot be known until communication is established.

TERRIBLE 4TH OF JULY ACCIDENT.—A Carson dispatch of the 4th says: A terrible accident occurred here this morning while a salute was being fired in the V. and T. railroad yard, with a large cannon recently made by the moulders in the employ of that company. It was prematurely discharged and four men were severely injured. Wm. Bollander had both arms blown off, besides being terribly burned in the face and other parts of the body. He has since died. Robert Henderson had one hand badly mutilated and was severely bruised. Kendrick Reed was stunned and received internal injuries which may prove fatal. J. M. Tilton, recently from Colorado, was badly cut about the face and eyes. He may recover.

PERISHED ON THE DESERT.—A machinist named Charles Schnider, a native of Pennsylvania, well known throughout this section of Nevada, and whom it will be remembered, quite recently set up most of the machinery in the foundry now running at this place, left Columbus on foot for Belmont about the 1st of this month. His body was found about three miles this side of San Antone, Nye County, and about fifty miles from this camp. The presumption is that he perished from thirst. Deceased was about 38 years of age.—Borax Miner, July 8.

THE footings of the assessment roll for 1875–6 for Kern county is not yet fully completed, but enough is known to justify the assertion that the assessed value of property this year amounts to about seven million dollars. A large amount of property which has heretofore escaped has been assessed, and much that has been only nominally valued will pay taxes on something like a fair valuation this year.—Kern County Gazette.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Twentieth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Monterey, in the suit of F. Berrante, Plaintiff, against Epetacio Gomez, Defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1875, for the sum of Fifteen Hundred and Thirty-two 21-100 dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of Thirty-nine 35-100 dollars, duly attested the 22d day of April, A. D. 1876, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of Fifteen Hundred and Seventy-one 76-100 dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

Lot No. 1 in the fractional northeast quarter, and northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of Section No. 1, in Township No. 19, south of Range No. 36 East; and the north half of Lot No. 2, in the fractional southwest quarter of Section No. 6, in Township No. 19, south of Range No. 37 East, base and meridian of Mount Diablo, containing about 160 acres—together with all improvements thereon erected and the appurtenances thereunto belonging. All of said above described real property being situated in the county of Inyo, state of California.

Notice is hereby given that on MONDAY, the Seventh Day of August, A. D. 1876, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant, Epetacio Gomez, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JULY 15,.....1876.

AGRICULTURAL.—It may appear a little singular to the coast farmer to speak of ripening grain and the commencement of the harvest season, but nevertheless where barley ripens by the 10th of July fit for the reaper it is the result of a good season in our mountain valleys, where but little Winter grain is ever sown and volunteer crops are not to be depended upon except for hay. Late Spring frosts and scarcity of mountain water is the principal drawbacks our farmers have to contend with; but this season the superabundance of water for irrigating purposes, the fine Summer weather, the prospect of a good local market, the closer application to their work among many ranchers, will result in an exceptionally large crop. The yield of small grain is estimated at 20 bushels per acre—although wheat may fall short of this, yet in favored spots it will average more. Barley is being harvested in many places and is yielding splendidly. Another encouraging item is the demand for improved reapers and mowers. Corn is looking finely, but this early in the season it is useless to predict the probable results; it is largely contingent upon a favorable Autumn. Fruit raisers in some localities report larger yields and in others about the same as last year—which was good enough.

INDIAN TOBACCO.—Our aristocratic young warriors of the Piute persuation who are anxious to become "all same white men" send their mahalas into the streets to harvest their supply of tobacco from the cast-away cigar stumps, second hand quids, etc., but ancient, smoke dried veteran bucks still frequent their haunts as of old to strip the stalks of wild tobacco. This weed grows luxuriantly and in large quantities east of the Sierras—the leaves are a perfect type of the genuine plant, but there is no resemblance in the small, white flower. The leaves are stripped at this season during the early part of the day, when a close examination will disclose a thick, resinaceous matter covering the plant; it is then fit for curing—the primitive mode of which is to leave it scattered around and let the elements do the rest. When cured and pulverized it smells exactly like the tobacco raised in the northern States where the weed is liable to frost bites before coming to maturity.

A DOG STORY.—A friend tells the following rather remarkable dog story, and assures us of its literal truth: Mrs. Van Ness, living a few miles north of this place, owns a small dog of the female persuasion—a great pet of the family, and noted for its intelligence. This family dog became the mother of three pups, two of which soon after died. On the morning following the children were told to bury said pups. On going to do so the dead pups were not to be found. On further examination it was discovered that their mother had carried them away a short distance, scratched out a grave some ten inches deep, and after laying her dead progeny carefully in it, had neatly covered them up, as if by human hands!

TAXES COLLECTED.—The total amount of two-dollar poll and road taxes collected up to the first Monday in July was: poll, $1,052; road, $855. Since the above date all delinquents on either road or poll taxes are charged three dollars in each case. Unless the delinquencies are much larger than ordinary, Road Commissioner Connelly won't have funds enough to make a good macadamized road quite the whole length of the county, so growlers had better begin to cinch up and get ready to give a piece of their minds, if there is enough of the latter to bear division, which there ain't.

INCORPORATIONS.—The following new certificates of incorporation were filed in the County Clerk's office on the 12th instant: Boushey Silver Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—S. A. Raymond, P. C. Lander, Thos. Rogers, P. J. Lavin, J. A. Albertson; capital stock, $5,000,000, in 50,000 shares. Coso Consolidated Mining Company; principal place of business, San Francisco; Trustees—Geo. W. Gryson, S. B. Boswell, Jesse S. Wall, Archy Borland, Clinton Gurnee; capital stock, $10,000,000, in 100,000 shares.

PROF. HARMON.—Professor Harmon favored this place with a series of performances this week, constituting prestidigitation, farcical lectures, ventriloquism, etc. That the Professor made a success and that his entertainments belong to a higher caste of performances than the numerous traveling shows which have visited this section lately is evident from the fact that he drew a large house for three nights—the last winding up with a social dance. He started for Nevada Thursday last, and will "take in" the towns en-route.

ALL RIGHT.—We have the positive assurance that the Defiance will resume the issuance of checks now in a few days. This will relieve the local money pressure, and is a bit of good news at which all will rejoice, for many reasons bearing upon the welfare of our mining interests as well as for the good will entertained for the chief parties in interest who have done so much to show what our country is, and upon whose continued success so much else is contingent.

THE FOURTH AT DARWIN.—The Centennial at Darwin passed off remarkably well, there being no accidents or serious disturbances of any kind worth mentioning, notwithstanding a report to the contrary as regards the last mentioned. The ball, given under the auspices of the Darwin Brass Band, was by odds the finest affair of the kind that has taken place in that section. This is what we gather from the extended report published by the News.

CREDITABLE SHOWING.—The following is a most creditable exhibit for Co. D. and its commandant, Capt. MacGowan, and his several Quartermasters, 12th U. S. Infantry, at Camp Independence. First, in the matter of savings to the Government the facts show they amount to this: From July 1st, 1873 to June 30, 1876, 453 cords of wood, 37,375 pounds of barley, 93,852 pounds hay, and the cost of citizen blacksmith, who previously received from $150 to $375 per month. The cash value of these savings amounts to considerably more in the sum total than the salaries of all the officers for the same period. In a moral point of view the record shows that during 1873 there was an average of a fraction over one man confined in the guard house for each day; in 1874 the average was one man confined for every four days; in 1875 it was only one man for each month of 30 days; for the present year one or two bad eggs have caused an apparent moral backsliding to the extent of one confinement every eight days.

EDITORIAL VISIT.—T. S. Harris, of the Coso News, happened, unfortunately for himself, to hear the report of the pistol which caused the death of Jimmy Coyle last March, at Darwin, and now for the second time has to come all the way in here to testify to the fact. Such duties are generally hard enough on anybody, but they are peculiarly so upon a country newspaper editor, whose whole time is needed to get out his paper, which must be on time sink or swim, live or die, courts or no courts. However, Harris tells us he has left his work in good hands, Judge Murphy mounting the tripod temporarily, while Fred. Frost is equal to all typographical emergencies. He also tells us that the prospects of his town were never better or more encouraging since the News was established than at this time, consequently the outlook for its paper, which has certainly helped materially to produce the above result, is also very good indeed, and we are truly glad of it.

MINING ACCIDENT.—About noon yesterday, Mr. Smitherson, foreman of the Union mine at Cerro Gordo, met with a terrible and probably fatal accident. It appears that he was directing some timber work, and was by some means precipitated down the shaft a distance of forty feet. The right side of his head was badly cut and probably crushed. He was still alive, however, at the time our informant left, two or three hours afterward. A messenger was despatched to the valley after Dr. Lesesne, who is now in attendance.

PERSONAL. — Among the witnesses subpœnaed in the Norton case from Darwin is W. J. Fennel who used to be with us a good deal some five years agone. Since that W. J. has been away off up to Russian America, and all around about, finally, a few months since fetching up in Inyo out at Darwin. Fennel is a brick when he gets fairly under way, and a man of good qualifications all the time.

INTELLECTUAL.—The brightest piece of engineering that we have heard of recently was the unloading of an engine bed-plate at the Modoc mine, by employés of the Cerro Gordo Freighting Company. Hitching a team thereto, they "snaked" it out, most effectually smashing the casting unto smithereens.

A PAPER FOR MONO.—Mr. Parker, at present of THE INYO force, will visit our neighboring county of Mono during the coming week, with a view of establishing a paper there, in response to the expressed wishes of some of the citizens of that favored region.

MIGHT BE EXPECTED.—Although we "struck off" extra copies of the 8th instant, yet orders continue to come in after the forms are distributed and every extra gobbled up. We are sorry we haven't a million or more, but then a due and timely notice was given three weeks since.

NEW POSTOFFICE.—A postoffice has been established at H. C. Wright's place, 14 miles north of this town, to be called after the name of the station, Taboose. The Fish Spring postoffice, four miles further north, was suspended some time since.

IN SESSION.—The County Court and Grand Jury are in session this week. The principal item of business is the investigation of the Norton-Coyle homicide. The work is still going on, therefore we cannot give results till next issue.

ARIZONA.—The Wallapai Enterprise of June 22d says: "Sherum, Chief of the Wallapais, was in town during the week. He still complains of his Indians being hungry. There are now about 600 Wallapais, all told. These Indians, who were the most effective and the most willing allies General Crook had during the fierce Apache war, are left by the Government in an almost starving condition. Sherum told us that General Crook was 'heap good,' but he did not seem to cherish a deep feeling of affection for Tonner, who he said 'heap talk—all time talk.' Tonner used to steal their rations, and go out and pray to them when they were hungry."

ON HIS WAY BACK.—By letter to Mr. John Wilson, Trustee and acting Superintendent of the Defiance mine, during the absence of P. Reddy, Esq., Superintendent, we learn that Mr. Reddy started yesterday from San Francisco for Darwin. He also sends orders to have coal put in as fast as possible, the same to be paid for on the 10th prox. This will be good and satisfactory news to coal men and others interested. If there is anybody can straighten out financial or other matters it is Mr. Reddy.—Coso News, July 8.

THE total vote of the late Democratic National Convention was 738. On the second ballot the vote stood: Tilden, 535; Hancock, 79; Hendricks, 60; Bayard, 11; Parker, 54. Necessary for a choice, 492. The nomination of Governor Tilden was made unanimous. A motion to nominate Hendricks by acclamation was lost. The ballot was as follows: Hendricks, 730; blank 8.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Mono Co., July 13.

MESSRS. EDITORS—THE INYO INDEPENDENT was anxiously expected to arrive on Saturday evening with the news of the races, oration, and other incidentals of our Centennial natal celebration, but we were doomed to disappointment. There being no mail which arrives on Sunday, we were therefore compelled to chafe impatiently until Monday evening; Monday's stage arrived, but brought but one INDEPENDENT to dispense the much desired information to our community. But then our citizens were charitable enough to remember that the celebration occurred last Tuesday, and to acknowledge that the poor typo always possesses a patriotic heart, and is deserving of at least one day's recreation throughout the year, to be free from all the cares and anxiety devolving upon the successful management of a newspaper. But it made its appearance on Tuesday evening and more than filled the expectation of its friends as regards the completeness of its reports of the celebration on the Fourth.

CORRECTION.

There is quite a mistake as regards the name of the "pilgrim" mentioned in your last issue, as being the cannibal of Benton. His name is Charles Richardson, and not Bill Harbin; Mr. Wm. B. Harbin is the name of his second victim; and in justice to Wm. B. Harbin I would here state that he is a gentleman well thought of and highly esteemed by the mass of our citizens.

JUSTICE'S COURT.

Judge R. Decker has been busily engaged during the past two days in hearing a case of grand larceny, where the people were plaintiffs and Indian Joe, defendant. It appears that Richard Travathen was the owner of a buckskin horse, which he turned out to graze in Hutch's Canyon several months ago. Shortly afterwards the horse mysteriously disappeared, but last Sunday it was found in the possession of Indian Joe, who could give no satisfactory explanation of how the horse became in his possession. He was thereupon arrested upon the above named complaint. Universal (but to my thinking) very unwise, sympathy was manifested in favor of the prisoner on account of his youth. The defence had no difficulty in securing witnesses, who testified that they knew the buckskin horse belonging to the prosecuting witness, but who did not think that the horse taken from the Indian and Travathen's horse were the same. The prosecution procured several witnesses to positively testify that the horse in dispute was Travathen's; yet there being such tall swearing, a doubt arose in Judge Decker's mind as to the ownership of the horse, and he gave the prisoner the benefit of the doubt. W. C. McFadden conducted the prosecution on the part of the people, while J. C. Mitchell conducted the defense.

NEW COMPANY.

An effort is now being made by some San Francisco capitalists to purchase the Kearsage mine located near Benton. If this effort should prove successful, it is the intention of the new company to erect a twenty-stamp mill. As a Rowdy Rooster would laconically remark, "rah for Benton."

GOOD TEMPLARS.

The Good Templars accomplished a noble deed last Saturday by inducing seven of the most promtnent citizens to join the lodge. The lodge will certainly prove a success, if the presiding officer (F. Schwartz) will hold the interests of the lodge at his heart more dear than his own interests.

As you are aware there is always a lull after a storm, therefore a scarcity of news, and for this reason you must excuse this brief letter of your

MESSRS. EDITORS--Your favor of July 10 came to hand this morning, and it gives me pleasure to acknowledge your many favors and assistance rendered in our great celebration,—and in behalf of the Committee and citizens of Lone Pine I return hearty thanks. It is gratifying, also, to assure you that after all bills have been received and audited we will only fall short about $27, which will be speedily arranged. * *

J. ALEXANDER,
Chairman Ex. Com.

BAKERSFIELD.—A dispatch from Sumner to the Bay papers gives the following: On Saturday, July 8th, the Hon. Theron Reed, Judge of the Sixteenth Judicial District, decided one of the most important land suits ever brought before a court in this county. The land in question is the townsite of Bakersfield, the county seat of Kern county. It has long been known that the title to this land was imperfect; but notwithstanding, the county has diregarded this fact and erected there a $30,000 Court House and a large public school house, which now, by Judge Reed, belongs to W. J. Yoakum. The foremost lawyers of this State and Nevada have been engaged in this suit. Although an appeal to the Supreme Court will be made, it is generally believed that the decision of Judge Reed will be confirmed.

Property has decreased in value in Bakersfield during the past year from 25 to 50 per cent., and now it has reached a dead standstill; while its rival, Sumner, has progressed steadily, property increasing from 50 to 200 per cent.

THE Arizona and New Mexico Express Line of Stages, running from Indian Wells to Prescott and Tucson, A. T., and points in New Mexico, suspended operations last week. The cause assigned for the collapse of the company is financial embarrassment. Chas. H. Wells, the Superintendent of the line, is now in San Francisco perfecting arrangements with a view to an early resumption of business.

Darwin Mining Items.

[From the Coso News, July 3.]

In the Defiance mine the most important work is now being done on ledge No. 3. The north stope on the vein is improving every hour. The ore on the back vein is seven feet in width, without a particle of waste, and of the highest grade of carbonate, chloride and galena mixed. The south drift on this vein is also in splendid ore. We are informed that the ledge has been struck in the main incline, where the hoisting works are erected, and that the ore is of a superior grade, resembling that in ledge No. 2. Its assay value is $124 silver and 60 per cent lead. That in the splendid body struck in the main tunnel, third ledge, assays in silver $205 and 75 per cent lead.

The furnaces have been running extremely well the past week, as the following figures will show: Shipped during the week ending last night, 587 large bars and 143 small bars—total, 730. Remaining on hand, 40 large and 229 small bars. The bullion is of high grade, and is likely to still increase in value as depth is reached in the mine, although the percentage of galena is quite sufficient for successful smelting.

The news from Lee District is quite cheering. The developments on the Emigrant Company's mines prove that the predictions we have made in former issues will be more than realized. The mill is running smoothly. The ore taken from the mines, without assorting, pulps $150 per ton. No clean-up has yet been made, but from assays made from tailings they are working up to 80 per cent of the pulp assay. Mr. I. E. Taylor informs us that they have recently secured a water right in some springs that are at such an elevation that a pressure of four to five hundred feet can be obtained. It is his intention of laying pipes at once to bring this right to the mines, which will do away with the necessity at present existing of hauling water. The prospects of Lee are very bright.

Washington Items.

Dispatches of the 10th give the following:

The Committee on Banking and Currency came to no conclusion this morning concerning the bill to repeal the specie resumption clause of the Act of 1875.

In the Senate, Thurman reported adversely on the Senate bill relative to the Santillian grant in California, and it was indefinitely postponed.

Touching the Blaine investigation, a Tribune Washington special says: A demand will doubtless be made to have the investigation of Blaine abandoned altogether, in view of his appointment to the Senate. It is not known what action the Committee will take in this matter.

Randall's policy is secretly denounced among Democrats in the House, and Democratic Senators are openly opposed to it. He seems to have his party completely subjugated, but there may come a time when they will rebel. If Randall should go home for a week there would be a reasonable and decent adjustment, but he may keep control, in which case the end of the session of Congress cannot be foreseen.

It is supposed that Congress will adjurn in two weeks. The Belknap business will be concluded probably in ten days.

The House passed the bill to continue the provisions of the Act to provide temporarily for the expenditures of the Government for a period of ten days from to-day. The Senate considered the same, and passed it without amendment.

General News Items.

The cars were to be running to Tehachapi by the 10th instant. The San Fernando tunnel will soon be completed. The company's forces are stretched entirely across the line of the unfinished gap. After the road is completed to Tehachapi tracking will progress at the rate of three miles a day.

On the night of June 26th, at Collier's saloon, in Greenwich, at Tehachapi Summit, one Jas. Davron shot Jos. Fuller, inflicting a wound in the left breast which, it is understood, will result fatally.

Two men have been accidentally killed in the vicinity of Tehachapi recently. The first, R. B. Kellogg, was killed on the 19th ult., by the stroke of a falling limb, while sitting by the roadside. The other, name not given, killed by the accidental overturning of a heavy wagon which he was driving.

Twenty-six lives were lost Sunday, July 9th, by the burning of a propeller on Lake Superior.

The Servians seem to be getting the worst of it in their struggle with the Turks.

Two men were shot and another had his leg broken at Eureka on the Fourth.

Belknap's case is going on before the Senate, and judging from the evidence thus far presented his conviction is sure.

The intelligence of the death of Santa Anaa in Cuba, in the seventy-eighth year of his existence, is announced.

Senator Morrill, having accepted the Treasureryship, Governor Conner has appointed James G. Blaine to fill the vacant Senatorship, who has formally accepted same.

Virginia City will hold a public meeting and pay a tribute to the memory of General Custer.

There was a prolonged debate on the Chinese question July 8, in the U. S. Senate. It is believing that Messrs. Sargent, Morton and Cooper will be appointed a committee to come to this coast to investigate.

Mr. Blaine has not left his residence for eight days, nor can he leave his room.

The Reese River Reveille of July 3d says: "The examination of Ned Dyer, who shot John Daley, took place in Justice Logan's Court to-day. The defendant was held in the sum of $5,000 to await the action of the next Grand Jury.

The new commission to try Beecher is composed of lawyers, and there is a prospect that there will be an impartial sifting of the evidence and a verdict that will have weight with the public.

The public debt statement shows a reduction of $3,881,397.

Hendricks has not yet publicly accepted the Democratic nomination for Vice President, and it seems unlikely that he will accept it unless Congress repeals the Resumption Act.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, JULY 15,.....1876.

THEY were both young and foolish, and when she jilted him he went off and died of the liver complaint. There is something peculiarly sad in a denoument like this. It is an exceptional dispensation of Providence, when a young man loses his heart for his liver to go back on him also.

A BASHFUL admirer made an afternoon call on a Brooklyn girl. She rushed into the parlor equipped for the street, and said hastily, "I'm in a great hurry—have an engagement with a lady friend, and if you came for the purpose of proposing marriage you will have to be quick about it." Wedding early in the Fall.

THE whirligig of fashion may bring around the most sudden and dazzling changes, and the duties of the toilet may multiply like the leaves in Valambrosa, but there is nothing that will make a woman stand before her looking-glass so long as a sunburnt nose.

A YOUNG lady viewing Dom Pedro in St. Louis the other day, remarked, as she fixed her eyes on the carriage, "It isn't exactly immortality to see an Emperor, of course, but it's a glimpse at least of King Dom come."

HE held the old shirt up by the neck before discharging it forever, but he wasn't mourning for the garment. He only said: "I wish I had all the drinks that have gone through that old neckband."

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

Where the Profits Go.

[From the Colorado Mining Review.]

The profits of gold and silver mining are believed by many to have some of the qualities of the supernatural, and prominently, that of disappearing and leaving no trace behind them. Stern materialists deduce from this that the profits are children of the mind, fancies, delusions, and, in fact, do not exist. It is is a very common mistake to discredit that which is not apparent to the senses; in fact, a sceptic should not take to himself any credit for his opinions, for it is the simplest task in the world to refuse to believe, and the daily occupation of those who are too ignorant or too prejudiced to reason or examine.

But where do the profits go? It is a fair question most certainly. In the great West are thousands of poverty stricken miners, who remain impecunious from one year to another, and bid fair to continue in that state for the term of their natural lives. They are discoverers, and mainly the workers of a large majority of mines, and so long as they remain consistently and persistently poor, there will always be a chance to accuse the business of precious metal mining as a failure.

In explanation, we will state that mining in the West is a peculiar trade, differing from all other classes of business, in that it may be carried on without any capital. Consequently a very large nmber of men seize the occupation with avidity, knowing that they at least can make a living at it, and that they have the chance of making their fortune. It is a business in which there is no competition. As a result we have a host of men working in couples or alone, and it is just here the profits of the business appear to disappear. They are lost, seemingly, because so much of mining is done upon a small scale.

Any man acquainted with business knows that large profits are the results of extensive operations; that extensive operations permit economy in every branch of work; in fine, that it is more profitable, relatively, to produce ten thousand cases of manufactured goods per annum, than one thousand. Now apply the same principle to mining.

The problem will be to sink a shaft to a depth of 100 feet, and drive two sets of levels at the depth of 50 and 100 feet respectively; levels to be 30 feet long on each side of shaft. The mine will be one of average value, not giving much water, and in good rock that needs but little timbering: cost of sinking (including hoisting, pumping and timbering), $20 per foot; cost of entire work, therefore, $3,080; production of ore, 20 tons, at $100 per ton.

When this amount of work is performed on an average mine, there will be exposed for stoping 166 fathoms of ground. Assuming the ore to be silver bearing, and the pay vein 4 inches in width, composed of galena, zinc and quartz, this will correspond to 279 tons of ore, if the vein was ore-bearing throughout. As, in fact, the proportion of paying ground to barren ground is as 1 to 4, the actual ore developed may not be calculated at over 70 tons. At the average mill-run of Clear Creek county ores, 150 ozs., which represents to the miner about $100 per ton, the production of the mine would be $7,000. Tabulated, the results and cost of the work are assumed to be as follows:

Total cost of development	$3.080
Cost of stoping 166 fathoms ground and marketing 70 tons of ore	3,050
Cost of marketing 20 tons of ore	400
	$6,530
90 tons of ore @ $100 per ton	9,000

It will be interesting to note how differently it is done by the miner and the capitalist.

The miner and his partner commence work with a small kit of tools, a can of powder and a month's supply of grub. In thirty days they have the shaft 20 feet deep, and a half a ton of ore on the dump. They have credit at the grocer's, the steel and powder dealer's, and the assayer's, and have to pay from 20 to 30 per cent more than the cash dealer. Their natural sanguineness has led them to have a specimen tested at every two days' labor, and their bill for that unnecessary work amounts to as much as their powder and fuse. At the end of the month their half ton of ore is sacked, packed down the hill at a cost of $8 to $10 per ton, and being by nature suspicious, not only of the millmen, but of each other, they must stay in town to see it sampled, assayed and paid for.

When the value is known, it generally falls short by 50 per cent of their expectations, and the result is that the two, downhearted and mad, get their check cashed at the bank, and immediately adjourn to the nearest whisky saloon, and where they waste half their substance in riotous living. When the morning comes they have enough left to pay about one-third of their bills, and as miners are, as a rule, more honest than the majority of laborers, their last cent is deposited with the tradesman, and the balance of the day is devoted to returning to their mine. The next month's work results in about 15 feet of sinking, for water has begun to come in and much time must be spent in raising it. At the end of the third month the partners are down to a depth of 50 feet, are heavily in debt in town, are perhaps paying three per cent per month on borrowed money or bills, are ragged, poorly sheltered, and often sore in need. They are bankrupt in every thing but hope which never fails the true pioneer, and if their mine gives but the faintest encouragement they will not desert it. Following their record, we see them putting up a rude shaft house with a bough roof, to protect from Winter's snow, rigging up a large sized windlass for raising from greater depths, cutting timbers and lagging with their dull axe, and fitting them where the walls are shaky, with laborious care, using up days where more hands could do the same work in hours; and finally, with the grit of the bull-dog, settling down to their hard work in the bottom of the shaft following the little seam of "pay," as it pinches or expands; now buoyant with hope, now plucky for the lack of it, but always poor and ragged, roughly fed and sheltered, always paying a third more for necessities than the rich man, always working with poor tools—in fact under the thousand disadvantages that fall to the lot of those who have no ready means.

We are following actual records when we state that it takes a year for our miners to accomplish the developments laid out. In doing it they have taken out 20 tons of ore, in lots varying from 300 to 2000 pounds. If they kept an account it would be about as follows:

JAKE SMITH AND BILL BOOMER IN ACCOUNT WITH THE LIVELY SUSAN.—MINE ACCOUNT.

Dr.

To powder, fuse, candles and steel	$150 00
" blacksmithing	100 00
" tools, implements, etc	100 00
" packing materials up hill	50 00
" packing ore down hill	200 00
" grocery, and meat account	800 00
" tobacco, bad whisky and other amusements	300 00
" mill charges—crushing, sampling, and assaying	100 00
" specimen assays	50 00
" clothing	150 00
" expenses in town when selling ore	300 00
" bankers' shaves, interest, etc	150 00
" money loaned to fellow miners—nominally on interest	50 00

Cr.

By cash, for 20 tons of ore @ $100 per ton	2,000 00
Balance against the mine	$560 00

Now, how does the capitalist carry on the same work? He lets a contract immediately for 100 feet; he buys steel, tools, powder, candles, and supplies of all kinds, by the quantity, pays cash and gets them 40 per cent cheaper than the miner; he runs up a boarding house, boards his men, and makes a couple of dollars a week on each; his mine is a hundred feet deep in thirty days, and by putting on more men, his levels are all driven in thirty more; he has not made any money in the work, it is true, for he has paid contract prices (which mean $5 to $8 a day to every man employed), but he has 20 tons of ore on the dump, worth $2,000 and $7,000 more in sight, which will net $3,080: he has accomplished this, at a loss of $1,080, in two months. Two months' more of work will put him ahead just $2,000. The miners have been the whole year accomplishing the two months' work of the other. They are five hundred dollars behind only, and have also their mine, but their debt hangs ten times heavier on their shoulders than does the thousand of the capitalist's. They have yet to struggle and economize, and sink their time and labor in the ground, to work with half rations and used up tools, till either their creditors seize their hard-earned prize, or they succeed in selling at a few hundred profit.

It will be evident where the profits go in the thousands of cases typified by this one. They are lost in the item of time. It is true that "time is money," and in no other industry can it be better exemplified than in that of mining.

All over the West are mines in a condition of partial development waiting for a few thousands. Many will, under careful handling, yield a profit of from 2 to 10 per cent a month on sums as small as $10,000; and yet they go begging for purchasers.

THE whole of the ground not occupied by bones in the Catacombs, under the city of Paris, is used for growing mushrooms of a peculiarly fine quality for the table.

"WHY is it, my dear sir," said Waffles' landlady the other day, "that our newspaper men never get rich?" "I don't know," was the reply, "except it is that dollars and sense do not always travel together."

Tom Fitch on the Chinese.

We have seldom read a more exhaustive anti-Chinese argument than that introduced in the oration of the Hon. Tom Fitch, Nevada's silver tongued orator, delivered at Stockton, on the Centennial Fourth. We clip from the published speech the following:

The Declaration of Independence requires us to abstain from fettering with unequal loads any who are entitled to run in the race with us, but it does not require us to open our race-course to all who may desire to compete for the prizes. Because you recognize the equality of your neighbor, it does not follow that you should invite him into your drawing-room, or give him a place at the feast which your skill and labor have provided for your family. We conquered and colonized this land, and built up its institutions and developed its resources without Chinese help. By what strained construction of the law of equality are we required to bestow its advantages upon those who neither aided to create it nor sacrificed to preserve it? I know that it has been our policy to offer its benefits to the people of Europe, and it has been at once a wise and a generous policy; but it does not follow that we are obliged to make tender of similar hospitality to the people of Asia. Those we invited to come from the other side of the Atlantic are one with us in race, and faith and manly spirit. They have come filled with affection for our institutions, yearning to be one with us in destiny, willing to fight our battles, and to aid in sustaining our institutions of learning and benevolence. In a word, they assimilate with us, and in one generation become a part of us. On the other hand, those who come unasked from the other side of the Pacific are alien to our language, our laws, our faith and our ambitions. They are a people with whom female chastity is not a virtue, with whom honor is not a quality, and whose pulses never quickened at the thought of freedom. Let it not be contended that such a laboring element is other than a curse to the soil of this republic. Let it not be demanded—in the name of our fathers' Declaration—that we must invite to share our heritage of freedom those whom the spirit of the Declaration can never inspire, and who might in time destroy the results of the Declaration itself.

The mariner beholds the clouds gather on the western horizon, and he knows that they are heralds of storm; he sees the clouds come from the east, and he knows they bring assurance of plesant weather; but when eastern and western clouds are hurrying up the arch of heavens, he prepares for the devastating tempest which must accompany their meeting.

Danger of Whipping Horses.

Prof. Wagner says: "I would caution those who train or use horses, upon another point, viz., that of exciting the ill-will of the animal. Many think they are doing finely, and are proud of their success in horse training by means of severe whipping, or otherwise rousing and stimulating the passions, and then from necessity crushing the will through which the resistance is prompted. No mistake can be greater than this, and there is nothing that so fully exhibits the ability, judgment and skill of the real horseman as the care displayed in winning instead of repelling the action of the mind. Although it may be necessary to use the whip sometimes, it should always be used judiciously, and great care should be taken not to rouse the passions or excite the will to obstinacy. The legitimate and proper use of the whip is calculated to operate upon the sense of fear almost entirely. The affectionate and better nature must be appealed to in training a horse as well as in training a child. A reproof given may be intended for the good of the child, but if only the passions are excited, the effect is depraving and injurious. This is a vital principle, and can be disregarded in the management of sensitive and courageous horses only at the risk of spoiling them. I have known many horses of a naturally gentle character to be spoiled by whipping once, and one horse that was made vicious by being struck with a whip once while standing in his stall.

DISCOVERIES OF REMAINS OF MORE VICTIMS OF THE MORMONS.—A correspondent of the Salt Lake Tribune, writing from Parowan, 6th instant, says: The bodies of two persons were recently unearthed near this place, and have caused a great amount of speculation among the ungodly Gentiles of this part of the country. One of these bodies was found in the old breakwater ditch, and the other was ploughed out in a field. Dame has been trying to impress upon the Indians the idea that they were Indian bodies the Gentiles were digging up, but the Indians don't remember of burying any of their dead at these places; and what makes it more mysterious is the fact the bodies had clothes on. One was dressed in a pair of broadcloth pants, a pair of sewed shoes, English bell-crowned buttons on his coat, and gutta-percha buttons on his vest, patented in 1857. In the mean time a rumor is afloat that a party of nine emigrants, three women and six men, en route some years ago, from the States to California, were murdered near here and their bodies distributed over the prairie to prevent discovery.

IT is generally agreed now that the best name for a bell-boy is Bellzebub.

A POLITE way of putting it—Troubled with a chronic indisposition to exertion.

"IF you wish to visit the tomb of your country's father just jump into my carriage," said a Washington hack driver to Dom Pedro.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing from Salt Lake, says Brigham Young is the father of sixty-three children, forty-five of whom are living. More than half of these are females, and, with but two or three exceptions, all are blondes, and none what may be called beautiful. The last child born unto Brigham is a little girl, about six years old, daughter of Amelia Van Cott, Brigham's fourteenth wife. She is a woman about forty, rather pretty, and the next favorite to Amelia Folsom, his eighteenth wife. No. 18 is credited with having a high-grade temper, and it is said that she treats Brigham as if she were his mother-in-law instead of his wife. Mormons charitably say that he is controlled by her because he loves her, but a man with so many wives cannot love either very much. Love and polygamy are strangers.

A TRUCKEE letter to the Sacramento Record-Union states that there is much commotion in that burg in consequence of threats to burn the Chinese portion thereof; and because the Chinese have armed, are drilling and are apparently determined to sell their lives, if attacked, as dearly as possible. The railroad people have an extra police force there to protect their property from incendiarism; and the people have held a meeting at which they denounced in no measured terms those who are instigating to riot. Many members of the Anti-Chinese League were there, all of whom declared that they were opposed to violence, and would join with the citizens not only to prevent it but to punish the perpetrators.

CAMPAIGN SONG.—We are in receipt of the words and music of a new campaign song entitled, "We'll go for Hayes," words by C. N. Fox, and music after Handel (some time after) published and for sale by A. L. Bancroft & Co., San Francisco. Its character may be understood from the chorus:

"We'll go for Hayes—for R. B. Hayes,
And in the bright November days
We'll Wheel-er in to line.
Hurrah for Hayes! for Gov'nor Hayes;
In spite of all the crooked ways
We'll Wheel-er in on time."

It appears to be quite a rattling piece of music, and no doubt, will become very popular with the Republicans as an "argument" to convince Democrats of the error of their ways, and make 'em go for Hayes.

STANDING REWARD FOR STAGE ROBBERS.—By an act of the last Legislature of this State, it was made the duty of the Governor to offer a reward of $300 for the arrest and conviction of any person concerned in the felonious molestation of passengers or property on stages, railway trains, wagon routes, etc. To this Wells, Fargo & Co's Express publish the offer of a similar reward for the apprehension and conviction of depredators against their special property on any route in the State. The company have sent out numerous posters here and elsewhere to the above effect.

A SALT LAKE dispatch says: George Reynolds, whose case was a test one as regards polygamy, was convicted in the District Court and sentenced to two years' imprisonment and $500 fine. The case was taken to the Territorial Supreme Court, which has affirmed the decision of the District Court, and now it is appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States.

CARL SCHURZ FOR HAYES.—The announcement is made that Carl Schurz has formerly declared for Hayes and Wheeler. There is no doubting the influence of Mr. Schurz in the northwest, and it is equally certain that he will add great strength to the Republican ticket. His eloquence, more than anything else, gave Ohio to Hayes in the last election in that State.

THE young man who commences life by indulging in ardent pipes will eventually, in an unlucky moment, attempt to kiss his sweetheart with a chew of tobacco in his mouth—then with the yawning abyss of desperation and despair open before him will he be tempted to make the fatal dive—into a lager beer saloon.

THE convicts in the Nevada State Prison had a celebration on the Fourth. They had their marshal, orator, reader, etc. Chris. Blair delivered a soul-stirring prayer on the occasion, and L. C. Burnett delivered the oration. Several persons witnessed the patriotic display.

THE New York Herald says: The political effect of the retirement of Jewell will be slight. He had no special weight in the Cabinet or in the eyes of the country, except as an honorable, amiable Republican, who rejoiced in his high station.

Custer and the President.

Much is being said to fix the death of Custer and his officers and men directly upon Grant, inasmuch, as it is alleged, Grant had caused him to be overslaughed in rank and standing in the army on account of his testimony against Belknap—that, by reason of wounded sensibilities occasioned thereby, Custer was goaded into the desperate act which closed his brilliant career. If these papers in their overweening desire to do the President an injury, keep on in this strain awhile they will convince the world that either they are falsifiers, or that Gen. Custer was a choleric fool.

When General Custer was summoned to Washington to appear before that Investigating Committee as a witness, he was in command of Fort Abraham Lincoln, and was preparing his troops to form one column of the two General Terry was fitting out against the Sioux. Fearful that he would be absent from his command during active service, he tried hard to get off at once without waiting to appear before the Committee. Imagine the howl these same papers would have raised had the President consented, thus "suppressing" Custer's important testimony against his War Secretary! He was not then excused. After he had given in a portion of his testimony, hearing the troops were about to move he asked again to be allowed to join. To this the President objected until he was assured the Committee had no further use for Custar as a witness. He was soon after excused, however, and assigned to the command of his column as before. This column consisted of his own regiment only. Gen. Gibbon, Colonel of the Seventh Infantry, commanded the other column. Gen. Alfred H. Terry is a full Brigadier General, in command of the Dakota Department to which both these columns belonged, both of which were of course under his order. Sometimes he was with Custer, then with Gibbon. Custer's rank was that of Lieutenant Colonel of his regiment, of which he was in full command only by reason of the absence of his ranking officer, S. D. Sturgiss, Colonel of that regiment. He was not entitled by his commission to any higher command than his own full regiment, and that only when its Colonel was not present, but at the will of the Department commander, might be assigned the control of any number of troops with no officer higher than a Lieut. Colonel, his own rank. Had Custer accepted Terry's offer of Gibbons' regiment and Gatling guns for his ill-fated expedition, the command would have devolved upon Gibbons, the ranking officer.

Then, as Custer was not reduced from his original high estate in any degree, there remained no obvious slight at the hands of the President to justify this senseless outcry that Grant had, by his marked injustice, driven this gallant officer to connive at not only his own destruction, but that of all his brave comrades. We do not believe Custer was a murderous fool, whatever we may think of those papers which, to create prejudice against Grant, do not hesitate to so classify him in effect.

The Silver Bill.

The Committee of Conference on the so-called silver bill, have agreed on a report—Sherman, Boutwell and Bogy on the part of the Senate, and Sanders and Payne of the House, being the Committee.

The bill is substantially the same as Randall's, providing for the immediate purchase of $20,000,000 worth of bullion, with any money in the Treasury, and issued in the shape of subsidiary coin; provided, that not more than $1,000,000 shall be purchased at one time; and further, that not more silver coin shall be issued in this way, and for fractional currency, than $50,000,000.

THE CARSON TRIBUNE.—The Carson Daily Tribune has entered upon its fourth year and seventh volume. We will take this occasion to remark that we like the independent, outspoken, sensible way the Tribune has of expressing itself above almost any other paper we receive. In addition to that it has a comprehensive, but brief method of serving up the news, that is not excelled by any paper of its dimensions. The Tribune is certainly a success as a daily newspaper.

RIGHT TALK FROM THE RIGHT SOURCE. The California Christian Advocate, in discussing the evils growing out of the exemption of Church property from taxation, sums up as follows: "We know of only one remedy—that is, to tax all property according to its market value, and let churches pay their expenses in a business way, and no longer consent to be medicants. Let not a dollar of public money be applied to sectarian purposes—whether for the support of school or churches."

MONUMENT TO GEN. CUSTER.—Clara Louisa Kellogg offers $1,000 towards a monument to Gen. Custer. James Gordon Bennett gives $10,000. Several other subscriptions are already noted, which will swell the sum sufficiently large for the object in view.

"THEN the Lord called Samuel: and he answered, 'Here am I.'—Sam. iii, 4."—Courier-Journal.

The Round Valley Reservation.

Much has been said about the way affairs at the Round Valley, Mendocino county, Indian Reservation have been managed. The matter was before Congress, where, and in the newspapers, its management was condemned without qualification. The secret of all this appears to be that a pack of land thieves, with old Hastinga at the head, were bound to have the land. They first tried to get it after the generally successful and approved method of swearing a Spanish grant upon it. We are not sure but that villainous claim is yet at issue. It was and is a fraud without mitigation. The valley is we think the handsomest in the State; well worth the attention of the sharks. We saw it before any but Indians had ever left a visible mark in it, hence our conviction as to the grant claim. Squatters have since settled there in numbers, and have an interest in getting Rev. Burchard and his Indians out. Pertinent to this matter is this extract from a private letter to Capt. MacGowan written by a brother officer now at Angel Island, and whose statements, we are assured, may be relied upon implicitly. He says:

The Indians are going to use the buildings, and I suppose troops will never be quartered in the valley again.

I found the Reservation wonderfully improved and changed. It would astonish you, as it did me, to see the changed condition of the Indians for the better in all respects. They have a regular church organization, Sunday School, prayer meetings, and a good school of about 100 children.

The Reservation limits now extend from the northern line of Camp Wright north to the River, some 18 miles, and easterly and westerly to the River, some 12 miles. Government paid the settlers for their improvements on this tract and opened the land south of it to purchase and settlement. The Indians have a splendid 25-horse power steam saw mill some 15 miles north in a magnificent body of timber with a good road leading to it.

The reports you see in the Chronicle from time to time reflecting upon Agent Burchard, are, I am satisfied, vile slanders, unjust and untrue. He is studying the best interests of the Government and has the good of the Indians at heart, and only those who want the Reservation broken up and to possess the lands are his enemies aided by one or two discharged employees.

Across the Mountains to Visalia.

A few weeks since Lieut. W. W. Wotherspoon, and detachment, of Co. D, 12th Infantry, made a series of barometrical and other observations across the Sierra Nevada, via Kearsarge trail, to Visalia and back by the same to Camp Independence. From these he has constructed two very neat maps, one in plan the other profile, from the latter of which we deduce the subjoined table of altitudes and distances from point to point. From Visalia to Big Meadows, which last has an altitude of 9,000 feet, there is a good wagon road having a easy ascent to that point, the distance being 53 miles. Thence it is 40 miles over the summit, 13,000 feet high, and very rugged country and trail, to the end of the wagon road from this side at old Kearsarge. The table is here given in round numbers as sufficiently correct for practical purposes:

Place.	Altitude. Feet.	Distance. Miles.	Total Dist. Miles.

A FATHER'S GRIEF.—A Washington despatch of the 6th says: Gen. Thomas L. Crittenden, Colonel of the Seventeenth Infantry, whose son, Lieutenant Crittenden, was slain with Custer, is here. It was a terrible blow to him. The boy was his only child, and the pride of his heart and life. He is a silent, taciturn man, cast in the heroic mould, and though he bears himself quietly and calmly, his terrible grief is apparent. His friends are around him, and seem striving to divert his mind from the contemplation of his great sorrow, and gain a smile from him; but the sorrow that entered his soul this morning admits of no assuagement. Lieut. Crittenpen did not belong to the Seventh Cavalry, but to an infantry regiment, and on request, being allowed to accompany this expedition, was assigned to the Seventh Cavalry.

ABOUT A BUNG-HOLE.—Some of the newspapers are astonished at a horse's pulling the plug out of a bung-hole of a barrel for the purpose of slaking his thirst. It's extraordinary. Now, if the horse had pulled the barrel out of the bung-hole and slaked his thirst with the plug, or if the barrel had pulled the bung-hole out of the horse and slaked its thirst with the plug, or if the barrel had pulled the bung-hole out of the plug and slaked its thirst with the horse, or if the plug had pulled the horse out of the barrel and slaked its thirst with bung-hole, or if the bung-hole had pulled the thirst out of the horse and slaked the plug with the barrel, or if the barrel had pulled the horse out of the bung-hole and plugged its thirst with the slake, it might be worth while to make a fuss about it.

ORANGEMENS' parades in cities of the United States and Canada on the 12th were very large, very orderly and handsome. No riots occurred, and but one hand to fight is reported. That took place in Philadelphia between an Irishman and an Englishman, both of whom were dangerously hurt.

Our San Francisco Letter.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.

MESSRS. EDITORS—There are a great many long faces in San Francisco this morning. Everybody in the city invests his or her surplus funds in mining securities; securities shrink in value, the round and ruddy face grows thin and elongated, and the seal of woe and misery is stamped thereon. The past week has witnessed a decline all along the line. Millions have melted into air. Riches have taken to themselves wings and have flown away. Fortunes have vanished as in a dream. Plans for new and costly residences have been laid away. The Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia will have a few hundred less visitors from San Francisco. During the past week an immense amount of Consolidated Virginia was sold for account of customers who had purchased on margin, and the losses were very great, resulting in the utter ruin of many who had supposed themselves in comfortable circumstances. Then came the attack on California, and this universal favorite gradually declined day after day, from $67 25 on Monday to $59 50 Saturday, a shrinkage in one week of over $4,000,000. To-day, margins must be made good, and the banks will call in their loans upon this stock and many others, in some of which the decline has been still greater, and it is feared that a panic will be the result. Unless the bonanza kings step forward and sustain their stocks, the worst consequences may be expected. The present state of affairs is a strong argument against speculation and gambling, and in favor of legitimate industry. Such arguments have been presented over and over again, and have been unheeded. Will they be listened to now? We fear not.

If one-quarter of the capital invested in stock-gambling was to be diverted from its present dangerous channel, and turned into the honest working of California mines on merit, the returns would be almost beyond imagination. If another one-quarter was devoted to the development of our wonderful agricultural resources, the State would bloom and blossom as the rose, and San Francisco become a city of substantial growth and prosperity. If still another one-quarter should be used in building and fostering manufacturing industries designed to supply the Pacific Coast with goods now being imported from the East and Europe, an era of unexampled prosperity would dawn upon the city and State. This would leave one-quarter for gambling purposes, a sum amply sufficient for the trade in wild-cat skins, time having demonstrated the raising of these animals to be the chief object of the capital employed, and the fleecing of a gullible public the aim and end of all its greatness.

LOCAL SUMMARY.

Samuel M. Wilson has rendered an opinion to the effect that the title to Lick property, on which the Odd Fellows' Hall Association recently resolved to erect a hall at a cost of $750,000, is imperfect. Hence the gigantic enterprise will probably fall to the ground. ....Frederick Clay, Vice-President and cashier of the Western Savings and Trust Company Bank, was arrested Saturday, on charges of felony and embezzlement, in pocketing $2,550 and making false entries in relation thereto ....The Finance Committee of the Centennial Fourth of July Celebration received the sum of $23,000, and expended $18,000. The surplus, $5,000, they have appropriated to the orphan asylums....Hubert D. Claffey, an officer of the police force, and an early pioneer, died last Friday at the Hot Springs. He was buried yesterday....The work of flushing the sewers was begun Saturday, and will be continued for about two weeks....The work of renovating and remodeling the Pavilion, and preparing for the annual Mechanics' Fair, which opens next month, is going briskly forward....The officers of the Bank of Commerce not being ready, the commencement of business has been deferred....Suit has been instituted in the U. S. Court against the City of San Francisco, by one Louis J. Hamm, claiming $120,000, or one-third of Union Square....A Centennial Album, contains the portraits of the President of the Day and other officers of the late celebration. It should be ornamented with a frontispiece of the target that wasn't hit....The divorce mill keeps almost even pace with the marriage list—the number ranging from six to ten a day....A billiard tournament, lasting one week, will commence July 31st. Wm. Sexton, Albert Garnier, Geo. F. Slossom, and Maurice Daley, are on the way overland to participate....John Tyler has been adjudged a bankrupt, with assets of $364 and liabilities of $100,000, the result of stock speculation ....Five Arizona Indian Chiefs were objects of curiosity on Kearny street, Friday....Brokers are buying legal tenders at 80½ and selling at 90 to 90¼. For half dollars they are paying 93¼ and selling at 93¾....The wheat market is active, prices for shipping being $1 50 to $1 52½.

Business in the city is exceedingly dull and collections hard to make. Weather warm and pleasant.

A Lovely Creature

A letter was received the other day addressed to the Sheriff's office, Inyo Co., postmarked Sacramento all in proper shape, and now the Sheriff and his Deputies are worried. They are not certain for which the epistle is intended. Under Sheriff Steve Gregg is married, but his wife is on a Summer's visit to the States; as he is rather the best looking of the lot—he thinks he is the man. Sheriff Passmore is sure that no Deputy was written in the directions. Deputy "Dad" Moore would have no doubt but he is the identical man, only he is fearful his bald head is as widely known as himself. Deputy Doc Walker feeling his advantage in youth and innocence, says but little, but lays back on the flattering unction that his name would have been written on that letter if even handed justice were done, or but for the overweening modesty of the fair bilk who got it up. Here is the document itself, verbatim:

SACRAMENTO, June 30.

To the Sheriff of Inyo County:

Dear Sir—I write to inform you that my Husband has run away, and I want you to catch him. If you will do so, I will be your friend for life. I want him punished severely, and if the law alows you to do so, whip him for me, if not return him in irons. Should he die en route, I will marry you, for your kindness to me. I am only 32 years of age, good looking, Charming and engaging manners, Speak four Languages, fluently, and am capable of making any man Happy. I have a beautiful cottage well furnished and $4,000 in the Bank. * * * * Now even if you dont catch my man, you come right along, and I will divore him, and marry, you, hoping to have the pleasure, etc., * * * *

I am yours forever.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JULY 22,.....1876.

RARE CASE OF PRESENCE OF MIND. One of those rare cases of presence of mind in a little child which we read of occasionally, but so seldom able to corroborate as an unexaggerated fact, occurred at Mr. Cassidy's place, near the Post, Sunday last. Fortunately nothing more than a fright resulted. The particulars were as follows: Mrs. Milton Clark, of Darwin, accompanied by her little daughter Mamie, had secured a ride in Harry Wright's carriage en-route northward. At the Post all the parties except the little girl left the carriage for a moment; the driver, Harry, stood a short distance off, but had left the reins wound around the brake rod. At this juncture the team started full speed down the road, and at this critical moment our little heroine climbed from her seat, without even uttering a scream—gathered the reins, cooly unwound them from the brake and grasping with all her strength kept the runaways straight in the road and across a precipitous gully. The team was becoming frantic when it occurred to the youthful driver that if the horses were turned in the direction of some buildings she would receive aid; at least this was the impulse the little girl acted upon, and she successfully made a turn into a by-road, where an Indian checked the animals in time to prevent any damage. In meantime Mr. Cassidy had witnessed the scene and was in close pursuit on horseback. Little Mamie Clark is but a mere child, about eight years old, in consideration of which, such an exhibition of courage and presence of mind is truly wonderful.

STILL IN SESSION.—The Society of Aldine Metaphysical Discussers had been sitting for two months, or since the warm weather commenced. No very important conclusions were arrived at in consequence of volunteers failing to "put up." The charter members listened attentively to their own arguments and each applauded his individual efforts. But one question was satisfatorily disposed of—that of the cucumber. The vegetable was discussed at length and all its virtues extolled, and the experience of several members present went to prove that the cucumber attained a tremendous growth—when properly nursed would measure from three to forty-two feet in length. A special committee reported the growing cucumber as a grand, inspiring thing to contemplate and referred to the last Patent Office Report: but how to utilize it after it ripened, they were sorely puzzled to know. That it was useful as a bed bug exterminator was an established fact, but none had faith in the use it was put to in Kentucky until it was explained by the gentleman from that State. In an extemporaneous speech he said: "An average Kentucky boy can chew tobacco, swim, blaspheme and turn summersaults, but his intellect is considered dormant, his physique dwarfed and he can never attain the dignity of a full fledged boy till he has been duly initiated by the bursting of a ripe cucumber over his head, thereby depopulating the thickly inhabitated territory." At this point it was oberved the weather had moderated and a motion to take a rest was carried.

BREWERY DESTROYED BY FIRE.—About 12 o'clock last Saturday night, the Star Brewery, C. A. Walters, proprietor, located near Camp Independence, was discovered in flames. The alarm was given, first by Mrs. Walters, but, although there was soon quite a number of willing hands on the ground nothing of value was saved. There was no insurance; the total loss is about $1,500 which falls quite heavily on Mr. Walters. He expects, however, to rebuild again in two or three weeks. Although it was possible the fire might have caught accidentally, since fire under the boiler had been kept up late that night, yet there are reasons to leave scarce a doubt it was the work of an incendiary. Among these were threats from a certain irresponsible individual, made but a few days previously, that he "would ruin him (Walters) before he was much older," or words to that effect. There is not much liklihood though that the deed can be brought home to any one, whatever the moral conviction in regard to his identity.

PLENTY OF WORK.—Road Commissioner Connelly has just returned from a road prospect up the country and reports that no less than seven bridges, on Bishop Creek, and including the one across the river will all have to be pretty effectually rebuilt. The piles have rotted so much in nearly all that they will have to be replaced with new ones, which work will be commenced as soon as a pile driver can be got on the ground.

PAID OFF.—Major JAS. H. Nelson, Paymaster, U. S. A., made one of his periodical and welcome visits to Camp Independence, last Monday, at which time he settled in full with Co. D., and, on the following day departed on a similar errand to Fort Yuma. Though but lately re-transferred to this round, yet the Major used to travel in the same line of duty seven or eight years ago.

SHOOTING AT DARWIN AND LOOKOUT. The silver winged angel of peace has been smiling upon the community so long out at the new camps of Darwin and Lookout that it has occasioned general remark, but now comes news of a shooting scene at both places—the particulars of which cannot be gathered in time for this issue. A bloody retribution was expected to follow as a result of the fracas at Lookout.

POUNDED.—Captain Jim, the Piute functionary, sailed into Big Jim (who is Mrs. Captain Jim) and gave her a terrific pounding one day this week. The reason assigned was domestic infidelity.

DISMISSED.—In the County Court this week the matter of the People vs. Mrs. S. E. Martin, a jury was called and case put on trial; District Attorney Bennett and A. R. Conklin for the people, R. M. Briggs for the defense. Mr. Briggs moved that the indictment be set aside for the following reasons, which explain the case: That, at the March term of this Court, an indictment was found against this defendant for libel in having charged one Louis McClure, aided and and abetted by his wife, with killing and murdering one D. D. Gunnison, and that that indictment was set aside and the case dismissed on motion of the District Attorney; that the present and second indictment was for the same offense, and should therefore be set aside under section 1387 of the Penal Code, which reads: "An order for the dismissal of the action, as provided for in this chapter, is a bar to any other prosecution for the same offense, if it is a misdemeanor; but it is not a bar if the offense is a felony." Judge Hannah, after taking the matter under advisement, sustained the motion, so the case was dismissed. It was one which has excited no little local interest for obvious reasons; while all circumstances known to the public were considered amply sufficient to vindicate the parties accused by this defendant, yet the terrible charges having been made and repeated and made public, justice to the accused and accuser both demanded a full and fair investigation. Two Grand Juries have decided there was not sufficient grounds to hold any one to answer for what has generally been accepted as an undoubted case of suicide; but this defendant asserts her belief, and ability to prove, we believe, that it was a murder. If she failed to adduce fair proofs for that belief she would stand morally if not legally convicted of a most heinous offense; if, on the other hand, she adduced plausible grounds for her allegations she would not only vindicate her own standing but be accorded credit for a proper endeavor to bring home a terrible crime. The accuser tried to do this according to law. Anyway, enough has been done to make it of nearly equal importance to the parties to have it duly adjudicated, no matter which party defends. From the way this case has been managed it looks as if law was intended to punish innocent and guilty alike, or rather to raise questions of injurious doubts neither pleasant or satisfactory to any one. In this we condemn nobody, reflect none of the parties, but have only endeavored to illustrate the beauties of technical law. As we understand it, though, Judge Hannah could not do otherwise than to sustain this motion.

AT PHILADELPHIA.—Friend Al. Johnson and family, of Lone Pine, appear to be doing the big show at Philadelphia very pleasantly, and to some purpose; and yet as an exception among the numerous other Inyoites there present, Al. is not so completely wrapped up in his own pleasures as to ignore the existence of even his casual friends here in this Centennial sagebrush wilderness, where it takes a forty-horse power imagination to rise an inch above the sickly enjoyment of life's every day drudgery. Well, it's pleasant to be remembered by those more fortunate in being so surrounded by exciting things one couldn't blame them if they forgot all else for the time. We are indebted to Al. for numerous remembrances since his arrival in the City of Brotherly Love, the latest being an "autograph" letter—private, anyway—which, superscription and all, was first put in type and neatly printed. This shows they are getting things down to a fineness, back there; before another Centennial every man will be his own printer—indeed, we wish they were now, and professional printers were all capitalists, so they could go about, Samaritan like, doing the good their hearts incline them to—as we were saying, every man will be his own printer and telegrapher: touch the keys of a pocket instrument as he walks or rides along, and have all his correspondence for that day in print by the time he gets to the despatch Postoffice, and in characters so fine it will require a microscopic machine with which to decypher it. Something of that sort is what this big show indicates.

OUR UNDERGROUND RIVER.—There is some peculiarities about the underground stream which presses down from the Sierras toward the river worthy of note. We may call it a river because of its apparently immense volume, as shown by the way it rushes into wells at certain seasons, or at any season, below its varying level. Along late in the Winter it attains its lowest stage. It is then some weeks after the melting snows have filled the surface streams quite full before the addition to the underground river drives its way three or four miles through the ground, showing it to be rising. It then gains in depth about a foot a day, reaching its highest level in July, by which time it is from twenty to twenty-two feet above its low water mark, and within four or five feet of the surface quite uniformly, whatever the contour of the ground; thus, it will stand in wells, and could hardly be lowered by a fire engine, considerably higher than the bottom of neighboring depressions not in its direct course. Leastways that appears to be the case, and will afford a problem in hydraulics for the Sazerac Lying Club to wrestle with. It would be a bad time, we will suggest, while the ground everywhere is so nearly afloat, for a first class earthquake; everything would be shaken into lollipop at such a time. But this great, and regularly recurring rise of this subteranean stream will be a material advantage when irrigation by windmills comes into requisition, as will be the case ere many years.

DENTISTRY.—Dr. Stoeckly is among us again, having arrived from his tour north last week. He has established a reputation as a really first-class dentist, and of course has plenty to do. He can be found at the Blaney House for a few weeks, after which he goes to Darwin for a short time.

LAW OFFICE.—Judge Snelling's law office is at the Inyo House where he will be happy to see old friends and new whether in search of legal advice or otherwise. See his new card.

Board of Equalization.

The Supervisors have been in session as a Board of Equalization for the past week. Their time has been wholly taken up in hearing testimony in connection with the numerous applications for reductions of assessments, principally upon mining property. If these applications represent true values, Inyo mining interests have certainly shrunk more, as generally estimated heretofore, than stocks on the San Francisco Board. It is quite astonishing; take the Union or instance at but $6,000 where popular opinion had fixed it at not less than hundreds of thousands. However, we are compelled to defer some intended comments till next week, by which time we hope to be able to overhaul and present some portions of the voluminous testimony on file. The Board has rendered no decisions yet, but will probably do so to-day. Following is a list of the applications: Union Consolidated, Cerro Gordo, ask a reduction from $231,075 to $6,840; Santa Rita mine, Darwin, $25,000 to $500; Thos. May, $3,250 to $2,000; C. A. Walters, $2,880 to $1,380; Minneatta Belle mine, Lookout, $30,000 to $20,000; Mountain View, Lookout, $10,000 to $2,000; Key Stone mine, Lookout, $10,000 to $1; New Coso Mining Co., Darwin, mine and furnace $72,000 to $30,000; Modoc Consolidated Mining Co., Lookout, $200,000 to $50,000; Isaac Harris, individual assessment $4,300 to $2,200.

Grand Jury Report.

JURY ROOM, July 15.

To the Honorable County Court—We, your Grand Jury, respectfully submit the following report:

We have carefully investigated all criminal charges brought before us, and have found one true bill for murder and two for robbery.

We have examined the condition of the County Hospital, and find the patients well provided for, but a marked want of cleanliness—would suggest that such an important item, so necessary to the welfare of the patients, be more carefully guarded by our Supervisors.

We have examined the condition of the Court House and find the roof in a very bad condition, and would recommend to the Hon. Board of Supervisors, that the old roof be replaced by a canvass one, well covered with fire proof paint and sand. Also that the stove pipes above the roof, be provided with some safe-guard to protect the Court House from fire caused by sparks.

Having performed our duties, to the best of our abilities, we humbly ask our discharge.

J. R. WESTERVILL,
Foreman.

PERSONALS.—V. A. Gregg, Esq., returned from a business trip out to Darwin on Saturday....A. Wingard, of the Silver Sprout Company, arrived last week. We are not advised as to the plans in reference to the company's mines, this season, but hope something is to be done with them....John Reddy and Mrs. P. Reddy started for Darwin on Monday....W. H. Woods, Esq., and representatives of numerous mining companies at Darwin, and J. L. Porter, of the Union Co., Cerro Gordo, were before the Board of Equalization this week, but have all returned home.....John Broder got back from his trip to Bay early this week, and has gone over to his furnace at Log Springs.

READY FOR BUSINESS.—George Gottlieb Berckherdt, the old man himself, now runs the Mechanic's Hall jewelry establishment at Lone Pine, and now, since the "old man himself" has the business in charge we will undertake to say all work in his line entrusted to him, such as watch and clock repairing, manufacture of jewelry, and all such, will be well and promptly done or no charges. He also keeps a good assortment of imported clocks, watches, jewelry, etc., any and all which he will sell 20 per cent. cheaper than other establishment in the county, and guarantee every article to be as represented. See his card.

DISTRICT COURT.—At the May term of the District Court, there remained several cases undisposed of for want of time, so an adjourned term was set for July, for which Judge Reed expected to provide a substitute on the Bench. No Judge having appeared the Sheriff and Clerk, pursuant to law, have this week been calling and adjourning the Court from day to day. To-day the term expires by limitation so the adjourned cases will go over till the November regular term.

TOWNSHIP PLATS FILED.—Plats of townships 31 south, range 33 east, and 31 south, range 34 east, have been received and filed in the U. S. Land Office, in this place. The lands embraced in these townships lie in the vicinity of Tehachapai valley, Kern county. Homestead and pre-emption applications will be received at this Land Office for lands within the above townships.

THE GRAND JURY.—Following is a list of the late Grand Jury: James Jones, Jackson Shipley, J. D. Dewitt, A. G. Boley, D. Garland, W. H. Powers, S. Zaun, Wm. Phillippay, Abe Leyda, W. P. Lawrence, John Crough, John Mullane, A. Wapelhorst, T. W. Hill, Oscar Hilton, C. F. Stoughtenborough, John Willett and J. R. Westervill, Foreman.

ON A PROSPECT.—Pursuant to notice last week, Mr. Parker, late of THE INDEPENDENT force, started Tuesday morning for Benton, Mono county, with the object of investigating the chances for establishing a newspaper in that county. Benton and vicinity ought to support such an institution quite as well as any of our sagebrush towns, of which it now appears one of the most flourishing.

A CAVE.—This morning the stone curbing, twenty-six feet deep, in the well pertaining to this office all went down with a roar like thunder, and it annoys us like thunder, too. Cause—high water and bad workmanship, especially the latter.

Our Benton Letter.

BENTON, Mono Co., July 17.

MESSRS. EDITORS—We are experiencing the most delightful weather imaginable; for the past week we have constantly had a clear, azure sky, a cool and refreshing breeze, with little or no dust, and balmy nights—precisely the weather for which we have been sighing.

JUSTICE'S COURT.

Owing to the small fees demanded by amateur practitioners of the legal fraternity, Judge Decker is constantly employed in hearing petty cases or complaints. I believe it is the intention of these amateur attorneys to raise their fees to a reasonable figure, and to demand their fees or good security therefor in advance, to which your correspondent, from the depths of his heart, can respond amen! Benton is indeed fortunate in having two conscientious, upright, and impartial Justice's—Judges Cross and Decker; of whom it can be said they are indeed proving a terror to evil doers.

MORALITY.

During a residence in Benton of upwards of a year I have never witnessed such a quiet and orderly Sabbath as yesterday. Not a drunk to be seen, no boisterous language to be heard to mar its serenity, and no quarreling to disturb the peace. What a delightful change from grand disorder to perfect order; and this change may safely be attributed to the salutary influence of our Good Templar Lodge. The lodge is in splendid working order, financially, socially and morally. The number of its members is steadily on the increase, and its ranks are constantly receiving recruits from among our most prominent and influential citizens. Most of saloon keepers encourage the lodge in its endeavor to reclaim the drunkard, and have assisted the lodge in various ways. The lodge has contracted to have a hall erected. They were (fortunately) of necessity compelled to this step, by the refusal of a party claiming and exercising the right to refuse them the use of the school house.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Willie Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edwards of this place, met with a very painful, although fortunately not serious, accident last Saturday evening. It appears that he had lassoed a calf and made it secure to a hitching post in the corral, and was in the act of mounting his horse, when the calf broke the rope and rushed furiously towards the horse, which in its turn became excited and broke from the grasp of Willie, and at the same time let fly his foot, planting it squarely between Willie's eyes; leaving him in an insensible condition. The wound bled profusely, and it was first supposed that Willie's nose was broken, but after a careful examination the nose was found to be O. K. It is a very painful wound, but is healing rapidly.

NEW BUILDINGS.

Geo. W. Rowan's house is nearly completed and is an ornament to the town. George is a whole-souled boy and does nothing by halves. W. B. Harbin is getting out the material to erect a commodious building, the upper story of which is designed for a hall for the use of Good Templars, and for the use of any other society which may desire it.

MILLS AND MINES.

The Comanche mill is still clattering away upon rich ore, and giving perfect satisfaction to all interested; proving a financial benefit to all employed within it; consequently adding materially to the welfare of the town. The Comanche mine is constantly augmenting the number of its miners, and is in a splendid condition under the able management of its foreman, Thos. Murphy. The Diana Co. is having a new shaft sunk, and will shortly resume its regular occupation. The Diana mill will soon commence running upon custom ore. The gold lead is gradually being developed, and is improving in its prospects as the work progresses.

"TRANSIENT-ERS."

Mr. Barrows, of Fish Spring Station, is here on a visit; John Mills, of Bishop, is also here on a visit, and looking after the iniercsts of the Good Templars; we have also several mining experts, who are sent here by capitalists to make a critical examination of our prominent mining claims, and to report upon their permanency; and if their report should be favorable, we will shortly have two or more new quartz mills erected. Benton is working on the principle of go-ahead-ness and that it will come out all right is the firm belief of

MINION.

CORRECTION.—Our item last week in reference to amount of two-dollar road and poll taxes collected was an error in this: that instead of dollars the figures should have stood for number of receipts. Corrected the figures are 1,052 poll tax receipts sold, amounting to $2,104; 855 road tax receipts sold, amounting to $1,710—total, $3,814.

ADJOURNED.—The County Court adjourned for the term last Wednesday. The case of Boley vs. Givins was settled, which, with the case of the People vs. Martin, and the Grand Jury, was about all there was to occupy Judge Hannah's attention this time.

TRANSFER OF REAL ESTATE.—Elijah Robinson has purchased the two farms, known as the Gunnison place, from Mr. and Mrs. McClure, paying therefor the sum of $8,500. These farms join this place on the east, and are certainly well worth having.

A MASQUERADE ball is on the tapis and will be arranged by the young people as soon as the intensely hot weather has subsided. Young men who never prayed before are praying for old Sol to hurry up his stumps.

INDICTMENTS FOUND.—J. R. Norton stands indicted for murder and Small and McDonald for robbery. The last was the robbery of Harris & Rhine's store at Panamint a few months ago.

ROTHSCHILD & Co.—This firm, whose new advertisement appeared last week, have lately received extensive additons to their stock of goods, and moreover, are disposing of them on more satisfactory terms than ever.

IN BAD CONDITION.—The road through the lanes east of the Post is represented to be in a miserable condition from the effects of waste water, from the adjoining ranches, reservoired all along the road.

AT BIG PINE.—Parties in the vicinity of Big Pine needing the services of a painter to renovate things a little are hereby reminded that Oliver Seer has located at that place for a short time, and stands ready to answer all calls in his line.

GETTING DOWN.—Owens River which has been higher than ever this Spring, is now receding rapidly and can now be forded in places.

IN TOKEN OF RESPECT.—It is proposed to display the flag here at half mast tomorrow in respect to the memory of Custer and his gallant men.

LODGE MEETING.—The regular meeting of Inyo Lodge F. & A. M., takes place next Saturday night, July 29.

"Here now, none of your slack," as the potato-bug remarked when the New Jersey farmer came at him with a hand full of lime.

THEY had a good deal of trouble with the Aztec woman attached to Barnum's show in Providence. It seems she wanted her salary raised to $7 a week, but they told her if they did she would also be obliged to appear as the Siberian malefactor, and she said she would go back to Limerick first, and take in washing again at two shillings a day, and they were obliged to compromise by bringing her out as the fascinating Odalisque of the Orient.

Valuable Recipes.

The Medical Home has the following recipes:

A tea made of ripe dried whortleberries, and drank in place of water, will cure the most obstinate case of dropsy in a few days.

A plaster made of fresh slacked lime and fresh pine tar is a sure cure for a cancer, which, with all its roots, will come out.

An excellent recipe for removing paint or grease spots from garments, may be had by mixing four teaspoonfuls of alcohol with a tablespoonful of salt. Shake the whole well together, and apply with brush or sponge.

A simple and harmless application for ring-worm is found by washing with a solution made from the root of the common narrow-leafed dock, which belongs to the botanical genius Rumex. Use vinegar for the solvent.

One of the best applications for rheumatism is to bathe the parts affected in water in which potatoes have been recently boiled, as hot as can be borne, just before going to bed.

A THREAD TELEGRAPH.—A cheap telegraph, useful for certain purposes, can be made in this way: Take two tin cylynders about the size of a small dice box, say three inches long by one and one-fourth inches in diameter,; cover one end of each with parchment or bladder, forming a drumhead. Pierce the center with a pin and insert a strong thread, and make a knot to prevent its being withdrawn. With the other end of the thread (which may be of any length, say 100 yards or more) do likewise with the other cylinder, and the telegraph is complete. By keeping the thread tightly drawn, in order that the vibration may be perfect, a person speaking, or even whispering, in one cylinder can be distinctly heard by another holding the other cylinder to the ear. Would not such home-made pocket telegraphs be very useful in factories, on farms, and in many other situations too numerous to mention?—Cor. Scientific American.

A QUESTION FOR ANY ONE.—You see by the time this reaches you 4th of July will be over. You will have had your fun and your fireworks, and we don't believe it would be at all pleasant to renew the story as you sit with a large patch of brown paper over your eye and with two fingers and a thumb in arnica. So we will let you off if you will answer just one question: Why are the stars on the American flag five-pointed and those upon our natioinal coinage six-pointed? We sort of know and sort of don't, and for fear of the latter we want to make sure by going where we are pretty certain to find out.

A Trip to the County Seat.

[From the Coso Mining News.]

"M———, you are hereby summoned to appear before the Grand Jury at Independence, on the 13th day of July, 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M. of said day, to testify in a criminal case, wherein the State of California is plaintiff."

Now, is that not a nice thing to poke into an editor's face twenty-four hours previous to the time he is required to appear, when he is sixty miles away, with no possible way of getting there, and the thermometer ninety-odd degrees in the shade? Why is it that so little consideration is shown to this unfortunate class of persons who, in order to be permitted to remain even in a poor country and eke out a miserable existence, are compelled to wear their lives out in thinking and writing and doing about ten times as much as anybody else for the good of the community and the welfare of mankind in general? Alas! the question has never been answered, and probably never will be. We have this, however, to console us—Christ was persecuted, also, in his day, and came out unscathed. But how he would have come out in these degenerate days of Grand and petit juries we leave for theologians to determine.

Well, on the evening of the 11th instant we had the gratification of listening to our friend, Deputy Sheriff James Wales, read one of those little epistles called a subpœna, that lawyers know so well how to get up, and after sending out two or three collectors we managed to scrape together enough money to start with on this pleasant trip to answer such questions before ye grand tribunal as would have a tendency to vindicate the insulted dignity of the State by J. R. Norton, who is accused of shooting James Coyle in March last. Through the kindness of Superintendent J. P. Taylor, of Buckley's Stage Line, we were granted a "pass" to Lone Pine and return. Except for this kindness we would have been compelled to walk back or go before his Honor, Judge Hannah, and make an affidavit that we were a pauper, under which conditions the Court is allowed to grant an order for one's actual expenses. We could have done this without in the least falsifying the facts in the case, but editors are expected to maintain much dignity and do many other things requiring much money whether they've got a cent or not, and so we put on style and would not make the said affidavit, as several others from Darwin were compelled to do.

Arrived at Lone Pine we stopped at Mrs. Eames' hotel, got a good supper (after partaking of one of Bob Peterson's elixirs), went to bed and after a comfortable night's rest we rose, paid our bill with a Defiance order, which was readily accepted. Cluggage's Stage Line, however, running from Lone Pine north, and which is kept alive to a great degree by the patronage of miners and others in and around Darwin, would not take the Darwin orders, but his agent, Mr. Joseph Seeley, paid us quite a compliment by saying he preferred to take the word of a "good man." This made some amends for the indignant refusal of our favorite Darwin currency.

From Lone Pine to Independence is a very pleasant ride, the distance being eighteen miles and the whole route is dotted with ranches through whose grounds run bright, purling streams of mountain water, which bring to life and sustain the seed sown by the farmer—or rather by the bucks and squaws employed by him. The only stopping place between the two towns is that of Mr. and Mrs. Keppler, who keep the Half-Way House, at George's creek, and a more happy and congenial couple it would be hard to find. In course of time we arrive at Independence, the county seat of Inyo county, and alight at the Blaney House, and the best one in the county. After making our toilet—in which we were assisted in an eminent degree by Wm. Huff, the tonsorial artist in the town—we were admonished that our august presence was required before the Grand Jury, and thither we hied to tell them all we knew about the Norton-Coyle matter, and we think the Jury were satisfied that what we knew about it would not make a very large sized book. A number of other witnesses (principally those for the defense in the former trial) were examined, and from the fact that Norton is indicted we conclude they didn't know much more than we.

This farce through with we concluded to enjoy ourself for the day, and in looking around for a "loaf" we naturally fell into THE INYO INDEPENDENT office, where we found Messrs. Chalfant & Childs and his "nibs" Jim Parker, head-over-heels in work, a good portion of which was in cleaning up the debris left from numerous jobs executed for the Fourth at Lone Pine and shinplasters of the "Rowdy Roosters." We noticed much improvement in the internal arrangement of THE INDEPENDENT office since we left it three years ago. Much new material has been added in the newspaper and job departments, and the latter is now capable of turning out as good work as anybody needs. Altogether THE INDEPENDENT seems to be in a healthy condition, and seems to be appreciated by the people of Inyo county, who should see that it is well sustained.

We cannot see any very great changes in the town of Independence, except that the beauties (not the girls) of the place are constantly being enhanced by the beautiful locust, cottonwood and other trees and shrubbery which grow in great profussion, lining the smooth streets from one end to the other. How much we wish that Darwin was as well watered by running streams as are the towns of Independence and Lone Pine! We could go on and talk of the pleasant interviews had with old friends and acquaintances and of new acquaintances formed, and would like to mention them bp name but our foreman admonishes us that we must soon "go to press" and must "cheese" our article. We therefore enter upon our return to Lone Pine, and, happily or our sore flesh and aching bones. Mrs. P. Reddy kindly placed at our disposal her carriage, and in company wtth Charley Barry we started for Lone Pine on Sunday evening last, glad indeed to avoid that much staging and the saving of the fare we would otherwise have to pay to Cluggage.

At early morn we took a seat on the box with Jim Rodgers, the popular driver, and at the usual hour arrived at home. Judge Murphy at once dismounted from the editorial tripod and now we are in for another siege until the November term of Court, when we presume we shall have to go again. We will not say it is an outrage, but if anybody thinks it is not, let them put themselves in our place and try it on.

[From the London Saturday Review.]

The general character of American railways may be understood by considering that the "bogie" mode of constructing carriages was invented with special reference to these lines. "This," says Mr. Barry, in his Railway Appliances, "is a valuable contrivance for using a small wheel base for a long carriage." It was an English invention for dealing with the particular circumstances of the early American railways, on which, from economical considerations, long carriages were desirable, though the railways in question had sharp curves and were laid with a rough description of permanent way." The "bogie" system consists in supporting each end of a carriage on two or more pairs of wheels placed close together. The Pullman palace hotel car, which formed part of the transcontinental express, was mounted on two "bogie" trucks of six wheels each, and perhaps the "bogie" system is applied in America even where the necessity for it does not exist. The railway on the Pacific slope is of modern construction; but probably the same causes operate there that influenced the construction of the earlier railways of Pennsylvsnia and Ohio; and therefore it may well be that the system, as a whole, will never be thoroughly suitable for the rapid traveling which is common on English lines. But the same completeness of arrangements or for avoiding delay which was made on this occasion might become habitual, and there are long stretches of line, as, for instance, on the prairie west of the Missouri, where great speed might be safely maintained. The appreciation of rapid traveling is still confined to Americans and Englishmen, and not even the "richly-furnished accommodations" of a palace-car could prevent humane bones from aching after such a journey. One condition of speed is a clear road, and that certainly exists. The correspondent of the Herald probably mentions every train that was met or passed, and we may infer, also, that he and his companions had the track pretty much to themselves. On the London and Northwestern Railway, between London and Rugby, there are 64 through down trains per day, and on this and other lines the number of daily trains is far beyond anything that was contemplated when these lines were made. But at least from the time when the Great Western Railway was designed a high rate of speed has been contemplated as desirable, and in this respect probably the construction of the chief English lines could not be much improved. It will be interesting to observe whether, if a genuine demand for high speed arises in America, the existing lines are capable of maintaining it.

Terrible Cloud Burst in Eureka, Nevada.

A despatch from Eureka, dated July 24, gives the particulars of another terrible disaster by a cloud burst in that vicinity. The burst took place about 9 o'clock on the night of the 23d, in the Diamond range of mountains thirteen miles eastward. It struck a camp of Italian wood choppers, all of whom, it is pretty certain, perished; a short distance below thirteen Chinamen were drowned and crushed to death, only one escaping. The water rushed on down through the town, creating the greatest consternation as its approach was heralded by the fire bells and steam whstle, but except the effects of the alarm and destruction of miscellaneous property to the value of $2,500, no damage was done the town.

NEW PATENTS.—Through Dewey & Co., patent agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. patents, granted to Pacific coast inventors: Elisha T. Barlow, San Francisco, barrel taps and faucets; William Bayhouse, Boise City, Idaho, lasting machines; Abraham C. Buffington, Cambria, Cal., strap hinges; Henry Campbell, S. F., brackets for holding lamps; James Root, Woodland, Cal. churns; Amos C. Springer, S. F., cocks and faucets; Henry Beguelin, assor. to S. Farjeon and Dinkelspiel, S. F., adjustable watch keys; Thos. W. Irving, Port Madison, W. T., amalgamating apparatus; Geo. I. Schoenburg, S. F., journal boxes; Re-issue—F. A. Hill, San Leandro, Cal., gang plows; Samuel Killett, (designs—two cases) S. F., center piece; Lucien Houriet, San Jose, Cal., lamp extinguisher; Orson A. Davis, Sacramento, bee hives; Joseph Shelly, Mariposa, Cal., saw clamps; Joseph Enright, San Jose, dampers for return tubular boilers; Andrews S. Hallidie, S. F. railway tubes and cars; W. O. Day., manufacturing coffins; Ferdinand C. Smith and Charles E. Smith, Portland, Or., soldering clamps.

BECOMING SERIOUS.—The greatly depreciated value of silver is becoming a matter of serious import on this coast. Already every silver producing mill and furnace in Eastern Nevada, has either closed down entirely, or curtailed operations greatly, on account of it. It falls particularly heavy on base bullion producers whose margins for profits are by no means large at the best. The latest news, however, in reference to the value is that it is gradually enhancing, and is likely to continue doing so. Congress is trying hard to devise some relief but so far with no marked results. Unless something of the kind takes place Inyo will certainly be affected injuriously, as well as other silver producing section.

HOLIDAY NUMBER.—The publishers of St. Nicholas promise a Midsummer Holiday number of their most excellent magazine for August. Every department has been strengthened for this special number, aud while the peculiar characteristics of the issue are beauty and liveliness, there are some of the best lessons for young people that St. Nicholas has yet offered to the boys and girls. The magazine is good enough at any time, so no doubt, this holiday number will be magnificent. Scribner & Co., publishers, 743 Broadway, New York.

SENATOR BOOTH'S LIEU LAND BILL.

A short time since Senator Booth introduced a bill, which is now pending in the Senate, to quiet or valididate titles to all the lieu lands listed by the Land Office at Washington to this State. The bill is provoking a great deal of discussion, pro and con. It is denounced as a bill to cover up the iniquities of the California land thieves, the most rapacious yet known, which iniquities are in imminent danger of exposure through our State Land Commission, now just beginning its work. Such will be the effect of the proposed law without question, although we are satisfied such is not its real object. Senator Booth is no friend to the land grabbers.

It is only necessary to read the report of the Committee on Land Monopoly, appointed by the Legislature preceding the last, to obtain at least a partial idea of the vast extent of these unmitigated land steals, a large portion being these lieu lands; the same report shows what unblushing and indefensible frauds have characterized the most of these lieu land steals. Were even handed justice meted out to certain ex-land officers, including almost every Surveyor- General the State has yet had, and to numerous extensive land owners, they would each serve a ten-year term in the Penitentiary, besides, in most instances, having their ill-gotten possessions confiscated in toto to the State. But the State itself, until recently, has always connived at these frauds. Primarily, a sufficient number of adventurers (mere sojourners as they then felt themselves to be) got into both the legislative and judicial departments to establish a sort of a general system of land piracy, the like of which has never been equalled in extent and demoralizing effect since civilization denied that might was right, under which ancient rule of action the stronger feudal chiefs became the lords of principalities. In the light of California's experience, we ought not to call those ancient land grabbers hard names; the extent of their grabs was measured by the degree of valor shown; and valor is something to commend however badly directed; our California grabs were gauged in extent only by opportunities to make perjury and subornation of perjury available—neither commendable under any circumstances, though their use has led so many California land holders on to fortune.

But the frauds are accomplished facts; now the question is, how best to legalize them. Gov. Irwin, and all the State officers, advocate the law because most of these lands have passed into the hands of third parties; that the object of the law is to protect these innocent second-hand owners, who, but for some such legislation, must be turned out of house and home; that the State got its money for all these lands, and consequently should not go back on its bargain even if it was a party in the fraud.

Innocent purchasers ought to be protected in their rights, without doubt. Everything in reason should be done to quiet titles to property honestly acquired, as in the case of most of the present holders of these lieu lands. But by the principles of this proposed law through which that object is to be attained fraud is to be legalized. Well, if the innocent purchaser of stolen land is to be confirmed in his possession because he himself was not the original thief, why not do the same in case of a stolen horse or other personal property? Why make distinctions where there is not a shade of difference? Perhaps it is justifiable for the reason that it is a common, uninfluential horse thief in the one case, and a wealthy, influential class of land thieves in the other. To save the standing of the latter, their victims must be saved; in the former, the victim must pay the penalty of another's crime anyhow, This last is law now; the other will be a law, when Booth gets his bill through, that is to protect the poor farmer in his home, the same that some Carpentier, Chapman, Gen. Rosecrans or some other grabber was good enough to steal for him and take his money for: of course the law is to protect the honest but poor purchaser, not the original thief with his remaining thousands of acres in similar jeopardy!

Innocent purchasers who have bought lands in good faith, though originally obtained by fraud, should be indemnified by all means in the improbable event the vendor of the fraudulent title should be made to surrender it to the Government. But, probably not one of these small purchasers would lose his land if the vendor's title was invalidated on account of fraud. Being in possession, the vendee could maintain it to the extent of 320 acres under the general law, if the title reverted to the State. But however that might be, the grabbers should be made to disgorge to the last rood; and if that is impraticable, as it probably is in view of the vast moneyed and political influence land thieves can bring to bear, the next best thing to do is to try to enforce a reasonable, or half-way decent rate of taxation. And if Congress legislates land thieves into immunity and respectability, as Booth and Irwin propose, then by all means let our next Legislature follow out the principle by doing as much for horse thieves by denying the writ of replevin as affecting honest purchasers of stolen property.

MINING TAX ASSESSMENT.

We did think of giving a synopsis of the testimony adduced before the Board of Equalization on the several applications for reductions in the assessments, but sixty pages of that kind of literature is rather too much to undertake for any good that might come of it. Suffice it to say that the Board took all this testimony, and made up their judgment accordingly, but in each throwing the doubt in favor of the applicant. For instance, a responsible party testified that he would give, and had offered $3 a share for the Union Consolidated property; the owners had declined $8 per share, of which there are 100,000. Competent miners, or miners of much experience in general, and an intimate acquaintance with this mine in particular, considered it worth more money than that; also, that the mine at this time exhibited any quantity of ore, apparently as much as at any time in its history. A partial reduction was allowed, however, upon this, as in each of the others, with one or two exceptions, the Board pursuing the same course to ascertain values in each instance. In all cases of undeveloped mines it necessarily is but little more than guess work to fix an assessible value upon the one, since no man can say how much there is, nor whether it can be made to yield any certain profit. But it is not any more difficult to fix such values upon mining property bought and sold in the market than upon any other commodity. The law makes it the duty of the Assessor to assess all kinds of property under one rule only, viz: To assess it at its cash value, as when offered in payment of a debt. In several of these cases before this Board there was no more difficulty in fixing values under this rule and principle than upon a warehouse of grain. But nevertheless, a reasonable margin was allowed, or intended to be allowed, on account of the well known unuertainties attending all mining enterprises. This allowance in some cases is supposed to amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars, taking the asking price as the standard. There is nothing in the law exempting mining ventures from their fair share of the tax burden. There is no obvious reason why there should be. Usage, however, and policy, too, demands and has generally exacted a large margin in favor of that interest, as it has always done, right or wrong, in favor of railways and other incorporations, and wealth in whatever shape in the hands of individuals, who manage to average the whole through at greatly smaller figures than the poor man has ever been able to do, even for identically the same class of property when held in quantities too small to permit of blind averaging, or whatever process it is that works so favorably for the large property holder. But as we said before, it is too often the merest guess work to value undeveloped mines, and in many cases, those that are partially developed. Yet it does not appear from the testimony elicited before this Board that the Assessor has done anything more than duty, and a reasonable judgment might dictate. If the rule is admitted that all enterprises not paying a profit for the money invested should be exempt from taxation according to rule of cash values, tax revenues in this county would be most discouragingly slim. While we believe as we have stated heretofore, that it would conduce greatly to the advantage of the country to practically exempt all mines from taxation, save land area and improvement tax, yet the law makes no such exemption, therefore the Assessor would be recreant to his duty if he did not tax them precisely as any other property. That his judgment may be at fault at times in fixing such uncertain values is too manifest to need remark. The remedy in such cases is plain. It is the same in fact as the settlement of any other issue at law—an appeal to the judgment of a disinterested jury, to-wit, the members of the Board of Supervisors, who listen to the evidence offered and render judgment accordingly. It is not for us to say, nor do we think from our limited opportunities for judging, that this jury have rendered a false judgment in any of these cases.

AMONG the incidents of the Fourth of July celebration at Astoria, Oregon, was the roasting of a mammoth ox. The intention was that it should be suspended, revolved and roasted with the surrounding fires built in a circle; but, much to the horror of the spectators, it gave way and fell to the ground in a sitting position, and it was then discovered, when too late, that the entrails had not been removed. The only way the Roasting Committee could save their embarrassment was to douse the fire and spread the immense Government tent over the object, whilst the band played a "Dead March."

THE bill to encourage the building of telegraph lines between America and Asia—Alaska to the Amoor river country—has passed the Senate and gone to the House.

GENERAL SHERMAN, in a letter, denies that he ever favored or advocated the policy of Indian extermination.

The New York Tribune on the Silver Question.

The New York Tribune argues that the demonetizing of silver is absolutely impossible in all countries where it is used as currency. It is a question whether Germany will not be compelled to abandon as impracticable the task of its partial demonetizing which it has undertaken. Already its attempt to sell a quantity of the metal has deranged the price throughout the civilized world, and very large sums still remain to be disposed of. It is evident that if France, or any other country using a large amount of silver, had undertaken to escape the disaster resulting from the fall in price by speedy demonetization, the attempt of both governments to sell would have failed. The world cannot get rid of silver if it tries, and in the effort it can only inflict terrible losses on one country after another in succession. The conviction that this is true must soon have its effect on those countries which, like France and Switzerland, are hesitating in respect to their coinage. In due time the conviction that silver cannot be driven out of circulation will have its effect upon the price, and meanwhile the fall in price tends to cure itself by checking the production. It is probable, therefore, that a permanent reaction in the price of silver will soon occur.

A FIENDISH OUTRAGE.—That Hamburg "riot," as Lamar termed it, is proven to have been a most diabolical outrage, without shadow of justification. Two drunken chivs named Butler and Getzen were out taking an airing in a buggy on the Fourth of July; they met a negro company of regularly organized State militia; the chivs commanded the negro captain to open ranks and give them the road; the captain showed that there was an abundance of room on either side for the buggy to pass; the bloods scorned the proposition; the captain, seeing that their only object was a row, then did open ranks and give the blacklegs the road. But this was not satisfactory to the gentlemen; they had the captain arrested for obstructing the highway; then a mob, largely recruited from Agusta, Georgia, just across the river, gathered and commanded the negroes to give up their arms; this the captain was refused; the negroes then went into their armory and prepared for defense; a few discharges of grape soon made them take to the fields; in a short time about thirty of them were run down and dragged back. After considering the matter awhile the chivs told the niggers to "git," one and two at a time. A nigger would howl for mercy, and run and jump high, but it was no use: those noble marksmen would fetch him before he got far. It was splendid sport; the Hamburgers haven't had a Fourth more to their taste since the war.

ILLINOIS—POLITICAL.—It appears from private letters from Illinois that Hayes and Wheeler men in that State are becoming enthusiatic in numerous ratification meetings. Among other things asserted is the following, which, be it observed, is in quotations: "With the united South there is over 300 electorial votes with 66 from Northern Democrats. Tilden will stand a good show with three-fourths rebel and one-fourth rebel sympathisers." And this pretty strong accusation is made, while claiming authority for it: "Tilden once owned a distillery and the government closed it up on account of its crookedness; he was once pardoned and thus escaped imprisonment and fine for issuing illegal scrip in Northern Michigan; the Alton & Terre Haute R. R. Co. have sued him to recover $1,000,000 alleged to have been stolen from that company." All we got to say about it is that we trust these things may be cleared up and not buried up.

APPLETONS' JOURNAL is now published monthly; it is devoted to popular literature and all matters of taste and general culture, and published at a price to bring it within reach of all classes. It contains superior fiction, in the form of serials and short stories; papers graphically descriptive of picturesque places; articles upon men of note, and upon the habits of different people; essays upon household and social topics; articles of travel and adventure; scientific and industrial articles written in a graphic and popular style, etc. In brief, the aim is to be comprehensive, including in the plan all branches of literature and all themes of interest to intelligent readers. It is a fine book, each number. Price $3 per annum. D. Appleton & Co., Publishers, 549 Broadway, New York.

SOME of the English law-makers are apparently alarmed at the prospect of establishing colonies of American thieves under the protection of the English flag, and over the English dominions. Notice has been given in Parliament of a resolution in favor of amending the extradition laws, the purpose probably being to remove the difficulties in the way of surrendering scoundrels like Winslow, who can't be considered a very desirable addition to the population of any country.

Brigham Young and Mormonism.

[From the Carson Tribune, July 22.]

Latest news from Salt Lake tells us that Brigham, the arch fiend of Mormonism, is on his death bed, and cannot possibly recover. What the feelings of that very able, but at the same time, very bad man, can be as he watches the approach of the grim monster cannot be imagined. Will a retributive providence cause the spectres of the hundreds murdered by the wretch's institution to hover round his dying couch, and screech their curses into his ears until he calls on Death in mercy to end his torments? We hope so; he has sinned not in ignorance but wilfully. The murderer we could excuse and pray for, but the hoary-headed wretch who, for thirty years, has set the laws of God and man at defiance, deserves no mercy, and if the Great Ruler of the universe is just, and the Scriptures true, Brigham Young has committed unpardonable sins and must receive the punishment. With Brigham dies Mormonism; not, perhaps, in a day or a month, but die it surely will, and that shortly after the old wretch shall wing his spirit away to where the damned exist. The foul, filthy blot of polygamy has long enough disgraced the native and other governments. It has been winked at, for some good reason no doubt, but when the great controller of his people goes from among them he takes polygamy with him to the infernal regions—wherever they may be. His own people are ripe for the reform, and when the other hounds begin to growl over the dead carcass, there will be lots of fun among the evil spirits in Tophet, for the elders will fight among themselves, and death will hold high carnival in Utah.

MURDER AND ROBBERY.—A despatch from Sumner, Kern county, July 21, says: A German by the name of John Newbaur was found murdered about three miles from Sumner, to-day. His throat was cut and skull broken. It is supposed he was murdered for his money. The circumstances connected with the affair are about as follows: He left Los Angeles a few days ago in company with another German on a prospecting tour, Newbaur furnishing the outfit. Where they parted is not known. but Newbaur stopped at Adobe Station, fifteen miles from this place, Tuesday night, in company with another man. Before their departure Newbaur took from his pocket a purse full of money, and tendered a twenty, saying it was the only kind of money he had. The purse would hold about $500 in gold. After their departure from Adobe Station nothing was seen or heard of either of them till late Wednesday evening. The man who left Adobe Station with Newbaur rode into Bakersfield and ordered his horse well fed and watered, as he might need him in an hour. He did not, however, come around until yesterday morning, when he gave orders to deliver the horse to a little Dutchman who would call for him. Newbaur was found by a Mexican lying near his horse, which was also stabbed, his pockets rifled and his purse empty lying on the ground.

AN UNHEARD OF PROPOSITION.—The following extract is from Senator Jones' speech in the United States Senate, protesting against the report of the Conference Committee on the Silver bill. He tells some wholesome truths, which the old fogies in and out of Congress would do well to heed: "What an unheard of proposition that a country, burdened with two billion dollars of public debt, should attempt to introduce a machine, for effecting its internal exchange, that would raise the burden of such a debt at least twenty per cent., and not only this, but increase also the weight of the vast amount of corporate, municipal, State, county and city debts. I want to know why the seven or eight thousand millions of private debts which exist in addition to those of the nation, States and municipalities, and which were engendered in greenbacks, shall be increased in the interest of creditors and to the ruin of the debtor. I tell you it is not the money lender that gives prosperity to the country, it is the active business man. It is the borrower, the hopeful, the industrious, the enterprising man, who is always in debt. That is the man who lends fleetness to the wings of commerce; that is the man who gives elasticity to the flagging footsteps of industry. It is not the man who, instead of inaugurating enterprises, sits back and lends money; and if any legislation is to be had, it should be in favor of the masses of the people of the country."

A GIGANTIC GALLOWS-FRAME.—The immense gallows-frame being erected over the new pump shaft of the Belcher mine attracts attention from the town to-day. It has risen since Tuesday last, and looms up against the sky like a giant, as it is. The frame stands eighty-five feet high, with a base thirty-two feet square, tapering to twelve feet square on the top. At the four corners are posts of Oregon pine, 14x14 inches. These are sunk and bolted into sills 15x18 inches. Each sill is double-anchored with six half-inch iron bolts. On two sides there are five girders of 14x15 timbers. Between the girders are double braces of 8x12 timbers, all so firmly bolted that the whole mass of wood and iron becomes one immovable piece. On the south side opposite the hoisting engine, the frame is left open for a hight of about 45 feet, in order that the great 80-foot pump rods may be raised into the shaft. The frame work will be surmounted by a sheave weighing 4,500 pounds. This will be the highest "Brown's Station" on the Comstock. The cable from the engine will pass up the inside of the frame over the sheave and down again. When the building surrounds the frame it will project about forty feet through the roof. The south side of the building will be left open and when the frame is not being used immense doors will be closed. All the heavy machinery, pump-rod, timbers, etc., will be lowered into the mine by means of this gallows frame. It will probably be completed by Sunday.—Gold Hill News, July 15.

THE phrenologist lifted his hand from the boy's head and said: "Your son has extraordinary developments, sir; he will be a great man." The father dropped his chin upon his breast and mournfully added, "Then he can never be President."

A NEW SILVER BILL.—A published dispatch from Washington of the 18th instant says that the bill introduced by Kelly of Pennsylvania in relation to the coming standard of silver dollars provides; That, whereas. by the omission of the name of legal tender silver dollars in the enumeration of the silver coins of the United States in the Act of February 12, 1873, authority to coin said dollars was withheld; therefore, there shall be from time to time struck and coined at the several mints of the United States silver dollars of 412½ grains as provided for in the Act of January 18, 1837, upon which shall be the devices and legends provided by said act, and said dollar shall be a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private.

WM. SHARON made application to the Board of Equalization for a reduction of the assessment on the Palace Hotel from $2,000,000 to $1,000,000. Sharon said the Hotel cost about $5,000,000 but could not be sold for $2,000,000; that the hotel would not pay five per cent. on $1,000,000, all sources of income included.

SOME rural New Yorkers are swearing that they will never vote for Tilton, and say that "Theodore" don't amount to much as a "Reformer," since he went into the Woodhull joint stock company. And some Jersey farmers declare that Wheeler's sewing machines are a fraud and they won't vote for him under any circumstances.

IT is said that Hayes will not resign the governorship of Ohio. By a law of the State if the office of governor becomes vacant thirty days before the State election it must be filled then by a popular vote. This would introduce a new element into the October election and complicate matters seriously.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.—Following is the sum of the proceedings of the Board of Equalization last week: Union Consolidated, Cerro Gordo, assessment reduced from $250,000 to $222,000; P. P. Gerrish—Panamint property, reduced from $500 to $390; mining property in Ubehebe district assessed to M. W. Belshaw and V. Beaudry at $10,500 to remain at that figure; same order as to the assessed values of the Cerro Gordo Water Works and Darwin Water Works belonging to V. Beaudry; Santa Rita mine, Darwin, reduced to $1,000; Tyler furnace and mill site ordered stricken from the Santa Rita Mining Company's assessment, and assessed at same figure to Mr. Portois; mines and furnace of New Coso Company, Darwin, be reduced $20,000, leaving the total at $60,000; Modoc Company from $200,000 to $150,000; Minneatta Belle reduced $8,000, leaving the total $22,000; Mountain View Mining Company's assessment segregated from the Minneatta, and reduced to $5,000; Keystone, same order with reference to the Minneatta Co., and reduced to $500; Virginia Consolidated, Kearsarge, to $500; C. Dockweiler, improvements, reduced to $2,500; Thos. May's assessment to remain as fixed by Assessor; C. A. Walters, reduced $1,000; error in property assessed to Isaac Harris ordered corrected, reducing assessment $1,000. The foregoing completed the business of the Board of Equalization when after allowing the following bills, the Board on Saturday, July 25, adjourned for the term: Yves Tallac, witness before Board, $4 25; Thos. Holland, witness before Board, $3 00; J. G. Garretson, Supervisor, 9 days service, $54 00, mileage, $18 80; D. B. Curtis, Supervisor, 7 days service, 42 00, mileage, $6 00; Chas. Meysan, Supervisor, 7 days service, $42 00, mileage, $6 40.

PUBLIC MEETING.—We are requested by a number of gentlemen, all of whom mean business, to call a public meeting at the Court House on the evening of August 5, one week from to-night, the purpose of which is to devise ways and means to build up a high school for this county. It is an important undertaking; if started on a general satisfactory basis, and its advantages become apparent, as they must in due course, to all intelligent citizens, it is just as feasible as important. Those are the points to be considered. Our citizens throughout the county who wish to give their children a good education are now compelled to send them to schools hundreds of miles away, costing thousands of dollars in the aggregate, all of which to all intents and purposes is totally lost to the property values of the county. There is scarce a doubt all this and much more can be saved if this proposition of building up a high school of our own is carried out. We can hardly over-estimate the advantages to accrue from it to this county as a whole. We shall not undertake to enumerate them now—they are obvious enough perhaps to most of our readers without specification—the matter in hand is to confer as to how it can best be accomplished. That is the object of this meeting, and we certainly think it is well worth an effort on the part of every portion of the county to send a representative. And it is especially desirable that the ladies should attend, an invitation to that effect being hereby tendered,

FROM BISHOP.—Rev. L. Case has located a "ranch" at Bishop, and has gone manfully to work to make a home—and will succeed as well as any man we know of. This operation, however, is not intended to cause any material change in his regular ministerial labors, but rather to enable him to maintain them, by eking out an independent living. Mr. Case informs us that the crop outlook up the valley everywhere is of the most promising character—better than ever before seen in the valley. In the way of fruits, the crop of grapes is something wonderful if other vinyards are as well loaded as W. G. Watson's, the only one that came directly under his observation. Barley, yielding over a ton to the acre, has already been marketed this season from Lewis' place, and doubtless at good prices.

AN UGLY RUMOR.—It was reported here a few days since that a collision had occurred in Monache valley between the cattle men, who own the pasture lands mostly, and the sheepmen, resulting in the death of one man, and another and a woman, wounded, shot by one of the cattle owners, a citizen of this place. The only foundation for this story is that a collison was imminent—no shooting or killing has yet taken place. John Broder and W. A. Greenley, who have cattle in that valley, have gone out to see what the trouble is.

RELIGIOUS.—We are informed that a reverend Catholic father, from Visalia, will be at this point on Sunday, one week from to-morrow, and will hold divine services. We have not learned his name.

RETURNED.—Pratt, the jeweler, has returned from his fishing trip, and has re-opened his establishment where he is again prepared to do all work in his usual first-class style.

THANKS.—Elijah Robinson has placed this establishment under obligations for some nice watermelons, the first we have "experienced" this season.

ESTRAY MULE.—Any one having lost a mule may find it to their interest to read A. B. Kitchen's "Estray Notice" in this issue.

PREACHING.—Rev. L. Case will preach in this place at the school house to-morrow evening.

WEATHER.—It was cloudy and showery to an unusual degree here early this week.

JUSTICE PETERSON'S COURT.—Last week Justice Peterson at Lone Pine disposed of these two cases: Gomez Sindu Palicio, the same chap that was hauled up and let off very easy for an assault upon his uncle, F. Dabeeney, a few weeks ago, was brought into Court on a similar charge, the object of Gomez' attention this time being his Aunt Dabeeney. He plead not guilty at first, but withdrew that, asking twenty-four hours time to obtain counsel. This proposition was declined by the Court, which, after looking into the way Gomez had been carrying on, fixed the penalty at sixty days in the County Jail or its equivalent in coin at $1 per day. The other was Jim Thompson, who got on a bender and fired off his pistol for the fun of the thing; while enjoying this fun in the streets he fired one shot into Cohn's store, which, but for a fortunate glance, would most likely have inflicted serious injury upon Cohn. After this, while fooling with his pistol, he accidentally shot himself through the hand. For these reckless operations he was snatched up and "painful dutied" to the extent of $10 fine. Altogether, it was a bad piece of amusement for James.

HE was one of the Discussers and had been sitting in that position since last April. It was during the meridian of the day, and everything old Sol focused on would, if it was a material body and had any juice in it, melt down like a wax taper in a Dutch oven—if otherwise, the object would shrivel like a scorched feather. He nervously fumbled and chinked a two-bit piece and a bunch of keys in his pocket, but his countenance was lit up with a serenely self-satisfied expression, and, glancing out upon the burning sands and up at the red hot mountains where the very lizards eagerly sought the shady side of the rocks, he congratulated himself that he had not foolishly packed off to Philadelphia during the heated season. "Why, gentlemen," said he, "What would a Californian do at the Centennial where men are daily sun struck? How would our constitutions stand the suffocating atmosphere, the copious showers and the bad whisky of the States?" His mental force was expended and he relapsed into meditation.

WATER SPOUTS.—Monday last there was a terrific cloud burst in a cañon near T. D. Lewis' place, west side of Bishop Creek valley. It is said by a man who witnessed it that the volume of water and debris came down the cañon with a front ten feet high, and from 30 to 50 feet wide. It plastered the ranchee in the vicinity with several inches of "slickens," but none to their detriment. It caused a roaring that was heard for miles around, but did no damage. On the same day a similar washout took place in the cañon between the Lake and Darwin, washing out and filling up the road so as to leave it in an impassable condition for several miles. The toll keeper lost his wood, which went into the lake six or seven miles away. The stages and travel now take Nadeau's road to the south, but we presume it will be but a short time till the main road is again in traveling condition, perhaps better than ever.

GONE BELOW.—Mr. Reddy, of the Defiance, arrived in Darwin from San Francisco last week, but only remained long enough to settle up the current financial affairs of the company, when, accompanied by Messrs. E. A. Reddy and Wilson, he returned to the city. It is said that a heavy English company have come to his figures and will take the property. This is mere rumor, but if such should be the result we will undertake to say the new owners will have a property to be proud of, while, on the other hand, Darwin, and all Inyo will have something to be sorry for when such a public spirited, energetic manager as Mr. Reddy retires from it. No company, however, good or well managed, will ever do as much to help the community and the general interests along as has Mr. P. Reddy.

CHANGE OF TIME.—A change of stage time has been made to this effect: The Southern stages will hereafter leave Lone Pine in the evening, and arrive at Darwin the following morning—remaining there until 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon. As the stages of the Northern line from this place reach Lone Pine in the evening in time for the other, the annoyance and useless expense of twelve hours delay there will now be done away with, which is a big gain for travelers between Darwin and this place. Some other change in stage matters is on the tapis, but just what we are not able to say yet.

DELEGATES APPOINTED.—At a meeting of the Republican County Central Committee, held last Tuesday pursuant to notice, the following gentlemen were appointed as delegates to the Republican State and Fourth Congressional District Conventions: A. R. Conklin, W. B. Daugherty and P. A. Chalfant. It is altogether likely none of them will be able to attend personally.

THE RENJAMIN COMBINATION.—This troupe gave an entertainment, followed by a ball, on Monday night, and a second one on Tuesday night. The last was to an unusually large house, though the performance was hardly as good as the previous one. On the whole, their entertainments are fully up to the traveling standard, and are well worth a good audience.

MADE A START.—Mr. Gray started up the Kearsarge mill for a trial run a day or two since. There was some trifling defect noticeable in the running, but nothing of material consequence. The Brueckner furnace is also ready for operations.

IT has been estimated by the United States Coast Survey from the summit of Mount Diablo, that the word "centennial" has been written 640,000,000 times, or about 16 times for every intelligent inhabitant of the United States.

INVALIDED.—Postmaster Rowley has been so unwell for several days past as to incapacitate him for duty, but still he manages to attend to official duties whether or no.

OUR BENTON LETTER.

BENTON, Mono Co., July 25.

MESSRS. EDITORS—For the past few days we have been refreshed by gentle showers. Previous to the showers, the heat was almost intolerable; and the Bentonites had to resort to various expedients in order to counteract the unpleasantness of the heat; prominent among which expedients was the inward application of Benton Crookedness to act as a counter-irritant; but personal observation of such patients tends me to the belief that the counter-irritant was a total failure, and only ggravated the complaint.

DEATH.

The grim monster Death has again visited us and claimed as his victim, Mrs. Jennie Miner. After suffering and nobly bearing the most excruciating pain, death finally released her from her misery at twenty minutes past seven, on Monday morning, July 24th. Her remains were followed to the grave by her relatives and quite a concourse of friends. In the absence of a clergyman, a private citizen conducted the usual funeral services. In connection with this sad item, I would respectfully take occasion to urge the citizens of Benton to take measures towards securing some vocal talent to assist upon these solemn occasions. Nothing detracts so much from the impressiveness and solemnity of such sad ceremonies as the lack of funeral music.

AMUSEMENTS.

Prof. Harmen arrived in our town last Saturday morning, and in the evening gave one of his inimitable and excellent entertainments to the Benton public. On account of the brief notice which we had of his intended performance, he had not so full a house as he deserved. However he performed exceedingly well and gave perfect satisfaction. As it happened we had a blind violinist sojourning in our midst, and Professor Harmen with his proverbial liberality, tendered him a benefit, which was thankfully accepted, and the following evening (Sunday) the Professor gave a successful entertainment, and the proceeds were given to the unfortunate violinist. We are sorry that previous engagements compelled the Professor to leave us, as he is a general favorite with the Benton public, professionally and individually.

There was also a social dance given on last Saturday evening, for the benefit of the blind violinist. It took place at the Partzwick Hall, and was a financial success, so that the recipient has no cause to complain of the liberality of our citizens. On the contrary he returns his most heart felt thanks for the kindness he received from Professor Harmen and the Benton public.

Great preparations are being made for a dance which is to take place this evening (Tuesday) at Partzwick Hall. It is the intention to make this the model sociable of Benton. Not a drop of intoxicating beverages will be sold on the premises; the finest musical talent has been secured, and extra pains taken toward securing the comfort of all who may patronize it. Judging from present appearances, it must, of necessity, be a complete success.

RESUMPTION OF WORK.

The Diana mill will resume operations to-morrow. The dump is being crowded with custom ore, and strong hopes are entertained of a long and successful run.

NEWSPAPER.

As has already been noted by your readers, Mr. Parker is here on "biz" connected with his newspaper project. He has been making a very careful examination of the country, as regards the mines and its general industries; and, having had considerable experience in both mining and publishing, undoubtedly knows what he is about. He reports to me that the community is almost unanimously favorable toward the venture, and that in his opinion, the county's bright prospects fully justify it.

ON THE FLY.

Doctor Middleton, of Bishop, has been with us, for the past few days, on a professional visit. He leaves to-day for home....Jas. E. Parker is here on "biz," and leaves to-day for Independence....J. B. Swearingen is here on a business visit....Mr. Kinsey, a pedagogue from Bishop, is here with his family on his way to Carson.

MINION.

THE WRONG NAME.—In our notice of Court proceedings last week it was stated that the Boley–Givens case was settled. It should have read Boley vs. Lewis, settled.

A PRESS despatch of the 20th says: "The statement that Sitting Bull was killed in the fight with Custer is confirmed from Indian sources. Crazy Horse and Black Moon were also killed. The statement that Sitting Bull's band of Tnispahpas lost 160 killed and that the total loss of the Indians will reach nearly 400 is renewed. Six companies of the Twenty-second Infantry left Bismarck to-day on the steamer Carroll, to reinforce Terry. Nearly all the bucks are absent from the Standing Rock camp and have undoubtedly joined the hostile Indians.

A CITIZEN of Dakota took a Turkish bath in Omaha a few days ago, and died within an hour. The verdict of the jury was: "He hadn't ought to have got so much of the mud off of him at one time."

"You must cultivate decision of character, and learn to say "No," said a father to his son. Soon afterward, when the father told the son to chop wood, the boy said "No," with an emphasis that showed a remembrance of the lesson.

A BATTLE between the Turks and insurgents took place July 24, before Belina, in which the latter were defeated.

THE averment that Prussia will interfere in the Eastern question strengthens the hope that the peace of Europe will not be disturbed,

The San Fernando Tunnel.

[From the Los Angeles Herald, July 18.]

On Friday night, the 14th instant the headings of the San Fernando tunnel were joined. We could not anounce a fact more acceptable to the readers of the Herald, unless it were that the tunnel was completed, the track laid and trains passing through it, which fact we hope to announce within a few weeks. The tunnel is 6,964 feet long, and has been driven with remarkable rapidity, at more than ordinary expense, owing doubtless, to the fact that the saving of time was looked upon as of more importance than the economy of money. Much of the work has been supported by timber bracing, for the reason that the strata pierced were not self-sustaining. Although the difficulties met and overcome in the driving of the San Fernando tunnel have not been as great as have been met with in other similar works of greater length, yet when we stop to consider the magnitude of the undertaking as compared with the sparse population of this portion of the State, we can but admire the brain of the men who conceived and the nerve that ventured upon it. The whole formation of the San Fernando mountains justified the fear that veins of gas from oil secretions might be met with, which would interfere with and perhaps entirely stop the work. Fortunately such has not been the case, and now we have the satisfaction of knowing that the San Fernando mountain will not much longer shut us out from rapid communication with the outside world. To the people of Los Angeles the completion of this work is of paramount importance. To us it is what the Mount Cenis tunnel is to Northern Italy and France. Its consequences in the near future will be even greater than were those that followed the completion of that work to France and Italy, for ours is a youthful, growing country, to which immigration is flocking, whereas France and Italy are developed and teeming with population. Upon a subsequent occasion we will give all such details in connection with the driving of the San Fernando tunnel as we may be able to obtain, for the reason that we believe that no one can really appreciate the service rendered or the difficulties overcome but by an inspection of a detailed statement of what has been done and the cost of the work.

THE RELIGIOUS CONVICTIONS OF THE CANDIDATES. — Governor Hayes was raised a Presbyterian by his maternal uncle, and, though not a member, is now a regular attendant upon the services of the Methodist Episcopal Church. His wife is a communicant in that Church. Governor Tilden is a Presbyterian in sentiment, and, as we were lately informed, is a member of the Madison Square Church, New York City. He is a bachelor. Mr. Wheeler is a member of the Congregational Church in Malone, New York, the place of his birth and residence, and his wife was also a member. Her recent death has been announced. Governor Hendricks was raised a Presbyterian, is the son of a Presbyterian Elder, and in early life was taught the catechism, sometimes reciting it to the senior editor of this paper. His wife being an Episcopalian, he is now a worshipper in that Church.—Herald and Presbyter.

WE clip the following from the Eureka Sentinel: Yesterday a petrified mahogany tree, about ten inches in diameter, was discovered in the Hamburg mine, thirty-seven feet from the surface. It was found in the ore vein, and in portions of the petrification pieces of ore were firmly imbedded in the wood, while the entire tree was thickly incrusted with carbonate ore, evidencing beyond question that the vein matter had formed from below instead of from the surface, as is held by many of our geological sharps.

SATURDAY, JULY 29,..... 1876.

A Count in Court.

[From the Gold Hill News.]

Those strange ups and downs which mark life on the Western shores of this marvelous nation, were never better illustrated than in the Virginia Police Court yesterday. A fine looking old gentleman, handsomely dressed and bearing all the outward signs of wealth and respectability, leaned over to the representative of the News and remarked:

"You're a reporter, ain't you? Ah, I thought so. You can always tell newspaper men somehow. They've got a bright, active look that other young fellows don't have. Do you see that poor old creature among the drunks over there? Well, he's got a history. He looks bad enough now, God knows. He's dirty, ragged and bloated with whiskey. Rough looking specimen, ain't he?"

The reporter was obliged to confess that he ha dnever seen a better specimen of the bummer class in his life.

"Just so," said the old gentleman, crossing his legs and clasping his knees with his hands. "But what would you say if I told you that not ten years ago that man was worth his millions? It would sound pretty tough if I were to assure you that that miserable wretch is a member of one of the proudest families in France, wouldn't it? You would never think to look at that blear eye, unshaven and bloated face that the man was once a gentleman moving among the highest society of Europe. Yes, I know it's hard to believe. I suppose you've heard often enough the old story of a wild youth, an independent fortune, a constant round of dissipation and final ruin. It isn't often a gentleman comes so low as the Count de Bougereau."

"Count de Bougereau!" cried the astonished reporter.

"Yes, sir," the old gentleman went on, "It seems impossible that a wreck like that should have in the South of France a broken-hearted wife and two blooming daughters, who naturally live in close retirement."

"Why the deuce don't they do something for the poor devil?" said the reporter, casting a sympathetic eye upon the fallen nobleman in the dock, who with his elbows upon his knees, rested his face in his trembling and grimy hands.

"Why should they?" answered the old gentleman, taking out a fine gold watch and consulting it, "He never did anything for them. Perhaps it isn't right for me to say it, but some friends that I know have made every effort to lift him from the mire. Poor Count!"

"Does the poor gentleman speak English?"

"Very badly, I believe. We always converse in French when we meet."

The reporter walked gently to the Count and remarked in his very best French:

"Comment vous portez vous aujourd, hui, Monsieur le Compte?"

"Fwhat?" answered the nobleman, raising his head suddenly, and then—

"Have ye any bacca about ye, sor, I'm dying entirely fur a bit."

The reporter looked around for the old gentleman. He was gone. It was real comfort to hear the Judge say a little attewards, "Dennis Mulcahy, drunk and disorderly, twenty dollars or ten days in the City Jail."

SHE CAME FROM A TRICKY FAMILY. The other day a Grand River avenue grocer purchased a thirty-pound crock of butter of a farmer with whom he had never dealt with before, and while down cellar emptying the crock, he thought of a trick to surprise the agriculturist. Finding a stone weighing about eight pounds, the grocer greased it, carried it up stairs with the crock, and, pointing to it, quietly remarked:

"This, of course, is to be taken from the gross weight as well as the jar?"

The farmer looked at the stone for several long seconds, and then in a voice so low that no one else could hear, replied:

"Please kiver a piece of paper over the jar, for there's a man out by the door who knows me."

The grocer finally explained the fiendish plot, and the butter-seller's face underwent a sudden change. Reaching over the sugar barrels to shake hands, he said:

"I didn't hardly believe it, though my wife came from a tricky family, and I should have gone home and organized mourning and lamentation in that farm-house.—Detroit Free Press.

A NEW YORK man has christened his daughter Glycerine. He says it will be easy to prefix Nitre, if her temper resembles her mother's.

BOARDER—"Has the red-haired girl gone away?" Landlady—"Yes, sir." Boarder—"I thought so. I found a black hair in the butter to-day.

ROCK SOAP.

ROCK SOAP IS A NATURAL PRODUCT, possessing most marvelous cleansing and cosmetic properties. Besides other saponaceous substances it contains Alumina, which is more powerfully detersive than most Alkaline Soaps. Rock Soap is ascertained by analysis to have detersive properties valuable to an eminent degree for the purposes for which it is recommended, and to contain nothing injurious for such use. After using it no one will be without it. It is perfectly marvelous in its operation.

For Household Purposes.—It cleans kitchen utensils, glass, and tinware; polishes gold and silver; removes oil and grease from tables and floors. It is a great saving of time and labor.

For Toilet and Bath.—Rock Soap possesses remarkable cosmetic properties, without any deleterious effect upon the skin. It is perfectly harmless, and gives a vigorous and healthful tone to the skin; it restores the freshness and bloom of youth in a manner which is marvelous. It is put up with a brilliant label, and is having an immense sale. It sells itself. See quotations.

NOTICE TO CO-OWNERS.

To George W. Lyman and Robert Cushin.

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED THAT THE undersigned have expended on the WOLVERINE mine, lode or ledge, situated in the Cerro Gordo Mining District (formerly Lone Pine Mining District), County of Inyo, State of California, the sum of Eight Hundred and Forty ($840) Dollars, being the value of the work done, labor performed and improvements made on said mine, lode or vein, by them for the years 1869, 1870, 1871, 1872, 1873, 1874 and 1875, being at the rate of one hundred and twenty ($120) Dollars per year, or ten ($10) dollars per each one hundred (100) feet of said mine, as required under the provisions of an Act of Congress entitled "An Act to promote the development of the mining resources of the United States," passed May 10, 1872, that your respective parts of the costs and amount of such work for each year are as follows, to-wit:

George Lyman, interest in said mine, two hundred feet, @ ten dollars per year for each one hundred feet for seven years as above $140 00

Robert Cushin, interest in said mine, two hundred feet, @ ten dollars per year for each one hundred feet for seven years as above 140 00

Which sums must be paid to the undersigned within ninety days after the expiration of the publication of this notice, to-wit; on the 16th day of September, A. D. 1876, or the interest in said claim upon which any such sum shall be due and unpaid will be forfeited, and become the property of the undersigned, who are co-owners with you in said mine.

LEGAL.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED OUT of the District Court of the Twentieth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Monterey, in the suit of F. Berrante, Plaintiff, against Epetacio Gomez, Defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the 20th day of July, A. D. 1875, for the sum of Fifteen Hundred and Thirty-two 21-100 dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides costs amounting to the sum of thirty-nine 35-100 dollars, duly attested the 22d day of April, A. D. 1876, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of Fifteen Hundred and Seventy-one 76-100 dollars in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

Lot No. 1 in the fractional northeast quarter, and northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of Section No. 1, in Township No. 19, south of Range No. 36 east; and the north half of Lot No. 2, in the fractional southwest quarter of Section No. 6, in Township No. 19, south of Range No. 37 East base and meridian of Mount Diablo, containing about 160 acres—together with all improvements thereon erected and the appurtenances thereunto belonging. All of said above described real property being situated in the county of Inyo, State of California.

Notice is hereby given that on MONDAY, the Seventh Day of August, A. D. 1876, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to wit: at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant, Epetacio Gomez, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Henry M. Isaacs, Plaintiff, vs. Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. Summons. The People of the State of California send Greeting to Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in Second Township, in the County of Inyo, in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, on the Ninth Day of September, A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The said action is brought to recover judgment against said Defendants upon their certain promissory note dated July 20, 1872, payable on demand, for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of three per cent per month from date, principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United States of America.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint as above required, said Plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, together with all interest thereon and costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand at said Township, this 16th day of June, A. D. 1876.

JOSEPH SCHALTEN,
Justice of the Peace of said Township.

Peanuts, per bushel, African, 32 pounds; Tennessee, 28 pounds; Virginia 22 pounds.

A box 24x16 inches, 22 inches deep, contains one barrel; 16x16½ inches, eight inches deep, contains one bushel; 8x8½ inches, eight inches deep, contains one peck; 4x4 inches, four and a half inches deep, contains one-half peck; 4x4 inches, four-tenths of an inch deep, contains one quart.

The standard bushel of the United States contains 2,150.4 cubic inches. "The Imperial bushel" is about 68 cubic inches. Any box or measure, the contents of which are equal to 2,150.4 cubic inches, will hold a bushel of grain. In measuring fruit, vegetables, corn and other substances, one-forth must be added. In other words, a peck measure five times even full makes one bushel. The usual practice is to heap the measure.

The standard adopted by the United States is the Winchester bushel, 18½ inches in diameter inside, eight inches deep, and contains 2,150 42-100 cubic inches. It is the legal bushel of each State, having no special statue bushel of its own. A half bushel measure should contain 1,075 21-100 cubic inches.

The United States standard gallon measures 231 cubic inches.

A barrel contains 40 gallons or 9,240 cubic inches.

Five yards wide by 968 long contains one acre; 10 yards wide by 484 long contains one acre; 20 yards wide by 242 long contains one acre; 40 yards wide by 121 long contains one acre; 60 feet wide by 526 long contains one acre; 110 feet wide by 396 long contains one acre; 220 feet wide by 198 long contains one acre.

THE man who advertised to exhibit a hole that had once belonged in a handkerchief that Dickens had wiped his nose with, has been exceeded in enterprise and ingenuity by the person who organized an excursion, at 25 cents per excurse, to go down Massachusetts bay and "see the water once cut by the keel of the Mayflower." That was putting retrospective patriotism to about as severe a strain as even the most sentimental American could stand.

THERE is a type machine at the Centennial which manufactures type, polishes it and sets it in the stick. But it cannot pick out the word upon which the meaning of a sentence depends, and change it so as to drive the editor into paroxysms of despair.

THE editor of the Shelby Republican sends forth this pæen: Hurrah for the Centennial Fourth! "Wrap us up in the American flag, tuck us under the eagle, tickle our ear with a barley straw, pop goes the weasel."

THE Rochester Democrat gives currency to the incredible scandal that "statistics show that thus far in this Centennial year two boys have been born to every girl." Is nobody's character safe?

A GOOD word is an easy obligation, but not to speak ill requires only our silence, which costs nothing.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 20.

MESSRS. EDITORS—It is hot enough this morning to gladden the heart of a Salamander, for of course they have hearts, and very warm ones at that. All the thermometers have become crazy—it may be some are more sensitive than others or are hung up in warmer places. The most meek and humble little Farenheit softy murmurs 92, while its more pretentious brother loudly proclaims 110. "How is that for high?" As Queen Victoria telegraphed to "Old Buck," when the Atlantic cable was first laid, "Hot enough."

In the Senate yesterday Mr. Anthony offered a resolution which was concurred in directing the Committee on the Library to enquire into the expediency and practicability of obtaining from the grandson of the Count Rochambean certain papers left him by his grandfather. The gentleman is now a visitor at the Centennial and the papers he offers are said to be very interesting and throw much light on our revolutionary history. Mr. Allison submitted a report from the Committee on Conference on the Army Appropriation Bill, and then the Senate proceeded with the impeachment trial, Mr. Jno. S. Evans being under examination throughout the day. In the House, matters concerning the Pacific Railroad Bill and quite a lively discussion of the Hamburg affair occupied the day. The manager on the part of the Senate and House yesterday reconciled the difference between the two houses and agreed on the Sundry Civil and Army Appropriation Bills. The Army Appropriation Bill as it now stands leaves the force of the army and the pay as before, but provides for a Commission, one of whom shall be the Secretary of War and two army officers, whose duty it shall be to investigate and report at the next session relative to the organization of the army. The impeachment of one Secretary is not concluded before another is commenced. It is understood that Mr. Glover, Chairman of the Committee on the Real Estate Pool, has been directed by the Committee to recommend that Secretary Robeson be impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors for having transferred to the firm of Jay Cooke & Co., moneys belonging to the United States. It is also stated that Mr. Glover has the individual opinion of a majority of the House Judiciary Committee that the offences charged on Mr. Robeson are unpardonable. If an impeachment is resolved on the Senate will insist on trying it at once and will refuse to adjourn if it prolongs the session until September or October.

General Sheridan has received a dispatch dated Fort Laramie, July 18th, stating that a courier who had just arrived from Red Cloud reports that on the 15th instant, Col. Merritt intercepted 800 Cheyenes and Sioux who had left the Agency to join the hostile bands against Genl's Crook and Terry and drove them back to the Agency.

Every day numbers of visitors from the rural districts of distant States may be seen on the streets, either coming from or going to the Centennial. The White House was full of them yesterday morning, by far the large majority of them ladies, all eager to shake hands with the President. Two of them anxious to make upon him the most favorable impression they could, made of the East room a temporary boudoir and proceeded to go through the intricacies of the toilet, powder box and all. The large mirrors afforded efficient service and the marble mantle holding their hair pins to their entire satisfaction. Their evolutions were witnessed by a deeply interested group "en pantaloon" who were standing in the outer hall. Having finished to their satisfaction they composedly fell into line.

SAXON.

BOLD WORDS TO MORMONS.—Referring to the attempt made on the night of July 19th, in Salt Lake City, by four of Brigham Young's Danites or Destroying Angels to asssassinate J. C. Young, a reporter of the Tribune, who has recanted from Mormonism, that paper, July 21st says: "Our reporter, it is well known, is exceedingly obnoxious to the priesthood, and the origin of this attempted assassination can be fixed beyond a doubt. The page of Mormon blood-stained history, the ever-fresh recollection of the murder of Brassfield, the assassination of Brewer and Johnson, and the cruel and heartless butchery of Dr. J. King Robinson, together with the knowledge of the fact that their murderers still walk the streets unpunished, is proof positive that the Mormon Church is the same blood-thirsty institution it was when one hundred and twenty helpless emigrants were heartlessly butchered in that wilderness called the Mountain Meadows. The same minions of that priesthood at whose door these crimes are justly laid, still prowl about our streets at night, and many of them as officers of the peace. The assassins who made this attack on our reporter are known to the United States officials."

A YOUNG clergyman seems to have compressed the whole body of his sermon on "deceit" in the following: "Oh, my brethern, the snowiest shirtfront may conceal an aching bosom, and the stiffest of all rounders encircle a throat that has many a bitter pill to swallow."

MISS BECKWITH, an English maiden, swam ten miles in the Thames in two hour and forty-six minutes on July 5th. She is not quite 15 years of age.

THE WHISKY FRAUDS.

Major Bluford Wilson is before the Investigating Committee telling what he knows of Grant's connection with the whisky frauds. He shows up Babcock and other scoundrels in no enviable light, and the tenor of his testimony is to implicate Grant to the extent of at least shutting his eyes to their rascality, if not in direct complicity. Neither of these last propositions are anything like fully established as yet, however. Wilson's testimony occupies several columns of the big dailies, so that we shall not attempt even a synopsis. This extract from the New York Times (Republican) conveys a good idea of the impressions produced:

The testimony of Major Bluford Wilson, ex-Solicitor of the Treasury, is painful to read. He either tells the truth or he does not. If he does, it is evident that the President allowed his personal regard for his Secretary, Babcock, to betray him into conduct exceedingly unfitting his high position. The disclosures to Babcock of the line of evidence against him when he was on trial, together with the blundering circular letter to District Attorneys, and the mode in which it became public—namely, through Babcock's counsel—show the President defending a worthless friend at the expense of the public. To regard Wilson as not telling the truth, we are compelled to believe that a public officer of high standing and honorable record has concocted an ingenious mass of falsehoods to revenge himself for a slight put upon him by his superior officer. The alternative is one that cannot be readily adopted.

QUICKSILVER EXCITEMENT.—The Belmont Courier of the 21st says: "And now a rumor comes from Spanish Belt district of the recent discovery of a quicksilver mine. The find is situated between Barcelona City and the Mariposa mine, about 7 miles southwest from Belmont. There are, however, conflicting opinions as to the ore being cinnabar, though it is claimed that cinnabar experts have made assays and obtained large yields in quicksilver. The ore is of a reddish cast, but not as high a color as usual for that class of ore. Anyway, for miles, the country has been staked off, and great excitement prevails among the inhabitants of that district."

IOWA CROPS ALMOST A TOTAL FAILURE. A dispatch from Dubuque, July 29, says: "Harvesting has commenced in this section, but many fields have been abandoned, the grain not being worth harvesting. Not one farmer in ten will raise enough for family use. This condition of the crops extends through Dubuque, Delaware and Jackson counties, and is the worst failure known in several years. The floods, chinch bug and Hessian fly have done their work completely."

TRYING ON THE NERVES.—Cloud-bursts and rumors of cloud-bursts are especially trying on the nerves of the ladies of Eureka, says the Sentinel. Most of them are ready to pack their trunks and start for the high mountains simultaneously with the first sprinkle of rain. Regularly hereafter we shall expect them to withdraw to the summit of the Diamond range just as often as the 24th of July rolls around. The 24th is a fated day in Eureka for all time.

THE Visalia Delta of last week says: "The exodus toward Arizona still goes on. Quite a number of our old settlers have left during the past week or two, and others are striking their tents and quietly dropping away. The character of the business of the county, and also the character of its population, is undergoing a rapid change.

QUITS.—Fred. H. Hart, for some time past editor of the Reese River Reveille, resigns that position and goes elsewhere to build up a fortune. The Reveille may get an abler writer, one who can do up the heavy editorials, but we'll venture to say not one who can make the paper more readable than has Hart.

SMALL POX.—This fearful disease is spreading more and more in San Francisco, and is creating much alarm. The applications for vaccination were so numerous during August 1st as to entirely exhaust the supply of virus at the Health Office.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Dr. S. A. McMeans, well and favorably known as a man and physician, throughout California and Nevada, dropped dead from heart disease while sitting in his office at Reno, Nevada, July 31.

HAVING borne all this newspaper talk, and at every stage of the game petitioned for their success, we submit to a candid world if it isn't about time for that Keeley motor and the Fryer process to appear unto us.

THE Republican State Convention meets in San Francisco, August 9th.

THE INDIAN POLICY.

Generals Sherman and Sheridan both anticipate a bloody, and perhaps a long drawn out war before the hostile Sioux are brought to terms. Yet they both say the regular army is equal to the requirements, and that no volunteers are wanted. We have a great deal of confidence in the judgment of those eminent warriors, particularly the latter, who now takes the field in person, but nevertheless, we think they are making a mistake in this last proposition. We have no doubt but what between the forces now in the field, short rations of food and ammunition and the consequent withdrawal of lukewarm allies, that ere the next snow flies, Sitting Bull's band will want to come in and be good again. This is morally certain to be the upshot of the affair, either with or without a so-called decisive battle. Probably no three men living can do more to force such a battle than Sheridan, Terry and Crook, to name them in order of rank if not in regard to peculiar fitness by experience for the work in hand. But with their limited force and knowledge of the country, it will be beyond their power to do that unless Sitting Bull chooses to give them the chance—a thing that redoubtable warrior is sure not to do unless on a field of his own selection, and backed by such overwhelming numbers as to insure him against total defeat if not to give him victory. A drawn fight, however bloody, is of less immediate consequence to him than to Sheridan, if, as would be probable, it amounted to a check to the latter. Such a fight and result this late in the season means delay and a nearly impracticable, and certainly most expensive, Winter campaign. If the prospect looks too gloomy for Mr. Indian to stand till Spring grasses enable him to take the field again, he has only to say so and the Peace Commission will see that he is taken care of. But he is not whipped or effectually terrified into submission; it is only a question of expediency, the old thing over again; that it will be no more difficult to dig up the hatchet after the frost is out of the ground next Spring than usual, when he will dig it up unless thoroughly intimidated in the meantime, for it is just as much fun for him to skirmish around with a few soldiers through the pleasant months as to be corralled and starved and hectored on a reservation. These Sioux have never been effectually whipped yet, and have less dread of a soldier, however brave or well armed so he is not too numerous, than of an Indian agent; this is materially contingent on the season, of course. Once thoroughly whipped and cowed he would become permanently docile, and love the agents for the soldiers' sake. No doubt Crook can do all he says he can do—hold his own; no doubt with Sheridan and Terry something more than that can be done, but it is altogether unlikely that their small force can effectually subdue this powerful foe this season. Three times their force, which they could have for the asking, could do it almost without a battle, simply by sheer intimidation produced by a show of substantial force. It would have cost less in dollars and cents and blood in the end to have put such a force in this fight than to putter along with such a handful even though it does win a field now and then. The Indians may be defeated for the time but that is all.

Ex-Senator Stewart on the Silver Question.

A letter from ex-Senator Stewart, arguing that the principal cause of the universal depression is a contraction of the world's stock of money, and the demonetization of silver, is published. He maintains that the United States have the right and power to stop this contraction, and says: "Let all the mints be set to work coining standard silver dollars, abrogated by mistake or by covert designed in 1873, and when coined use them to pay the debt according to contract. This alone will reduce the price of gold until the gold and silver dollar shall again be equal. This would restore silver as money, restore property to its real value, secure the development of the silver mines and save the country bankruptcy." The letter is brief and forcible and has attracted considerable attention.

IT turns out that the Chinamen and Italians were not drowned in the recent cloudburst in the Diamond range, near Eureka. One Chinaman was washed two miles and, incredible as it may seem, was only badly cut and bruised. Now that these men are brought to life, the cloudbursts are responsible for the death of but one man, and he was crushed to death by a cage in a mining shaft, so the Austin Reveille says.

MR. BORUCK, Secretary of the Republican State Central Committee, states that the Committee has invited as many as ninety speakers for campaign work throughout the State.

STANLEY HEARD FROM.

The London Telegraph, of July 25, publishes dispatches from Stanley, from whom five letters have been received. One letter bears date of July 29th, 1875, and was written at Mayhyga Island, Lake Victoria Nyanza, and describes the voyage from King Mtesa's territory, at the northern end of Lake Victoria Nyanza. In this voyage Stanley and party narrowly escaped massacre by the savages and treacherous natives of Bumbych. The natives were beaten off after a severe fight and the party arrived safely at camp after encountering heavy storms. The second letter is written from Doumoinuganda, and dated August 15th, 1875. Here the explorers established a camp on the main land, within access of the lake from Mayhyga. Stanley made an expedition across the lake to Ukkerem Island at its southern extremity, from whence he re-crossed the lake again toward the region of Ugunda. During the return voyage Stanley inflicted severe punishment upon the treacherous savages in Bumbych for the attack made upon his expedition mentioned in the first letter. The letters contain particulars of the highest geographical and ethnological value of the heretofore unknown regions lying between Lake Victoria and Lake Albert, Nyanza, which he thoroughly explored, and discovered among the high uplands a pale-faced tribe, forming a different race of people to the black-skinned denizens of the plains. Stanley is amply supplied with men and means sufficient to enable him to solve the problem still left open, by his undaunted courage and splendid gifts as a traveler.

RALSTON AND THE BANK.

The testimony in the Bulletin-Alta libel suit, now on trial in San Francisco, is very damaging to the memory of Ralston, and fully sustains the position which the Bulletin took in reference to the causes which led to the failure of the Bank of California and the simultaneous suicide of its manager. The testimony shows that the deceased financier had planned a great public robbery, by which the city of San Francisco would have been despoiled of several millions of dollars by the purchase of the Spring Valley Water Works, at a figure which would have left a margin of over four million dollars to Ralston. The Bulletin exposed and defeated the great job, and Ralston and the Bank went down. The popular mind was considerably excited at the time of Ralston's violent death, and the sympathy of the people for the dead banker—who had qualities that endeared him to the masses—was turned to an outburst of indignation against the paper that had honestly done its duty to the public. Until this testimony came out, the public were ignorant of the real facts; and it is now apparent that the proprietors of the Bulletin were right and public indignation wrong. Moreover, those journalists are entitled to credit for resting quiet under the most galling attacks, when they had it in their power to meet them with terrible effect.

THE DEMOCRATIC ELECTORAL TICKET. Following are the names of the Tilden and Hendricks candidates for Presidential Electors, nominated on the 26th ultimo by the Democratic State Convention: At large—J. Campbell Shorb, and John S. Hagar of San Francisco; Stuart M. Taylor, San Francisco; Joseph H. Budd, Stockton; Barclay Henley, Sonoma; Frank Ganahl, Los Angeles. The Alternate are—At large, Joseph Naphtaly and C. H. King of San Francisco. John Mullan, San Francisco; Theodore Bagge, Alameda; Marion Biggs, Butte; Juan B. Castro, Monterey. The Democratic Congressional candidate for this district is P. D. Wigginton, who stands in for reelection. P. Reddy, one of Inyo's delegates to the Convention, was chosen upon the committee to conduct the canvas.

HOMESTEADS.—The Secretary of the Interior has modified his order of May 17th, in regard to holders of additional homestead entries, so as to permit approval of all such as appear to be genuine and in accordance with regulations in force at their date, which were made prior to telegraphic suspension of entries in March, made by order of the Commissioner of the General Land Office. This new order does not help those who have located fraudulent claims. About one-third, and perhaps one half, of those located in this State are known to be fraudulent.

REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.—We are requested to announce that the headquarters of the Republican State Central Committee have been established at No. 318 Kearney street (rooms 1, 2, and 3) east side between Bush and Pine streets, San Francisco, where all desiring to confer upon party matters will be heartily welcomed.

THE writer of the history of San José, which was delivered on the Fourth of July, asks the Council of that city to give him $1,000 for the production.

SUSPENDED. —The following document, which explains itself, was promulgated July 31. Who says the great Republic is not progressing, when in this Centennial year one of the most important departments of Government has to be hung up for want of funds? Here is the order:

Congress having failed to provide for the expenses of the Interior Department beyond this day, no obligations will be assumed on the part of the Secretary or other officers connected with the service. Employes who wish to continue in the service are at liberty to do so, at the risk of further remuneration by the Government.

(Signed) CHAS. T. GARLAND,
Acting Secretary.

THE MISSISSIPPI.—Jas. B. Eads' undertaking to deepen the South Pass of the Mississippi river seems likely to prove a success. By the construction of submerged jetties (which work, in so rapid a stream as the Mississippi, must have been eccomplished with great difficulty) there are now nineteen feet of water running where formerly there were but eight feet, and as a consequence the Cromwell line of steamers and others plying to Havana are using it. No Government pecuniary aid can be had until the depth of twenty feet is secured.

ON the 22d ultimo, at Virginia, James Harrington shot and instantly killed John Sullivan. The Sheriff took his prisoner to Carson for safety, as the talk of lynching him was very great. This is the fifth murder he has committed, and was a murder without the slightest mitigation. Harrington has made his title clear to a rope, if ever a murdering villain did.

A DISPATCH to the Cincinnati Gazette, from Carlisle, Ky., says considerable excitement was created there on the Fourth by a party of men visiting Mrs. Metcalf, widow of Major Metcalf, and demanding that she take down an American flag which was flying over the house. They threatened to burn her house and she complied with their demands.

FOUR "Mollie Maguires" have been convicted of murder in the first degree in Pennsylvania. Let a few of these ruffians be hanged and we shall hear less frequently of murders and outrages in the coal and iron regions of that State.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The fight between Jim Keene and the bonanza kings for the control of the Savage mine is over, and the former is winner by long odds. It now transpires that Flood & O'Brien never held but 10,000 shares of the stock of this company, but the control was given to them that the mine might get the benefit of their great names and able management. It has proved rather a costly act of courtesy, as over $800,000 have been collected in assessments since that unlucky day, and what has been done with the money is a serious question. It is another specimen (to put it mild) of California street irregularities. The Newark malcontents have also won a victory over the old managers of the mine, and a new Board of Trustees has been elected. J. H. Sayre, Secretary of the Knickerbocker M. Co., has been fined $100 for refusing to exhibit the books of the company to a stockholder. Among the other features in stock circles may be noticed the fact that the Call, a chronic Bear in mining stocks, has donned a pair of horns and becomes a Bull of terrible bellowing power, while the Chronicle, a regular old Durham, has raised a set of claws and is a grizzly of the worst type. Prices are about the same as last week, but confidence in the mines, particularly California and Consolidated Virginia, has been greatly strengthened by the investigation of well known mining experts.

The political pot has commenced to simmer, at least, with a fair prospect of reaching the boiling point at no distant day. Republican and Democratic Clubs have been organized in every ward in the city, and the roll of members in all are being rapidly augmented. The forces are being organized, and the great battle will soon commence in downright earnest.

Occasionally some of our clergymen depart from the orthodox form of Sunday teaching, and treat their hearers to matters of worldly nature. Rev. I. S. Kalloch, a Baptist preacher of a rather sensational character, struck the key note of political reform in his sermon on the "Christian Politician." The burden of his discourse was that much, if not all, the corruption that exists in high places, is caused by the neglect of good people to step forward and control the caucusses. Mr. Kalloch urged the point, that politics should not be shunned by the good and left to the bad; but that, on the contrary, Christian men and women should take an active interest in the politics of the selection of the makers and administrators of the law. If the clergy and the press would impress this idea, the people of the State and nation would be the better for it. It is the secret of reform, and reform is what we need, in every branch of the government from the highest to the lowest.

Not alone in stocks and politics do great evils exist. There is in this city a ring of wheat and ship speculators, as unprincipled as ever went unhung. Two months ago, ships here and to arrive were going a begging at £2.10@£2.15 to Liverpool. At that rate wheat would have commanded readily $1 65@1 67½ per cental. The ring went quietly to work and chartered all the ships in port and immediately advanced the rate to £3.10, thus forcing wheat down to $1 50 per cental, a trifle more than the cost of raising. While we would not urge the farmers to hold back their grain for a rise, there is the best of reasons for believing that such a course, if generally followed, would cause the ring to relax, if it did not break it up for the season. One thing is certain, to obtain anything like a fair price for their produce, the farmers of California must organize and act in concert. A few cannot effect anything—it must be unanimous.

Poor Lydia F. Barnum!—victim of a base seducer, and murdered by an unprincipled "quack." On the 28th of last month, a handsome blonde lady came to the Brooklyn Hotel in this city and registered as "Mrs. H. Armstrong, Gold Hill." She was in apparent excellent health, and went about the house and on the street with a light and buoyant step, but, as the sequel proved, a sad and heavy heart. A few days ago she took sick, and in a day or two died. The investigation showed her to be Miss Lydia F. Barnum, formerly principal of the primary department of schools at Winnemucca. It was further ascertained, that she was the victim of a seducer, and she died under the operations of a quack doctor who was endeavoring to produce an abortion. Ruined! betrayed! deserted! alone in her chamber, with no friend to clasp her hand or close her eyes, her injured spirit left its too-weak earthly tenement, and winged its way to lay its double complaint before the God of justice. Will justice come to the villain who betrayed her, or the scoundrel who murdered her? Is there room in the world for the seducer of this innocent child? Is there a place outside of the hottest orthodox hell for the diabolical quack who committed the double murder? Let the curses of an outraged world rest upon them both. And let a tear of pity fall for poor Lydia F. Barnum.

BAVE U.

The Bloody Shirt.

This is certainly pleasanter reading than a great deal of stuff of an opposite tenor we see going the rounds:

"As a soldier I would sooner to-day lie in the grave of Gen. Custer and his gallant comrades alone in that distant wilderness, that when the last trumpet sounds I could rise to judgment from my post of duty, than to live in the place of the survivors of the siege of the hills.

"I knew Gen. Custer well. I have known him intimately from boyhood, and being on opposite sides during the late war, we often met and measured strength on the fields of Virginia, and I can truly say now that I never met a more enterprising, gallant or dangerous enemy during those four years of terrible war, or a more genial, wholesouled, chivalrous gentleman and friend in peace, than Major-General George A. Custer."—Gen. H. L. Rosser.

"Misconception has been the great source of distrust between the North and the South, and we wish you, gentlemen of New York and Massachusetts, to correct it. We believed we had the right to secede, and we did it, but (in the most emphatic and impressive manner) I declare to you, to-night, on the honor of a soldier and gentleman, in good faith and sincerity, that we consider the decision of war as final, and we accept the Constitution as it is."—Gen. Wade Hampton's Centennial Oration.

A BOLD LIE.—A member of the Sazarac Lying Club, now in Philadelphia viewing the Centennial Exhibition, writes to a friend in this city that the weather is so hot in Philadelphia that ice cream ignites by spontaneous combustion.—Reese River Reveille.

THE ECLIPSE MILL AND MINE.—Since our last mention thereof, there has been added to the Eclipse property extensive water-works, which are intended to protect the mill from fire as well as to supply the surrounding buildings and provide for some irrigation. It is forced into a tank extending entirely across the extreme top of the mill, sixty feet in length. This is fitted with plugs and a supply of 2-inch fire-hose, by means of which any part of the mill can be deluged. When needed to furnish an extra supply, two pumps can be brought into requisition, the power for which is supplied by the overshot wheel which runs the settlers. From the tank iron pipes lead to the dwelling houses, furnishing an abundance. The mill fixtures have been improved by the addition of machinery for the saving of free gold. An extra boiler has been put in for steaming the amalgamating pans, a thing more essentially necessary in cold weather. The works will resume operations about the middle of the month, and from the improved appearance of the ore now being extracted from the mine, the most satisfactory results are anticipated. Capt. Eudey's untiring energy certainly deserves success.

DEATH OF A STRANGER AT OLANCHA. A letter to Justice R. L. Peterson from Deputy Sheriff W. H. Walker, dated at Olancha, Inyo county, August 3, gives the following in reference to the death of a stranger at that place; "A man who gave his name as John Van Scamon died here yesterday, after lying sick five days. He was on his way from Lone Pine or vicinity to Los Angeles. We will be compelled to bury him at once, as it will be impossible to keep the body till the Coroner can arrive and hold an inquest. There are several parties here who know he died from natural causes, but if deemed best the Coroner can exhume the body for a formal inquest. He had no money or friends that any one here knows of; he would not or did not give any information as to where he came from, where he belonged or anything of the kind, further than that he had some acquaintances in Los Angeles. He would talk but little."

GONE A-FISHING.—A party from Darwin, in all about a dozen ladies and gentlemen, passed through Lone Pine on the 1st, en route for the Kern river fishing grounds, where they propose to sniff the mountain breezes, eat fish and be comfortable for a couple of weeks or so. Among these are Mr. and Mrs. Harris of the Coso News, Mrs. Robert Trigg and Mrs. Wormell. We acknowledge a kindly invite for us and ours to "pack up and come along." We regret most truly that it is out of the question for us to accept, especially as we have been trying to get to those fishing grounds for six years or more, and yet are just as far from it as ever. By the way, we would suggest to this party to keep out of the canons this cloudy weather, or Harris will have occasion to send a spread-eagle item to his paper, about what a cloud-burst did or might have done.

CONFIRMED.—The Discussers have been much worried at the extent of Connelly and Robinson's China cucumbers. The story of the vegetable attaining the length of thirteen feet was marveled at and was at once voted an unmitigated, unprovoked and withal, a very poorly got up lie. Connelly waxed wroth and plucked one of the two-thirds grown cucumbers and brought it in for our inspection. It measured exactly five feet and three inches from end to end—the survey including all the dips, spurs, and sinuosities of its tortuous length.

IN BAD HEALTH.—Sheriff Passmore last week brought J. R. Norton, under indictment for the murder of James Coyle, from the County Hospital at Lone Pine, for confinement in jail unless relieved on bonds. Norton's health was so bad it soon became a self-evident fact that he could live but a short time in the county sweat box, so he was returned to the hospital. Unless a change for the better soon takes place, Norton will not live to stand his trial in November.

TO MEET.—The Board of Supervisors meet in regular term on Monday. In the nature of the case a special meeting will have to be called in a few weeks to fix up election matters, which cannot be done until after the high official proclamations are received conveying the information that an election is to be held this year.

THE HOLT MINES.—The prospects in one of the mines Mr. J. H. Holt is operating upon on the east face of Kearsarge mountain, near the summit, are very fine. This week they opened an eighteen inch ledge assaying from $500 to $600 per ton. Kearsarge mountain will bloom yet.

FOR CERRO GORDO.—Dr. Stoeckly, dentist, will leave on a professional visit to Cerro Gordo, where he will remain a week or so, after which he goes to Darwin for a lengthy stay. No dentist we have ever had here gives better satisfaction than Dr. Stoeckly.

THE KEARSARGE.—Quite an exciting strike was made in the Kearsarge mine this week. This was the opening of a body of ore assaying no less than $2,000 per ton. Our only information as to its extent is that it is "a large body." The mill has not yet started up on a regular run, but will in a very short time.

FOR A CHANGE.—Mrs. M. A. Barry and her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Phillippay, of Lone Pine, passed through here a day or two since, en route for a month's visit to the scenes of their pioneer experience at Aurora and vicinity.

Vote of Thanks.

BISHOP CREEK, August 1.

MESSRS. EDITORS—At the last regular meeting of Oasis Lodge I. O. of G. T., the following vote of thanks was unanimously passed by the lodge:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Lodge be extended to Bro. Frank Almon for his able and eloquent oration delivered on the 4th of July last, also to Mrs. F. Q. McDougall for an original poem, and to Miss Annie White and Col. Alexander for their worthy efforts as readers in the same occasion.

S. W. BLAISDELL,
Assistant Secretary.

BUMMERS—WHISKY—INDIANS.—THE INDEPENDENT has preached so many little sermons on this compound subject, and its precepts have availed so little that it really seems like a waste of breath and a useless expenditure of Faber's best to touch the subject again in any form. However, while Independence and vicinity claims a good social standing, would it not be a matter of judicious policy on the part of the community in general, in justice to the tax payer—not the little army that contribute their all to the Internal revenue, but those who stand the heavy assessments to swell the pockets of wise men—to try to hunt out, or rather run to cover the low, white scum, who, for coin's sake, manage to reduce poor Lo nearly to their own level? This scum is perfectly visible to all eyes save those of the law; yet the law is not purblind. That portion of the scum to be particularly dis-cussed now is a class of old bums who work at odd jobs till possessed of the requisite capital—about one dollar; this will secure the stock-in-trade consisting of a bottle of strong, forty-yard whisky; this is reduced one-half with water and the two bottles of moderately strong liquor are sold to the Indians for three dollars by this middle man speculator. This fellow is a genius in his way, for he is exceedingly wary and during the day he is apparently as harmless as he is filthy, but under the shadows of night he flits here and there, dodging corners, and by careful appointment meeting on every hand the gentle savage, who is at once robbed of his gentleness and his money; and so long as the latter holds out the nights are made hideous by dozens of whisky-frenzied Indians. The effect of whisky on the individual Indian is exactly as upon the white man; all his natural cussedness is portrayed in the cutting and slashing of his companions or any defenseless object that he by chance may meet, as lately proven by numerous instances. Sunday last, and during the two or three days succeeding, all these little scenes were enacted. The middle men and the place where they got their supplies, and the Indians who received them, were every one recognized; they have been recognized time and time again previous to these particular occurrences, and one of the well known bums has kept it up all the week. Unfortunately, in no case did any of the witnesses have quite sufficient proof, such as tasting the contents of the bottles, etc., necessary to secure conviction as construed by our legal advisers. We hope ere long some test case will be made on the strength of their exhibitions, and punishment brought home through findings something as follows: First, the victim who is carved; the carver; the middle man; the gin slinger; the agent; the wholesale man; the adulterater; the distiller; the entire scale of grain men who furnished the corn and last of all the granger who planted and cultivated the grain; he is the guilty party—he should not have planted that death dealing corn, and for the atrocious, wilful crime let him be fined for misdemeanor; and vengeance is mine, saith the victim.

PROSPECTING.—There is considerable prospecting going on in the northern portion of the county, and some discoveries made which will at no distant day rank with the most valuable mines of this section. A limestone belt adjoining the foothills of the Sierras, near Long Valley (in Mono), has produced some magnificent specimens of the richest classes of silver ore—chloride, black and gray sulphurets. The Mineral King District, in the Inyos, east of Bishop Creek and adjoining Piute on the south, has a well prospected, seven-foot vein of the rich, but most rebellious, black ore corresponding with the Comanche ore at Benton. The Johnson mine and mill at Piute is about changing hands, either in whole or part, at high figures.

ARRESTS.—Three or four arrests have been made in town during the past week, for selling whisky to Indians, disturbing the peace and, in one instance, for assault with a knife. There being at the present time no committing magistrate for this township in this particular town, it is probable that the mere "drunk and disorderlies" will be informally turned loose—a few nights in the county sweat box being deemed sufficient punishment anyhow. The other cases can and probably will be heard by the County Court, in the absence of a Justice. It should, on Monday next, be among the first duties of the session of the Board of Supervisors to supply an additional Justice.

STAGE MATTERS.—Wm. Hamilton, of Los Angeles, one of the most experienced and popular stage men on the coast, has purchased the Lone Pine and Bakersfield stage line of Mr. Buckley. Mr. Hamilton is expected up here in a few days to overhaul things, and probably make some important changes in matters of connection and routes.

DEPARTED.—Mr. and Mrs. L. McClure took the stage south on Thursday for San Francisco, where they will perhaps locate permanently; if not, they go thence to Canada.

HUNG HIMSELF.—The other day a $60-horse belonging to Mrs. Lewis, residing near here, became entangled in his picket rope, thereby cutting short his career of living usefulness.

THAT MEETING.—Don't forget that school meeting at the Court House tonight.

OUR MONO LETTER.

BENTON, Cal., August 2.

MESSRS. EDITORS—This season is probably the most unhealthy one we have experienced since the settlement of Benton—that is, from a sanitary view of the matter. The disease so prevalent is the bowel-complaint, in more or less severe form; it attacks the helpless, innocent babe as well as the robust man, in the full strength of vigorous manhood. Dr. Griswold is kept constantly going from one patient to another, but thus far he has, by his professional skill, almost entirely subjected the complaint and restored his patients to health.

SAD BEREAVEMENT.

The infant daughter of our townsman James O. Wheeler expired on the morning of the 27th ultimo. The grief of the parents over this sad visitation of providence was unspeakable; but it may be a consolation for them to know that the sympathy of the entire community was with them in their sad bereavement. The funeral services were conducted by a fellow-townsman, who generally upon such occasions performs the sad office of clergyman. The suggestion of your correspondent in his last communication, in regard to the desirability of vocal music, was acted upon, and upon this occasion we had appropriate hymns, excellently rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Rowlin.

A NEW SECRET SOCIETY

Is to be organized next week, under the euphonious title of the "Poor Man's Club." It is to be beneficial in its workings. Moderate iniatory fees will be demanded, and regular monthly dues; then, if a member becomes sick or disabled, the society furnishes medical attendance, besides a weekly stipend of money sufficient to cover all the incidental expenses of the poor unfortunate. It is now under the able management of a bashful individual who has already sent to the State of Pennsylvania for a charter. An institution of this kind will certainly prove a success in Benton.

DANCE.

The dance on Tuesday evening last proved, as was predicted, a complete success, financially as well as socially. It was a novelty in Benton, and as such is known and remembered as the "Water Tank's Ball." It was not gotten up by Good Templars, but by the moderates, such as Judge Decker, Will Adams and others, who might faint to see their names published. It was tried merely as an experiment, to see if a social would prove a success if carried on upon strictly temperance principles. Judge Decker kindly gave the use of Partzwick Hall to the Terpsichorean advocates, and not a drop of liquor was sold within the limits of Partzwick. It is the intention of the aforesaid parties to shortly give another dance, on the same principle.

COMBINATION TROUPE.

The posters of the Benjamin Combination troupe have arrived, and are already posted upon and in every conspicuous place. They announce a performance here on next Saturday and Sunday evenings.

MINING.

Mr. Hoyt has been appointed Superintendent of the Indian Queen Company, and arrived in town yesterday. This company suspended milling operations about two months ago, but will resume work next week, under very favorable circumstances. Their operations will probably give employment to all the idle men now around our town. The Comanche company is still doing well; the value of its bullion shipments amounts to $1,200 daily, with a certainty of increasing that average during this month.

SUMMARY.

Considerable sickness; extremely warm weather; swarms of industrious and persistent flies; scarcity of news and iced lemonade; business good for warm weather; non-arrival of visitors, and general languor. Such at the present time is Benton.

MINION.

PACKER WANTED.—Al. Robinson advertises in this issue for a good packer for a mule train; not juries or ballot boxes or anything of that sort.

IN THE FIELD.—Fred. Mengel has lately taken the field with his splendid new Pitts thresher, and proposes to do as good work, as cheap and as fast as any of the improved separators.

INDIAN MANAGEMENT. — The lower House of Congress some time ago passed a bill transferring the Indian Bureau from the Interior to the War Department. This bill hangs fire in the Senate. Should that body refuse to take action on it before the adjournment, the country will be very apt to hold the Republican majority responsible for the corruption of the Indian ring in the future.

TRANSIENT newspapers can be sent by mail at the rate of cent for three ounces hereafter, instead of one cent for every ounce, as under the old act. The new postal law, however, does not reduce the postage on books, circulars, medicines, etc. For such matter the rate remains one cent per ounce.

THE New York World is in doubt whether to call Grant a second Washington or a regular Jackasson, or words to that effect.

THE official report of the Mexico Presidential election gives Lerdo de Toleda an overwhelming majority. It now remains for Congress to declare him re-elected.

THE Central Pacific Railroad Company has re-elected the old Board of officers.

The County Hospital.

LONE PINE, July 31.

MESSRS. EDITORS—"We have examined the condition of the County Hospital and find the patients well provided for, but a marked want of cleanliness—would suggest that such an important item, so necessary to the welfare of the patients, be more carefully guarded by our Supervisors." [See report of Grand Jury, July 15th.]

After reading this most elaborate report, one would suppose that the floor of the hospital was only dirty and nothing more. From a personal inspection of the premises with many others, we find the following facts: Between the 5th and 8th of July, a Mexican known as Luigo was shot. The bullet entered his mouth, tearing away a portion of his tongue, and a part of the teeth of the lower jaw and losing itself in the deep tissues of the neck. On or about the 10th the Justice (Peterson) went to the hospital to take the deposition of the wounded man in regard to the shooting. He found him lying in a low ceiled room, containing three or four beds, and asleep. The doctor assured him (the Justice) that the wound was not dangerous and that it was best not to awaken the patient. The Justice notified the doctor that in case the patient grew worse to immediately notify him of the fact in order that his ante-mortem deposition might be taken. On Sunday the man was buried. No notification was given, and perhaps through the negligence of the County Physician, the perpetrator of a murder will escape punishment. A prominent citizen of this place, who saw the bed in which Luigo died, is willing to swear that there was numberless maggots in the place where the patient had been lying. From personal observations the writer is satisfied that at the time of the Justice's visit the patient had not been washed, and to use the language of a reverend Catholic Priest, who went to administer the last rites of the Church, "of all the filthy, disgusting and foul smelling places that had ever been his duty to enter, this County Hospital of Inyo was the worst."

Now, Messrs. Editors, the tax payers of Inyo are taxed enough to warrant a reasonable amount of kindness towards our indigent sick, and if through the parsimony of some and the petty spite of another of our Board of Supervisors this outrage on decency and humanity is to be allowed in the future, we want to know "what we are going to do about it."

TAX PAYER.

The New Silver Bill.

Following is the full text of the bill which has been passed by both Houses of Congress, was signed by the President on the 20th, and thus becomes the law of the land:

SECTION 1. That the Secretary of the Treasury, under such limits and regulations as will best secure the just and fair distribution of the same through the country, may issue silver coin at any time in the Treasury to an amount not exceeding $10,000,000, in exchange for a like amount in legal tender notes, and the notes so received in exchange shall be kept as a special fund, separate and apart from all other money in the Treasury, and be issued only upon the retirement and destruction of a like sum of fractional currency, which when substituted, shall be destroyed and held as a part of the Sinking Fund, as provided in the Act approved April 17, 1876.

SEC. 2. A trade dollar shall not hereafter be a legal tender, and the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to limit from time to time the coinage thereof to such an amount as he may deem sufficient to meet the export demand for the same.

SEC. 3. In addition to the amount of subsidiary silver coin authorized by law to be issued in the redemption of fractional currency, it shall be lawful to manufacture at the silver Mints, and to issue through the Treasury at its several offices, such coin, to an amount that, including the amount of subsidiary silver coin and of fractional currency outstanding, shall in the aggregate not exceed $50,000,000.

SEC. 4. Silver bullion issued for the purpose of this Act shall be purchased from time to time, at the Treasury, with any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated; but no purchase of bullion shall be made under this resolution when the market rate shall be such as will not admit of the coinage provided without loss to the Treasury and any gain or seignorage arising from this coinage shall be accounted for and paid into the Treasury as provided under existing laws relative to subsidiary coinage; provided that the amount at any one time invested in such silver bullion, exclusive of such resulting coin, shall not exceed $200,000.

REMEDY FOR LOCKJAW.—Dr. John Imbray reports most favorably on the effects of the simultaneous use of opium and chloral hydrate in cases of tetanus, both idiopathic and trumatic. In the tropics this disease exhibits a frequency and virulence unknown in more temperate regions, and with the sole exception of hydrophobia, there is perhaps none so unsatisfactory as regards treatment, or so painful to witness (and usually so fatal) as tetanus. Hence the doctor's mode of treatment promises to be of great value. Three cases were treated successfully by the new method—namely, keeping the patients almost continually under the combined effects of chloral hydrate and opium tincture until all tendency to the recurrence of tetanic spasms had disappeared. As it generally happens that all power of digestion is lost in this disease, it becomes necessary to administer both the medicine and food by means of an enema. The power of these combined drugs in controlling and repressing the tetanic spasms is indeed very remarkable, and Dr. Nicholls, who had the patients under his charge, likens it to the action of a heavy weight on a spring, which, if the pressure yielded, the spring began to rise, but being continually maintained, the morbid nervous phenomena gradually gave way, and the disease was finally vanquished. It is suggested that the administration of these two medicaments by enema in hydrophobic cases might probably be followed by favorable results.—Scientific American.

Affairs at Eureka.

A press dispatch from Eureka, Nevada, July 30, gives the following items of interest:

The stage driver who arrived from Ward City this evening reports that John Donohue, who killed D. L. Lighton on the evening of the 28th, and was taken from the stage yesterday morning while en route for Hamilton jail by a party of fifteen men, was found this morning hanging to a tree about one mile this side of Ward, beside the stage road. The driver reports that Donohue presented a horrid spectacle. The feet of the unfortunate victim dangled on the ground, while the face was black and horribly swollen—a ghastly sight to the passengers. A Coroner's jury was summoned and an inquest was to be held to-day.

The Eureka Consolidated Furnace starts up on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The Richmond Company, whose stock is held in England, has been making strenuous efforts to obtain the co-operation of mine-owners here and in other camps to unite in an effort to reduce miners' wages from $4 to $3 per day. So far as can be ascertained they have not been successful in accomplishing anything, the American companies promptly refusing to co-operate.

The weather is very hot and cloudy.

CUSTER'S DOMESTIC LIFE AT THE FORT. The following, which appeared in the Dakota correspondence of the Minneapolis Tribune a year or two ago, is made interesting by recent events: "This Spring General Custer's golden curls have been sacrificed; he looks younger, more soldierly, although less poetical, and the coming reconnoissance will prove if he is shorn out of strength. At present General Custer is thirty-four years old—a slender, fair-haired, blue-eyed man. His wife, a charming lady, who has shared his marches and victories since early in the war, is as gentle and cultivated and yet as soldierly as a woman can be, and her home is one green spot, if there be no others, in the frontier life of the officers of the Seventh. A few evenings since, the writer, entering Gen. Custer's library, saw a new phase in this man's character. He sat on a low stool by his desk with a spelling book in his hand; before him were two little girls, one white and the other colored, the children of his servants, whom he was affording the necessities denied by the lack of schools. Apologizing for my interruption, I was withdrawing, when he cried out in his hearty way, 'Come in, come in and see my school.' I entered the room, and in a pleasant, familiar way he went on with his teaching, having his scholars spell the words alternately, tell their meaning, and construct sentences. I have found that this has been his custom for several years, and all these little people of his household know of written words is what he has taught them."

COLUMBUS MINING DISTRICT.—There is perhaps no mining district outside of the Comstock lode that is now attracting more attention than the Columbus district, in Esmeralda county, Nevada. Contrary to the general idea, this is comparatively an old mining camp, at an early day worked in a small way by the Mexicans. It seems, however, that the greatest developments have yet to be made. The Northern Belle now pays her fourteenth consecutive dividend, and apparently has but just entered upon a productive career; and the prospects are fair for the list of dividend paying mines to be increased. Among the most promising mines in the district are the Vanderbilt and Victor, contiguous to the Northern Belle, with what appears the same great fissure as the latter mine, and with ore of an equally high grade. The great peculiarity of this lode, and perhaps a peculiarity to its advantage, is the soft, chloride character of the ore, which enables it to be easily milled. In spite of the depression in stock, developments are reported as going rapidly forward.—Stock Report.

A few more years and the beautiful pine forests that surround Lake Tahoe and cover the eastern slope of the Sierras from Truckee to Silver King will have been laid low by the woodman's ax. The splendid mountain lake, the wonder and admiration of the world, will then look like a frog-pond in the desert, and the grand old peaks of the Sierras will lift up their bald heads to the sky the very emblems of desolation. The snow that falls on them during the Winter months will dissolve almost instantly when exposed to the hot rays of the Summer sun, and pass off in a body to flood the valley below. This done Carson valley will be left a barren waste for the remainder of the Summer and Fall, and the mills along from Empire to Dayton be run by the drainage from Sutro's tunnel. Perhaps we are putting it in too strong a light; but, undoubtedly, the wood business promises to inflict upon our farming interests irreparable injury.

THE PRESIDENT WILL CLEAR HIMSELF.—Under the above head a Chicago dispatch of the 29th ultimo says: "An Evening Journal Washington special says the disclosures made by ex-Solicitor Wilson regarding the whisky ring prosecution and the President's attitude during their progress is the talk of the day, and it is conceded by all that the President will not remain silent under this evidence. There is a disposition on the part of the Republicans to censure Wilson severely for his course in dragging the President into this matter just at this juncture. The President says he has it in his power to completely clear himself from the charges made by Wilson, and that he will certainly do so. Wilson says he has the approval of Bristow in making the disclosures, and that the treatment he received from the President justifies him in trying to show that the President was not in sympathy with the prosecution after Babcock became involved.

"IT was simply an informal affair," wrote the editor, of a little strawberry party at a neighbor's house. "It was simply an infernal affair," read the compositor, and that editor will never get any more invitations from that quarter.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.

MESSRS. EDITORS—A convention of 120 delegates, representing 24 wheat-growing counties, over $3,000,000 in capital and some 200,000 tons of wheat, has been in session in this city during the past week, devising ways and means to circumvent the grain and ship ring, and to secure, if possible, a fair price for their products. It is said that the ring has nearly 100 ships chartered, 47 of them being already in port, and 38 to arrive within a fortnight. The price paid has been £3 5s.@£3 10s., on the expectation that wheat would advance in Liverpool. At present prices and the rate of tonnage, the ring cannot afford to pay over $1 30@$1 35, and as the farmers assert it costs $1 50 to raise and market wheat, they are not likely to sell at a less figure than cost. By the middle of August the lay days of many of the ships will begin to expire, and the members of the ring will be required to pay demurrage at the rate of $100 per day. This will bring matters to a crisis, and force the ring to either fill their ships at a speculative price or release them to the farmers, who will load them and take their own chances. Altogether the prospects of the wheat cornerers are decidedly blue, and the Grangers' convention has aided considerably this consummation.

Notwithstanding that farmers will have to rely upon English houses for their advances on cargoes of grain, there seems to be plenty of money in the city. Some of the banks show a very strong position. The Hibernia Saving Bank, for instance, in its statement published Saturday, shows a reserve fund of $1,063,932 32. The number of depositors in the Saving Banks of the city for the semi-annual term ending June 30, was 72,500, and the total amount of deposits was $57,677,200. The interest paid to depositors has ranged at 8 to 9 per cent, aggregating for the six months $2,435,300 in dividends.

For the past four months travel has been against California. Now it has turned the other way, and the State has once more begun to fill up. The Centennial has no doubt induced many persons to go East who otherwise would not have done so; but these will return. From this time forward immigration will flow in upon us. The fearful cold of last Winter and the scorching heat and numerous cases of sunstroke this Summer, together with the frightful and devastating hurricanes of the last two months, are arguments in favor of emigration to California that our Eastern friends can hardly resist.

The stock market steadily appreciated last week, closing with a very healthy tone. Confidence in the securities is being gradually restored, and although no great rise is looked for until later in the season, still a marked appreciation is not among the impossibilities. Investigations into mining management is the order of the day. The public seems to be determined to hold mining officers to a more strict account. The latest investigation is of the Europa M. Co.'s affairs, and it is understood that Gould & Curry are to be looked into.

The Board of Supervisors have passed an ordinance which contemplates increasing the license system, in order to raise about a quarter of a million more money annually. This Board was elected on a pledge of reform and economy, but, as usual, the louder and more emphatic the pledges before election, the more corruption and extravagance after the candidates have got in.

The Eleventh Annual Exhibition of the Mechanics Institute will open on the 8th of August. The Pavilion has been handsomely decorated, and presents quite an attractive appearance. President Halladie and the Board of Managers are expediting matters to secure an unparalleled success. The exhibitors will crowd the Pavilion to its fullest capacity. A week ago the applications for space exceeded by 10,000 feet the room at the disposal of the managers.

The work of preparing this city for an immense conflagration is going rapidly forward. Four-story frame buildings are being erected within two blocks of Kearney street, and on both sides of Market street, within what is marked as the fire limits. Any day you may expect to hear that San Francisco is in ashes. There is not another city on the continent governed so loosely as this, in every respect. A reform party is greatly needed.

L. E. Jacobs, a spiritual fraud, came to this city some time ago, and by representing himself as one of the Eddys, humbugged L. B. Hopkins out of a small sum of money. Hopkins had him arrested, and the court has just sentenced him to the county jail for one year. It is understood the people of Stockton want him for lynching purposes, as he seduced a young girl in that vicinity. The fellow is said to have an "evil eye." It is rumored that Bro. Peck, another fraud, is wanted.

Adam Miller, of Sherman Island, is out $300 on a matrimonial speculation, and has no wife to show for it. It seems he fell in love with the wife of H. A. Boon, of Walker's Landing, and after bestowing upon her a quantity of brass jewelry, finally proposed to give her husband $300 down if he would leave for the East, and $350 more on his arrival in New York. The proposal was accepted, the $300 paid, and Boon left—an understanding existing between him and his wife that she was to follow him quietly, joining him at Sacramento. Meantime the lady came down to the city, and Miller followed her, pressing her for illicit favors at every opportunity. She finally called on the clerk of the hotel where she was stopping for protection, when the would-be seducer, finding his game blocked, telegraphed to Sacramento and had Boone arrested for obtaining money on false pretenses; and he now languishes in jail awaiting trial. A warrant is out for Miller, for an attempt to commit a rape, and he will be arrested on his first appearance.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Democrats held a grand ratification meeting at Union Hall, Wednesday night. Speeches were made by Gov. Irwin, Shorb, Ryland, Taylor and others....The Daily Democratic Union is the name of a new daily, the first number of which is to appear to-morrow morning....The "Twenty-onesters," a band of youths who intend to cast their maiden votes for the Democratic nominees, has been organized....The Republican State Committee has already invited ninety-six speakers to participate in the canvas, besides distinguished persons from the East. The Democrats are equally lively. Things are in a fair way of getting a little warm before the ides of November.

LOCAL SUMMARY.

The funded debt of the city and county of San Francisco, July 1, 1876, was $4,322,500. The floating debt is $55,896. The total amount of taxes during the fiscal year was $3,550,320 40. ....Owing to the discontinuance of the fast mail trains between New York and Chicago, it now takes seven days for mail matter to come through from ocean to ocean....A wretch, calling himself John Lawless, is in jail, with bail fixed at $10,000. for the revolting crime of having induced young girls of the ages of fourteen and fifteen years to leave home and become inmates of Jennie Savage's house of prostitution, at Portland. He has made some half dozen shipments, the price paid being from $30 to $50 per girl...Three hundred cases of small pox have been reported to date. A special pest house for Chinese patients has been established.... The public evening schools, designed for working children, open to-night.... The Mayor and other public functionaries are on a tour of water inspection. They have just examined Lake Tahoe, and it is believed that eventally it will be the source of our water supply. It will cost $17,000,000 to bring Tahoe water to the city....The Chinese merchants have chartered a ship, and will send 400 of the poorest Chinamen home at $10 per head....Several match manufacturers, convicted of violating the revenue laws, received their sentences on Thursday. The tax on matches being about 500 per cent, a great temptation to fraud is presented....The City of San Francisco arrived on Wednesday from Sydney, bringing the New South Wales half of the Australian Rifle team for the contest at Philadelphia.... Little May, eight years old, is in jail, with a dozen charges of theft against her....An institution calling itself the "Universal and Anti-Coolie Bank" has been incorporated, with a capital of $1,000,000, in $10 shares....The billiard tournament, between the four greatest players in the world, Sexton, Daly, Garnier and Slosson, commences this evening....The steamer Alaska, from Hong Kong, brought only 78 Chinese—a very satisfactory falling off in this class of immigration. Her usual complement has been from 1,000 to 1,400. ....The Coroner's report for the fiscal year ending June 31, 1876, shows 127 deaths from natural causes, 74 accidental deaths, 20 murders, 4 cases of manslaughter, 2 of justifiable homicide, 56 suicides and 38 cases of suicide. Of the suicides, 18 were by gun-shot wounds and 36 by poison....The Mayor has vetoed the hydro-carbolized brick pavement ordinance....The chariot street-bus enterprise has been abandoned for the present....Last year the real estate roll, in round numbers, represented $170,000,000. This year it will show an increase of $10,000,000, besides the increase in personal property....$1,000 fine and two years and ten months in the penitentiary, was the sentence of Harry D. Wakefield, the bigamist....Fourteen miles of street sewers were constructed during the past year, making 88½ miles in good working order....Among the prisoners in the dock, Monday morning, was a boy eleven years old, who stole his mother's bottle of whisky and got drunk....The California trotting stallion, Sam Purdy, recently won a race at Cleveland, making his mile in 2:23½. ....The thirty-third degree, the highest known in Masonry, was, on Thursday, conferred upon Dr. John W. Browne, Wm. T. Reynolds, Chas. F. Brown and Geo. J. Hobs....John Potter found a basket with a baby in it on his door-step, and as the eye of Mrs. Potter now wears a terrible threatening look, John is unhappy....There were fifty fires during the month of July....The total number of deaths during the week was 126; 79 males, 47 females; 104 white, 22 copper colored....Brokers are paying 89¼@89½ for legal tenders, and selling at 90@90½. Canned Meats Poisoned with Mercury.

[From the Scientific American.]

In our paper of May 27 we published the statement of Prof. Falke, of Manhatten College in this city, to the effect that, on opening a can of cooked corned beef, bearing the stamp of a Chicago company, which he had recently purchased at a respectable grocery here, he noticed some globules of metallic mercury; and on examination of the meat, found additional quantities of the poison in the form of albuminate of mercury. Prof. Falke mentioned the matter before the Academy of Sciences, and the can was examined by the members. After some discussion the conclusion reached was that the presence of the mercury was accidental, caused doubtless by the accidental breaking of a thermometer bulb in testing the heat of the can, etc.

This statement having met the eye of one of our esteemed correspondents at the West, he wrote to us, stating that it was common at some establishments in his vicinity to seal the cans with mercurial solder, and that possibly that had something to do with the case in question. We deemed it hardly possible that intelligent parties engaged in supplying the public with canned food would venture to make use of so dangerous a material in such a connection; we therefore wrote to our correspondent, asking him to send us a specimen of the solder in question. He did so, and we caused the solder to be analyzed at the laboratory of Prof. A. R. Leeds, Stevens Institute. We were surprised at the result, showing as it did, that the solder contains a large quantity of mercury, which is at once liberated under the heat of the soldering iron, and is readily condensed in metallic form. This appears to be a sufficient explanation of the presence of free mercury and of albuminate of mercury in Prof. Falke's case; and warrants the conclusion that the many cases of sickness from partaking of canned meats, reported in the papers, may be due to the same cause.

Mercury is mixed with the solder in order, doubtless, to make it run and seal more easily; but it is a dangerous and subtle poison, and its employment in connection with canned foods should be prohibited under severe penalties. We hope our legislators will promptly move in the matter. In the meantime, we caution our readers to avoid the use of foods that are put up in mercury-soldered cans.

Any chemist or intelligent person, by a few simple tests, can quickly determine the presence of mercury in the solder. In the specimen sent to us, the mercury is revealed by simply heating a bit of the solder in a small test tube over a lamp flame. The metal condenses on the interior of the tube, and a bright globule may soon be collected.

KERN COUNTY ITEMS.—We excerpt the following Kern county news items from the Gazette of the 5th instant:

We learn that the Railroad Company are building a large two-story hotel at the new town of Mojave, on the other side of the mountains, after the style of the El Capitan Hotel at Merced, but with one story less. The cost will be about $12,000. E. Cohen, of Havilah, will be the agent of Wells, Fargo & Co. at the new town. The Cerro Gordo Freighting Comyany will make their headquarters here, and it is expected that the Railroad Company will have machine shops and a round house at this place.

Work on the railroad is progressing rapidly. Four trains run daily from Sumner to the front with material, carrying about 40 car loads. On Thursday last the track had been laid 22 miles beyond Mojave, the work progressing at the rate of two miles and a half per day. They are laying track also from the Los Angeles side, and without the intervention of some unforseen contingency, the gap will be closed by the 1st of September, and there will be a continuous line of rail to Los Angeles.

A BOSTON paper remarks that the effects of culture are always prominent in language. This is noticeable when a Boston woman jams her finger. She says, "Aow." Coarse, ill bred people say "Ouch." It is trifles that reveal the delicacy of a human soul.

THE SILVER BILL.—It appears to be conceded that if the Silver Bill can ever be brought to a vote it will pass the House, and there is little doubt that the Senate will concur. Those having it in charge are confident that it will be voted on in a few days. Many who have hitherto opposed the bill indicate their intention of voting for it, justifying themselves on the ground that they cannot withstand the sentiment in their Committee. A new element, however, has entered into the question—the rise in silver. Kelley and others who are now prominent supporters of the bill opposed a similar bill when silver was more valuable than the greenback. It is conceded, therefore, for consistency that these classes of men will possibly abandon this bill if silver continues to increase in value.

RAILROAD MEETINGS.—The Santa Monica Outlook says the people all along the probable route of the Los Angeles and Independence Railroad, in its extension to San Bernardino, are beginning to manifest a lively interest in this most important thoroughfare. San Bernardino and Riverside took the iniative and held an enthusiastic meeting a short time since; while the papers of that town have kept up a continued advocacy of the project. Anaheim is also fully alive to the importance of the road, and the Gazette has been very earnest in presenting to its readers the many advantages. A meeting is to be held in that town at an early day. The people of the rich agricultural district of Los Nietos have already "shown their hand."

THE VAIL.—Miss Jeanette Bennett, the sole daughter and youngest child of James Gordon Bennett, the elder, has begun the novitiate which is to end in her taking the vail at the Convent of the Sacred Heart in New York. She is the richest American woman that ever took these vows, is said to be very handsome and accomplished, and her decision gives her family much distress. But such has long been the conscientious purpose of her life, and the vulgar and unfeeling world is not to see the skeleton in her closet. For a lady of her situation in life, it seems like a sublime sacrifice; yet we do not know that she will not be all the happier.

THE CHINESE.—The final action on the Chinese question for this session of Congress was taken last week, as foreshadowed July 22, by the Senate passing the House bill appropriating $7,500 for the expenses of the joint Oongressional investigation on the Pacific Coast during recess. The National Republican Committee have printed 25,000 copies of Sargent's speech on the evils of Chinese immigration, which it has distributed throughout the country as a campaign document. Sargent will himself distribute 5,000 of them. He has already sent out 5,000 previously printed at his own expense.

THE Senate has passed the bill for the completion of the Washington monument. It appropriates $100,000 to continue the work after the Washington Society shall transfer to the United States all its rights and privileges, and provides that the work shall be under the direction of the President of the United States, the Surpervising Architect of the Treasury and the Architect of the Capitol.

WE have received the July number of the Musical Review, a monthly published by Sherman & Hyde, San Francisco. GRASSHOPPERS have overrun the western portion of Minnesota, and many farmers have lost everything in the shape of crops. The damage done by them is, however, so far, not widespread, and the crops outside the section alluded to have not suffered.

THE principals in the Hamburg massacre have been accused by a Coroner's Jury of murder in the first degree. This is one redeeming quality in the history of the assassination. Now let these men be arrested, indicted by the Grand Jury and convicted of murder.

EX-QUEEN ISABELLA arrived in San Sebastian, July 29.

INFANTRY AND CAVALRY.

Referring to press criticisms on the military management of the present Indian war, a military friend of ours calls our attention to this extract from the New York Tribune, of July 18: "At the battle on the Rosebud River, June 17, the infantry were the first soldiers other than the scouts, to confront the Sioux in actual line of battle at an important point. General Crook estimates the value of one mounted Sioux as equal to two cavalrymen. He values one soldier of infantry as equal to six mounted Sioux; hence his desire for more infantry before attacking the Sioux." From th s it is deduced that one soldier of the infantry is equal to twelve cavalrymen; a rather large estimate, we should conclude, but by no means as far out of the way as some might conclude.

It is a noticeable fact that of all the tenders of volunteer regiments recently made to fight these Sioux, nearly every one was to be cavalry. Now, the fact is, even well drilled or veteran cavalry are of but little effective force in a pitched battle. There are but few riders at such times who can spare a hand from the management of his horse with which to use his arms, and on this account the regiment is generally dismounted and required to fight on foot; but the mount is yet to be taken care of, which requires one-fourth say of the command for that purpose alone. In the matter of comparative expense we believe it is estimated that five infantrymen can be maintained in the field for the same outlay as one cavalryman. In battle very nearly the entire regiment of the former can be put into line, whereas, three-fourths is a large estimate for the latter. Hence it is, with these and kindred facts in view, Sherman and Sheridan opposed the acceptance of these volunteer regiments. They also opposed the acceptance of the volunteer infantry regiments for reasons to be stated, which also apply with even more force to cavalry. That is, that green regiments are of little or no effective force, as compared to well drilled ones. It takes months to bring such up to a promising state of efficiency, and yet they are costly all the same. But the same men are considered equal to veterans, almost from the first day's drill, provided they are each put along side a trained soldier. This can be done only by filling up the old regiments, none of which are more than half or two-thirds up to the maximum. This is what the Generals wanted done, claiming that that plan would give all the force needed to subdue those Sioux. Perhaps they were right in their conclusions, but appearances now indicate the contrary. As to the relative merits of regulars and volunteers in Indian fighting, the popular belief differs very materially from the conclusions above mentioned. Frontiersmen believe that a raw company or regiment of frontiersmen can do more execution after Indians, than the same number of regulars, hampered as they generally are by Scott's or other military tactics—good enough and just what is required when opposed to similar, but not for the thing for desultory, hide-and-seek Indian fights. All that though depends on the scale of the fight. When large forces are opposed to each other on a field of battle, the best organized is bound to be the most effective, even against skulking Indians, and in view of that fact, as well as in consideration of the expense, the powers that be have chosen to go ahead with the organized troops they have, rather than call for volunteers. Nevertheless, the indications are that volunteers will have to be accepted yet. Otherwise the war will last as long as the Indians choose to keep it up.

THE INDIAN BUREAU.—The action of the Indian Committee, July 28, in rejecting a portion of the report condemning the administration of Indian affairs is likely to result in the adoption of a report which will approve the administration of that Bureau, and will declare that there is nothing whatever in the evidence to warrant any charge against that officer. In this report there is little doubt that a majority of the items will be concurred in.

TILDEN DICTATING.—It is reported on good authority that Tilden has informed Cox and other prominent Democratic Congressmen that he will decline the nomination, and leave the party without a Presidential candidate, in case the House passes any bill to repeal any existing law which provides for the resumption of specie payments.

BOUTWELL'S majority report to Congress on the Mississippi election is that the Legislature was fraudulently elected; that Ames' resignation was illegally effected, and that the State is under the control of organized and armed politicians.

THE latest intelligence from Crook and Terry indicates that the troops are becoming much disheartened. Considerable anxiety is felt as to Terry's command.

THOSE LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE.

Tilden and Hendricks have finally promulgated their letters of acceptance. That of the former is quite lengthy. It is devoted principally to the financial status, past and present, of the country, the burden being "reform." In this he makes some pretty strong points, but on the whole we are not disposed to think it a very telling effort, or one that is likely to materially improve his Presidentlal chances. Its egotisms, manifest almost in every paragraph, detracts much from the good effect the sentiments conveyed otherwise might induce. Mr. Tilden evidently thinks Mr. Tilden is a man far above the common run. Except in the general indorsement of the St. Louis platform, he has not a word to say in relation to the school question. Mr. Hendricks is more outspoken throughout, particularly on that question. He says "public schools must not be under any sectarian or partisan rule, neither must there be any division or *mis*appropriation of the funds for their support." We have italicised one syllable in this quotation, just to show where he leaves this all important matter—where he finds it. Hendricks' views on the financial question, which appear to accord strictly with those of Mr. Tilden, are, we believe, sound and commendable. We should have mentioned in the proper connection that Mr. Tilden declares unequivocally for but a single Presidential term; also, than he scorns repudiation in every form. He seems to think that the time for resumption should be left to the judgment of the President alone; at least that no particular time should by law be fixed for resumption. This is also Hendricks' opinion. We give place to the following extract, not that it has any political significance, but as suggestive and interesting:

The best resource is a reduction of the expenses of Government below its income, for that imposes no new charge on the people. If, however, the waste which has conducted us to a period of falling revenues obliges us to supplement the results of economies and retrenchments by some resort to loans, we should not hesitate. The Government ought not to speculate on its own dishonor in order fo save interest on its broken promises which it still compels private dealers to accept at a fictitious value, for the highest national honor is not only right, but would prove profitable. Of the public debt, $985,000,000 bear interest at 6 per cent in gold, and $712,000,000 at 5 per cent in gold. The average interest is 5.58 per cent. A financial policy which should secure the highest credit wisely availed of ought gradually to obtain a reduction of one per cent interest on most of the loans. A saving of one per cent, on an average, would be $177,000,000 a year in gold. That saving regularly invested at 4½ per cent would in less than thirty-eight years extinguish the principal of the whole $1,700,000,000 of funded debt, which might be paid by this saving alone, and without any cost to the people. Even when preparation shall have been matured, the exact date would have to be chosen with reference to the existing state of trade and credit in our own country, and the course of foreign commerce and the condition of exchange with other nations.

PACIFIC COAST MEASURES IN LIMBO. The continued engrossment of time by the impeachment trial, and the loss of two days by adjournment on account of Senator Caperton's death and funeral, have debarred any attempt to pass the Hawaiian Treaty bill, or any other Pacific Coast measure, in the Senate, for the week ending July 29. Such causes have also rendered it next to impossible to secure action in the House on any business outside of the daily regular order. The probabilities now are that the Senate decided the impeachment case by August 2, and that both Houses reconciled their difference on the Appropriation bills in time for adjournment at the close of the week. The enactment of Page's bill granting the right of way for a wagon road from Chinese Camp to Yosemite is found to be unnecessary, as the general law is deemed sufficient for that purpose.

TELEGRAPH FOR INYO.—The People's Telegraph Company has filed its articles of incorporation. The corporation is formed for the purpose of constructing and operating a line of telegraph between Mojave Station and Darwin, in the State of California. The Directors are Patrick Reddy, of Independence; George H. Willard, J. G. Riley, S. E. Holcomb and H. H. Pierson, of San Francisco. The capital stock has been fixed at $50,000; divided into 10,000 shares at $5 each.

THE Cheyennes have requested a suspension of hostile operations against the Sioux for two moons. It is not likely the request will be formally complied with, though the "hostile operations" are not apt to be very ferocious in the interim, and after that they can't be, for snow.

THE Hon. Lucius Quintius Curtius Lamar, of Mississippi, will stump California in the interest of the Democrats. If there is any virtue in names the Hon. Lucius, etcetera, ought to accomplish something.

THE death of the Sultan may occur at any moment, the moment he loses his breath.

The Impeachment Verdict.

Washington dates of August 1 give the following reports: At noon the Senate began to vote upon the articles of impeachment against Wm. W. Belknap, late Secretary of War. Upon the first article of impeachment, thirty-five Senators voted "guilty" and twenty-five "not guilty," for want of jurisdiction. Those who voted guilty were Bayard, Booth, Cameron of Pennsylvania, Cockerill, Cooper, Davis, Dawes, Dennis, Edmunds, Gordon, Hamilton, Harvey, Hitchcock, Kelly, Key, Kernan, McCreery, McDonald, Merrimen, Mitchell, Morrill, Norwood, Oglesby, Randolph, Ransom, Robinson, Sargent, Saulsbury, Sherman, Stephenson, Thurman, Wadleigh, Wallace, Whyte and Withers.

Those voting in the negative were Anthony, Boutwell, Bruce, Comeron of Wisconsin, Allison, Christianey, Conkling, Conover, Cragin, Dorsey, Eaton, Ferry, Frelinghugsen, Hamlin, Howe, Ingalls, Jones of Nevada, Logan, McMillan, Paddock, Patterson, Spencer, West, Windom and Wright. Jones of Florida declined to vote, on the ground that the Senate had no jurisdiction.

The presiding officer announced that two-thirds had not voted guilty, and therefore respondent was acquitted of the charge in the first article.

On the second article 36 Senators voted guilty and 25 not guilty.

Marcy, who did not answer on the first roll call, voted guilty upon the second article.

Those Senators who voted not guilty repeated their reason for doing so, for want of jurisdiction.

Upon the third and fourth articles the vote stood as above, 36 voting guilty and 25 not guilty.

Before roll call on the fifth article was finished, Morton, who had been detained on account of a severe fall, came in and voted guilty, making the vote on that article 37 guilty and 35 not guilty.

Two-thirds of the Senate not having voted in favor of sustaining the articles of impeachment, it was ordered that judgment of acquittal be entered, and the Senate sitting as a Court of Impeachment adjourned sine die.

AN inquiry into the illegal sale of liquor to Indians at Indian Wells in the Mojave desert, has served to exhibit at once the loose way in which the business of the Interior Department has been conducted of late years, and the rapacity of the railroad corporations which for so long a period controlled this State. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company, an offshoot of the Central Pacific, has established a temporary terminus at the point mentioned, and rum shops being opened on the public lands adjoining, the attention of the Indian Agent was called to the matter. He investigated the subject, and discovered that the land where the railroad depot was built was on a section which many years ago had been transferred to the State of California for school purposes, while the Secretary of the Interior had subsequently set the same land apart as an Indian reservation. Thus the Interior Department claimed land belonging to the State of California and designated it as an Indian reservation, while the railroad company, without any claim whatever to the ground, has seized and occupied it.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 12,.....1876.

THE RESULT OF A SENSIBLE MOVE. Last week a dilapidated, demoralized looking specimen of male humanity, hailing from Missouri some time during the last century and rejoicing in the name of Chas. S. Shaw, arrived in town from some of the mining camps southward. As he wended his weary way through the streets any casual observer might have remarked that he was dry; yes, terrible dry—not that creeks and wells were far between, but he was unaccustomed to water as a beverage, and didn't want to take chances. He found our people generous, and became not slow in availing himself of divers tricks that are vain; he was at once a '49er, an Inyo pioneer who had killed "Injins" by the score, an ex-Confederate, an unterrified Democrat, and to the last man he struck he was a red-hot Republican. His success made him bold, and the spirit of enterprise so stimulated him that he branched into speculation, without recommendation or anything but check. His little venture was to make the heart of the red man glad, and reap 75 per cent profit on the whisky he furnished them. He didn't mean anything by it, for he had an aged mother who used to support him and even spank him in his innocence, but the zealous officers thought not of these things—they shadowed and arrested him, just because an Indian happened accidentally to bury in the sage brush a marked bottle of chain lightning whisky, which he accidentally happened to have in his possession previous to that occurrence. The aforesaid whisky was traced to the saloon which furnished it, but an important point was lost in the failure to obtain any clue to the Granger who planted the corn from which this abomination was distilled; however, our hero of chequered politics was locked up, and on Wednesday last arraigned before Justice Snelling, on a charge of selling whisky to Indians. He plead his own case and manfully struggled to upset the long train of circumstantial evidence, but to no purpose—Providence had evidently spotted him as an example to erring humanity, and he was ordered to appear for sentence the next day. The sentence of a fine of $100, or in lieu thereof, in case the prisoner felt inclined to exercise his muscle at the rate of $1 per day, to receive credit for each day's labor, making 50 days work, was passed upon Agent Shaw. The now penitent man promised to work faithfully, and at the expiration of the time make himself exceeding scarce in Inyo.

A PARTY of gay Lotharios, accompanied by their sublunary angels, on Wednesday night last halted in front of THE INDEPENDENT office long enough to instrumentally discourse a double-quick hymn or two, a la serenade. It was cheering to the perspiring pressman, and likewise refreshing to the busy "comps."—it was refreshing enough, only the linked sweetness was not sufficiently long drawn out. The party were bound for Mr. Shepherd's place, on George's Creek, where they arrived in good order—rather late, but they made it up in fun, frolic and dancing until the rather early hours softly came upon them, and the morning star stole the twinkle of eyes that grew weary and heavy laden,

And sighed for a pillow to sleep, to dream, to rest,
When some shouted, Oh! pull down your vest.

BENTON MATTERS.—Our Benton correspondent unavoidably failed to connect this week, but has kept us posted in respect to items of interest. He says: The Diana mill is running right along... Some capitalists are in town, with a view of negotiating for the entire Diana property....The Indian Queen mill will resume work next week....Another death occurred last week, a young child of Mr. Moody.... The Benjamin troupe played to a full house, but by some mismanagement, attributed to Benjamin's doorkeeper, a drunken man was admitted who grossly insulted the ladies and every one present. The second night they had a slim audience, and the entertainment wound up by the violinist getting drunk, after which little episode a general "busting up" of the company followed. They are pronounced to be unqualified bilks.

FREIGHTS.—Omai Mairs returned this week from Caliente, where he has been in the interest of his freighting business. He reports the weather down in that country hotter than seven little furnaces, or words to that effect. The freight on one of the teams which arrived Wednesday amounted to 21,000 pounds, an unusual load for one team. Owens Valley freights will probably be shipped to the new railroad station of Mojave in the course of three weeks; this will lessen the time of transit four days—quite an item for our merchants.

J. G. KELLOGG & J. HEWSTON, Jr., are of the old house of Kellogg, Hewston & Co., established in 1853, and are now associated in the Pacific Refinery and Bullion Exchange, 416 Montgomery street, San Francisco, which is their old place of business. Having a large capital at command and unusual facilities, they can make quick payments in coin or returns in bars. The reputation of the old house will commend the new association to the public. See their advertisement, in another column.

BRING THEM BACK.—Quite a number of the public school and Sunday school library books both, have been taken out by children and others and have not been returned. The most, probably all, of these were taken by proper authority, but were not returned because both schools have been suspended for some time, having no one to look after the library business of either. However that may be, it is to be hoped everyone having any of these books will at once take the trouble to hunt them up and return them to their proper places.

THE TARANTULA.—A short time since Willie Chalfant and Norman Conklin, two little boys of this place, started and got out several numbers of a 6x12 amateur journal called the Juvenile Weekly. Since then Norman has become the sole proprietor of the press and material, and has established his office in his father's woodshed, whence, this morning he presents us with the first number of a new weekly paper of the same size, bearing the suggestive title of the Tarantula. The Tarantula is really quite a creditable little institution, and we know everybody will lend such young pluck and laudable ambition a helping hand; though, we think it will hardly be a loan, since the paper will have sufficient local interest to give fair value for the 25 cents monthly received. Go it, Norman; we will stick by a 10-year old editor till he gets to running a big opposition, when, as a matter of course, we will have to kick up a muss a la Chronicle vs. "the Bulletin-Call concern."

THE GREAT REGISTER.—County Clerk Daugherty has a book in press with the above title. It is a sort of a historical romance concerning Inyo citizens of the male persuasion. For instance, it tells where Smith and Jones and all the rest were born, where he is supposed to live, what he does to earn his grub, how old he is (approximately), how and when he swore to these facts, etc., etc. It reflects some credit on the author, but chiefly by reason of the number of subjects treated upon—1,220 in all. It requires a great deal of labor and no end of patience to print such a work, and as that devolves upon the limited INDEPENDENT force, the aforesaid INDEPENDENT gets no more attention this week than circumstances imperatively demand. Mr. Daugherty's book will be out some time next week—that is, a few advance copies, one for each voting precinct.

DIDN'T KNOW HER NAME.—A funny incident occurred in the County Clerk's office the other day. Mr. Daugherty, the clerk, is a modest young man, but he managed to muster up courage sufficient to propound the usual questions to an applicant for a marriage license, if his intended Mariar had a divorce and what her name was. This was an enigma—he couldn't remember of ever having heard the name and the lady herself was brought to the rescue. A friend of the prospective groom was called in afterward to bear testimony in regard to the lady's parents—"Oh! yes," he replied to a question, "the lady has a mother, but I am not so certain whether she ever had a father or not."

A NEW JUSTICE.—R. B. Snelling, Esq., was by the Board of Supervisors appointed Justice of the Peace for this Township, this week. The office has been practically vacant since Justice Schalten removed to the Kearsarge mines. Malefactors may now rest assured they will get their just deserts—more than simply locking up over night.

DIED.—The youngest son of Richard Hessian died at the family residence near Big Pine Wednesday, August 9. He was a bright, active lad of little over six Summers, and had made friends of all who knew him—among whom, his death has caused a bereavement almost equal to that of the parents.

FOR THE EAST.—P. L. James and and family of Camp Independence were to depart this morning for Illinois, where they propose to make their home for the future. The two young sons of Capt. MacGowan, of the Post, were to accompany them, en route to Connecticutt, where they go to attend school.

AN impromptu dance came off last at the Headquarters—quite a number participating.

A SPELL.—Our exchanges, as well as most every body else, are afflicted with a bad spell on the name of the new railroad station called Mojave—almost as bad as upon the name of Tehachepi, in the same region, for which there are something less than nine million different ways of sticking up the word, which is but a mess of pi anyhow. However, in regard to the former, most of them get the Anglicised spell, Mohave, a good deal as it is pronounced. English accent would make this stand out boldly as Mo-have, while the same rule applied to the word's proper orthography would make it Mo-jaive. Some spells are funny, particularly when you take a word that is correctly rendered two ways, but where only one is generally used in print. Take whisky (the simple word, we mean) for instance, and require its popular spelling; the whole list of old bums, four-fifths of the professional men and about the same proportion of modern politicians would—if not allowed to go to their pockets for a labeled vial—spell it whis*key*; in fact, they would spell it somewhat as they drink it—with e's. But as the subject is dangerous to handle, further remarks are forborne, merely intimating that ours is bier.

RAILROAD VS. TILDEN ET AL.—A dispatch from New York to San Francisco, dated July 12, says:

In the suit of the St. Louis, Alton & Terre Haute Railroad against Samuel J. Tilden and others, the order heretofore granted, extending the time for defendants to answer to the first Monday in October, has been changed to the first Monday in August.

WE understand that there is a strong probability that a daily line of stages will be run between Caliente and Lone Pine. A report of this kind was current in the mountains last week, and every one was pleased with the prospect.—Kern Co. Gazette.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Pursuant to last adjournment of the regular meeting the Board of Supervisors convened on Monday, August 7. Present—D. B. Curtis, Chas. Meysan and J. L. Garrettson, President.

Treasurer Isaacs' semi-annual report, ending July 31, was taken up for examination and taken under consideration.

Dr. Gelcich presenting himself the same day in the matter of a claim against the county for the care of an Indian girl, R. M. Briggs appearing as counsel. Dr. Gelcich was sworn and deposed as follows, the examination being conducted by Supervisor Meysan:

Q—Have you an order from the citizens authorizing you to take care of the Indian girl?

A—No; they said I needed no written order.

Q—Who were the persons?

A—John Alexander, Mr. Ball and others.

Q—Did they come to your house to get you?

A—They came to my house, called me out and asked me to go.

Q—Where did you find the girl?

A—Near Ball's house, under a tree.

Q—How many dangerous wounds had the girl?

A—Three, dangerous.

Q—Were any of the wounds dressed when you found her?

A—Two were dressed partially.

Q—What other wound had she that was dangerous?

A—In the abdomen, and also one in the chest, but not necessarily fatal.

Q—Of dangerous wounds only one was dressed, you say?

A—Yes, two in the chest were partially dressed.

Q—Do you know whether there were dangerous wounds in the abdomen that needed dressing?

A—Yes, it needed dressing; it was a ghastly wound.

Q—Did you know if the girl was in the care of the County Physician?

A—They said you had given him an order to go and see her.

Q—You knew, then, that the County Physician had charge of the girl?

A—I understood he was there in the morning, but had left her for eight or nine hours.

Q—Did you know who dressed the wounds?

A—Parties told me the County Physician had.

Q—Do you know when the County Physician attended her?

A—I am not certain when; I cannot state.

Q—What time did you call?

A—Near sunset.

Q—When you took charge of her did you know that I had been to see her myself?

A—I was informed so by some parties.

Q—The first time you saw her she was under a tree near Ball's house?

A—Yes.

Q—Do you know who took her there?

A—I do not.

Q—Who took her to your hospital?

A—A half dozen persons helped to convey her—I do not remember.

AUGUST 8.

The following bills were considered and allowed: Ex-Road Overseer F. G. Powers of Bishop Creek Road District, a revised bill from last session, $427 60; T. F. A. Connelly, for materials furnished and labor paid for in repairing Bishop Creek bridges and roads—there and elsewhere in the county, as per vouchers rendered, $1,260 40; Oliver Cromwell, for material and labor in Bishop Creek Road District, $165 70.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid out of the Road Fund: Oliver Cromwell, labor and material in Bishop Creek Road District, $19 35; T. F. A. Connelly, for 32 days salary as Road Overseer, $160.

At 1:30 P. M. the Board considered the bill of County Physician Colleau, in relation to the charge made in his bill for the burial of two deceased patients. Dr. Colleau, after being duly sworn, said that the total time that the two patients were under his charge before death aggregated 26 days, and also that he never admitted any one to the hospital without an order from some duly authorized person. The matter was taken under consideration until August 10, when the quarterly bill for the sum of $1,080 was presented by Dr. Colleau. Mr. Curtis moved that the bill be allowed, less $32 charged for the burial of two deceased patients. Mr. Meysan moved an amendment that the bill be allowed less $16. The amendment was lost and previous question carried; bill allowed at $1,028.

Other bills as follows were allowed from the 8th to the 10th: H. M. Isaacs, salary for three months, $250; W. B. Daugherty, Auditor, Clerk, etc., $369 15; P. W. Bennett, District Attorney, $50; V. G. Thompson, boarding prisoners, $120 50; James Wales, Deputy Sheriff and Constable, bill for the sum of $670 10 was reduced in the amount of $318 70, said amount being partially included in Sheriff Passmore's bill, and partly for improper county charges, and a warrant for $351 40 was ordered.

Bill of Dr. Gelcich, amounting to $245, for the care of patients received into the County Hospital from Panamint, said bill having been passed over at the May term, came up for consideration, and was rejected by a full vote.

Bill of Dr. Gelcich, amounting to $100 for the care of a wounded Indian girl, was advocated by the Doctor's counsel, R. M. Briggs, who also presented and had the Clerk file, the affidavits of John Alexander and A. J. Chellius, in relation to the matter. After consideration, said bill was rejected by a majority vote.

Bill of J. F. Dillon, Assessor, for the sum of $1,708, was reduced in the sum of $75, and warrant ordered for $1,633.

Bill of R. M. Briggs, for services as special counsel before the Board of Equalization in the matter of the assessment of the Union Con. M. Co., for the sum of $60, allowed.

Bill of James Ritchie, for $18, for watching Lone Pine bridge during high water, allowed.

Bill of Dr. Lessene, for holding autopsy on body of James Dowd, for $50, rejected by majority vote. Bill of same for attendance as a witness on County Court in case of People vs. J. R. Norton, amounting to $75, rejected by full vote.

Bill of John Kullepple, amounting to $460, for labor done on road near Lone Pine bridge, laid over until next regular meeting. Y. C. Benites, as interpreter in Justice Keppler's court, allowed $3; Wm. Walker, burying deceased pauper, $25; A. G. Boley, wagon hire for Hospital Committe, $20—the said bill having been reduced $2; Dr. Blair, medicines for prisoners, $23; J. S. Rothschild, sundries for Sheriff's office, $32 64; Harris & Rhine, sundries, including bedding for jurors on order of Judge Reed; Harris & Rhine, chandelier for Court House, and insurance of building for the year ending July 27, 1877, at a valuation of $15,000, in the London and Liverpool and Globe Insurance Co., $679 25; J. W. Symmes, County Superintendent, $107 45. Bill of Chalfant & Childs, for $116 75, reduced $24 75, on account of Road Overseer's publication of road law and inadvertently charged to the county instead of said Overseer; balance allowed. Thomas Passmore, Jailer's salary, $270; V. G. Thompson, stage fare of prisoners, $23.

In the matter of David Love, patient in the County Hospital, petition for an allowance of $5 for clothing, it was ordered that the County Physician furnish the necessary articles and present bill.

P. P. Dow was appointed Constable for Second Township.

Petition from Cerro Gordo, asking for certain streets and walks to be declared public highways, etc., referred to Road Overseer Connelly.

Rules were established as prayed for by the Lookout Toll Road Company.

In the matter of the condition of the County Hospital, the Board called for the testimony of Rev. Father V. Aguilar. His disposition seemed rather guarded in respect to the evident existence of two contending parties, and to vindicate his own honor. In substance it was as follows:

I cannot recollect the date I went to the hospital; it was the same morning the Mexican, Lago, died; also the day previous; I did not say anything of much account; I said there ought to be some one to keep the flies off him, and I told some Mexicans that they ought to send some one there to attend to him—to give water and to brush off the flies; I did not know at the time he was there as a patient on the county; I did not not use the language as published in THE INDEPENDENT. I said instead that I never saw a county hospital in a building of such poor description, and I attributed the smell as coming from the dying man and not from the uncleanliness of the building.

Petition from citizens of Lone Pine asking to be granted the right of way over land of Wm. Jenkins; laid over.

A recommendation from the Grand Jury, concerning the use of Court House for social gatherings, was rejected.

Application for change of location of toll house of the Darwin & Owens Lake Toll House, was granted. Ayes, Garrettson and Curtis; no, Meysan.

Application of Thomas Passmore, Sheriff, for leave of absence from the State for 60 days, granted.

Bill of Thomas Passmore for $632 30 received; reduced $37 60, and $594 70 allowed. Bill of R. L. Peterson, J. P., for $27 50 reduced $12 75 and allowed. Same, bill for $7 10 reduced $2 50 and balance allowed.

Report of County Treasurer accepted and approved so far as relates to receipts and expenditures since January 31, 1876, and that portion ordered published in THE INYO INDEPENDENT one week. The following communication accompanied Treasurer Isaac's report:

OFFICE COUNTY TREASURER,
Independence, Inyo Co., Cal.
August 10, 1876.

To the Hon. Board of Supervisors: SIRS—I beg to inform you that my memorandum of outstanding warrants on the General Fund July 31, 1875, the error in omitting one column of warrants made the indebtedness of that fund appear some $2,500 or less than it should have been. The error will be easily perceived in examining the Recapitulation attached to my statements of January 31 and July 31, 1875.

Very Respectfully,
HENRY M. ISAACS,
County Treasurer.

Following is the portion of the report entered upon the records as unapproved by the Board:

The Board determined to convene in special meeting on the 19th instant, when the amount of repairs required upon the Court House will be considered. At the same time the Board will hear the matter of the application of M. Safford for a toll road in the Coso Mountains near Darwin.

Supervisor Curtis offered the following, which was adopted by a full vote:

WHEREAS, It appears by the report of the Grand Jury of July 15 that the condition of the County Hospital shows a want of cleanliness:

Therefore, The Board of Supervisors, with a view to comply with their suggestions visited the hospital on the 9th instant, and examined the whole of the buildings thoroughly; and found everything as neat and comfortable as could be expected. The patients also state that they were well satisfied with their situation, and with their food and treatment.

Bills allowed—Garrettson, $66 80; Curtis, $42; Meysan, $42 40. For buggy hire, $16.

Adjourned.

Bottom Facts.

[From the S. F. Stock Report.]

The military authorities at Washington are earnestly seeking for the bottom facts of the Indian trouble and with striking results. Thus far it has been ascertained that the Sioux and their allies have received aid and comfort from post traders and other persons doing business on the frontier. That rifles of superior pattern, ammunition and general supplies, have been regularly furnished by whites more or less connected with the Government. These facts were known to the people and the authorities, in a general way, months ago, but the information now in possession of General Sherman and his colleagues is so specific as to call forth special orders. We gather from a telegram that the Secretary of War, General Sherman and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs have recently held a consultation with the President on the Indian question, and have reached a conclusion which, if put into practice, will make Sitting Bull and his warriors surrender, and will make another Indian war impossible. They propose to prevent the Indians now in the field from procuring any further supplies of ammunition. Stores at the Agencies and trading posts will be confiscated, and a severe penalty will be inflicted on any one who furnishes the hostile or Agency Indians with powder and ball. Through friendly Indians the authorities have recently discovered attempts to supply Sitting Bull with ammunition, and parties in communication with the Indians have been caught purchasing large quantities; but it is believed that all attempts have been prevented, and that the return of Indians from Sitting Bull's camp to the Agencies has not been for peace, but for fresh supplies of powder. An attempt will be made to deprive all the Agency Indians of arms, and prevent them from procuring more. The Indians will be given no rations until they surrender their arms.

The essence of the foregoing statement is briefly this: The corruption which had Belknap for its fountain head, radiated through the post traders on the frontier and the Sioux the powder which they have made so palpable during the last few weeks. Further investigation into this Indian trading business is in order.

THE scene of woe at Fort Lincoln when the news of the Custer massacre was received must have been heart-rending. The day before the news came Mrs. Custer had received from the General a buoyant letter, inclosing Terry's highly complimentary note, in which Custer was given command of the movement. This put her and her friends in high spirits. Next day came the crushing intelligence of the slaughter. At the Fort were twenty-four widows—seven of officers and seventeen of enlisted men. One lady, Mrs. Calhoun, sister of Gen. Custer, lost her husband, three brothers and a nephew.

WILSON TO BE CROSS-EXAMINED.—Mr. Plaisted, Republican member of the Whisky-trials Examining Committee, claims that a rigid cross-examination, to which he will subject Wilson, will show that President Grant was entirely in sympathy with the general purposes of the Whisky Ring prosecutions. District Attorney Bangs will be examined, and Storrs will be called on to explain how he got the circular letter.

COL. VALENTINE BAKER, whose extraordinary escapade with a young woman in a railroad train overturned even the stolidity of the British people, has been released, and voluntarily expatriates himself. He is going to command among the Turks, and, as his reputation as an engineer stands very high in the English army, he will very probably be appointed chief of staff, and be known in future as Pasha this, that or the other, with a bewildering addendum of tails symbolical of his rank.

RAILROAD FROM CARSON TO GENOA. Surveyors will start out from Carson next Monday to survey a route for the extension of the Virginia & Truckee Railroad to this place. Three or four months ago we heard of this contemplated enterprise from afar off, but now it comes direct from headquarters—the Carson Tribune itself. That paper intimates that it will be a grand thing for Genoa and Carson Valley, but seems to doubt about the effect on Carson City.—Genoa News, Aug. 4.

WE have neglected heretofore to notice THE INYO INDEPENDENT had donned a "rip smashin'" new dress, which evidences great prosperity.—Fresno Expositor, August 9.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The Senate met at 12 M., and after reading the journal immediately resolved itself into a Court of Impeachment, and Mr. Carpenter at once proceeded with his argument, in the course of which he said he would maintain that the order of the Senate holding that the articles of impeachment were sufficient in law, was erroneous; and he would show it to the satisfaction of every lawyer in the chamber. He argued that it was common all over the civilized world for Courts to reverse their decisions, and read from Exodus xxxii, 7 to 14th, to show that the Almighty, after the prayer of Moses, reversed his decision and forgave the people of Israel. Continuing his argument, Mr. Carpenter said it was fortunate for the reputation of Moses that no newspaper press existed in that day, for some of his suggestions would have been construed as disrespectful to the Almighty. This style of handling the scriptures may suit Mr. Carpenter's views of theology, but I must say that I think it seems in bad taste and sets a bad example, to say the least of it, to speak thus lightly of sacred things, before so august an assemblage as the Senate of a Christian people. He closed at 2:30 o'clock, when Mr. Lord commenced the closing argument for the prosecution, and closed at 3:50, when the Senate adjourned. One impeachment of a Secretary seems scarcely closed before another is impending. The majority report of the Committee on Naval Affairs with reference to Secretary Robeson's administration of the affairs of the Navy Department. sets forth that rings are formed to control sales made by the Navy Department, and there is reason to believe that in frequent cases they include officers and employes in the Navy Yard. The following resolution accompanies the report:

Resolved—That these legal questions, together with all the proof taken by this Committee, be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, with power to hear additional testimony and argument if they see fit; to examine and report whether such violations of the law as are referred to herein constitute and are impeachable offenses under the Constitution.

Mr. Robeson was before the Real Estate Pool Investigating Committee, yesterday, in response to an invitation sent him the day previous. He explained that the section of the Act of 1844, requiring special agents of the Navy Department to be confirmed, has been abrogated by succeeding acts, and was no longer in force when the appointment of Jay Cooke and McCulloch was made, but had been superceded by a provision in an act of 1854, which provided for the appointment of these agents upon their giving security. He also explained that the deposits made in October and November, 1873, with the house of Jay Cooke & Co. were merely in continuance of the foreign accounts of the Navy, for which he took ample security, only giving them at regular intervals with security what under ordinary circumstances would have been given without security.

A special to the New York Tribune says Gen. Merritt's column of the Fifth Cavalry leaves here to-morrow to join Gen. Crook. It consists of 10 companies of cavalry and about 100 recruits of Infantry. It will reach the main command about August 2. Any co-operation with Gen. Terry's troops will hardly be practicable before another engagement is had, as the Indians are encamped very near Gen. Crook, and are evidently preparing for a struggle. Thus we may soon expect to hear of either a glorious victory or a horrible massacre. If we whip the Indians, the first; if they whip us, the last. Several Western Senators and Delegates have urged upon the President the necessity of requesting Congress to grant authority for the acceptance of volunteers for the Indian war. He refuses, but favors recruiting regular regiments up to the war standard with six month volunteers.

The employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, who were discharged last Winter, and who have not been reinstated, by a recent Act of Congress are entitled to one month's pay. There are many such scattered over the country, and this will be good news for them.

SAXON.

A YOUNG man committed suicide at San José last Monday, because a girl "throwed off" on him. Before committing the fatal act he told a reporter that he intended to give him a good item. In all the course of our reportorial career we never met so accommodating a man as this indicates that man to have been. Not only does he commit the suicide to make an item, but posts the reporter beforehand to be on the lookout for it. If there's a heaven this San José suicide has now got a front seat therein. —Austin Reveille.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo. Cecelia Peachey, Plaintiff, vs. William Peachey, Defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court. The People of the State of California send greeting to William Peachey, Defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but within this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between said Plaintiff and said Defendant, as does more fully appear from said Plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said Plaintiff will apply to this Court for the relief prayed for in said Plaintiff's complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, this 26th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The Centennial Exhibition, under the management of the Mechanic's Institute, opened last Tuesday, with more than ordinary pomp and ceremony. The exercises were held in Wade's Opera House, in the presence of over 3,000 people, and consisted of an address by the President, Mr. A. S. Halladie; an oration by Harry Edwards of the California Theater; singing by the Aimee Opera Troupe, with a chorus of 400 High School Girls; and music by a splendid orchestra under Prof. Herold. The exhibitors at the Pavilion are moving in the goods and getting things in order as fast as possible. By the middle of the present week everything will be in shape, and the great exhibition in proper moving order. It is designed, and no doubt will surpass any previous exhibition of the Society. People from abroad are already flocking into the city, and there is every indication that the attendance will be greater than heretofore.

It is a fact much to be regretted that California cuts a poor figure at the National Centennial. Nevada is well represented in specimens of rich ore, and in her mighty quartz mills. Oregon not only shows a magnificent display of her products, but sends with them a representative Web-foot, who scatters pamphlets, etc., among the visitors, advertising the wonderful resources of the State. But California exhibits a modesty in her display that is not at all in consonance with her traditional reputation for complacency and self-satisfaction. It is not too late yet for her to do something to redeem herself from this ignominious position. All over the State thousands of vineyards and orchards are rich with such a variety and quality of fruit as no other section of the Union can equal, or even approach. In about two weeks the fruit and grapes will be at their best. Why should we not, even at this late day, do something to show the people of the East and the old world that this is indeed the land of promise, the new Canaan, where the orchards of the Hesperides are bright with the clusters of Eschol? The effect of such an exhibition could not fail to be beneficial to the State, not only in creating an Eastern market for our surplus fruits, but also in increasing immigration. It is understood that the leading fruit growers are willing to contribute specimens in any quantity of their choicest varieties, if the necessary funds can be raised to send them forward. The Railroad Company has offerred to send the patent refrigerator cars through for $600 each, a great reduction on previous prices. It is to be hoped that the fruit growers throughout the State will move in the matter.

The establishment of a Mining Stock Board in New York city is a movement of vast import to the Pacific Coast. We have over 2,000 live mining companies, with offices in this city, mines in greater or less stages of development scattered through several States and Territories, and stock on the market. There is not money sufficient on the coast to handle this vast interest, hence many mining enterprises are lagging that, aided by capital, would be bullion producing. The New York Mining Exchange will represent a capital of $130,000,000. The telegraph places the New York Board just as convenient to Virginia city and other districts as the San Francisco. The revolution of the earth brings 11 o'clock around three hours earlier than here. These three items, capital, telegraph and time, point to a result now scarcely conceived of; viz., that before one year rolls away the New York Board will fix the prices on mining securities of the Pacific Coast. A Bureau is being established in connection with the New York Board, where stock will be transferred and certificates delivered as expeditiously as though the sales were made in a Board in this city. One hundred and thirty million of Eastern capital behind our mines will give an impetus to this great interest scarcely to be conceived of in our wildest imagination.

An important rumor is in circulation in the city relative to the disposition of the Palace Hotel. From careful inquiry the following conclusions are arrived at: Messrs. Flood & O'Brien have an eye constantly on eligible property sites. The also have an eye, and a jealous one at that, on Mr. Sharon. As long as Sharon owns the Palace Hotel he is three stories higher than the Bonanza kings. Distinguished visitors are housed and fed and entertained beneath his roof, and the name of the princely owner is familiar all over the world. To get possession of this magnificent property, it is stated that Messrs. Flood, O'Brien & Co. have unloaded block after block of Bonanza stock, hoarding the money away until the proper time to strike arrived. The effect of this great unloading, done quietly, was to depreciate all the mining securities of the coast, in which Mr. Sharon is largely interested, rendering him "short of coin," and necessitating the transfer of some of his large interests. Hence your readers need not be surprised to hear that the Irish Kings have captured the Sharon Castle, and that a special train has been chartered to convey Mr. Leland and his colored servants back to the scenes of his numerous hotel failures in the East.

A novel system of banking, entirely new in this country, is about being established in this city. So far as we are able to judge from a brief examination of the proposed plan and from the history of similar institutions in Germany, it will prove a great success, and might be extended to advantage into all the principal towns on the coast. Its manner of operation will be similar to that of the celebrated Credit Foncier in France. The Bank commencing with a full paid-up capital in cash, loans it out upon first mortgages on approved real estate. As fast as these loans are made bonds of the value of $100 or $200 are issued to an equal amount of the loans, and sold upon the market in a similar manner to mining, bank or other stocks. The money realized from the sale of the bonds is again invested in the same manner and further bonds issued. But the most peculiar feature of the institution, and the one upon which most stress is laid, is the system of long mortgages; for instance: A. B. secures a loan of $500 upon a piece of property at 5 per cent interest; by paying 5½ per cent the extra interest is applied to the liquidation of the principal, and at the end of a certain term, say fifty years, the extra half per cent has entirely paid up the principal and the mortgage is surrendered. Now at the time the loan was effected five $100 bonds, bearing 4½ per cent interest, were issued and sold, and the money thus obtained applied in a similar manner, thus doubling and quadrupling and increasing the investments to an extent only limited by the demand for money. The extra 1 per cent difference between the two rates of interest pays the working expenses and dividends on the capital stock.

September 20th the Centennial State Educational Convention will open in this city, and continue four days. Several of the bay counties will consolidate their annual county institutes with the Convention, and participate in the exercises.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.

MESSRS. EDITORS—We are now enjoying a spell of most delightful weather and every one seems to feel its genial influence. Many members of Congress say that an adjournment will take place this week, while others think that it will be the middle of the next before they get through with the important matters now before them. The night sessions they are now holding will no doubt expedite the desired close of their labors. Most of the members of both Houses seem to feel that their personal as well as party interest, demand their presence in their respective districts now that the campaign is progressing so actively. Nearly a hundred members are now absent; some with and some without leave. Mr. Bell, of New Hampshire, applied for leave of absence and upon its being refused, owing to objections made by Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, he immediately resigned. The "dead-lock" can hardly be said to have been broken—it simply melted away. In the Senate yesterday, Mr. Windom, from the Conference Committee on the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bills, reported that the Committee had been unable to agree. In explanation of the position of the Committee Mr. Windom said this bill had been in conference since early in July, four committees having had it under consideration. The committees had labored hard, working night and day in their efforts to agree upon a report. He was satisfied that a committee could agree upon all the provisions of the bill except that relating to the compensation of Senators and Representatives and that of the President of the United States; but to agree upon these points the Senate conferees would be compelled to yield more than could reasonably be expected. Mr. Bayard, of Delaware, also a member of the Conference Committee spoke of the efforts of the committee to agree upon a report and said he had sought to iterate all the questions of difference to the high plane of the good of the country without any reference to party results. He entirely accorded with the judgment of the Senator from Minnesota in favor of the position taken by the committee. He opposed placing the reduction of salaries in an appropriation bill. If he were President of the United States and this bill came before him under the same circumstances in which the House now proposed to send it, he would veto it. Mr. Conkling, of New York, spoke to the same effect. In conclusion he moved that the Senate insist upon its amendment and agree to a new conference. In the House Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, of the Committee of Conference on the part of the House on the above bills reported that the Committee had come to no conclusion thereon. He explained that after contesting and examining paragraph after paragraph the Committee had come to an agreement on all matters but two, the salary of the President and of members of Congress. The House conferees were unwilling to yield upon either of these points and the Senate conferees were fixed in their determination. As to the question of the President's salary the Senate conferees had claimed that to reduce it in an appropriation bill after it had been vetoed by the President in a separate bill was a species of coercion. It had been therefore agreed that these questions of salaries should be referred to the two Houses. Mr. Lord, of New York, asked Mr. Randall whether there was any probability of an agreement should there be a further conference. Mr. Randall expressed his conviction that the determination of the Senate was fixed and unalterable. The responsibility was on the Senate and the Senate was willing to assume it. Mr. Morrison, of Illinois, another member of the Conference Committee said that the House conferees had pressed their views to the very extremity of right and duty. He knew of no way to compel the Senate to concur in the opinion of the House. One result of the agreement would be the discharge of 765 employees and the annual saving of $1,500,000 to the Government. The following preamble and resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, The Senate has refused to yield in the existing differences between the two Houses on the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bills, which difficulties relate to the salaries of members of Congress and the President of the U. S., and

WHEREAS, We are apprised that any further conference on the subject would be useless and can make no change in the determination of the Senate

Resolved, That the conferees on the part of the House be and are hereby instructed to recede from such points of disagreement.

So this is the conclusion of the mighty dead-lock and I suppose they will now be getting off as soon as possible.

Mr. Hallett Kilbourn having sued the Speaker and other officers of the House for having imprisoned him for his recusancy, Mr. Randall moved that counsel be employed to defend them, which was agreed to.

HISTORICAL.—We are informed by the Congressional Librarian that so far he has received from this State seven of the Fourth of July county historical sketches, in compliance with Presidential proclamation. The papers containing the one for this county, delivered at Lone Pine, are now out of print and not to be had, yet the author is receiving applications for copies thereof from various State Libraries of the Union. Although the matter has never been brought directly before them, the Board of Supervisors of this county are acting with very bad grace, to say the least of it, in not ordering the printing of the same in pamphlet form, in accordance with the idea of the Centennial Commissioners.

THE DEMOCRACY.—A meeting of prominent California Democrats was held in San Francisco on the 20th instant, for the purpose of considering the formation of a State Democratic Club, to be a permanent feature of the party. Gov. Irwin and other prominent gentlemen were present. The organization was not perfected, but it is expected that at the next meeting the officers will be elected. The matter of starting a morning newspaper of Democratic proclivities was generally discussed, and it was agreed that the party had need of an organ, and preliminary steps towards its establishment will be taken at an early day.

A LETTER from Pekin, June 28, says: "The most important point I can communicate is the still pressing drought. Fifteen times the Imperial authorities prayed for rain, and still the heavens are inexorable. The time for planting the Autumn crops, which are the chief dependence of the year, is fast passing away. An edict has appeared forbidding the slaughter of animals for three days. The hope is that the harmony between heaven and earth may thereby be re-established."

ST. NICHOLAS, for September, is at hand, and well sustains the high estate of this most excellent magazine. No old Californian but must read the "Boy Emigrants" with the most appreciative interest. THE death of Kerr leaves the House of Representatives without a presiding officer. The Clerk will call the House to order in December next, and will preside until a Speaker is chosen. THE Centennial March, for which the women of America paid Wagner $5,000, did not meet with distinguished success on its production in Europe. A demonstrative Vienna audience, the other day, hissed it vigorously, and then got up and left the hall. The hisses had no political significance, but were simply intended to express disgust at the music.

THE INDIAN WAR.

The report that Terry had had a terrific fight with Sitting Bull was a canard, nothing of the kind having occurred. At last accounts Terry and Crook had joined forces, and were in daily expectation of overhauling the Indians, and ere this, giving them an effectual cleaning out—the first part of which proposition seems to be pretty much, if not entirely, as Mr. Bull chooses. If the latter thinks there is anything in it he will select his own time and place to accommodate the renowned Generals; otherwise he retires to the impregnable fastnesses at the head of the Big Horn, where the Generals can catch him as provided in the slang adage—"in a horn." And then anomalous as it may appear, if Mr. Bull gets safely out at the little end of the Horn, that will also be the figurative outcome of Terry and Crook, and by token of the same Mr. S. B. comes out winner, or at the big end of the horn after all. There is two horns to this dilemma, the Big and Little, and between them Sitting Bull is, without doubt, first chooser. If neither remain congenial to his tastes and habits he can still choose his road to British territory, and it is supposed that is what he will do if he should conclude it ill-advised to risk a pitched battle with his pursuers. In anticipation of a move of this kind an armed steamboat is patrolling the Yellowstone to prevent them from crossing.

An interesting item of news refers to the conduct of Chief Douglass and his band of Utes who were going to join Crook, and eat up the Sioux, their mortal enemies, even without salt. Such a valorous, blood-thirsty set as these Utes made themselves to appear rarely or never took the war-path. But that was before they took the war-path, however—while receiving their guns and revolvers with which Government fixed them up for the terrible work in contemplation. After they had traveled a few days toward the enemy's country our brave allies, of whom so much was expected, began to entertain a much more humane sentiment toward their hereditary foe, and resolved they had gone far enough in that direction. They told the officer in charge, Lieut. Spencer and the few whites with him, that nothing would conduce more to their pleasure, notwithstanding their newly acquired humane feelings, than to kill scalp and literally masticate all the cowardly Sioux the Lieutenant or anybody would bring to them. "Bring on your taters," said our brave allies in effect, "if you want 'em dug!" The braves said they had fulfilled their part of the contract with the great father at Washington; they had gone forth after the enemy with big hearts, and no enemy was at hand. They were under no obligation to hunt them to the frozen sea, and therefore would go back and hunt buffalo on the Sweetwater; and most of them did go back, and left the Lieutenant there sucking his thumbs all pretty much by himself. And now we sincerely hope a marauding band of Sioux may fall foul of these treacherous Utes and scalp the last one of them. In such a possible contingency our sympathies would be unanimously with the Sioux. When the Utes were ready to desert they, in order to give full display to their innate cussedness, set the grass all afire, raising a smoke that could be seen for fifty miles, to the danger and detriment of the Lieutenant and the few who remained with him.

SIR Joseph Whitworth recently exhibited three hexagonal steel plates at the Kensington Museum, which were so accurately planed that when one was placed on the other it glided about as if floating, and when one was dropped on another a "cushion" of air deadened the metallic sound, while, when the air was squeezed out, the contact was so close that the lower plate adhered to the upper when raised. He next made a measurement of 1-200,000 of an inch, with a machine which, at a certain temperature, will measure the millionth of an inch, and lastly showed the tensile strength of steel, a specimen of which bore a strain of seventy-five tons to the square inch without breaking. For bridges, etc., only five tons to the square inch are required for safety; for guns, forty tons; for shells, fifty-five tons.

A RELIC OF THE CUSTER MASSACRE. A dispatch says hardly a day passes but brings some eloquent reminder of the terrible disaster to Custer's command. A steamboat which passed down the Missouri a short time ago, had on board a horse which was suffering from seven bullet wounds received in that last charge. It was owned by Capt. Keogh, of the Seventh Cavalry, who was killed at the battle of the Little Big Horn. The horse is named Comanche. It is presumed that after the death of the brave and handsome Keogh the animal broke through the Indian lines, as it afterwards joined Reno's command. When discovered it carried seven bullets, which were extracted, and it was determined to make an attempt to save its life. It was accordingly shipped down the river, and is now quartered at Fort Abraham Lincoln. That wounded horse is probably the only living thing that passed through that awful carnage.

AT Mystic, Connecticut, they have a Peace Society. The other day this Peace Society resolved to this effect: The Indian Bureau must not be placed in the control of the War Department; denounce the invasion of the Black Hills; charge that the Indian war was forced upon the Indians to prevent a reduction of the army; demand an investigation of the innumerable outrages by the military on the Indians; that Gen. Custer's death was a just retribution for the slaughter of friendly Indians; urge universal amnesty to ex-Confederates, and the removal of the army from the Indian country.

CONSOLIDATION OF THE MINNIETTA, MT. VIEW AND KEYSTONE MINES.—About the 1st of May last a number of San Francisco and Merced gentlemen, together with Mr. Hite, of Mariposa, bought the Minnietta, Mountain View and Keystone mines of Lookout District, Inyo county, California, for $30,000 cash. They were incorporated separately with a capital stock of 100,000 shares each. The stockholders of the three companies finding it to the interest of all parties to do so, met at the office of the Secretary, Mr. Riley, 415 California street, on Tuesday, and consolidated the two latter companies with the Minnietta Belle. The Minnietta shaft is now down to a depth of about 160 feet in fine ore, and the shaft on the Mountain View is being sunk rapidly in a body of the richest ore ever found in Inyo county, assaying, average samples $200 to $500 per ton. The Consolidated Company has between 8,000 and 10,000 tons of ore in sight in the two shafts which will pay over $100 per ton. The stock is not on the market; it being closely held by men able to develop and work the mine to a successful issue, without resorting to the usual methods of the San Francisco mining public to do this. Those interested can learn the full details of the consolidation by calling upon the Secretary at the number. We shall keep the public posted upon the future developments of this valuable property.—Stock Report, Aug. 11.

WHAT SHERIDAN WANTED.—We now learn that Gen. Sheridan applied to the Government last year to be put in charge of the Standing Rock, Red Cloud and Spotted Tail agencies. The request was not granted because, as we suppose, Belknap and his cronies were having too good a thing out of trading stores to allow an honest soldier to interfere. If Sheridan's request had been granted there would have been no sending out of guns and ammunition to Sitting Bull. Nor would they be used as they now are—as hospitals for the wounded and basis of supplies for the Sioux chief. Sheridan knew perfectly well that in the event of trouble with the Sioux these agencies would be used against the Government. Events have justified his fears. We now know that the arms which have killed our brave soldiers were sold to the Sioux by American agencies. We now know that Belknap, Delano and the Indian Ring scoundrels have been making money by organizing an Indian war. The time has come to turn out the whole crowd and give absolute control of the Indians to Sherman and Sheridan.—N. Y. Herald.

A MODERN GEORGE WASHINGTON. Yesterday morning a careless mason dropped a half brick from the second story of a building out on Jefferson street on which he was at work. Leaning over the wall and glancing downward he discovered a respectable citizen with his silk hat scrunched over his eyes and ears, rising from a recumbent posture. The mason, in tones of some apprehension, asked: "Did that brick hit any one down there?" The citizen, with great difficulty extricating himself from the glove-fitting extinguisher into which his hat had been transformed, replied with considerable wrath: "Yes, sir, it did: it hit me." "That's right," exclaimed the mason, in tones of undisguised admiration, "noble man! I would rather have wasted a thousand bricks than have had you tell me a lie about it."—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

NEW PATENTS.—Through Dewey & Co., patent agents, San Francisco, we receive the following advance list of U. S. patents, granted to Pacific coast inventors, viz: John A. Arizona News.

B. D. Duncan has in his possession sheets of mica taken by Indians from a mine in Wallapai Mountains, in this district. The sheets we saw were about 2x3 inches, but it is believed that it exists in sheets large enough to make the mine valuable. The sheets we saw were clear, hard and firm, and are probably as fine specimen's of mica as can be found anywhere.

H. Bucksbaum, Deputy Treasurer, informs us that taxes have been paid for the last quarter on $90,000 worth of silver bullion, showing an increase of several thousands dollars over last quarter.

The Mineral Park mill is pounding away and turning out lots of bullion.

Col. W. E. Morford, Indian Agent, arrived in town from the Colorado Reservation on Friday last. His business was to take evidence in the matter of the claim against the United States Government of W. F. Grounds, for 356 head of cattle and seven head of horses killed and driven off at different times. The cattle were killed by the Wallapai Indians in February, 1874. An order was issued at that time for the Wallapais to be removed from the Beale Spring's Reservation to the Colorado Reserve. Upon discovering this the Indians broke out and on the following day they commenced killing the cattle. Sherum, Levi-levi, Wallapai Charley and other chiefs and Indians appeared before Col. Morford on Tuesday and gave evidence in regard to the matter. The Indians place the number of cattle killed at from four to five hundred head. They were only sure of the horses as to number. The claim of Mr. Grounds is for the sum of $19,147 25, and was fully substantiated by the evidence.

Sherum, the Wallapai Chief, don't like Indians Agents. His impressions of that species of the genus homo are derived from his recollections of Dr. Tonner. This is what he has to say about the doctor: "Indian Agent heap no good—all time talk 'em, talk 'em—paper talk 'em—heap lie—heap pool—tell 'em Big Captain heap lie—he heap pool—steal 'em—starve 'em Wallapai—heap dam pool."

Chas. Williams, who arrived here a few days ago, tells us that Hyde & Atchley have a large band of cattle at Cottonwood Island, in the Colorado about 30 miles above Hardyville. From Piute Hill they drove the cattle straight through to Cottonwood Island. The distance to the river was about 21 miles, but there is plenty of water for men about half way. This new route was shown to them by a Piute Indian, and after they had reached the river they had some difficulty in saving the life of their guide, as the Piutes were determined to kill him. The Piutes then told the Wallapais not to show the way through on the other side of the river, but some of the white men succeeded in inducing one of them to do so. They crossed their stock about 7 miles below the Island. About nine miles this side of the river is Williams' Spring, where there is water for about 150 head of cattle, and about 7 miles further on about 400 head can be watered. The grass on the road is good and there is an abundance of it. The Indians were the cause of the loss of about 20 head by drowning, but no other loss was sustained and the cattle are fat and in fine condition. There were also at Cottonwood Island about 2,000 head of sheep, which were doing well when Mr. Williams left. When the sheepmen left Piute Hill they had a treacherous Indian for a guide, and he caused them to lose their way and before they reached the river they lost about 500 head. An old boat was brought up from Hardyville for the purpose of ferrying the stock across the river; but Mr. Williams tells us that if he can make the necessary arrangements he will establish a ferry at or a few miles below Cottonwood Island.

In Mohave county all the mills are running and paying well and the yield af silver bullion for the last quarter exceeded that of any previous quarter. There is very little ore worked in this county tnat does not yield $200 and upward per ton, and we are told that the ore worked at the Mineral Park mill during July and August averaged $400 per ton. So it is not at all likely that the discount on silver will cause a single mill in Mohave county to shut down.

Lixiviation.

[From the Denver Tribune.]

We were favored with a call yesterday from a well known Colorado metallurgist, whose experience of seven years in the treatment of Colorado ores enables him to speak "by the book." The object of his visit was to congratulate the Tribune upon the publication of the article written by Henry S. Brooks, upon the subject of lixiviation, which appeared yesterday morning.

In this connection our visitor calls attention to certain points, which may be stated as follows:

1. There are no silver ores in Colorado, except such as are smelted for lead, to which the lixiviation process is not applicable.

2. It is especially applicable to Boulder county silver ores, and the bulk of those produced in Clear Creek.

3. In roasting it is essential to keep the heat moderate, and the flame as free as possible from unconsumed carbon, so as not to reduce the chloride of silver after it is formed.

4. The lixiviation, so far as Colorado ores are concerned, ought to be with hyposulphite of soda, and the precipitant should be sulphide of sodium, which will allow of the continuous use of the same solution for lixiviation. This insures cheapness and greater perfection than can be obtained by the use of lime.

5. Where care is used in adding sulphide of sodium to the solution, so that only enough is added to precipitate the silver, the solution is not deteriorated in the least, and may be used upon a fresh batch of ore without any expense or delay. It is cheaper to make sulphide of sodium than to purchase hyposulphite.

In Colorado the Stetefeldt furnace has proved a failure. No furnace in this State has given so complete sucisfaction, either in point of cheapness or success in chloridation, as the Buckner cylinder.

The Minnietta Belle Mining Company.

Superintendent J. F. Cox, writes to the San Francisco Stock Report, August 18, as follows:

EDITOR STOCK REPORT—Dear Sir: As your valuable paper is almost entirely devoted to mining interests, you will undoubtedly give publicity to the following article for the public benefit. As a miner, having traveled through many of the European, Australian, New Zealand, Nevada and California mining districts, I can truly say that I never witnessed so much mineral wealth for so little time and capital invested as can be daily seen in this locality. Through the politeness of Mr. D. Puckinghorne, foreman of the Modoc S. M. Co., I was escorted through the various tunnels, shafts, winzes and raises, which verily embraces a vast labyrinth of ore bodies—whose limits are beyond comprehension. I then repaired to the surface and at every opening found high dumps of high grade ore, groaning under its weight, yet living in hopes of speedy release, as a large water jacket smelting furnace is in course of erection, and when completed, high grade bullion will be shipped in large quantities to your city.

The Minnietta Belle, Mountain View and Keystone Consolidated Silver Mining Company are situated on the south side of Modoc mountain and embraced in same mineral belt as the Modoc, entirely characteristic in quality and quantity. This property was purchased and is now held by good solid men, all of business tact and character, who have thus far manned the ship independent of outside assistance. Their Treasury is at 415 California street, still amply supplied for many months to come.

Mountain View is the northern mine, in which we can show up one of the richest and most extensive ore bodies in Inyo county, assaying from $140 to $600 per ton; very cheap and available to mine, tunnel process; four men are now employed in making further developments. We have several hundred tons of excellent ore on this dump.

Minnietta Belle is worked by a slope, penetrating the mountain at 33 deg. west angle; by this course we expect to intersect eight other veins, visible on the top shafts. Bottom in good ore; have much good ore in 45 feet crosscut vein on top 16 feet. We average $100 per ton, have about 200 tons on this dump and adding daily.

Keystone has croppings 20 feet wide and wherever disturbed shows high masses of galena. This we consider one of our biggest mines; work will be resumed in it at an early date.

In short, as soon as we commence crosscutting in the lower levels we anticipate a par excellence to Cerro Gordo.

President Grant on Speaker Kerr.

The following was promulgated in Washington on the 22d: It is with intense pain that the President announces to the people of the United States the death of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Hon. M. C. Kerr, Indiana. A man of great intelligence and endowments, large culture, great probity, and earnestness in his devotion to the public interest, has passed from the position of power and usefulness to which he had been recently called. The body over which he had been selected to preside not being in a position to render its tribute of affection and respect to the memory of the deceased, the President invites the people of the United States to a solemn recognition of his public and private worth, and the services of this eminent character.

(Signed): U. S. GRANT,

By the President:
JOHN L. CADWALADER,
Acting Secretary of State.

A SIMPLE REMEDY FOR SMALLPOX. Edward Hine, a correspondent of the Liverpool Mercury, in a communication to that paper speaks as follows:

I am willing to risk my reputation as a public man if the worst case of smallpox cannot be effectually cured in three days, simply by cream of tarter. This is the sure and never-failing remedy: One ounce of cream of tarter dissolved in a pint of boiling water, to be drank when cold, at short intervals. It can be taken at any time, and is a preventive as well as a curative. It is known to have cured in a hundred thousand cases without a failure. I have myself restored hundreds by this means. It never leaves a mark, never causes blindness, and always prevents tedious lingering. If the people would only try it and report all the cures to you, you would require to employ many columns if you gave them publicity.

DEATH OF SPEAKER KERR.—A Washington dispatch of the 19th says: A dispatch received to-night by Mrs. Pope, wife of Speaker Kerr's physician, announces the death of Mr. Kerr, at Rockbridge Alum Springs this evening at 7:30. The remains will be sent to his home in New Albany, Indiana. The announcement of the death of Speaker Kerr, though anticipated, occasions general sorrow among all classes of the community. Colonel Adams, Clerk of the House, on receiving the intelligence, proceeded to an undertaker's and ordered a casket to be sent to Rockbridge Alum Springs, in which to place the remains. The casket will be sent tomorrow in charge of several officers of the House, and probably two or three members of the House will accompany the remains from the Springs to the Speaker's late home.

THE Stock Report sent the intelligence over the wires one day last week that Senator John P. Jones was laboring under serious financial embarrassments. This report at once started our community to speculating as to what would become of the Los Angeles & Independence Railroad. But before the wiseacres could fix up a sale to the Southern Pacific Company the report was contradicted. The quidnuncs are now waiting with empty mouths for another sweet morsel to roll under their tongues.—Santa Monica Outlook.

IT is thought that Wm. M. Evarts will receive the Republican nomination for Governor of New York on the first ballot.

SMALLPOX has broken out among the Indians on the Klamath reservation.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, AUGUST 26,.....1876.

DEMOLISHED.—Inyo's oldest landmark, the stone house on Edwards street adjoining Rothschild's store, has been ruthlessly demolished, and shortly no vestige of it will appear to remind us of olden times. It was the first habitation ever occupied in this country this side of Kernville, having been constructed fifteen years ago this month. It was then known as Putnam's, after the name of one of two men who built it—this point then being known as Little Pine. Putnam soon became sole owner, and by him possession of the house and land surrounding was given to Edwards, who filed upon the land and laid out the present townsite. Somehow the Gunnison tract was slipped in upon a portion of the land supposed to be thus claimed, and afterwards Cohn & Harris purchased all the unsold lots of the town, Isaac Harris finally succeeding in ownership. During the prolonged Indian war which opened in the Spring of '62, some six or seven months after the house in question was built, it was considered a sort of a headquarters, home-station, the first family of the country being residents therein. It may have been on account of the comparatively strong guard which always surrounded it, or because of the fact that its first lady mistress was a good nurse, but the house was used almost from first to last as a hospital for the wounded. When, in April, 1862, the whites were for a time compelled to evacuate the country, a mine of blasting powder was laid about the old house, all marks of which operation was supposed to have been obliterated by tramping animals over and over it. From the kegs fuse led, carefully concealed, to the wooden roof, and when the Indians applied the torch they were to be promptly blowed into everlasting smithereens. That the aborigees took the trouble to dig this powder up instead of burning the house down, is perhaps the only reason why its walls have to be ignominiously carted away to-day. A portion of this same lot of powder was "cached" across the river by the old Union mine men at the same time, and was likewise resurrected by the Indians. Of too coarse a grain for rifle use, they sought to pulverize it in one of their stone grass-seed mortars. A squaw was of course set about the task, and in a few seconds an explosion followed. In the language of the big chief who afterwards related the occurrence, "Heap no mas ketchum squaw, by G—!"

FROM DARWIN.—Judge Hanson, of Darwin is paying this, his old stamping ground, a visit, arriving yesterday. Our interview with him was too brief to obtain more than some general facts to this effect: Times are somewhat dull there at this time, although the developments in some of the principal mines are really unusually flattering, and notwithstanding the financial depression people generally were feeling more hopeful than ever. The Defiance furnaces are running on Coso ores as stated heretofore. Mr. Reddy, Superintendent, has not yet returned. He is working might and main to get the affairs of the company on a satisfactory basis and that means that he will "stay with" the contesting interests to the last day in the morning before the public shall have any cause of complaint against said company. We will stake our cash on him on that proposition.

ITS EFFECTS.—We hear of the occurrence of several "discussions wid phists" hereabouts, lately. One of these entertainments extended from one side of the street to the other and back again; both parties were covered with gore if not glory. Times are by no means good except to generate bile, and that makes some people feel as though it was a duty to try and knock some of its disagreeable superabundance out of other people similarly afflicted, hence the frequency of these displays. Some of them, it is remarked, are simply manifestations of the spirits, and those of the commonest, oneriest kind at that.

DISAPPOINTED.—We are told that the yield of small grain in this portion of the valley, and probably all through it, has disappointed expectations very much, the yield being scare half as large as was anticipated before threshing. The light turnout is attributed in good part to the fact that the fields became weedy beyond precedent this year. In part compensation, though, the corn and hay crops are better than common.

ABOUT READY.—After undergoing a very thorough overhauling the Kearsarge mill is now ready for operations, and was to start up to-day, or early next week at the latest. It is but a waste of time to prognosticate as to results, but still from what we hear as to the amount and character of the ore on the dump and in sight in the mine, we feel well assured of a very satisfactory run.

INCORPORATED.—The Rex Montes Mining Company has just been incorporated with a capital of $3,200,000, in 32,000 shares of $00 each. This is the same property Mr. J. H. Holt is at work upon on Kearsarge mountain, and which is developing in the most satisfactory manner. We have not learned the names of the officers or incorporators.

THE POST LANDS.—Booth's bill to restore the greater part of the Camp Independence military reserve to settlement remained in the hands of the committee at the time Congress adjourned, so nothing was done about it. A similar fate befell Wigginton's House bill for the same purpose.

ANOTHER BREWERY.—J. G. Dodge and Louey Munzinger are preparing to to start another brewery in Lone Pine. It will be in operation in a few days—so we learn, indirectly.

PROTECTION.—It has become a matter of remark that for a compactly built, wooden town Independence has been most fortunate, or "lucky," in escaping from disastrous fires, although not a few of them have at times threatened its entire destruction. In an effort made some years ago to organize a fire company and procure an apparatus, final success was only defeated because the committee appointed to solicit subscriptions did too well—so well that those controlling matters concluded to get expensive water-works and fire plugs instead of an engine and tanks. Their ideas proved altogether too large, and so the whole thing fell through; the fire company disbanded and divided up the treasury. At most any other time than the immediate present we would advocate trying to get an engine, hose and tanks; but as it is the next best thing is to organize, appoint an engineer or director, get manufactured a couple of ladders and two strong hooks, with poles, chains and ropes attached; for buckets, let every man grab one anywhere at the first alarm—to save loss on this score, let all owners put a marked, tin tag upon such property. Then rivet your stove-pipes, keep them ten inches from wood at all points and trust to luck. Much of the foregoing advice will apply to all our county towns, but in the immediate center of this one a good thing would be the purchase of 200 feet more hose for the force pump at the store of Rothschild & Co. Let those whose property is in reach chip in.

ACCIDENT AT THE KEARSARGE.—Yesterday morning Dr. Blair was summoned to attend a man named Wm. Paschall who had sustained a hurt on the head by falling from the bucket in the Kearsarge shaft. He had got into the bucket for the purpose of being hoisted to the surface, but soon after starting up was overcome with the bad air and fell to the bottom of the shaft, striking on his head. Mr. Buckley descended to his assistance, and on reaching him found that he was perfectly conscious but helpless; but soon after he was taken out of the shaft the wounded man became entirely insensible, and was in that condition at last accounts, although the hurt did not seem to be of a dangerous character. It was but a few feet from where he fell from the bucket to the bottom.

WHAT IS WRONG?—Some Postmaster seems to have made a little mistake somehow this past week. Not a copy of last Saturday's Coso News has reached this place so far as we have been able to ascertain, and per contra a friend who left Darwin Thursday evening says that not a copy of THE INDEPENDENT of the same date had got to Darwin up to the time he left. This is a little remarkable, isn't it? We know to a certainty that the package of INDEPENDENTS was mailed on time, and in due course should have reached Darwin on Sunday morning, and we do not doubt the same is true regarding the News package for this place. Please rise up and explain, some deputy.

LOG SPRINGS.—Messrs. Broder & Moffat have a small force at work upon their mine at Log Springs, upon the developments of which depends the furnace operations. It takes rich ore now and plenty of it to justify running the furnace, since silver is at such a discount. This discount is about equivalent to the whole cost of freighting the bullion to San Francisco; in effect doubling that charge as compared to former rates. The prospects in the mine are quite fair, but not enough is shown yet to be considered satisfactory or conclusive either way.

PIPE LAYING.—There is a plan under contemplation, we understand, to supply this town with water through pipes, so as to give a fire pressure, and to afford a handier and more equitable distribution of the necessary element for domestic purposes. It is certainly a most commendable enterprise and we hope it will be carried out. It is only in contemplation as yet however, so we need say nothing as to details.

ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday last Fred. Allbrect, of George's Creek, while driving across a field, sustained a fall from his wagon, the effect of which was to break his right collar bone. He lay stunned for two hours, but finally managed to reach home. Dr. Blair was sent for, who successfully set the bone, and Fred. will be all right again in a week or so.

COMING.—The Benjamin Combination propose to give us two more entertainments next week, the first on Thursday evening. We understand that the troupe has been somewhat changed in its component parts, and much for the better. Something of the kind will be necessary to draw largely just now, when times are so inauspicious for fun.

FOR CARSON.—Lieut. Wotherspoon, with a small detachment, Co. D, started on Wednesday morning for Carson with the train of mules belonging to the Wheeler Expedition. The Lieutenant will return to duty at this Post, but the detail of men will serve with the Expedition.

GONE FOR SALT.—Omai Mairs, with a sixteen-mule team and three wagons, has gone to Deep Spring Valley to load with salt, which "grows" there naturally, to be used at the Kearsarge in the reduction of ore. His load will amount to 24,000 pounds.

A NEW MACHINE.—The Pioneer Brewery of this place is being fitted with a new mill for grinding malt. The gearing therefor, constructed by Gus. Stecker, shows most creditable workmanship.

SUSPENDED.—The artesian well boring operation at Lone Pine was suspended a short time ago, on account of the hot weather, but is soon to be resumed again.

RAFFLE.—Mr. A. W. Pratt, Jeweler, raffles off a very fine silver watch at the Aldine saloon this evening. A few chances not taken yet.

OUR MONO LETTER.

BENTON, Cal., August 23.

MESSRS. EDITORS—In my last communication I informed you that there was to be a grand jollification meeting of the unterrified on the following Saturday evening; and that I would inform you in my next of the result, numerically and otherwise. In justice to the Democratic voters of this place, I am compelled to say that it was the largest political meeting ever held here; there being about 80 voters present. It was decidedly an enthusiastic and harmonious meeting; although it is still a mystery to the Republicans of this precinct how Benton Democrats claim harmony between the political-financial views of their great leaders, Tilden and Hendricks; one being an anti-inflationist and the other a full blooded inflationist. However, I suspect that we will have to accept the explanation of one of our Democratic brethern, "that Tilden and Hendricks met together at Long Branch, and made it all right." The great meeting was called to order, Dr. Griswold being called upon to occupy the chair, and J. C. Mitchell being appointed Secretary pro tem. Mr. Levy submitted a proposition to the Chair that a committee should be appointed for the purpose of organizing a Tilden and Hendricks Club, and for drafting by-laws and constitution for the government of the same, in accordance with which the following committee was appointed: Messrs. Mitchell, Yaney, and Levy, Chairman. The Chair announced that another Democratic meeting would be held upon Saturday evening, August 26, upon which occasion Mr. Levy will address the voters of Benton upon the political issues of the day. From personal knowledge of the oratorial ability of Mr. Levy, we anticipate a grand rally, and the Democratic State Central Committe would do well to secure the services of our young, rising and popular political orator, Mr. Levy, for the coming campaign.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

There will be a grand Republican meeting held upon Saturday evening, August 26, for the purpose of organizing a Hayes and Wheeler Club. The Republicans are a minority in this precinct, but they are determined and true to their political faith, and we are satisfied that their meeting will prove a success. The Republican meeting will be addressed by Deacon Hunnicutt, Prof. Edmundson and Doctor Henry Taylor, three very able localites. In my next communication I will give you the particulars of the meeting; also a synopsis of the speeches of the aforementioned orators.

SICKNESS.

Sickness still prevails to an alarming extent, although there has not lately been any fatal termination, thanks to the professional skill and untiring energy of Dr. Griswold. The engineer of the Indian Queen Company was brought to Benton, suffering from fever and is now lying in a very critical condition. Johnny McLaughlin, engineer of the Comanche Company, has been very ill for the past two weeks, but is now recovering. Last Sunday night, Deacon Hunnicutt, after having retired to bed, had a sudden attack of cholera-morbus, attended with very excruciating cramps throughout his system. Being of a very corpulent build, he rolled from his bed to the floor, thence to the door, which he unlocked and pulled open, and from thence rolled out into the yard, where thinking his mortal career was about to come to an untimely end, he lustily called for help; but no human heard his cries. Providentially it was raining hard at the time, and the Deacon being only attired in his underwear was soon completely saturated. To this saturation he is probably indebted for his life, as the pains immediately left him, and he was enabled, unassisted, to return to his bed. The Deacon says that he never knew before that there was so much virtue in water, and he immediately sent his name, by Parson McNaughton, as a candidate for admission into the Water Tanks. He is now convalescent.

PERSONALS.

Judge Cross has just completed a commodious cellar for the storing of his wines, liquors, etc. This speaks prosperity for the Judge, and as he is a whole-souled man, he has the best wishes of the community at large. He is now on a business visit to Bishop Creek and vicinity....Thos. Golden, the popular and affable landlord of the Benton Hotel, has just purchased a band of mules. This also denotes prosperity, and no one is more deserving of success than Tom. He would make a valuable addition to any community and is generous even to a fault....Geo. W. Rowan, has been absent during the past week, on a visit to Bishop Creek. We miss George's presence in Benton exceedingly, and we are in hopes he will shortly return improved in health and spirits.

JUSTICE'S COURT.

Next week promises to be a busy one for our Justice's and attorneys. As yet the only case brought is a civil action before Judge Cross to recover the sum of $200; Thomas Arnold vs. Richard Powning. The hearing takes place on Saturday next, W. C. McFadden appearinn for plaintiff, and J. C. Mitchell for defendant.

DULL TIMES.

The past week has been the dullest in Benton during the last six months. The mills have been constantly running, yet still there appears to be a great scarcity of coin; yet we have reason to believe that Benton will regain its lively times about the first of next month.

MINES.

In my last communication I neglected to mention the Modoc mine. This flourishing mine is owned by Thomas Albright and William Cunning, familiarly known as Butcher Bill. But if he is a butcher, he knew enough of mining to be a partner in one of the richest mines in this district. The average working quality of the ore from the Modoc is $850 per ton. They are constantly taking out ore of this grade and having it worked. In our next we will be enabled to inform you of the value of the ore, per ton, which was shipped by the Neill and McBride Gold Mining Co., to be worked in Aurora. From private information, I am confident that the parties interested in this enterprise will not be disappointed in in the result.

BREVITIES.

Mr. Geo. Clifford, the blind violinist, has returned to our town, looking much better than when he left. It is the intention of some of our citizens to inaugurate a series of sociables, during his sojourn among us... Judge R. Decker has filed upon 160 acres of land lying north and east of the Partzwick Hotel. He has had a residence erected thereon, and I believe it is his intention to immediately fence it in. We are not positive but that this indicates matrimonial intents....The Eastman Brothers, of Chicago, have opened a photographic gallery here. I have seen specimens of their work which are first-class. It is their intention to visit Independence a month hence, with a new and complete stock of chemicals, etc.

MINION.

SCHOOL APPORTIONMENT.—The sum of State school money just apportioned to this county amounts to $462 08, to be divided to the benefit of 361 school children. Mono gets $160 for her 125 school children. Alpine has the smallest amount of money and number of school children of any county in the State, being respectively $108 80 and 85. The next lowest on the list is Mono, and Inyo next to that.

GAVE IT UP.—One of those sheepmen who thought he could hold some of Broder's land up there at Monache, has reconsidered his notion of contesting the point in the Courts, and has settled—and doubtless did a wise thing by so doing.

COMPLETED.—Road Commissioner Connelly has just finished the repairs to the bridge across the river at Bishop, and now goes to work on the one at Big Pine, which, with its approaches, needs considerable labor to make it as good as new.

FROM YOSEMITE.—Lieut. Wotherspoon and sister returned from their Yosemite tour on Tuesday. Among his other experiences was this: people over there give a small premium for greenbacks when buying with silver.

RETURNED.—Ye gallus Independence fishing party arrived home to-day, and our junior will next week detail some of their "experiences," happy and otherwise.

BAH!—Billy Daugherty's pet Panamint sheep is among the late arrivals in town. His honorable sheephood is reputed to be of much intellect.

THE weather now-a-days is all that could be desired in point of general salubriousness.

In the experiments which led to the adoption of these Aristophanesian words, "a violent action set in, during which it was found advisable to remove the burners." We are not surprised.

NEVADA elects this fall three Presidential Electors, one Judge of the Supreme Court, one Congressman, twelve Senators and fifty Assemblymen. The Republican State Convention met at Carson on the 24th, and the Democracy is to meet on the 28th instant. County Conventions will shortly follow, and then we will have about two months of political strife.

CHARLES H. PROUT, a colored man, has been elected a delegate to the Eureka Republican County Convention. This is, we believe, the first instance in the State, if not on the coast, where a colored man has been chosen as a delegate to a political convention.—Belmont Courier.

FAMILY FRUIT DRYING.—At this time, while families are drying fruit throughout the State, it is well for them to know that in nearly every part of California the solar heat is not sufficiently intense to destroy any insect eggs that may have been deposited in the fruit while green or in the course of its being dried. For the benefit of those who do not know how to destroy such deposits, we give the receipt practiced by a skillful housewife in Alameda. After the fruit has been properly dried in the open air, it is put into a stove oven and heated for a few minutes, enough to raise the temperature throughout the dried fruit to 140 degress. This requires a temperature in the oven of about 180 degrees. A small fire is used, and the oven door left partly open.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 26,.....1876.

OUR LOVED ONES OVER THERE.

BY MRS. LUNA HUTCHISON.

Say, can you tell if loved ones come
From that bright land, the Spirit Home,
Since from us they have gone
Over there?

For could we know our friends were near,
'Twould fill our hearts with grateful cheer
That we to them were ever dear,
Over there.

'Tis sad to walk this earth alone,
When our companions here are gone;
We listen to their footsteps flown
Over there.

Their eyes of love closed with a smile
On those they left on earth awhile.
Will thoughts of us their hearts beguile
Over there.

Oh tell me, if those gone before,
To that more peaceful, happy shore
Will love us still—forever more—
Over there?

Some, through the vail that hangs between
This mournful life and heaven serene,
Can hear sweet sounds from the unseen,
Over there.

'Twould cheer our pilgrimage here below,
Our tears and griefs would cease to flow,
If they, our joys and griefs were known,
Over there.

When we look up to midnight skies,
And gaze into God's starry eyes,
Our love on swifter pinions flies
Over there.

We, from our hearts in silent prayer,
Ask God to bless our loved ones there;
Some angel may our message bear
Over there.

When weary— waiting for the rest
Of such as dwell among the blest—
Will they then soothe our aching hearts
Over there?

If little feet, of children dear,
Have gone alone, we need not fear
To walk the vale of sorrows drear,
Over there.

And when death's portals open wide,
May loved ones come to be our guide,
And lead us to the other side,
Over there.

Then when we reach that blissful shore,
Where earthly sorrows are no more,
May we meet those we loved of yore,
Over there.

Then, safe beyond the dreaded shade,
May we each other's progress aid,
Where life and flowers no more shall fade,
Over there.

To hearts bereft and filled with gloom,
We'll come with love from our bright home,
And bid them look beyond the tomb,
Over there.

Bishop Creek, Inyo Co., Cal., August, 1876.

The Stranger's Bedfellow.

An Eastern newspaper prints the following letter:

I haven't dated this letter, because I don't know where I am. I am about nine miles from Julesburg, at a little settlement on the South Platte river. At daylight to-morrow I am to catch some of the finest salmon you ever saw. I suppose they learned this disagreeable habit of early breakfasting from the "bull whackers" who navigate these plains. I am stopping at a little hotel about 30 by 10 feet. The scarcest thing in this country is lumber, settlers having to pay ever so many dollars a foot for all they use, beside what they brought in valises. The landlord is from Pennsylvania and seems to be doing a thriving business. By dint of hard talking and liberal promises I got a room to myself. It is just large enough for the bed and candle box set on a chair upon which I am writing this letter. It is one of the building, and separated from the next room by a bed-quilt, which you must crawl under to come in or go out. But it's my room, and, after the jolting I have had upon the Indian, I expect to have a good night's—

Was ever a poor pilgrim in such a fix? Just as I had written "night's" above and had "sleep" on the point of my pen, I heard a knocking at the door outside the bed-quilt. "Crawl under," said I.

Enter the landlord's daughter, a buxom young lady of 17 years of age, I should judge. She opened her rosy lips and spake as follows:

"Mister, don't take off your clothes to-night when you go to bed."

"Why?"

"Because I am going to sleep with you."

"Well, if you have no better reason than that"—

"Hush! Shet up! You told par that you would not sleep with a man."

"Had rather sleep with a wet dog."

"Well, I have given up my bed to a sick man. I have been hard at work all day, and have to work hard all day to-morrow and can't afford to set up all night. That bed is wide enough for us both. I shall stay on the back side, and if you don't stay on your side, you'd better that's all."

As she said this she raised from her dress pocket an infernal jackknife, such as farmers use in trimming fruit trees, and then it fell back with a chug. I comprehended the situation in half a moment, and unto this maiden I quoth as follows:

"Miss, young lady, your intentions may or may not be honorable. I am traveling entirely by myself. My natural protecters are miles and miles away beyond the boundless prairie, ignorant of the perils which may beset their idol. Thus far I have not been insulted by your sex. I am a man of few words, but they are always emphatic. I will give you a part of the bed and that is all I can do. If you attempt, during the silent watches of night, anything contrary to this firm determination, by St. Joseph, my patron saint, I will shoot you right through the midriff."

As I concluded, I laid a Slocum pistol on the candle-box. A low chuckle outside the bed-quilt gave evidence that pater familias had heard and approved the arrangement.

My antagonist laughed, and saying, "Mister, I reckon we understand each other," bounded over to the backside of the bed. There she is now pretending to be asleep. I can't finish this lettter. I can't do anything. Talk about trials of the earlier saints—about being broiled over live coals—about being flayed alive—about being boiled in oil. What was all that to this.

THERE is a Chicago girl who, if she thinks she is going to be beaten in a game of croquet, will always fall down in a fit over the last hoop.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF A DECREE OF FORECLOSURE and order of sale issued out of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, in the suit of Patrick Reddy, Plaintiff, against Samuel J. McMurry, Defendant, upon a judgment rendered in the said Court on the Eighth day of May, A. D. 1876, for the sum of One Thousand Dollars, United States gold coin, with interest thereon to date of judgment amounting to the sum of Three Hundred and Eighty Dollars, together with the sum of Thirty-two 40-100 Dollars as taxes paid thereon, and One Hundred Forty-one 24-100 (140 24-100) Dollars attorney's fees, and costs of suit taxed at the sum of Thirteen 15-100 Dollars—said sums amounting in the aggregate to One Thousand Five Hundred and Sixty-six 79-100 Dollars in gold coin of the United States, duly attested the Sixteenth day of August, A. D. 1876, whereby I am commanded to make the sum of $1,566 79-100 in United States gold coin, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said defendant Samuel J. McMurry in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

All that certain piece or parcel of land situate in the said county of Inyo, State of California, being the northwest quarter of Section number Seventeen (17) in Township number Nine (9) South, Range Thirty-four (34) East, Base and Meridian of Mount Diablo, containing one hundred and sixty acres.

Also, the Northeast quarter of Section number Seventeen (17) in Township number Nine (9) South, Range number Thirty-four (34) East, Base and Meridian of Mount Diablo.

Notice is hereby given that on Saturday, the Ninth Day of September, A. D. 1876, between the hours of 9 A. M. and 4 P. M., to-wit: at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House door, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said defendant, Samuel J. McMurry, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at Public Auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo. Cecelia Peachey, Plaintiff, vs. William Peachey, Defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court. The People of the State of California send greeting to William Peachey, Defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but within this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between said Plaintiff and said Defendant, as does more fully appear from said Plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said Plaintiff will apply to this Court for the relief prayed for in said Plaintiff's complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the [SEAL] county of Inyo, this 25th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

WM. B. DAUGHERTY,
Clerk.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Henry M. Isaacs, Plaintiff, vs. Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. Summons. The People of the State of California send Greeting to Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in Second Township, in the County of Inyo in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, on the Ninth Day of September, A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The said action is brought to recover judgment against said Defendants upon their certain promissory note dated July 20, 1872, payable on demand, for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of three per cent per month from date, principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United States of America.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint as above required, said Plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, together with all interest thereon and costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand at said Township, this 16th day of June, A. D. 1876.

Special School Law.

MESSRS. EDITORS—In your issue of August 19th you gave a kindly notice of my communication on "Our Schools," but you appear to think I am in error in regard to the school law, or at least that portion of it referring to Inyo and Mono in the matter of legal qualifications of teachers. I am fully conversant with the school law in regard to the controlling section, and will readily admit that I ignored it in my article, as I considered it practically a "dead letter." Our County Superintendent said when he first read the controlling section, that "it might just as well have been left without any restriction at all." The result has proven that he was right. It is a very easy thing to get a petition signed in this county, in such an unimportant matter as the employment of a teacher is supposed to be. It is also very convenient for trustees to think that they cannot find a qualified teacher, and as they get no renumeration and no thanks for their services, who can blame them if they do not go to a great deal of trouble in trying to find a teacher. Men are prone to avail themselves of all the privileges the law allows; and my complaint is chiefly against the law which allows the employment of teachers who have not obtained a certificate of fitness, upon an impartial examination in the branches to be taught. Such a law drives away teachers holding such certificates. If any amendment is needed I would propose something like this, viz: "The County Board of Examination may upon the request of the trustees of any district, give an applicant for a teacher's certificate, an examination (either written or oral) based upon the studies required to be taught in the district." Then the Board could select such questions as would test the general qualifications of the applicant for the particular locality or school in which he would be required to teach, and other teachers would stand some chance of having their State certificate honored. But I will stoutly maintain that our standard can only be elevated to a rival position with the schools of the Bay counties, by the employment and encouragement of first grade teachers. G.

VARNISH BRUSHES.—Varnish brushes ought to be made of long white hairs of the best quality, and, for the general purposes of varnishing, have a good regular spring, with about one-fourth or fifth part worn off flat, sharp, and thin at the point, so as to lay on the varnish smoothly and regularly. As the beauty of varnishing depends in a great measure on the brush, as well as the manner of laying it on, great care is also necessary that no oil brush be put into varnish; therefore, all brushes worn down in oil color, and intended to be put into varnish, ought previously to be well washed in turpentine, squeezed and dried with a clean linen rag, or well washed with soap and hot water rinsed in clean warm water, and made perfectly dry. The best method of keeping oil varnish brushes, when not not in use, is to bore a hole through the handle, and put a wire skewer through it, and so suspend the brush, in a narrow tin pot containing varnish of the same sort as it was last in, taking care that the varnish in the pot covers the hairs of the brush up to the binding and no higher. Brushes so kept are always straight, clean and pliable, and in good order; whereas, brushes kept in turpentine become hard and harsh, and however well stroked or rubbed out, there still remains turpentine enough to work out by degrees, and spoil the varnishing, by causing it to run streaky or cloudy.

THE Downieville Messenger, August 17, tells of a number of gold nuggets taken from a Gold Lake placer, the largest being worth $900—53 ounces.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 17.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The adjournment of Congress has made no visable change in the life and gayety of the city. But a few days more and there will doubtless be a noted diminution. The members themselves, numerically considered, are but a small proportion of our floating population, but when you come to add to their number the multitude of employeés about the capitol, the hosts of claimants before Congress and the departments with their horde of lobbyists, all of whom, like migratory birds, take their departure when the session is ended you have a number whose presence or absence even in a city like this is plainly perceptible.

About thirty years ago Congress purchased Jefferson's papers and the Senate Committee on the Library employed Mr. Henry Washington to prepare them for publication, and I suppose they may now be seen in the Congressional Library. Among them may be found many interesting letters which passed between General Washington and Mr. Jefferson with reference to founding a city on the banks of the Potomac to be made the permanent seat of government, and also the views of T'Enfant, the engineer and architect employed in the prosecution of the design. Among other reasons which Washington assigns for the desirability of the enterprise is his idea that, that by locating the seat of government in a secluded spot such as the city then contemplated it was hoped would remain, the Government in all its branches, Legislative, Judicial and Executive, would avoid all that outside pressure and influence to which it was feared it would be subjected in any of the large cities. Perhaps the General's views in this regard would, to a limited extent at least, have proved beneficial had it not been for the introduction of railroads, steamboats and telegraph. Before these the benevolent and patriotic hopes and wishes of the Father of his Country vanished like a dream, and Washington city is now and has been for many years, the grand central manufactory for political schemes and party formations, exerting both good and evil influences throughout the country, such as might well be expected of the capital of a mighty nation. The Grange movement had its origin here and has now spread all over the land, though how it ever could ever have been thought of in a place like this, with little commerce and no manufactory it is difficult to imagine.

The closing hours of the session was marred by frequent reports of the death of Speaker Kerr at Rockbridge Alum Springs. It was taken as a fact by the citizens, published as such by the local press, and cast a gloom over the city. Intimate friends of Mr. Kerrs at once telegraphed to be informed of his exact condition and were informed that though still alive he was as low as he could be and no hope entertained of his recovery, and such is his condition at the present writing. It was a noble act on the part of ex-Speaker Banks to remind the House in its last moments of the condition of its Speaker and offer the following resolution:

Resolved, That the House of Representatives at the moment of closing its present session, tenders to the Hon. M. C. Kerr its beloved presiding officer the unanimous experience of the heartfelt sympathy of its members in his affliction, and the hope that the recovery of his health may soon give to his country the benefits of his counsel and his example.

The resolution was declared unanimously adopted, and a copy at once telegraphed to Mr. Kerr.

There is a rumor, but nothing authentic, that Gen. Terry has had a battle with the Indians, losing 300 men and killing 700 of the Indians. This intelligence confirms the report of the "reliable squaw," as Gen. Sherman gets it from another quarter. SAXON.

ONE MAJORITY.—The Governor of Massachusetts has been twice elected by a majority of one. A single vote sent Oliver Cromwell to the "Long Parliament," Charles Stuart to the scaffotd, revolutionized England and made Great Britain free. One vote gave us the tariff of 1842, and one vote made the tariff of 1846. One vote gave us Texas and war with Mexico, purchased California, turned thither the tide of emigration and will change the destiny of the world. One vote elected the Hon. David Belden County Judge of Nevada county, years ago, and that one vote was our own, the first we ever cast. It placed upon the judicial bench one who is now conceded to be an erudite and conscientious Judge, who was then but an obscure and not considered talented lawyer. These facts should be a convincing proof to all that the influence of one man, be he high or lowly in station, has its effect on the destinies of the world, and every act should be well weighed, every opinion carefully formed before its utterance.—Ex.

A GOOD WORD.—An exchange says that large numbers of Democrats throughout the country are in raptures with one word in Governor Tilden's letter of acceptance. It is the word "usufruct." They are all ready to swear it is a good word, and "knocks the spots" off Hayes' letter. They think it is the name of a new kind of whisky.

A GREAT chance in life is like a cold bath in winter—we all hesitate at the first plunge.

Mr. Smith's Bereavement.

[From the Philadelphia Bulletin.]

He was tall and slender, and clad in the habiliments of woe. He entered the office and took a chair. Removing his hat, he wiped the moisture from his eyes, rubbed his nose thoughtfully for a moment, put his handkerchief in his hat, his hat upon the floor, and said:

"You didn't know Mrs. Smith?"

"I hadn't that pleasure. Who was she?"

"She was my wife. She's been sick for some time. But day before yesterday she was took worse, and she kep' on sinking until evening, when she gave a kinder sudden jump a couple of times, and then her spirit flickered. Dead, you know. Passed away into another world."

"I'm very sorry."

"So am I. And I called round to see if I couldn't get some of you literary people to saw out some kind of a poem, describing her peculiarities, so that I can advertise her in the paper."

"I dunno; may be we might."

"Oh, you didn't know her, you say? Well she was a sing'lar kinder woman. Had strong characteristics. Her nose was the crookedest in the State; all bent around sideways. Old Captain Binder used to say that it looked like the jib-sail on an oyster sloop on the windward tack. Only his fun, you know. But Helen never minded it. She said herself that it aimed so much around the corner that whenever she sneezed she blew down her back hair. There were rich depths of humor in that woman! Now I don't mind if you work into the poem some picturesque allusion to the condition of her nose, so her friends will recognize her. And you might also spend a verse or two on her lame eye."

"What was the matter with her eye?"

"Gone, sir! gone! Knocked out with a chip while she was splitting kin'ling wood, when she was a child. She fixed it up, somehow, with a glass one, and it gave her the oddest expression you ever saw. The false one would stand perfectly still, while the other one was rolling around, so that 'bout half the time you couldn't tell whether she was studying astronomy or watching the hired girl pare potatoes. And she lay there at night, with the indisposed eye wide open, glaring at me, while the other was tight shut, so that sometimes I'd get the horrors, and kick her and shake her to make her get up and fix it. Once I got some mucilage and glued the lid dowh myself, but she didn't like it, when she woke in the morning. Had to soak her eye in warm water, you know, to get it open."

"Now, I reckon you could run in some language about her eccentricities of vision, couldn't you? Don't care what it is, so that I have the main facts."

"Was she peculiar in other respects?"

"Well, yes. One leg was gone; run over by a wagon when she was little. But she wore a patent leg that did her pretty well. Bothered her sometimes, but most generally gave her a good deal of comfort. She was fond of machinery. And then, you know, she could take it off at night and stand it on the hat-rack in the entry and go to bed with only one cold foot. She was very grateful for her privileges. Although sometimes it worried her, too. The springs 'd work wrong now and then; and may be in church her leg 'd give a spurt and begin to kick and hammer away at the board in front of the pew, until it sounded like a boiler factory. Then I'd carry her out, and most likely it 'd kick at me all the way down the aisle, and end up by dancing her around the vestibule until the Sexton would rebuke her for waltzing in church. Seems to me there's material for poetry in that, isn't there? She was a self-willed woman. Often she wanted to go to a sewing-bee, or gad about somewhere, may be I'd stuff that leg up in the chimney, or hide it in the wood-pile. And then I wouldn't tell where it was; do you know what she would do?"

"What?"

"Why, she'd lash an umbrella to her stump, and drift off down the street 's if that umbrella was born there! You couldn't get ahead of her! She was ingenious! I've known her when the baby was playing with the potato-masher to unbuckle that leg and use it for mashing. Take it by the knee and work the joint backward and forward splendidly.

"So I thought I'd mention a few facts to you, and you can just throw 'em together and make 'em ryme, and I'll call 'round and pay you for 'em. What day? Tuesday? Very well; I'll run in on Tuesday and see how you have fixed her up."

Then Mr. Smith smoothed up his hat with his handkerchief, wiped the accumulated sorrow from his eyes, placed his hat upon his head, and sailed serenely out and down the stairs towards his desolated hearthstone.

SICK HEADACHE.—This distressing complaint can generally be relieved by soaking the feet in very warm water, in which a spoonful of powered mustard has been stirred. Soak as long as possible, or till the water gets cool; it draws the blood from the head. Another quieting remedy is to scald sour milk till it wheys off; make a bag of thin muslin, and strain it off, not very dry, and put the curd in the bag, upon the head, as warm as can be borne; it will relieve the pain in a few moments. Some such simple remedies are far preferable to drugs or to doctor's prescriptions; they relieve as quickly, and are cheaper, as well as more readily applied.

"MRS. SPINKS," observed a boarder to the landlady, "the equal adjustment of this establishment could be more safely secured if there was less hair in the hash and more in the matt a ces."

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2,.....1876.

THE CAMPAIGN ENDED

Pretty much as we anticipated, the Indians have given Terry and Crook the field all to themselves, and have struck out northward toward the Britsh possessions. The Indians had divided into two bands, the trail of the largest being full two miles broad, the heaviest ever seen on the prairie. It was evident the hostiles had been largely enforced from the agencies and other sources, but at the same time, did not intend to risk a general fight. The troops were at last accounts doing their best to overtake the band making the trail down the Little Missouri, but there was scarce a hope of success, the Indians being well mounted, and with six days' or more the start, while the troops were getting short of rations and would soon be compelled to give up the chase. The larger trail leading to the north had been entirely abandoned previously. The conclusion is that the campaign is practically ended for this year, certainly as far the chances for a decisive battle with Sitting Bull are concerned. But the war does not end at this by any means, and we are assured, will not till every hostile, from Sitting Bull down, is transformed one way or another into a good and reliable Indian. To this end the troops will be wintered on the ground as near as may be, ready to resume the offensive in the Fall, Winter or Spring as opportunities may offer. Winter, even in those northern latitudes, "just suits Crook;" if the Indians remain in striking distance at all he will surely bring the last one of them into camp, or a peaceful frame of mind, before the Spring posies bloom, or freeze half his command in the effort. That method or time is his favorite.

REUNITED.—But few, we imagine, no matter what their religious or political predilections, but must rejoice at the fact that henceforth we are to have no Methodist Church South, no Methodist Church North, those disastrous distinctions having ceased to officially exist by the recent enactments of their respective National Conferences, or rather, of their appointed Commissioners in conference at Cape May, New Jersey, during the past month. The especial reason for our felicitations in this matter is because we know from events of the past that our very existence as a nation is greatly contingent upon the action of this church, which always has sustained very intimate relations and a no less important influence in the history of our country. Though we have a mortal antipathy against blending church and state affairs in any manner, yet we know that when a powerful religious denomination like the Methdist Episcopal again becomes a national unit in matters doctrinal, or treated as such, it gives a most reliable assurance that roads of dangerous political divergence will not have so many eager, or desperate travelers. Yes, we rejoice that this church so peculiarly American is again marching on, a band of brothers.

CORNISH MINERS.—The miners of the Comstock are considerably excited over a report thut fifty Cornish miners were soon to arrive there to go to work at reduced wages. Several English companies in Nevada have talked for some time of importing Cornish miners, who were to work for $3 per day. Such an innovation would be ruinous to the thousands of regular miners who can now no more than support their families with wages at $4 per day.

THE San Francisco Stock Report says the Chinese merchants of that city are are taking steps to have their countrymen sent back to China. These paupers number about 400. About $5,000 has been subscribed, and the ship Sumatra will sail for Hongkong on August 14th. Each passenger will be charged $10 for passage, and will be required to furnish his own provisions.

"THE PACIFIC LIFE."—Shaw & Van Arnam, 606 Montgomery street, San Francisco, have just commenced the publication of a new 16-page sporting paper with the above title. In style, sentinment, variety and general get up. The Life, to judge from its initial number, is decidedly above and ahead of anything in its line we have yet seen. Price, $5 per annum.

EX-GOVERNOR E. D. MORGAN was nominated on the 23d ultimo at the New York State Republican Convention, as the candidate for Governor. He obtained the nomination on the first ballot by a vote of 242 against 126 for Evarts. Morgan is a strong man, who commands the unbounded confidence of the better class of the New York Republicans.

GOLD AND SILVER.

Last year Nevada produced $75,000,000 bullion, two-thirds of which was silver. This year it will produce $100,000,000, principally silver. California will produce about $25,000,000, mostly gold. Utah will contribute $15,000,000, and Colorado $10,000,000, aggregating a total yield for the Pacific coast of about $150,000,000, about 40 per cent of which will be gold. This shows a material increase in the percentage of the gold production, which will have a tendency to equalize the prices of the two metals. It is claimed by some that it is only necessary for Government to restore the silver dollar to the original position legally, and then, with the above relative production of the two precious metals, that silver must appreciate to its former value, or nearly so. But others, with good reason, too, object to such Congressional financiering for the reason that silver in this country would then have a buying value greater than in any other commercial nation, and that as an inevitable result we must soon be flooded with their surplus silver. The effect of such a flood of foreign silver added to our own present superabundance, would be to absorb or retire all the gold, and to reduce the relative value of silver to a ruinous degree. This is why no such legislation has been attempted. Senator Jones alone of the entire Pacific coast delegation, and almost alone as regards the leading financiers in Congress, advocates legislation to restore the silver dollar to its former standard of value. That would be a consummation more to be desired by the Pacific coast than any other part of the Union. But his plan appears to have little or nothing to commend it but the object. Those who ought to know best about these things show that while an appreciation in silver might follow such legislation it could be of but brief, very brief duration for the reason above referred to (influx of foreign silver), and that a reaction would soon take place more disastrous to the silver producing interest and business generally than ever before. The remedy, in its after effects, is far more to be dreaded than the disease. The fact is Congress cannot legislate a permanent value upon anything, not even silver or gold; it is far easier to disturb or injure relative values of commodities by injudicious legislation than to fix them permanently, which is the point now at issue—and likely to be with or without Government edicts, till the laws of supply and demand, now out of balance, again harmonize throughout the trading world; and when that is done it will be found that if the silver dollar then retains its present purchasing power it will be because the silver dollar carries more grains weight. That is really about the only power Governments exercise or can exercise on money or other values; that is, they can maintain the purchasing power of a silver or gold dollar by making the amount of metal they each contain conform to the supply; but that is not a convenient way to do it as regards each particular coin, but the laws of trade, despite statutory laws, accomplish the same end by demanding more of the coins. True, the question now lies between the two coin metals, one with respect to the other rather than the two combined as against all other values; but the principles that govern their relative values are not any more changeable by legislation than between other articles of commerce. So as we look at it it is the law of the world's commerce that we are to look to for a solution of the "silver question;" certainly not the enactments of any one Government alone.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS IN NEVADA. At their State Convention, which met at Carson on the 25th ultimo, the following nominations were made: For Congress, Thomas Wren, of Eureka; for Supreme Judge, O. R. Leonard of Humboldt; Presidential Electors, W. W. Bishop. of Pioche; R. M. Daggett, of Virginia City, and Geo. Tufly, of Carson.

COLLECTOR JOHN SEDGWICK. — The charges which were preferred against Sedgwick with a view to his removal have all been withdrawn. Reports recently submitted show that he is endorsed by some of the best citizens of this State, and such being the case, Commissioner Raull says Sedgwick is of the kind of officers he wants to retain.

LAKE TAHOE now has a new steam yacht, the hull being built of steel; it was taken to the lake in sections. It was constructed at Wilmington, Delaware, and belongs to Bliss, Yerington & Co.

FOR TAXES. — Attorney-General Jo Hamilton has written our county officials to the effect that positively no larger amounts than $5 in silver coin will be received for taxes.

THE Washington Monumental Society have signed a document relinquishing to the Government possession of the monument, its surroundings and future control.

THE dog in the manger that would neither eat the hay himself nor let the ox eat it, has been denounced for ages as the worst example of selfishness that ever came to light in the history of the world. The wisest men have given the subject much thought, and have all arrived at the conclusion that the dog had no reason under the sun for such conduct, only pure, downright meanness. It never occurred to them that, as a good bed is next to a good meal, the poor dog wanted that little bunch of hay for a bed, and had as good right to it as the ox; hence the ox was the meaner of the two in seeking to rob the dog of his bed. So Æsop had better "pull down his vest" while we tally one for the dog.

THE mints are running to their full capacity, and it is expected they will average about twenty-one and a half millions in small silver coin per month, at which rate twelve months will be occupied in completing the issue of the fifty millions of subsidiary coins authorized by the new law. Trade dollars are being coined in the San Francisco mint at the rate of three hundred thousand per month to meet the demand for China.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS IN NEVADA. The Democratic State Convention which met in Virginia City, August 29th, made the following nominations: For Presidential Electors—J. C. Hagerman, of Washoe; J. C. Curry, of Storey, and Major Blennerhassett, of Humboldt; for Congressman, A. C. Ellis, of Ormsby.

OUTSIDE papers to the 29th ultimo, our latest, give no further news of Crook and the Indians. The remainder of our brave and noble allies, the Utes, deserted Lieut. Spencer before reaching Supply Camp. This was pretty much as was expected—exactly, in fact.

DURING the late session of Congress 5,056 bills and 189 joint resolutions have been introduced, of which about 150 of a public and 75 of a private nature have passed. Those of a public character, outside of the appropriation bills, are not important.

PIUTE TROUBLES.—On the 10th inst., at Ira P. Hale's ranch in Fish Lake Valley, a young Piute called Owens River Joe, killed an old Indian known as McCormack's Sam. The killing was done at about half past 9 o'clock in the evening, the weapon used being a pistol. At about daylight the next morning the same Joe killed another Piute called Jim Yank at Harrell's ranch. If these killings had been done by whites, they would be called murders, but the Piutes seem to have a sort of vendetta system in their tribal code which admits of vengeance years after the injury. We are told that some two years ago a Piute died in Fish Lake Valley, and in pursuance of a time honored custom among them, the doctor was killed because his patient died. The Indians whom Owens River Joe shot are brothers, and they, with another brother called Big Mouth Jim, participated in the killing of the doctor. Joe is said to be a nephew of the sage brush Esculapeus whom the brothers sent to the happy hunting grounds, and this is his method of balancing justice after a lapse of pears. Big Mouth Jim's feelings may be said to border on the nervous.—Borax Miner, Aug. 26.

THE New York Herald of the 9th instant says editorially: Of the two letters, so far as Civil Service is concerned, we prefer that of Hayes. He puts himself on record in such a way that he cannot retreat without dishonor. There is nothing in Tilden's letter to prevent his removing every office holder in thirty days. Hayes closes the door of patronage. Tilden leaves it ajar.

CANINE SAGACITY.—A Deadwood City, Black Hills, paper says: Judge Ford, of this city, formerly of Bismarck, loaned Gen. Custer a famous dog. The dog accompanied the General during the engagement with Sitting Bull. Ten days after the battle the dog returned to Fort Lincoln, a distance of five hundred miles, in search of his master.

The Burning of Pioche.

[From the Eureka Sentinel, Aug. 26.]

About two weeks ago Andy Fife, Sheriff of Lincoln county, passed through town on his way to Carson, having in charge a prisoner named George Mayfield, sentenced to the State Prison for five years, having plead guilty to the charge of stage robbery. Several times the stage running between Hamilton and Pioche had been stopped and the driver interviewed by a knight of the road, who, contrary to all precedent, did his work alone, assisted only by his shotgun. While on the way to Carson Mayfield became quite communicative, giving a history of his various exploits, remarking to Sheriff Fife that at one time he stopped the stage near Pioche, got several hundred dollars from the treasure box and was "bucking it off" at Fred. Baker's faro game when the news first came to town of the robbery. But the most important disclosure made by Mayfield to Sheriff Fife was a crime in comparison to which the robbing of a stage, or even murder, sinks into insignificance. He acknowledged that he was well satisfied to get to the State Prison as a stage robber, as he was guilty of a crime the just punishment of which would preclude all hope of his ever seeing the inside of a prison's walls. While not absolutely admitting that he was the actual guilty party, he said enough to convince Sheriff Fife that it was he who set fire to the town of Pioche some four years ago, which resulted not only in the entire destruction of the town but also the death of a score of people killed by the fearful explosions that took place during the progress of the fire. Mayfield refused to converse with the Sheriff on the matter when the subject was directly broached, but by his own admissions satisfied Mr. Fife that he was the fiend in human form who caused the lamentable occurrence. Mayfield is well known here in Eureka, having at one time been in the employ of the McLeod brothers as a teamster. When he was brought here and lodged in jail over night he was traveling under an assumed name, but his presence became known and many who had formerly known him called at the jail to see him, but at his earnest solicitation his identity was concealed. He is now safe in the State Prison, and the first remark he made on reaching there was that he "was well satisfied to stay there."

Our Railroad.

Speaking of the railroad prospects of Los Angeles, the Express of that city says:

The probable early extension of the Los Angeles and Independence Railway to Inyo county, and its projected junction, through a connection with the Utah Southern, with the Union Pacific at Ogden, thus securing us a transcontinental railway, while opening up another section of our "back country," is another specially encouraging feature of the railway situation. Inyo county has been ascertained beyond peradventure to contain illimitable quantities of base metal ores, which hold in the lead, a heavy percentage of silver. Development there has made rapid progress even without cheap transportation afforded by a railway, and when the snort of the iron horse is heard in Independence and Darwin the effect will be magical in stimulating production. The same may be said of other sections which would be traversed by the Los Angeles and Independence Railway, and our people are fully justified in the highest hopes they have formed of the benefits of the carrying out of this great project. The probability is also extreme that at an early day (ten years is nothing in the career of a growing young city) we shall have connected with Virginia City by rail, a road from Independence to that point being perfectly practicable, and not involving much expense.

AN Inter-Ocean's St. Paul special says: A gentleman from Winnepeg reports a large amount of ammunition in small packages, sent from Winnepeg to a depot in Saskatchawan county, established by Sitting Bull, who asked the Canadians to send word to Queen Victoria asking that the British Government act as peacemaker between the United States and the Sioux nation, and that, if necessary, he (Sitting Bull) would send a number of chiefs with an interpreter to visit the Queen and state their grievances, the dishonesty of unscrupulous Indian agents, etc., who defrauded them out of all their rights; and asking that the United States Government give them a large tract of country, as a permanent reservation, bordering on the British possessions, to be formed into a civilized Indian Goverment.

A FRESH STORY ABOUT LINCOLN.—A Louisville man during the war went to Washington and asked the pardon of a young Kentuckian who had returned from the army to visit his sweetheart, and who had been captured by the Union forces, tried as a spy and sentenced to be hanged. Mr. Lincoln listened attentively to the recital of the facts, and then said as if to be merciful against his convictions: "Well, if a man had as many lives as a cat I think I would take one of this young fellow's by hanging him. But as he has but one life he cannot be restored if he is hung once, no matter how sorry he might be. So, although I think a moderate hanging would do him good and be an example, I will pardon him."

A CURIOUS FRIENDSHIP.—At a saloon on the Divide, between Virginia and Gold Hill, may be seen a pair of very oddly matched friends, to wit, a big Newfoundland dog and a wild pigeon. The bird's favorite resting place is upon the dog's head, and he will allow no one to interfere with the arrangement. The pigeon was trapped in the hills only a few months since, but has become very tame, and never leaves her strange friend.

THE Irish General Presbyterian Assembly has adopted a resolution against the use of organs and harmoniums in public worship.

The New Indian Plan.

Washington advices of the 22d say:

The instruction to the Sioux Commission, appointed under the recent act of Congress, are nearly completed. One of the most important subjects of negotiation is that represented by the fifth clause of the instructions, which is as follows: The President is strongly impressed with the belief that an agreement, which shall be best calculated to enable the Indians to become self-supporting is one which shall provide for their removal, at as early a day as possible, to Indian Territory, and that they must depend for their support mainly upon the cultivation of the soil, and their own country is quite unfit for that purpose. The superior climate and soil of Indian Territory, and the fact that the Territory if forever secured to the Indian people, should afford strong inducements for the Indians to enter into such an agreement. The Indians cannot live upon the reservation without aid, and the Government is under no obligation to continue its supplies of food, and while no money considerations should be offered them an an inducement for any undertaking on their part, it is believed the Government will willingly furnish them with subsistence, medical assistance and schools until they can care for themselves, in case of their removal to Indian Territory. If, however, they decline to agree to such removal they should be informed that they will be obliged to go to the Missouri river to receive such supplies as shall be provided under any future act of Congress and the treaties with them now in force.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 2,.....1876.

SCANDAL AND ROMANCE.—It was with some little difficulty that our social reporter had to contend with before he could get at even the outlines of a little piece of serio-comic scandal eminating in Kern county. It seems that a gay, and withal, as dashingly handsome a young woman as we have seen for a long time, becamse tired of her liege lord's dominion and like the fishermen, her heart pined for a change. She had a lovyer bo'd as a matter of necessity, and the matutinal farwell of the scenes of domestic tribulations occurred either in Tehachapai or Kernville. The lovers made good their escape—their mode of exit being on saddle horses. The next heard of the truants was at Lone Pine and the accommodating spirit in which they patronized the hotel was remarked for they economically occupied but one room. Wednesday last the gay cavalier and his fair companion appeared in this town and directed their way toward the County Clerk's office. The rich attire, the natural production of a luxuriant head of hair and the magnificent form, the dark flashing eyes and olive complexion of the New Orleans beauty (for such she was) set all our social gossips on the qui vive, but their curiosity thus far is unsatisfied for what transpired in the Clerk's office is kept a distressing secret by the official. However, we learn from an ear witness that the migratory dove and her rooster expected to obtain a marriage license, little anticipating the cruel examination they were subjected to. A legal form was placed before them—he signing in a tremulously shaky hand the name of Henry Cook. She in a clear bold spencerian style the cognomen of Millie D. Dowe. To the question "were you ever married before?" he promptly said no, but she equivocated, turned her head and said "that—that—well, yes;" and, "yes, husband living;" "no divorce—that is—a, a legal divorce." Consternation was depicted on their countenances when the Clerk informed them that an unsurmountable barrier was in the way, but she gathered courage first and stoutly averred that her husband would never more trouble her and she was "Oh, only too willing never to trouble him on any score." Next they sought legal advice, but the would-be happy groom, first wanted to know about how much the lawyer would "tax him;" he said he didn't mind being taxed $25 or $30—he was assured that our lawyers were proverbially mild in the way of fleecing. In spite of protestations of the fair one the legal man put a damper on her expectations. The tearful beauty followed by her blubbering escort filed sadly out, and the last seen of the twain they had mounted their steeds and struck out for Nevada—there, perchance, to die in each other's embrace or find a more accommodating Clerk.

THE KEARSARGE GHOST. — As the Kearsarge ghost is becoming somewhat celebrated and making itself familiar with some of the miners and others up the cañon, it is perhaps well enough to relate some of its peculiarities for what they are worth. The spirit must of course have, at some period possessed a material form and it is connected with these facts: In the heavy winter of '67 and '68 during the month of February a terrific storm raged in the valley and mountains—it alternately snowing, raining and freezing. In all of the large cañons and down the mountain sides avalanches of snow were dashing through the air every few minutes during the day. Near where now lay the walls of the old Kearsarge town a miner named Mills lived with his wife. One of the snow slides occurred above his place and rushing past his house an immense boulder was shot through the building, destroying everything and crushing Mrs. Mills into a lifeless mass. Parties who went up from the valley and removed the body from the ruins report having witnessed a number of the terrible slides during their short stay. With this incident the ghost story is connected, and of late in the vicinity of the accident the spirit of Mrs. Mills is said to appear frequently in the shape of a thin, sad faced woman in flowing robes. Mr. Kitchen reports several spiritual visits to his cabin. One night in particular as he sat reading a paper by candle light the ghost appeared in front of him; he shoved the light toward it, but the candle only went through it like a shadow and struck the wall opposite. The phantom finally passed away. Another man stopping with Kitchen made up his mind to converse with the apparition, but he weakened when he saw it and the words stuck in his throat. Unearthly moaning is said to be heard further down the cañon, which was formerly attributed to underground water, but for which the unhappy ghost is now held responsible.

CROPS.—Nearly all the grain is harvested and threshed at Bishop Creek, the yield being very encouraging—above the average for some years. Round Valley situated as it is, at a higher altitude and so near the mountains the season is about three weeks later, and harvesting has just commenced with the same flattering prospects. The frost of August 21 did scarcely any damage on Bishop and in the valley generally, but at Round Valley cereals were severely injured in certain localities. Among those who suffered is Mr. Birchim, Mr. Vaughn and John Jones—the latter losing about ten or twelve tons of wheat. The corn crop was nipped, but not materially injured and will aggregate a fine yield. The bulk of the produce of this region finds a ready market and good prices at Benton, its mines and vicinity.

HENCE.—The maddest man we have seen this week was around looking for a shotgun. He was slowly recovering from an attack of the cholera-morbus, when a fellow offered him some green apples—aye, even insisted upon his taking them. Hence.

BISHOP CREEK INDIANS.—It seems that the measles which appeared among the Indians to the northward has been very prevalent, the disease playing sad havoc with the tribes. Mike Bishop, an Indian well known in the valley on account of his attempt to obtain title to a piece of land which he was cultivating, and who owned considerable personal property, was murdered by his tribe because he was unfortunate enough to be a medicine man. When Mike first came to the valley it was in consequence of a difficulty of this kind. Mathematics and the moon had something to do with his being born at the right period to become ordained a medicine man. There was no possible way of avoiding professional practice, and when his voodoed patients kicked the bucket one after another their nearest relatives went for the doctor. Upon that occasion the M. D. made good his escape and came to this valley, and as usual with them after cooling off, his tribal brethren troubled him no more. When the late epidemic broke out on Bishop Creek the unfortunate Mike, with others of his enforced profession, were compelled to administer to those stricken with that terrible black-skin scourge, the measles. In spite of his protestations that the white man only knew a remedy, he was forced to visit dangerous cases as they dropped off by the score before the plague was stayed. Mike was of course doomed by the surviving relatives of the departed, and was coolly murdered—but exactly how, when or by whom could not be ascertained by the neighboring whites, who would have summarily punished the offenders had they been captured and identified. Several other Indian doctors have been made away with. Their favorite mode of execution is for one to take hold of the head and another the feet, while the third, armed with a huge knife, cuts the throat from ear to ear; the victim takes it all without a whimper or the perceptible moving of a muscle.

WELLS, FARGO & CO'S EXPRESS ROBBED.—The Caliente and Darwin stage, driven by C. Radcliff, was halted by robbers, shot gun, etc., about thirty-five miles south of Darwin and four miles below Mountain Station. It occurred at 2 o'clock on Tuesday morning last; it was a dark night, and but one robber could be distinguished in the gloom, he being armed with a double-barreled shot gun. The order to halt was given three times before the stage fetched up, after which the demand for "that treasure box" was complied with and not a word more spoken. Our informant—Mr. Kirkenall, a former driver—sat on the outside, with two passengers besides the driver; on the inside were four other passengers, none of whom were disturbed. The country at this spot is covered with greasewood, and the supposition is that more of the agents were concealed. The amount of the booty cannot be ascertained at present.

OF SOME CONSEQUENCE.—The junior of this establishment will be engaged for the next two weeks, or longer if necessary, in "squaring up" all financial accounts pro and con connected with the institution, and he hopes to accomplish just as much as can be practically and conveniently attended to. One excuse for the foregoing is the absolute fact of the aforesaid junior having purchased a pair of cotton socks one year since, "on tick." Independence and to the northward will be "taken in" first.

DARWIN just at present is reported excessively dull—like the fluctuations of all new mining camps which, when the first year's excitement cools off, gradually settles down to a practically firm basis. The inevitable change is being wrought. Ferd. Frost, chief mechanical man of the Coso Mining News, has been prostrated with the typhoid fever, which, occurring during the absence of the proprietor, has caused the non-appearance of that paper for two weeks, but it will be published as usual to-day.

THE GAME LAW.—Since yesterday, September 1, it is not a violation of law to kill elk, deer, mountain sheep or antelope in this county. It is not lawful, though to kill any quail, partridge, grouse or wild ducks till after the 15th instant; then you can sail in, provided you can find any of them to waste time and powder on.

ON the night of August 21st it snowed in the Sierra Nevadas to the depth of six and eight inches. The trees weighed down with their white, feathery loads had more the appearance of a fancy chromo than a reality. Five days after the storm the new snow was still lying on the summits.

IT is rumored on pretty good authority that Mrs. McClure, late of this place, died a few days since in San Francisco, from the effects of lock-jaw, brought on by a sore leg from which the unfortunate lady has been suffering for some time. The report, however, is not fully substantiated.

AMERICAN HOTEL.—We note from orders received in the job department that A. L. Freedman has again assumed charge of the American Hotel at Cerro Gordo. "Boston" made a success of the American in former times and there can be no question but that he will do it again.

MR. HOLT is very enthusiastic over additional strikes of $400 ore and upward in the "Jimmy Sharp" mines, this week. The second level shows the same body of rich ore as was developed in the first. A comprehensive report will be given next week.

THE weather this week has been chequered as a school-girl's whims—having rained a little, blustered and blowed considerable, clouded up and finally moderated into gentle, kissing zephyrs and sunshine.

POLITICAL.—The Democrats of Bishop Creek are to convene in political meeting to-night; addresses are promised by Frank Almon and others.

Over the Summit to King's River.

Ever since man fell and the tabu was broken in the garden of Eden it has been a human weakness to long and pine for a change. Daily bread becomes stale and forbidden fruit as it is partaken of; social gossip has a sameness, and dark mysteries are unravelled till the raveler strikes a wasp's nest; ordinary duties of life are evaded in an extraordinary manner; tabby-cats are astonished in receiving the caresses of a masculine hand while the young wife slumbers away the morn in solitude—even the busy little bee drops his wax to intercept the school boy who is making the welkin ring because his teacher is going to the country to see an aunt. At such a time all nature, human or otherwise, is undergoing a change; everybody is dying of ennui; the righteous and unrighteous suffer alike, but there is a haven for ye who would enjoy a blessed change:—"go a fishing." Select a mountain to fish from—take along but a few things such as the following: A package of fish-hooks, a jack-knife, extra big boots, four gunny sacks (for change of socks), four crackers and an ancient tobacco pipe. These will prove ample for all your requirements for a trip of two weeks up the Sierras; if any little article should be found lacking you can borrow it of the man in the moon. After arranging these perliminaries mount a bronco as the writer did and if your neck is not broken before you reach the Insurance agent's office you may secure a life policy and no foolish questions asked. The foregoing gentle hints are indulged in to prepare the fragile reader to learn how to do it and how it was done by a party of orphaned invalids comprising G. W. Brady, W. J. Lake, J. D. Mairs, the Siamese twins—Geo. Gill and Billy Matlack and lastly the writer. A general description of the party would be a heavy contract—none other than Nast could do the subject justice, so let us drop personalities for the present.

The route, as implied from the head, was via Kearsarge trail to King's river and its tributaries. A splendid grade leads as far as the Kearsarge Mill and a good pack mule trail to Onion valley where Mr. Kitchen has located a fin little grazing ranch—nestled as it were, like an eagle's eyrie among the mountain tops and just below the everlasting beds of snow—it is indeed a romantic spot. Kitchen ought to be a happy man, as he undoubtedly would be were he to take unto himself a sharer of his joys he might be as happy as the birds and woodchucks that flit and frisk around his cabin home. From Onion valley, altitude 9,800 feet, to the summit, 3,300 feet higher, it is but six miles and it is over two hours hard toiling up rugged declivities, passing a chain of beautiful lakelets whose waters are of inky blackness surrounded by a border of deep, solemn blue. Elaine couldn't have laid more serenely beautiful and calm than did these little pools beneath the mighty guardian peaks which towered and seemingly pierced the clear Italian skies far above their tranquil little charges beneath. All verdure disappears on the divide and you must pass through loose granite boulders, slate rock and coarse sand—stepping abruptly across the line and gasping in the thin atmosphere a wintry, frosty like western breeze strikes you in the face; the effect is like magic; horse and man feel revived in a moment, and the panoramic view so suddenly revealed could but enthuse the most prosy mind. To the eastward the view extends far beyond and over the mineral belt composing the Inyo mountains; Inyo valley, spotted with its fertile patches of dark green, seems but a mere cañon—walled in as it were like an ancient city—compared to the vast expanse of mountain tops and ridges to the westward. What a wild freak of nature is here disclosed! The east slope ("slope" is a misnomer) of the mighty Sierra is almost a continuous, absolute precipice; from the summit to the valley cañon the difference in altitude is about ten thousand feet, the valley itself being five thousand feet above the level of the sea. Hundreds of lakelets feed as many more little streams of pure crystal water that, forming falls and cataracts, seeking in vain for a level, meander through a wilderness of sage brush and burning sands toward the sinuous course of the western Jordan—Owens river. Gradually it is impregnated with foul alkalies till its course is run in Owens Lake, from whence evaporation or some secret underground outlet can only reveal the fate of the little streams which are short lived and never above the dignity of creeks.

To the westward mountains raise above mountains and such a seeming net work of cañons leading north, south and finally dropping down, down toward the setting sun. Great snow fields and the unmistaakble signs of glaciers raise on every hand. It is a wild savage looking spectacle, this culmination of nature's grandest effort in the Western hemisphere. Beneath is another chain of lakes, the largest of which is Lake Charlotte. This little basin of glassy water nestled in such dangerous proximity to the verge of surrounding precipices and gorges, is a perfect ideal of a minature summit lake. In shape it is nearly round and about three-fourths of a mile across. Two years since Mr. Kitchen stocked it with fish, and now trout may be seen of over twelve inches in length. This is at an altitude of 11,200 feet, and it is an easy grade for four miles through marshy meadows. Verdure again appears and here in the latter part of August and first of September, you enjoy the balmy breath and all the glories of early Spring; nearly every variety of the early wild flowers found on the prairies of the northwest grow profusely here, but the absence of such species as the California poppy is probably due to the immense altitude. A little above Lake Charlotte a close observer looking south can remark Mount Whitney proper, and Inyo Dome. The Dome from this direction assumes a dome shape while Mount Whitney runs up to a ragged peak. All along the benches from this point the ground is strewn with dead firs and a new growth is constantly struggling to attain the dignity of trees—they grow fine and hearty until reaching the hight of about 20 feet and a scale of 20 inches in diameter when, commencing at the top, they gradually wither and die. The trail soon strikes a tremendous grade in the direction of King's river, and, for a thousand feet to what is known as Bub's Creek it is probably the roughest grade that a horse ever dared descend. From Bub's Creek a mountain raises abruptly, from base to peak about 1,500 feet—the face of which is solid, smooth granite. It is shaped like an inverted funnel with the top bent over toward the point from which it is viewed. It has a twin peak hard by and is but a counterpart of many more in the vicinity. Here our little party of mountaineers halted for a few days, enjoying fine mountain trout, grouse and tree squirrels to their hearts' content. The next move was to Kings river, 10 miles further down. The trail on entering the river cañon is even more dangerous and as rough as the first one described—an American horse making it without a fall deserves a pension for the remainder of his life; but of course a mountaineer or a mule don't think of making a fuss over such trifles. It was on this grade that our chief commissariat discovered the wreck of a pack mule which capsized in Lieut. Wotherspoon's party last Spring, and our larder was replenished with a quantity of government sugar, tin plates etc.

Our party went into camp on the river the remainder of the stay, the altitude of which place is 6,700 feet. The things that were said and done mid the pine and red wood forests and beautiful little meadows, will forever remain a mystery, for we promised not to expose the boys. Fish were plenty, but not so abundant nor as large as Kern river affords. The camp was not very prolific of startling incidents, but for variety "snattle rakes" (rattle snakes) were numerous as the tumbles the boys got in the river. Our blacksmith acknowledged he was afraid of snakes—he said he was susceptible to charms of any sort, and he carried in his Wells-Fargo pocket a specific to guard against a dangerous result of any such contingency, in the shape of a bottle of ammonia. One day he stood fishing on a rock in the middle of the river, but the rock was slippery and he was seated unceremoniously on the rock and the bottled ammonia. There was a yell of pain and he waded ashore, telling his companion confidentially that the river was certainly loaded with electrical eels or sub-marine hornets—but the druggist who sold the specific probably knows better.

Many tramps are directed over the mountain on this route and it is pretty evident that many who attempt the trip wander off the trail and there is no knowing how many lose their lives from starvation and fatigue. They imagine when they cross the summit they surmounted the only obstacle, when the fact is that to get to Visalia another mountain must be climbed and it is 59 miles from the first ford on Kings river, and 74 miles from the summit to Visalia and over the toughest trail that ever lay outside of a red hot lava bed. One poor deluded wretch, a German, staggered into our camp, three days en route from the Kearsarge mines; he had no food at all and his sole companion was a sheep dog, nearly starved and exhausted he could make no time and it is quite likely the provisions he received are out and his bones lie bleaching in some cañon ere this. A party of four miners also came in from the Kearsarge; they were strong, able men, but foolishly thought to make it without provisions. Of course they made it after a raid on our flour sack, but is safe to presume they will never tackle that mountain again. Below us, some Visalia prospectors were camped and they also experienced numerous tramps. They discovered a straggler's bed in one place, the blankets just as he had rolled out of them, but that was all, the owner never returned. Two men were entertained by them one night and sent on the right trail the next day, but the travelers got lost and continued down the river. In three days they made their appearance back in camp, barely able to drag one foot after the other. In the mean time had the camped moved, two more skeletons would have been added to an unknown list. What, with such a list as this in a sojourn of two weeks, must be the story of years, were the eternal solitudes made to deliver up their secrets?

Individually and collectively our little party was a success. The most perfect harmony existed, and all realized that sweeter the pleasure, the harder the labor to obtain it.

One of the party, Billy Lake, staid behind with his horse, jackass, pick, shovel, gold pan and a fish hook. He said he was happy as we turned away to face the precipice and we doubt not but he was.

BENJAMIN TROUPE.—Benjamin gave a parlor entertainment Wednesday night last. It was impossible to get a large house and it was not expected during these dull days, but the performance reflected credit for Mr. Benjamin whose inexhaustible supply of witticism was entirely new, and Mrs. Benjamin's singing which is always encored under any circumstances. They went from here to Cerro Gordo and other points south.

FOR THE EAST.—S. and R. Russel, of Bishop Creek flouring mills, contemplated starting on a visit to relatives in Brighton, Iowa, this week, and probably ere this they are a long way on the road,

THE OLD STORY.—Ye debilitated fishers of men, who returned from King's river last week, are gradually and systematically changing their shirts. Cause, the old thing—fish bones.

DULL was the time, yet duller times hang around our shrinking wallet. In the streets green apples are selling and the children have got—what do you call-it?

LODGE NIGHT.—Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., meet in regular communication this evening.

GRAND JURY.—The Grand Jury for September 6 was drawn Tuesday last.

CORRALLED HIM.—About a year or more ago one Thomas Hawkins living near Big Pine left the country, taking with him some ten head of horses belonging to Mr. J. D. Sears, of Big Pine. Mr. Sears got wind of the whereabouts of Hawkins and the horses, they being in Mono county, and thereupon swore out a warrant in Justice Campbell's Court, at Big Pine, for his arrest. Proceeding to Mono he found and recovered five of his horses, and at the same time got Sheriff Patterson, of Mono, to arrest Hawkins and deliver him across the line, whence Mr. Sears brought him to this place and lodged him in Jail. He was taken before Justice Snelling who committed him to answer. Hawkins admits that he took the horses but claims he bought them of a Mexican. Perhaps.

NOT MUCH PAY IN IT.—The emoluments accruing to the office of Public Administrator for this county are not strikingly large these days. As a sample of its paying qualities, we may cite this instance: The friends of a certain deceased at Darwin desired the Public Administrator, Dr. Blair, to come out and take charge of the estate which they supposed was of about $5,000 value. Pursuant to duty the doctor made the round trip of 120 miles, footing all his own bills, only to find after diligent inquiry that the sum total of the said estate was less than $30 in unavailable book accounts. The deceased certainly lost money by pegging out.

UNION CON.—The upper Cerro Gordo Gordo furnace started up yesterday for another one of its long runs. The lower one is being refitted, or rather rebuilt, with a new water jacket. The new hoisting works are in steady operation, the shaft being at a depth of 351 feet, in ore, when our informant left.

UNDERGROUND currents or veins of water appear as inconstant as the silver market. One day you find your well nearly full, when probably upon the next you might as well expect to fish out a bucket of sardines as to hope for even mud.

A CHANGE.—Al. Wapelhorst, of this place, we understand, has purchased the Hanson hotel property in Darwin, the consideration being $8,000. He proposes to take possession in a few days.

CROOKED.—V. A. Gregg, Deputy Revenue Collector, is reported to have made a seizure of crooked whisky in town.

PREACHING.—Rev. L. Case will preach here to-morrow evening, in the school house.

Comparative Values of Silver.

[From the Stock Report, Aug. 26.]

We herewith present a table prepared by one of the most accurate and experienced gentlemen connected with the business of handling and testing the precious metals in this State, which will assist all who feel an interest in the matter in arriving at an understanding of what is meant by the quotations from the silver market as they are transmitted from London:

A Handy Table.

We are indebted to Mr. J. Main, says the Albany Democrat, carpenter and contractor, for the following valuable table to those who desire to make their own estimates for building. It is worth pasting in your scrap book:

One thousand feet of flooring or ceiling will lay 800 feet of solid superficial measure; 1,000 feet of siding, 750 feet; 1,000 feet of rustic siding, 10 inches wide, 900 feet. All lumber is measured before planing, and is so calculated in all bills.

Five gallons of oil is sufficient for 100 pounds of lead—boiled or raw; also, turpentine weighs seven pounds to the gallon. Eight pounds of properly mixed paint will cover three squares, one good coat.

It takes from five to six pounds of shingle nails to the 1,000 shingles. Twenty-five pounds flooring brads will lay 1,000 feet flooring. Sixteen pounds flooring brads, three penny, will lay 1,000 feet ceiling.

Nails will weigh as follows: Seven-inch spikes, five to the pound; 60-penny nails, nine to the pound; 40-penny, 13 to the pound; 30-penny, 23 to the pound; 20-penny, 34 to the pound; 12-penny, 48 to the pound; 7-penny, 89 to the pound; 6-penny, 153 to the pound; 4-penny, or shingle, 304 to the pound.

Average green fir lumber weighs 4½ pounds to the foot; seasoned, 4 pounds; green cedar, about the same as fir; seasoned, 3 pounds. Five hundred feet of either green cedar or fir is equal to one ton. Green cedar shingles weigh about 400 pounds to the 1,000; dry, 250 to 300. Shingles baled, in what are called one-half bunches, should overrun, or, in other words, should contain 504 shingles; one-quarter bunches fall short four to the bale, or sixteen to the thousand.

MOMICIDE AT MOJAVE.—A man named Wm. Forsythe, resident of Mojave city, attacked one James James Dickerson at that place on Saturday last, and attempted to cut him with a knife. Dickerson retreated from him some distance, and begged him to go away. He persisted, however, and, when within a few feet of Dickerson, the latter drew his pistol and shot him, inflicting a mortal wound. Forsythe lived but a few minutes. An inquest was held by J. N. Thomas, of Tehachapai, acting Coroner. An examination was then held before Judge Thomas, and, after a lengthy investigation, in which the people were represented by L. A. Mullan, and the defendant by James Prewett, the defendant was discharged and exonerated from all blame.—Kern County Gazette, Aug. 26.

My experience with newspapers has taught me that when you send in original poetry, it is more likely to appear in print if a few cash subscriptions accompany it. That is the way I get my work in, for instance:

Truth crushed to earth shall rise again,
And waste its sweetness in the desert air,
In thunder, lightning, or in rain,
None but the brave deserve the fair.
There was a sound of revelry by night;
On Linden, when the sun was low,
A voice replied, far up the height,
Tall oaks from little acorns grow.
A change came o'er the spirit of my dream,
Whatever is, is right;
Things are not always what they seem;
My native land, good night!

TO FASTEN LABELS TO TIN CANS.—Put a teaspoonful of brown sugar into a quart of paste, and it will fasten labels as securely to tin cans as to wood. Housekeepers may save themselves much annoyance in the loss of labels from their fruit cans when putting up their own fruit, by remembering this.

SUMMONS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE SIXTEENTH Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo. Cecelia Peachey, Plaintiff, vs. William Peachey, Defendant. Action brought in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and the complaint filed in said county of Inyo, in the office of the Clerk of said District Court. The People of the State of California send greeting to William Peachey, Defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, in the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the county of Inyo, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county; or, if served out of this county, but within this district, within twenty days; otherwise, within forty days—or judgment by default will be taken against you, according to the prayer of said complaint.

The said action is brought to obtain a judgment and decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between said Plaintiff and said Defendant, as does more fully appear from said Plaintiff's complaint, to which reference is hereby made.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said Plaintiff will apply to this Court for the relief prayed for in said Plaintiff's complaint on file herein.

Given under my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the State of California, in and for the [SEAL] county of Inyo, this 26th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six.

SUMMONS.

IN JUSTICE'S COURT OF SECOND TOWNSHIP, in the County of Inyo, State of California. Henry M. Isaacs, Plaintiff, vs. Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. Summons. The People of the State of California send Greeting to Charles L. Jackson and David Thomas, Defendants. You are hereby required and directed to appear before me, at my office in Second Township, in the County of Inyo in an action brought against you by the above named Plaintiff, and answer the complaint in said action, on file in my office, on the Ninth Day of September, A. D. 1876, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The said action is brought to recover judgment against said Defendants upon their certain promissory note dated July 20, 1872, payable on demand, for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of three per cent per month from date, principal and interest payable in gold coin of the United States of America.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint as above required, said Plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of Two Hundred Dollars, together with all interest thereon and costs of suit.

Make legal service and due return hereof.

Given under my hand at said Township, this 16th day of June, A. D. 1876.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO LETTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The Fair of the Mechanics' Institute, now in the third week of its exhibition, can hardly be pronounced a success. The usual number of sentimental misses with their attendant swains promenade the spacious pavilion listening to the really excellent music of the band, or to the more attractive music of each other's voices.

The usual number of irrepressible children make the walls reverberate with their chattering tongues and clattering boots, and a few persons with some show of interest wander from stand to stand to see the same importations from our business houses that have graced the place in former years. With a few exceptions, the fair is a grand advertising medium for San Francisco merchants, and visitors see within a comparatively small area that for which they would otherwise be obliged to travel many blocks and "up many a winding stair." Up to last Friday, there was a diminution of $19,300 in the receipts as compared with those of an equal period last year. Possibly if the managers would advertise more liberally in the interior papers they would see the result in the increased attendance, and the consequent dollars in the treasury.

Probably there are evils existing in the city much more fatal to its general healthfulness than the much dreaded small pox. Attention has been called to the Selby Smelting Works as one of these—persons living in the locality testifying that the fumes from these works produce nausea and other symptoms of lead poisoning. The Board of Health are handling this matter rather daintily—alleging one reason for not ordering their removal, the great value of the works and large cost of removal. As the case at present now stands, Mr. Selby promises to construct a condenser which will remove the objectionable fumes. The same body had brought before them gross irregularities on the part of Mr. Keating, Superintendent of the Almshouse, who seems from the testimony to have been cultivating a private stock farm at the expense of the city. Mayor Bryant sifted the testimony with much care, and advised the removal of the enterprising incumbent, but his motion to that effect receiving no second the matter was dropped. A member of the Board remarked that if the testimony was true the Superintendent should be discharged, "but that he didn't believe a word of it." So the public remain in a state of delightful uncertainty as to the question at whose expense Mr. Keating's pigs are fattened and his horned cattle propagated. One wearies of the ceaseless "investigations" in public matters so entirely barren of results. A great hue and cry is made of crookedness in every direction. Testimony is published sufficient to damn any official—and there the matter drops. On the arrival of the Colorado from China one of our daily papers published a column of testimony, giving names and dates with great minuteness, which affirmed that 10 Chinese women, and $60,000 worth of silk and opium were smuggled ashore in the night, in a Whitehall boat, furnished by a revenue officer whose name was given. We hear no more of it. Possibly because so many was implicated in similar frauds that no one dare even deny it, for fear of opening matters that had better be kept as quiet as possible.

The Harbor Commissioners threaten to raise the wharfage of the C. P. R. R. Co., which necessitate an increase in the fares between San Francisco and Oakland. When one sees the amount of thieving which depletes the treasury, and is allowed to pass unreproved, this means of offsetting the deficit recalls an old saying in regard to a class of people who "save at the spigot to let out at the bung-hole." Whatever may be said of the railroad company, they certainly afford cheap and ample accommodations to the people of Alameda county, and have just added to them by the opening of the new road to Berkeley, on which they run eight trains daily. This road connects with the ferry at Oakland Point and brings the University three-quarters of an hour nearer to San Francisco. There are now 294 students at the University, gathered from all parts of the Pacific Coast. In the Freshman class are 17 young ladies, and it is worthy of mention that of this number applying for admission all passed the necessary examination in a satisfactory manner, none of them being "conditioned," as were numbers of the young men who applied.

Wheat continues to arrive slowly, and from present appearances the concerted action of the grain growers will succeed in breaking one of the most oppressive rings on the coast. There are at present 47 ships in port to be loaded by them before their lay days expire. If not loaded before the middle of September most of these ships will be subject to $100 a day demurrage, which is not a pleasant prospect for them. These ships are chartered at rates varying from £3 5s. to £3 10s. Meanwhile free vessels are coming into port ready to take grain at reasonable rates, and the prospect is favorable for the farmers to be rid of this grinding monopoly.

An effort is being made on the part of the Fruit Growers' Association to ship a car-load of our choicest fruit to Philadelphia, and endeavor thus to redeem the shabby character of the California exhibit at the Centennial. It is to be hoped that they may be successful in this final effort to show the world that all which has been said of the boasted resources of our wonderful State is not mere brag.

In connection with certain crooked transactions by manipulators of the Ruby mine, the Commissioner of the General Land Office has rendered a decision of importance to foreign capitalists who might be deterred by the intricate ways of California stock sharps from investing in our mines. It is to the effect that if such owners become American citizens their rights as property holders may date back to the time of their purchase of the contested property.

The mining share market continues in that uncertain state where we need not be surprised at a sudden jump in either direction. In any case there are plenty of "I told you so's," who will vindicate their prophetic reputation. Mr. Flood has gone East. Rumor says it is to establish transfer offices for the Bonanza mines in New York City for the convenience of the new Stock and Exchange Board just established in New York.

Royolty proverbially has its disquietudes, and the railroad kings find out that they make no exception to this rule. While the Cohen case drags its slow length along, and the law's vexatious delays keep the case still before the public, a new grief comes to harass Mr. Chas. Crocker, in the shape of a contumacious citizen, by name Nicholas Yung. Mr. Crocker, desiring to erect a palatial residence on the summit of California street hill obtained possession of an entire block with the exception of a small lot owned by the contumacious citizen aforesaid on which stands a small dwelling. Crocker offered his Yung friend $6,000. The undertaker (for such is his occupation) demanded $12,000 in accordance with his custom of putting on screws. Crocker offered $9,000, really a large price for the lot, but it was refused and then came open war. Crocker erected a fence so high and so close that Yung might imagine himself in one of his own coffins minus the cover. Per contra Yung promises to establish a Chinese wash-house on the premises, affording unlimited facilities for cleaning the dirty linen of the railroad company.

In theatrical circles all are now on the qui vive in anticipation of the arrival of Edwin Booth who opens at the California on September 4. In anticipation of the unusual demand for tickets, Manager McCullough announces that he will sell the choice of seats at auction.

The status of the National Gold Bank is again brought before the public by the answer of Cashier D. W. C. Thompson, to certain charges brought against him by the Directors of the Bank. Thompson does not deny the fact that the funds of the bank were diverted from their proper channels by him, but accuses the directors themselves of the same practice, and of additional misconduct, which reads according to the common understanding of the English language very much like perjury. In view of this and other similar developments, one hardly wonders at the assertion made not long ago by an Eastern gentleman, that there was "not a bank in San Francisco that did a legitimate banking business."

As your readers may have seen, war is declared between Dr. Wilkins of the State Insane Asylum, at Napa, and the Examining Board of Physicians in this city—they accusing him of incompetency and he returning the charge by sending back to their friends as sane, persons consigned to him as lunatics.

The P. M. S. S. Co's steamer Colon en route for Aspinwall, burst her boiler when two days out from New York, killing the engineer and oiler, and injuring several others. It would seem that this occurrence was the result of culpable negligence on the part of the company, as it is said the cylinder was known to be defective and was covered with paint to prevent a detection of the flaw. But we may expect, of course, the usual verdict—"no blame attached to any one."

BAVE U.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24.

MESSRS. EDITORS—Congress has scattered. The President is at Long Branch and the Cabinet has dispersed. Secretary Taft and Morrill are all who are left to cheer us in our loneliness. The latter is busily engaged with a large number of prominent bankers who are here negotiating the new loan. Secretary Morrile is giving his most careful attention to the subject and his consultations with the bankers who are deeply interested in the negotiations gives the assurance that the interests of the Government are carefully attended to.

Specimens of Persian postage stamps, supposed to be the first ever issued in Persia, were received at the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster yesterday. They are rude in point of artistic finish and the vignette is a lion with his right foot lifted carrying in it a sword. Specimen stamps from Ireland were also received yesterday.

It will be gratifying to all soldiers who lost arms or legs in the army and have been receiving $24 per month pension, but no commutation for loss of limbs, to know that Congress at its last session so amended the law as to give the class referred to artificial limbs or commutation therefor. Application should be made to the Surgeon-General of the army.

A dispatch dated Cape May, August 22d, and directed to the Evening Star of this city, says: The delegates to a convention of the Methodist Church North and South for the purpose of arranging a re-union of those large bodies of Christians have been in session here for several days. They have substantially agreed upon a basis which will be made public in a day or two. This is an event fit to be consummated in this Centennial year, and every one interested in religious advancement will rejoice that the negotiations to that end promise to be successful.

By advices recently received from Philadelphia there is a strong probability of a break in the combination of coal dealers and a consequent considerable reduction in the prices. Some 500,000 tons will be sold at auction in New York on Tuesday next the 29th instant. This fall in the price of coal will create a corresponding decrease in the mining wages and be productive of much suffering. They have lately been making only half time, and in some instances only one-third time and with the near approach of Winter their outlook is gloomy indeed. Individual coal dealers will suffer severely, and it is predicted that some of them will not be able to carry on business.

A dispatch from the commanding officer, Standing Rock, dated yesterday (23d) says Indians from Sitting Bull's camp report a terrible battle between the forces of Sitting Bull and the combined forces of Terry and Crook. The Indians were repulsed and have scattered. Terry and Crook are reported to have sustained as heavy losses as the Indians.

The substance of the instructions to the Commissioners to treat with the Sioux is to the effect that the Indians shall relinquish all right to the country outside of their permanent reservation under the treaty of 1868 and so much of their permanent reservation as lies west of the 103d degree of longitude. The first meeting of the Commission will be held at Omaha on the 28th instant. One of the most important subjects of the negotiations will be an arrangement by which the Indians may become self-supporting and their removal to the Indian Territory at an early day is considered by the President as the surest step for the accomplishment of an end so desirable. The Evening Star in speaking of this commission thinks it will have a difficult task to perform. The commission sent out last year not only failed to accomplish its purpose, but its members came near losing their lives on account of the bad state of feeling among the Indians. The latter were sullenly stubborn in refusing to cede a portion of the country given to them by the treaty of 1868, and would listen to no proposition for its relinquishment. The circumstances now are somewhat different. The Indians find a large number of people located in the Black Hills and must be convinced by this time that the gold hunters have gone there to stay, so that the portion of their reservation coveted by their "Great Father" is already in possession of the whites. Besides this they know that the Government is engaged in a fierce war with the hostile members of their nation which must finally end in the severe punishment of all Indians now on the war path. This may all be very right, but I am strongly inclined to think that had the Black Hills belonged to a nation our equal in strength and all the arts of war, had they been of solid gold we never would have attempted to take them in this fashion.

SAXON.

BRAINS.—"If I were in California," said a young fop, in company, the other evening, "instead of working in the mines, I would waylay some miner with a bag of gold, knock out his brains, gather up the gold, and run." "I think you would do better to gather up the brains," quietly responded a young lady. "A man should always secure what he is most in need of."

THE sight of a former lover sitting in the church gallery during the performance of a marriage ceremony, frightened a Wisconsin bride so that she fainted away. At the moment of her collapse, she had on $1,500 worth of jewelry that he had given her.

IN TROUBLE.—The New York Democrats are in a peck of trouble just now. There are several causes for this but the only one to which we shall refer relates to the extraordinarily dishonest and foolish way the chief wire-pullers imposed on the State Convention. Ex-Gov. Seymour, the only man in the State as it was made to appear, who, to lead the State ticket, could help Tilden pull through, was nominated for Governor, notwithstanding he had previously notified the Convention he would not accept under any circumstances. It wasn't the first time he had said he wouldn't but did after all, so they saddled him for the race anyway, and after adjourning for the day, notified him with a grand flourish of what they had done. The ex-Governor then began to buck in dead earnest, and swore he would have none of it. The managers were not in the least dismayed at the cavortings of the usually docile old war-horse, but believed they could ride him any how. The next day they deliberately lied to the Convention, saying it was all right—that he would run. Never was a Convention more truly delighted, so they rose up as one man and give the cinch another pull by making the nomination unanimous and some to spare, and then adjourned sine die. But this last pull was too much for the old thoroughbred, the fastest and heretofore the most tractable in the State, and at the last accounts he had not only bucked the saddle and bridle off, but had cleaned out the corral, the vaqueros sitting on the fence, amazed and disheartened, but each industriously cussing the other for setting the old fellow to going in that manner. It is the most melancholy thing that's happened to any political tricksters this Summer.

PEMBINA.—The proposed Territory of Pembina embraces 72,930 square miles of the northern part of the present Territory of Dakota. Two thousand miles of navigable rivers are within its limits, including the Missouri, Yellowstone and Red, the latter furnishing good communication with Manitoba. Bismarck is the railroad terminus. There is very little timber in the proposed Territory, except on the Red and Cheyenne rivers, and a large district of land consists of sand and gravel, called very properly the "bad lands." From the statements of the Delegate in Congress, Mr. Kidder, it seems that it is a good region for stock-raising, notwithstanding the long and intensely cold Winters. The population of the proposed Territory is stated to be 12,000, but the white settlers are said to be only half that number. The capital of Dakota is Yankton, located in the south, and very inconveniently situated for the northern population. Bismarck will probably be the capital of Pembina. The Government Land Office is located there, and the United States Courts are held there at times.

THE actual suffering among the poor of New York city surpasses the conception of most people. Business is very dull and work is scarce and hard to get at any price, and the prices paid for it in some cases are frightfully low. The burden falls most severely on the poor women who have families to support, and in one case a mother and her daughter could only earn fifty cents by working from morning till midnight, and after paying their rent had just twenty cents to support five persons. There are numerous cases of the same sort, but they are less painful than the instances coming to light every day of people who have no food. With such a state of things in midsummer the outlook for midwinter is black enough.

MINERS KILLED.—At Virginia City, September 2, the cable of the Dayton mine broke near the mouth of the shaft and fell on the cage, killing P. S. Wilson and the nexl day while a new cable was being put in the cage it became detached and fell down the shaft, killing Chas. Derby and seriously injuring Richard Mitchell, who was working in the shaft.

FIRES.—A $600,000 fire took place in San Francisco last week, the work of the hoodlums. Included among the more prominent buildings destroyed, was the German Hospital containing sixty patients, all of whom, however, were removed in safety. One-third of the city of Ontario, Canada, has just been reduced to ashes.

CAPTAIN BUCKMINSTER has been appointed Superintendent of the Northern Belle, in place of Colonel D. Crittenden, resigned.

EDWARD S. STOKES, the murderer of Jim Fisk, will be released from the Auburn prison on the 23d day of October next.

INDIAN MANNERS AND CUSTOMS.

We have not been favored with a copy of Bancroft's "Western Tribes," and therefore cannot say how far into their "inner life, manners and customs" his researches have reached. But a history or relation in detail of the manners, superstitions, etc., of our local tribe of Piutes would no doubt add an interesting chapter to that book. For instance our Indians have some rather exalted if not peculiar ideas about bad spirits or witchcraft. A friend of ours, a witness in part of the facts, tells this: Some four years ago down at the lower end of Owens Lake, resided a young and decidedly the most handsome squaw or mohere in the country. A buck got persistantly sick, and his friends accused this little mohere of having bewitched him, though not in the usual manner of the sexes with beauty on one side and impressibility on the other; on the contrary her witchery, in their view, was of a kind that would end the noble buck's days if not exorcised in some way. There was but one practicable way to exorcise the mischievous devil or witch having its abode within the pretty little mohere and that was simply to burn it out. Accordingly a delegation of Indians caught her, and twisting and completely enveloping her in band after band of rye grass straw, tied her to a stake and burnt her up! Soon after this the same band made two other similar attempts upon different squaws alleged to have been possessed of devils fatal to the physical welfare of certain sick bucks, but the whites notified them that that style of devil killing had to cease, or there would be trouble. It did cease, though the accused squaws found it convenient to absent themselver from the locality for a number of months thereafter.

We are not advised as to whether their medicine men become such by natural inheritance or special family privilege, or by election, will he, nil he, or from individual choice. If from the latter, the doctor among our Piutes must be possessed of a most astonishing degree of personal ambition, else of a resigned and most self-sacrificing spirit, for he knows full well that any fatal error in the ministrations of his charms and herbs will also be fatal to his own mundane existence, the penalty for such mistakes in his medical practice being his own death at the hands of the bereaved relatives of the deceased patient. It is a matter of doubt as to exactly how many such mistakes are permissible; some authorities fix it at three, others more; this, however, seems to depend very much upon the character, prowress and opportunities of the surviving relatives, on whom devolves the duty of destroying the mischievous spirit supposed to reside in the body of the unlucky physician. If this spirit devil has so influenced the doctor's operations as to prove him or it to be dangerously malignant and powerful for injury, the big brother or other relative of the departed patient loses no time in exorcising him by cutting the throat of his host, the doctor, even though the latter has lost but that one patient. Generally, however, they let him do for three or four sick Indians before they do for him. It is a mistake that a condemned doctor submits quietly to annihilation. This they do with a good grace, no doubt, when powerless to help themselves, but given a revolver and an opportunity to fight or run, and they will take one or both like a warrior. By adopting both these alternatives one doctor up the country managed to prolong his existence for two years after his third patient was laid away over in Fish Spring Valley, and but for his bad luck in the present epidemic, might have continued a career of living usefulness indefinitely; but the measles were too much for his skill and school of physic, so he and his sojourning spirit of evil were both sent hence along with several others in the past few weeks.

After a doctor has been butchered pursuant to the Indian code, the body is given over to the squaws, who finish the operation of driving out the devil not only from the body but clear beyond the purlieus of the camp. This is in the main a fire, or frying process. The body is laid upon a pile of sage brush or other convenient fuel, which is set on fire and continually replenished until it is a self-evident fact no devil of any sort could longer maintain a residence in that body. While the burning is going on the squaws, each armed with a willow whip, stand eagerly watching for the spirit to come forth. To determine this fact to a nicety seems to involve about all the skill there is required in the process, and at the best the exact time of the spirit's departure seems to be surrounded with uncertainties. On this account the moheres find it convenient to make many false demonstrations as if pursuing an active snake or rat, during which they pursue and thrash the ground and dodge and make much ado, as if driving off devils was a work requiring not only unusual skill, but considerable power of endurance and any quantity of perseverance. After each of the moheres has in turn made one or more such individual efforts, by which time the doctor is reduced to less than a shadow of his former self, a simultaneous and combined rush and howl and flourish of switches is made and maintained for a wide circle around, which completes the process, when it is voted that not a single evil spirit remains in that camp. This vote, however, is by no means conclusive regarding the continued well-being of the defunct doctor's successor; should the new doctor have bad luck with his patients but a brief time is allowed to elapse till he is also put through the exorcising process. In case of epidemics like this of the measles, the fatality among the doctors is limited only by their numbers, as we have noted elsewhere in relation to the destruction of so many of the medicine men in the upper end of the valley. There being none in practice up there now, we suggest that that would be an excellent opening for any of our own medical students hunting a field for early practice, and correspondingly extensive burying room.

In all incipient cases, Indian medical practice devolves upon ancient spuaws, who rely chiefly upon "yarbs" and sweats. After the case becomes serious the regular professional is trotted out, and he treats it by charms or mouthing or sucking the body all over. Realizing the consequence of successive failures, it may be reasonably supposed that the regular doctor works with much zeal. As a slight compensation for his unfortunate calling and onerous duties he is in any event entitled to a reasonable fee—i. e.: all the patient's worldly possessions in case he dies, and a pony or two from her or his friends in case he recovers. But in order to realize and enjoy the assets of the third or fifth defunct patient (we are not accurate as to which), the physician must needs effect an escape unto another branch of the tribe—a chance which is rarely open, and failing in which he submits to his fate without a murmur.

We believe that no amount of education could eradicate these voudoo ideas from the Piute mind, yet the fact is worthy of remark that a sick Indian will absorb a Melican man's medicine whenever prescribed, which he swallows without the least hesitation or the slightest regard to regulation as to exposure or other sanitary requirements. We have heard one Indian boast of the grand results produced upon himself by a box of cathartic pills, all taken at one dose: "Heap sick; heap get 'um well purty quick!"

FATAL ACCIDENTS AND SUICIDES.—John O'Dowell, of Pioche, fell a distance of 160 feet down a shaft at Highland, August 28, and was instantly killed.... An unknown man was found drowned at Cradlebaugh's ferry, on the Carson river, August 30....Two small boys were killed by a falling chimney at the scene of the late fire in San Francisco. ....A Mexican died at Coyote Wells, last week, from exhaustion caused by want of water and food while wandering on the desert....A man named John Welch was blown to pieces at Virginia City on the 29th ultimo, by the explosion of a box of giant powder caps which he was carelessly handling.... On the 1st instant Olivia Marden, in confinement in the jail at Reno as an accessory to the murder of her husband, leaped from a window to the ground and killed herself....Wm. Dangers, an aged German living at Stockton, cut his wrists with a razor, August 28, and bled to death... Joseph Mascomb, a butcher at Eureka, shot himself to death with a revolver at that place on the 30th ultimo....In Colorado John Wadsworth committed suicide at Denver, August 29, and on the same day at Central City, Fred. Thanerkauff, Sr., his sons August and Fred, and John Cox were all suffocated one after another by foul air in a mining shaft... At Modesto, September 1, John Morrow stabbed William Fox to death....H. A. Hammer, an ex-Confederate Colonel, committed suicide at Los Angeles on the 31st ultimo.

BIG TOADS.—The biggest and most voracious toads of our acquaintance reside down in Arizona. The Wallapai Enterprise says some of them will weigh four or five pounds; also, as an actual fact, that they capture and swallow chickens, and that in one instance a Chinaman poured boiling water on one of them while thus engaged to make him disgorge, and to discourage him (the toad) from future operations in that line.

COMPLETED.—The last spike, and a golden one at that, was to have been driven on the 5th instant to connect San Francisco and Los Angeles by rail. Many car loads of notables, wine, whisky, etc., were to be there to aid in the important ceremony.

NEW MILL.—The Columbus Miner gives a lengthy description of the new 20-stamp mill just completed at Belleville for the Northern Belle Company. It is a complete affair, and from the company's two mills great results are promised.

THE INDIAN CAMPAIGN.

The latest news from the scene of the so-called Indian war shows pretty conclusively that Mr. Bull does not intend to give Gen. Terry or Crook or anybody a show to whip him any to speak of this Fall. In other other words the campaign has practically ended for this year, and ingloriously enough for our side. The worst feature of it is Bull is lost, and our Generals haven't the remotest idea where in the world to find him. True, they now and then got a hint of his whereabouts but always at some point to the right, or left or rear, or some place where not wanted or expected. These hints consisted of desultory attacks by small parties of Indians on transports, scouts and detachments, several men being killed, the Indians getting off without damage.

The big trail, so often referred to, became entirely cold and was abandoned. As a forlorn hope for a telling blow yet this season the army, at last accounts, had divided and were starting to surround and annihilate a large camp reported on very doutbful authority to be located within striking distance. If Sitting Bull has given up the idea of a pitched battle, as he most surely has, we doubt if as many as a hundred lodges of hostiles could now be found in one body in all that region. Such proving to be the case what can a cumberson army of three or four thousand men accomplish?

Crook and Terry are both severely criticised by their followers and others for the sorry management and results of the campaign. Those critics no doubt are well up in military tactics and "strategy, my boy," as laid down in the books, but they probably do not know that book strategy in Indian fighting is about as reliable as it would be against an army of grasshoppers. They also see that Terry and Crook departed from some of those rules as laid down in the books and in that the cause of their non-success in their search for Bull and his braves. But they do not see what appears to be a self-evident fact, viz: that it is quite a difficult thing to badly whip a big body of wild Indians in the summer-time till they can be caught, and that, in a country like the Yellowstone, it is very nearly an impractible thing to catch them if they don't want to be caught, which they didn't. In winter-time it is altogether a different affair; given, plenty of flannels and endurance, and this same army with Gen. Crook to lead, can and will catch and wipe out the last one of them; and except at such times, we do not believe the whole United States army with every one of those critics in high command can corrall the nimble S. B. and his alert nomads. Crook didn't catch the rabbit because it was impossible for anybody to do it in that wide range, but those chaps are getting up the stew just the same.

CACTUS PAPER.—Mr. Walker is the pioneer in a new and very valuable industry in Southern California. He now has a cactus pulp mill in successful operation near Soledad Cañon, immediately on the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad. It will utilize a heretofore worthless growth of cactus that encumbers thousands of acres of land. The mill is in splendid working order, Mr. Walker having spent about $30,000 on it. He is now turning out large quantities of the pulp and shipping it to Maryland. As he does nine-tenths of the work of making paper, and receives only a small share of the profits, he is about to put up a full line of paper making machinery. He is to have associated with him Mr. A. J. Hutchinson, of Los Angeles, and when their works are in complete running order they will turn out printing, manilla and other kinds of wrapping paper.

THE SUNDAY ARGUS.—This is the name of a new paper just started in San Francisco. It is the neatest strictly *news*paper published on the Coast, and takes a decidedly new departure in the matter of unique and striking headings. It is as Democratic as the Examiner, which is enough so to satisfy the most exacting in that particular. Office, 518 Sacramento street; terms, 25 cents per month.

POUNDED TO DEATH.—Two bruisers named Weeden and Walker, of New York, went with their backers to New Jersey on the 31st ultimo, to pound each other for money and to see which could stand the most killing. Walker was pounded to a jelly and died, so his friends lost their money and feel sorry in proportion to their respective amounts.

WE think the country press of the State would be doing exactly the right thing by ignoring the class of new papers which periodically spring up in San Francisco and elsewhere, send the first numbers out begging notices and indoresed "PLEASE exchange"—which latter courtesy they invariably forget. All in favor of the motion, stand up!

THE TWENTY-SIXTH.—To-day is the twenty-sixth anniversary of the admission of California as a State. A grand celebration is set for the occasion at Badger's Park, Oakland.

A Horrible Story—The Cobbites of Arkansas.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, of the 2d instant, has a letter from Kensett, Arkansas, detailing some of the atrocities committed by a religious sect called Cobbites, at Gum Springs, White county. It appears an old man named Cobb rules the community, and is regarded by his followers as Jesus, and is obeyed accordingly. For some time past singular noises have been heard at Gum Springs, and a few days ago C. C. Humphreys, of Search, and Mr. Blake, of El Paso, determined to ascertain the cause. They, therefore, visited the locality, and as they were passing a hut from whence issued the sound, a man named Dover, one of the Cobbites, accosted them, saying, "God was in the hut, and for them to come in and see him." They alighted from their buggy, Humphreys was at once seized by four men and Blake by four women. Blake broke loose from his captors and ran about a hundred yards, when, on looking back, he saw the men cutting Humphreys to pieces with long knives. He hastened to town, reported the cause, and a party of citizens at once started for the scene of the murder. On arriving at the Springs they found Humphreys' head cut off and stuck on a fence paling. A boy riding by had been compelled to get off his horse, bow to the head three times, and utter a prayer. A parley ensued between the leader of the citizens J. C. Black, and Dover, the Cobbite, during which the latter took Humphreys' head from the fence several times, shook it back and forth, and replaced it on the paling, at the same time ordering the citizens to leave. At last Dover and his crowd advanced on Black and his party in a menancing manner, and the latter fired upon them, killing two men and wounding another. The remaining four men, four women and two children were arrested and taken to jail. There was a great excitement among the people, and lynching was threatened. The next day a preliminary examination was held and all parties released. They talked incessantly about their religion, and there seemed little doubt that they were all crazy from the effects of religious excitement and starvation.

The Double Standard.

A writer in the San Francisco Post thus ably sums up the gold and silver double standard question:

Here is the contrast: France maintains the double standard; Germany demonetizes silver, and adopts the single standard. France, the conquered nation, is to-day the most prosperous country in the world; Germany, the conqueror, notwithstanding the immense sum paid to her by France as a war indemnity, is almost paralyzed in all branches of trade and commerce. The cause is obvious. Germany has been deceived and wheedled into the demonetization of silver, and is suffering the inevitable consequences. France prospers under the double standard, despite the enormous injury inflicted on her, as well as on other nations, by the course of Germany demonetizing silver. A contemplation of this contrast is the strongest possible argument in favor of the double standard. And yet Dr. Linderman (Director of the Mints) gravely tells us that if we adopt the double standard we will place ourselves in the same embarassing condition that France now occupies. That would be fearful; but comment is unnecessary. The demonetization of silver in the United States was a trick, and the probabilities are the same end was accomplished in Germany by the specious arguments and misrepresentations of the Plutocracy.

WANTS CHANDLER IMPEACHED.—A late Washington special to the Chicago Times says:

The impeachment of Zach. Chandler, Secretary of the Interior, will demand the immediate attention of the House of Representatives when Congress assembles in December. The evidence of high crimes and misdemeanors, of deliberate violations of an Act of Congress in leasing the Shepherd building for the use of the Pension Bureau, is so clear and conclusive that the facts can be digested in a Judiciary Committee at one session and by the House in a few hours. The Senate could dispose of the case in a week, and, unless the accused should resign, conviction would certainly follow if the Senators have any regard for their oath. The proof of guilt is brief, being mainly documentary and indisputable, as it bears the official stamp of the Interior Department. The facts in the case show the open defiance of a recent clause in the Legislative Appropriation bill, and illustrate in the most scandalous manner the hold which Boss Shepherd has upon the President, the members of his Cabinet and the Republican Senators.

OLD MINES IN THE BLACK HILLS. The Deadwood Pioneer says: On claim No. 12, Cape Horn district, 14 feet below the surface in a bowlder weighing about 3,000 pounds, was found a perfectly drilled hole, proving conclusively that mining has been done in this locality at some previous day, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that the party who came to the hills some forty years since and were never heard again, were the same who mined some in this locality and met their death at the hands of Indians at the cave, where bullet marks on the trees are plainly visible to this day.

HOPELESS.—Horace Greeley used to tell this story: He once sent a claim for collection to a Western lawyer, and regarding it as desperate told the attorney that if he collected it he might reserve half the amount for his fee. In due time Mr. Greeley received the following laconic epistle: "Dear Sir—I have succeeded in collecting my half of that claim. The balance is hopeless."

AT last Massachusetts has rid herself of her metaphorical elephant. Jesse Pomeroy, the murderer, has had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life."

THE ex-Empress Eugenie has grown stout, and is no longer beautiful.

EUREKA MINES.—There are now in Eureka 19 furnaces, whose daily capacity varies from 40 to 60 tons. The Lemon M. & M. Co. has also erected a mill of 15 stamps. This was in operation for a few months, but milling ores have not yet been found in sufficient quantity to render it remunerative, and it has long been idle. The main cause of the unexampled prosperity of the mining interests of Eureka is to be found in the character of the ores. They are self-fluxing. They carry from 15 to 60 per cent of lead and sufficient iron and silica to obviate the necessity of importing foreign material for smelting purposes. Eureka is the only known mining district possessing this all-important advantage. The total bullion yield of Eureka district for the year 1869 was less than $100,000. Since that year it has continually increased until for 1875 the yield was $6,100,000. The current year is expected to show a further increase. The total amount of foreign capital invested in mining in Eureka certainly does not exceed $1,500,000, including assessments. In return therefor has been extracted and reduced, in less than seven years, over $20,000,000; and mining in Eureka is yet in its infancy. Not only are new mines being continually opened, but in all the mines increased production follows an increase of depth, and not even in the oldest mines has great depth yet been attained. The history of Eureka lies in its future.—Sentinel.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9,.....1876.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—L. B. Akers, an old man of family residing at George's Creek, met with an accident on the 1st instant by which his shoulder was broken, one arm very badly lacerated, one ear cut off in part, and jaw bone broken. Dr. Blair was summoned, and replaced the broken bones, also the piece of the ear yet hanging by a mere thread, and so far as these hurts are concerned thinks the old man will get along; but the flesh is so torn upon the arm that erysipilas is threatened, which in consideration of the patient's advanced years and multiplicity of wounds, makes his prospects for recovery very problematical. The old man received his hurts by being thrown from his wagon, the wheels passing across his chest, arm and face. This occurred on his own premises but out of sight of the house, on which account he lay unconscious and unnoticed for several hours. On recovering his senses he found himself helpless in all respects save that, notwithstanding his broken jaw he could still halloo, but in such a peculiar manner a neighborwoman, Mrs. Little, who alone heard him, thought it some drunken person, and for some time paid no attention to it; she finally called to her husband to go and see what was the matter, which he did at once, finding the old man so bloody and disfigured, apparently dead withal, he scarcely recognized him at the first approach.

A CORN THIEF.—W. H. Huff, residing up near the Post, as perfectly industrious, inoffensive and deserving a man as this section possesses, is being made the victim of the operations of some night prowling thief. This thief whose identity can be almost proven, has for some time past habitually raided upon Mr. Huff 's cornfield. at least one patch of three or four acres of peculiarly fine corn, scarce one stalk of which has not been robbed. It is a little singular that in this land of plenty any man can be found who has to resort to such contemptible thieving. It certainly cannot be from necessity; most likely it is some constitutional sneak thief who steals because it is his nature to steal, and selects his victims among those not known as shooting men. We sincerely hope this particular corn thief may yet receive a dose of shot sufficient in weight and amount to effectually break him from "sucking eggs" of this sort. The total damage he has already inflicted upon Mr. Huff will amount to about $100; no trifling item for a small farmer. Other farmers residing in that vicinity will do well to keep an eye out for the thief who has been raiding upon Mr. Huff.

THE GRAND JURY.—This body met on the 6th instant, and adjourned on the evening of the following day, in which time they disposed of more than the average amount of business. In fact, this body didn't fool any time away at all, and is credited with being the model jury of the year. Following is the list: Barton McGee, George Stevens, James Malone, Thomas Hamilton, F. P. Ball, A. H. Johnson, W. T. Hall, F. Schabbell, W. R. Tibbetts, A. Thompson, A. Goodridge, F. S. Gunter, E. W. Powers, L. Tuttle, Samuel Hall, John W. Martin, C. A. Walter, Jacob Vagt and James Shaw, Foreman.

FROM TEXAS.—Mr. S. White and his family, which includes a number of young ladies, recently arrived here from Texas, where they have resided for some time past, but which country they now abandon for a home in this sage brush region. Mr. White is a brother of citizen John B. White, at whose place they are now sojourning. Such accessions to our population are the more particularly welcome since it compensates so much for the loss this locality has sustained of late in the departure of families for other homes.

THE MEASLES.—We are informed that this disease is disappearing from among the Indians in the upper part of the valley, where it carried off many of them, but is making its appearance among those resident about Big Pine. Many of these have flown to the mountains, in the hope of escaping its dread ravages. It was invariably fatal to the medicine men in the first mentioned locality, every one of them to the number of four or five having been butchered by their people for malpractice.

HOME AGAIN.—We note the recent return of Mrs. V. G. Thompson and Mrs. J. B. White, both of whom have been absent several months, the first named on a visit to her daughter at school in Oakland, the latter to her husband's place of business near Darwin....Mr. Rhine got back from his San Francisco trip Saturday, and Lieutenant Wotherspoon, Co. D., from Carson a day or two later.

CORRESPONDENCE. — "Minion," our whilom Benton correspondent, having failed to put in an appearance last week, a new candidate for favor in that region comes to the center under the nom de plume of Country Jake, or words to that effect. "Snob," "Slap Jack," "Att-orney," & Co. avast!

MARRIED.—Casper Cohn, Esq., of the merchandising house of C. & M. Cohn of Lone Pine, returned to that point from San Francisco on Tuesday last, bringing with him Mrs. Cohn, nee a Miss Baker. A reception party was given the happy couple night before last.

PERSONAL.—Judge Decker, of ye town of Partzwick, "alle same" Benton, was in town during the week, on matters relative to his land location near that point.

ASSESSMENT LEVIED.—The Coso Consolidated has levied an assesment of 15 cents per share, delinquent October 7.

Grand Jury Report.

In the County Court of the county of Inyo, State of California. To the Hon. John A. Hannah—

We, the Grand Jury empanelled at the September term of the above named Court, report as follows:

We have examined into the charge against Thomas E. Hawkins, and find a true bill against him for grand larceny.

We have examined into the charge of murder against Ramon Ochoa and ignore the charge.

We have examined into the charge against John Melstedt for assault to murder, and ignore the charge.

We have examined into the condition of the jail and find it well kept but not a fit place to keep any person in.

We have examined the Court House and find the stove pipes insecure; we recommend that there be another length of pipe added and a spark catcher put on top.

We have examined the Sheriff 's office and find everything satisfactory.

We also examined the Clerk's office, and find the books nicely kept, but the vault is insecure against fire.

Having disposed of all the business before us, we ask to be discharged.

JAMES SHAW,
Foreman.

MILLING OPERATIONS. — Mr. Gray, after a deal of trouble such as most always follows in trying to utilize old machinery, has finally got the Kearsarge mill fairly in operation, it being under the immediate management of Mr. C. H. Aaron, a man of much experience in milling quartz at Benton. We look for a satisfactory success in milling results, which, since the mines show so well, is the only remaining question to interest stockholders or the public. As a necessary adjunct to such success, as shown by former experience in this same mill, a Brueckner roaster has been added and this becomes a factor in the question. This roaster is in operation also, but it seems some difficulty is apprehended on account of the inferior character of the brick used for lining the large revolving cylinder, said cylinder being about all there is of the furnace. The expansion of the iron loosens the brick, and they being sandy and friable, are liable to fall out and thereby occasion delays. This, however, is mere speculation, no such trouble of moment having yet occurred. It will be several days, we presume, before mill and furnace together can complete even a test run. That proving satisfactory, the mill will begin a permanenent run, during which we understand Mr. Holt will have a large quantity of ore now on the Rex Montes dump reduced at this mill. He has taken a time lease (with the privilege of purchasing) of the old Silver Sprout mill which he is refitting and hopes to have in operation in three or four weeks. That done we have the most flattering prospects of having two mills rattling away in our immediate vicinity, instead of the dead silence that has reigned in that cañon these long years past. It is quite superfluous to say that times, locally considered are now more promising than the most sanguine hoped for a few months since.

RUNNING.—The Eclipse mill after a suspension for two months or more in order to put in additional machinery, is again in operation, and if the new arrangements for saving the gold do as well as may reasonably be expected, we can count upon the Eclipse as one of our permanent paying institutions. There is any quantity of ore, but not of a grade to give a large margin for profits, except with the best appliances; these Captain Eudey has been adding as fast as possible, and now has them complete.

IMPORTANT.—It has for some weeks been understood that the Swansea furnace, the ownership of which is represented by M. A. Wheeler of San Francisco, is to be soon started up. The Italy mine, situate in Lower Cerro Gordo and belonging to Joe Dyas, has been placed in perfect readiness to supply the works with soft ore, and the arrival of the furnace men is daily expected.

DARWIN.—The News speaks in the most hopeful manner concerning the bright prospects for Darwin in the immediate future, notwithstaning times are now dull, at least money is scarcer than at any previous time in the history of the place. The Defiance publishes its first delinquent assessment list, and when that is paid in things will have a different aspect all over this region.

LAND DECISION.—In the contested land case, the Railroad against Narboe et al., for lands in Tehachapai, the Commissioner has decided that Narboe can hold his 160 acres, and Hall and Cutterback, the other two parties, 80 acres each, with the right to as much more on any even numbered section in the limit.

ON THE TAPIS.—It is proposed to get up before long a Grand Harvest Home ball, to take place in the Court House by consent of the county dads, and to be a sort of a grand re-union and general conclave for everybody, far and near, in the county. It is a good idea, and can be made a pleasant and useful affair.

GEOMETRICALLY CORRECT.—The Nevada papers come to hand filled with political announcements. They have a rule up there—and it is strictly enforced—that requires every announcee, male, female or neuter to "put up" in advance. Fortunate journalists, we congratulate them.

SCHOOL.—Miss Carrie Whitcomb will begin school in this place in about three weeks from this time. Miss Whitcomb, after a trial of over three years in this locality, has proved herself to be one of the most successful teachers we have had.

GONE BELOW.—Receiver Tom. May, accompanied by Al. Wapelhorst are off on a visit to the other side of the mountains, but to what particular point we can only guess.

OUR MONO LETTER.

BENTON, Cal., September 4.

MESSRS. EDITORS—As you seem to have no correspondent from this lively little mining town, and as it becomes necessary in the course of human events to make known to the public our most note worthy occurrences, therefore your humble servant, although a stranger to your columns, assumes the role of correspondent and endeavors to state facts with commendable brevity.

MINING

at this place is in its infancy, although there are a great many locations yet the mines that are in paying operation are but few, and are as follows, viz: Comanche, Diana and Kerick are about all that are being worked with profit to the owners, the former being far ahead of any mine in this section excepting the Northern Belle. But as I have not made a thorough inspection of mines therefore I cannot say as to their extent, but the quality of ore is very rich. Two mills are running in this place and turn out about a stage load of bullion per day which is said to be from 400 to 600 fine. Rumor says that a mill at Hutches' Canyon will start soon and if it turns out bullion like the two mills at Benton there will certainly be a show for another stage line.

POLITICS.

The political pot is boiling here pretty lively for a little place and if political enthusiasm runs as high all over the United States as it does at Benton (according to the population) the coming campaign bids fair to be the liveliest political contest since 1864. The Democrats have formed a Tilden and Hendrick's Club and they each for himself (and not for each other) swear with that club to beat Hayes and Wheeler. The Republicans have also formed a Hayes and Wheeler Club, licked the Cincinnati platform as clean as a whistle and nobody elected yet so far as heard from.

Conductors as highwaymen are fattening upon passengers on the Union and Central Pacific railroads between Omaha and San Francisco. Our attention was called by T. D. Lewis, of Bishop Creek, to a robbery which took place a short time ago on the Union Pacific Railroad at Cheyenne City, Wyoming Territory, which occurred thus wise: A large train of passengers from the east came unmolested to the above named city, which is also the end of a division, in steps a new conductor and takes up the old tickets of all the passengers and steps out. Another conductor came in and demanded tickets where there were none, consequently the train load of passengers were invited to take a walk or purchase another ticket; the former, however, was chosen by a great majority for the lack of funds. Mr. Lewis, our informant, passed through this place to Carson to meet some friends from the East who were victims of this villainous outrage. Tim swears eternal revenge.

THE GOOD TEMPLARS

known as the Water Tank have run their race, which was only a quarter race and as a matter of course was soon accomplished. They say the tank was not made of good plank and the nails were small and owing to the soda and iron in this water the nails soon rusted, the planks came loose and the water all leaked out of the tank, and a beverage in Benton is indispensable, therefore the members of the Water Tank passed an ordinance prohibiting the lodge from keeping a tank and allowing the members to purchase their beverage by retail, consequently times are lively in Benton and an extra set of bar preachers employed and Justices' Court is frequently in session and Benton is itself again.

SICKNESS.

There is considerable sickness here for a small place. Dr. Griswold is quite busy waiting on patients, and a doctor from Bishop Creek has been called on quite frequently; the disease prevailing seems to be fever. There were two funerals here last week; Mr. ——— died last Monday night and was buried Tuesday at 4 o'clock P. M. Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock, J. F. McLaughlin died and was buried Wednesday at 5 o'clock P. M. Mr. McLaughlin has been a resident of Benton for about six years and by occupation an engineer and was highly respected by all who knew him; he leaves an aged father and a widowed sister in Michigan to mourn his loss. His remains were followed to their last resting place by nearly the entire population of Benton and vicinity. Joseph Mitchell (one of Creaser's teamsters) was drowned in the Carson River last week while bathing; the supposition is that he took the cramps in which case he might have perished in very shallow water.

PERSONAL.

Peter Gelhard and lady arrived last week from Holland....Alma Prouse has bought a half interest with Billy Marshall in his boot and newspaper business....Davis and McLeod have taken a contract of Summers to fence in Judge Decker's ranch....McFadden has quit practicing law and goes to Hutche's Canyon soon....Cluggage has slipped around and got into Benton again.

RURAL JACOB.

FROM THE CENTENNIAL.—Al. Johnson and family, just from the big show at Philadelphia, were on the stage which was "interviewed" by the foot-pads last week. Al didn't go any further East than the Centennial grounds, but talks with refreshing familiarity of the Russians, French, Persians, Japanese, etc., etc., just as though he had gone clear around and came in the other way. Among the Inyoites he run across were Uncle Abe Parker, who thought Philadelphia somewhat too warm and hied away to disport his sylph-like form in the breakers at Newport; Jim Shepherd, who ambled off toward Richmond and his old home in the Carolinas; Charley Herron, now a regular resident of the Quaker City; Joe Fernbach, on the eve of starting back to his own beer kegs; Dad Hood and others.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS.—The outlook for "a big thing" on Kearsarge Mountain was never brighter than at the present time. In fact, late developments on both the Kearsarge and Rex Montes sides of the mountain have produced quite an excitement among all concerned. Referring particularly to the Kearsarge, we have the word of an experienced miner and a most reliable man, that "the Kearsarge this day is the richest and best mine on the Pacific Coast outside the Comstock." We know that is a quite common and always a broad assertion, but from what we hear of the mine from various sources the statement is by no means unduly extravagant. This much is certain: At a depth about eighty feet deeper than ever before attained is found a very large (not knowing its exact measurement we simply say "very large") deposit of ore, tons of which appear to be almost pure blue sulphurets of silver, intermixed with quantities of free and visible gold, the whole averaging from $200 to $400 per ton, with numerous specimens that will certainly go above $2,000 and an occasional piece of a pound's weight that will run eight times as high. While as before stated we cannot undertake from the reports received to give an estimate of the quantity of this kind of ore in sight, nor the extent of the deposit, yet we are assured it is something extraordinarily promising. This refers to the Kearsarge, but by a notable coincidence is equally applicable in all essential particulars to the Rex Montes, on the northern declivity of the same mountain, though at a greater altitude. The Kearsarge promise is the result of Mr. L. C. Gray's persistent faith and energy, the other of Mr. J. H. Holt's. For the present we shall merely conclude this indefinite sort of a reference to important facts by simply saying it is "a big thing," each of these mines.

A CASE OF POISONING.—About a month ago, so we hear incidentally, a son of J. G. Birchim of Round Valley, aged about ten years, was playing with little Indians, during which they got to chewing leaves of the wild parsnip. While engaged in this an old Indian came up and, digging up one of the parsnip roots, gave the boy a piece and told him to eat it, which he did. Soon after he went to the house and was offered his dinner as usual. He said he felt sick and wanted nothing, but was finally prevailed upon to drink part of a cup of coffee, with milk. He then started and got on his horse, but had no sooner done so than he fell off in a violent fit, during which he vomited freely. He recovered partially from this, but soon after had another similar but more severe and lasting attack, from which it was for a time thought that he could not recover. A doctor (Middleton, we presume) had reached him in the meantime, and although satisfied it was a case of poisoning could not for some time determine from what source. The boy recovered from this second fit, but that was followed by a third, after which he soon got as well as ever. Through the revelations of the little Indians, together with an examination of the ejected contents of the stomach, the cause of the poisoning was discovered to be the piece of root given him by the Indian. The motive of the latter was a question of serious doubt for a time, but the final conslusion was that he acted in ignorance of the poisonous nature of the root, and had offered it to the child in bantering play. It seems to have been a very close call for the little fellow, who, by the way, speaks Indian with almost as much facility as the Indian boys themselves of his age. The boy is a great favorite with the Indians large and small, and the assurance of this fact went far to relieve the old Indian of any evil design in what he had done.

SOME OF THE CROOKED AMONG US. About two months since some passing teams from Los Angeles unloaded several barrels of whisky here, offering to sell it to different dealers, but failing to find a purchaser finally warehousing it at Rowley's store. There it remained until two weeks since, when Deputy Internal Revenue Collector V. A. Gregg became pretty well satisfied this was a lot of the genuine "crooked," some of the very kind that has been causing so many fine men so much trouble throughout Uncle Samuel's domains. In this conviction he formally seized it as the law provides in such cases. As no one comes forward to prove the good character of the stuff, Collector Gregg publishes a notice in relation to it, and to which notice the attention of the reader is directed for further information.

ON HIS TRAVELS.—Our junior is on his travels up the country. Just what he is traveling for is not necessary to specify, except what might be inferred from the fact that the nights begin to suggest frost and the obvious need for printers as well as other people to purchase wood, 'taters, something to eat and all such things, for which a little money is quite an essential.

SALE OF PROPERTY.—Mr. Birchim of Round Valley, we understand, has sold out his entire stock, consisting principally of cattle, to Bob Russell. Birchim contemplates a visit to the Atlantic States.

PHOTOGRAPHY. — Elsewhere will be found the advertisement of the Eastman Bros., photographers. These gentleman have the reputation of being very superior artists.

THE LAST.—Billy Lake and Davy Thomas, the rear end of that renowned fishing party, got back last evening.

THE Democratic New York State Convention is to reassemble on the 12th to fill the vacancy on their ticket occasioned by Seymour's persistent refusal to run for the Governorship.

DIDN'T STICK.—The suit for libel, instituted by the Supervisors of Amador county, against Richard Webb, editor of the Amador Ledger, was ignored and dismissed by the Grand Jury.

A HINT is as good as a kick, but there are men who will never take one till they get the other.

A TRUE MAN.—Show us the young man who can quit the society of the young and take pleasure in listening to the kindly voice of the aged; show us a man who is ever ready to pity and help the deformed; show us a man who covers the faults of others with a mantle of charity; show us the man who bows as politely and gives the street as freely to the poor sewing-girl as the millionaire; who values virtue, not clothes; who shuns the company of such as gather at public places to gaze at the fair sex, or make unkind remarks of the passing girl; show us a man who abhors a libertine; who scorns the ridicule of his mother's sex, and the exposure of womanly reputation; show us a man who never forgets for an instant the delicacy due woman, as a woman, in any condition or class—and you show us a true gentleman.

PROF. TYNDALL recommends the substitution of a galvanic battery for the gallows in cases of capital punishment. There is certainly something humanizing in the suggestion to do away with the brute violence of strangulation and adopt some other and easier method of killing.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The "abomination of desolation" that usually settles down upon the National Capitol like a malignant shadow with the adjourment of Congress and the flight and scatteration of the Government, with its head in the surf or timing fast horses at Long Branch, and its disencumbered body and limbs recuperating their exhausted vitality at various localities at home and abroad, has been to a large extent relieved this season by the rush of visitors to the Centennial, who make a halt at Washington as its various points of historical and political interest are considered as so many side shows to the great Exposition. Our hotels have been crowded to their utmost capacity during the past six weeks, and still the tide sets resistlessly Philadelphiaward. It is very gratifying to know that the time and money spent to see the magnificent show, is generally regarded by those returning to their homes as an investment never to be regretted. Indeed the testimony is all in the one direction that no imagination, however vivid or industrious can adequately conceive the beautiful and bewildering proportions of the exhibition. It must be seen and studied in detail in order to appreciate its almost infinite variety and extent. Last Saturday the admission was reduced for the day from fifty to twenty-five cents and the number of admissions were above 104,000—a much larger number than visited the Vienna Exposition on any given day. New attractions are being generously devised every succeeding week, and the last three months of its existence promise to be crowded by a steady flow of delighted patrons from its immediate vicinity to the ends of the earth. So mote it be.

Some months ago it became known in certain restricted circles that the President's wife, as well as the wives of several members of the Cabinet had been the recipients of several anonymous letters of a menacing and scurrilous character. The matter gained but little publicity and bid fair to die out, and possibly would, had not Bluford Wilson seen fit to ventilate it somewhat in his examination before the whisky prosecution committee. Of course the scandal mongers were made happy. No such choice bit had fallen into their mouths for many long years. It was at once rushed into the papers and its alleged resemblance to the Jackson-Eaton scandal which disroged "Old Hickory's" Cabinet, was pointed out with a perspicuity that evinces their gratification. Mr. Wilson assured the committee that the authorship of the letters had been traced to the wife of ex-Attorney-General Williams, and the discovery of her guilt led to his (Williams') precipitate retirement from the Cabinet. Wilson's statement provoked an indignant rejoinder from Mr. Williams, and now the President adds the weight of his testimony, flatly contradicting the ex-Solicitor's statement so far as it relates to Mrs. Williams' guilty agency in the matter. It is difficult to account rationally for Wilson's version of the affair.

A frightful panic exists throughout Executive Departments here on account of the impending slaughter among the clerks and other employes. A few of the more tired and those deficient in political influence—for the possession of that commodity is the only positive assurance of retention—have taken advantage of the high bounty—two months pay offered for resignations and have shaken the dust of Washington off their feet as a testimony against the dominant party in November; but it is against all precedent to resign a Government position, and the most of the doomed ones will wrestle mightly with the destroyer before surrendering to the inevitable. However funny it is to see an official lose his head there are many cases involving a great deal of hardship. In the case of the widow, for instance, who supports herself and a family of helpless children, or aged parents perhaps, the notification that their services are no longer required, coming with crushing weight, and as a premonition of starvation, rage, sickness and death to those she loves with a deathless passion. It is not true that there are no respectable women in these departments, as it is often made to appear. Probably not a larger proportion of doubtful reputations are in the departments then exist in other walks of life of like number; but it may be said that there are many self-denying sisters and mothers, who strive there, as elsewhere, to earn a respectable livelihood for themselves ond those depending on them. It is a heartless slander to class them with the favorites of influential libertines, who are asserted to hold places under the Government.

We are all anxiously gazing towards the Washington Monument for the first symptom of a renewal of the work looking to its early completion. It has stood so many years in its unfinished condition, staring reproachfully in the direction of Congress, that to see it completed would seem like the realization of a youthful dream.

The patriotic politician is at his old tricks. The club rooms of the various State associations, composed of clerks chiefly, are red hot with patriotism; and the headquarters of the Congressional and National Committees of both parties are armed and equipped with all the appliances for disseminating healthy political principles among the rank and file. Rescuing the country from threatened destruction has come to be recognized as quite as much of a profession as is the practice of law or medicine.

SAXON.

Senator Jones' Story.

[From The Philadelphia Times.]

"Some twenty years ago," said Senator Silver Jones, "I went to California, and on the way out was an old gambler, with a set of faro-boxes, roulette tables, etc. He took a liking to me, and he said: 'Johnny, I'll tell you a secret that may save you many a dollar. Do you see this roulette wheel? Its circle is red and black, and they bet on the colors—a nearly even chance. Now, watch me, Johnny, as I sit here and spin the ball. Do you see me gently raise my knees and press under the frame of the table? Well, these red and black compartments are connected by two sets of wires. I raise my knee when I see that the bulk of the money is on the red, and that wire running through the red trills and trembles so that the ball wont rest in any red cell, but is repelled and settles in some black spot. Johnny, remember this when you have bagged your gold dust.' I went into a gambling house about a year afterward to make a stake. There was a fine, fighting gambler sitting there spinning roulette. Said I to myself, 'I'll just take a peep at your knees, young man.' He raised them very gently, and I planted my money against the pile, knowing that when he swept the great amount off for the red he must pay the black. So I picked up a hundred dollars or so. Every time I hit it. That gambler got his eye on me. It was an eye full of small-pox audacity. He addressed me finally in a loud tone of voice. Said he: 'Didn't I tell you never to come here again? This is a gentleman's game. That man, gentlemen, it is my duty to warn you against; that loafer is a thief.'" "Well," continued Jones, "I had never in my life been there before, but I saw the scheme. If I resented what the fellow said, there were forty fellows there, cappers and so forth, ready to kick me down stairs and rob me, so I meekly said, 'Well, sir, I do not wish to make any disturbance here. If you don't want me here, I'll take my money and go.'"

GIRLS' NAMES.—In any modern school catalogue or newspaper list of ladies' names which you may chance to meet, you find an endless iteration of the favorite inflection ie; as if the beauty or attractiveness, if not the respectability, of the young ladies, in some way depended on this liquid and endearing termination. In the short space of one page of the catalogue of a prominent young ladies' college—a school of much higher pretensions than the average seminary, and whose students are of a more advanced and thoughtful age than mere seminary students—one may find (as we have satisfied ourselves by trying) at least the following varieties, viz: Jennie, Nannie, Hattie, Minnie, Maggie, Nettie, Nellie, Allie, Addie, Lizzie. Lord Dufferin, the present dignified Governor General of Canada has lately chosen to bring this tendency into notice (and so we suppose it prevails in Canada, too) by making it a special topic in his address at the late commencement of a young ladies' school in Quebec. But he credits the habit, or its exaggeration, to the United States; and thinks the practice, when it becomes a "national characteristic," is "not without significance." Some future physiologist, perhaps, may pick it up as a remnant of that period when the young women of our most cultivated circles bore the badge of belittlement and patronage, and infer therefrom that the Oriental type of infantile helplessness had certainly survived to this era even in western lands.—Ex.

A GREAT deal is being said about Governor Tilden's war record. We didn't know that he had any. We have always understood that he is unmarried. —Eureka Sentinel.

A New Version of the Custer Massacre.

A Nebraska paper contains an entirely new version of the manner in which Custer and his heroes were butchered. The account purports to have been written by an eye-witness of the horrible scene, and is in the shape of a letter from a young man in Reno's command to his father in Detroit. The stery is interesting, and widely different from anything hitherto published. The letter was written last month from the mouth of Powder River, and runs as follows:

We left Camp on the 15th of last month and started for the Big Horn River, 150 miles north of here. We were four days on the march thither, where we joined Terry and Custer, and marched north on the bank of the Big Horn. Striking the Little Big Horn, we followed a well-marked trail along its banks, and on Sunday morning, June 24, we came in sight of an Indian village with about 1,800 tents, and a fighting force of 3,000 warriors. Major Reno, in whose command I am, commanded the left flank and Custer the right, and the fight commenced by Reno charging into the Indian village, fighting on foot, having tied the horses in a grove a short way off. While the fight was going on Gen. Custer reached the other side of the village and attacked it. Custer and his five companies took position on a ridge in the center of the Indian camp, cut off from access to water, and there fought desperately all day long, a conspicuous mark for the savage marksmen all around them.

CUSTER'S DEATH STRUGGLE.

At last when half his command had been killed, he called on those that remained to follow him, and dashed boldly through the red devils. It was running the gauntlet of at least 2,000 rifles for the whole distance. His men did not follow him, and when he got through he found himself alone with a single Crow Indian, one of his scouts. He would not leave his men to perish alone and turned to go back, but the Crow, recognizing that such a movement would be fatal, grabbed his horse and implored him not to go back.

CUSTER ONLY LAUGHED,

and, putting the reins of his horse between his teeth, with a revolver in each hand he gave a wild cheer and dashed back through the hell of smoke and flying bullets. As if by a miracle he reached the remnant of his command, which was now reduced to forty men. Calling on these survivors again to follow him—which the example and success of his former charge disposed them to do—he led them from their place of peril over the path of his solitary charge. That was the last of them until the battle was over, when the whole party, with Custer in their midst, were found stark and stiff within a circular rampart formed by their horses' bodies. They had evidently, at the last moments, made up their minds to sell their lives dearly, shot their horses, and then raising them as breastwork, fought on with the vigor of despair until the last man was dead. What they suffered and what they did within the fatal circle will ever remain locked in mystery. Of all Custer's men only the Crow scout above mentioned and a Sergeant of Company "I" escaped.

From the description in the papers you cannot imagine the horror of the scene after the battle. I went over it with the artist as the dead lay in heaps where they fell, and I shall ever remember it. General Custer was found with all his clothes upon him, but his two brothers were terribly mutilated. When the fight was in progress the Indians squaws would rush in among the poor wounded soldiers and beat out their brains with clubs.

A DEARLY SOLD LIFE.

A remarkable story is told of the fearful scene at the death of Charles Reynolds, Custer's chief scout, and the best shot on the Missouri river. He was shot off the back of his horse and in falling caught the horse and killed him, and making a breastwork of the beast's body, he commenced a terrible slaughter of the Indians. He lay behind his horse dying and still shooting, and every shot he fired his deadly aim sent a savage to the devil. When he was taken off the field after the fight twenty-two dead Indians were found around him.

HOW THEY MARRIED IN '76.—A hundred years ago a Virginia belle was not to be won without foolscap and red tape. This was the certificate that the bride had to sign before her lover could get a marriage license: "The bearer hereof has my permission to procure from the authorities the necessary credentials, which shall duly and honorably merit my attention in the support of my affections, to continue through the end of all things, which shall reflect every ray of honor ascribable to so resplendent an element or sentiment of my right mind, and which shall henceforth be strictly adhered to the proper form, at my instance and his importunity, in the making valid of all things pertaining to the stream of my desire to become his partner in the vigor of my youth, in the morning of my affections, properly directed to the momentous obligation of conjugal embraces in endless felicity. In witness to the above, I have hereunto," etc.—N. Y. Tribune.

OVERDOING it—Bashful Spooner (on his honeymoon): "Larry, my wife and I have both noticed that the townspeople stare at us very hard. I hope you haven't been telling anybody that we are newly married?" Larry (the faithful factotum): "Me tell 'em, sor? Is it likely O'id go agin my express orders? Why, whinever anybody thryed to pump me, sor, O'ive towled 'em you wasn't married at all."

ANN ELIZA.—The Salt Lake Tribune of the 3d has the following: The order for an execution against Brigham's property in the Ann Eliza case was issued yesterday and placed in the hands of the proper officer to serve. In the afternoon, Marshal Nelson proceeded to the Prophet's harem on the hill, and attached about $4,000 of his fine carriages, horses, drag-teams and wagons and other goods, which are to be sold to satisfy the judgment for $3,600 as alimony now due the plaintiff. The whole transaction was as harmonious as though it had taken place in Babylon. The reason the balky Prophet did not pay the money down, was because he thought it would look like eating his own words, for he has declared many times that he would not be harassed by lawyers as the Prophet Joseph was. To pay the amount of the judgment would be decidedly inconsistent with his expressed determination in legal matters; and further, his ignorant serfs will interpret this execution as a religious prosecution.

"WE find that he came to his death from calling Bill Jackson a liar," was the verdict of a Corner's jury in Missouri.

THE ARMY REDUCTION.

A military friend favors us with the following particulars regarding the army reduction, as ordered August 23, pursuant to the law passed by the late Congress:

In the Department of California the number of enlisted men to each Company has been reduced as follows: Alcatraz Island, 90; Angel Island, 60; Camp Bidwell, 100; Camp Gaston, 30; Camp Halleck, 100; Camp Independence, 30: Camp McDermit, 70; Point San José, 30; Presidio of San Francisco, 225; total, 735—17 companies.

The 1st and 6th Cavalry, 845 men; 4th Artillery, 430; 8th Infantry, 545; 12th and 21st Infantry, each 305.

After deducting the two men from each company for regimental band, the fighting force of the 12th Infantry is reduced to the maximum of 28 men to each company, and of course ordinarily to a smaller number than that, as the companies are rarely full.

POSTMASTER ARRESTED.—William Innes, Postmaster at Mokelumne Hill, has been arrested by the United States Marshal on the charge of forging signatures to postal orders for the sum of $2,500. Mr. Innes has passed the age of three score and ten, and is the pioneer of Mokelumne Hill. He has been Postmaster and deputy for eleven years, agent for Wells, Fargo & Co. for seven years and is acting as agent and treasurer for a company engaged in heavy mining operations. He denies in toto the charges against him, and says that all orders in his office have been fully paid. He admits that there was irregularity in payment of some $480, but the amount was paid. He says there is due him from the Government over $100 on the last two quarters and some $50 on the present quarter.

JAMES LICK.—The old gentleman is still hacking and filling regarding the disposal of his vast fortune. He has just appointed the third Board of Trustees, commenting on which the Alta says: "Mr. Lick has, of course, the right to do with his money as he pleases, but as he has secured all newspaper notoriety which it is possible to give until there is substantial ground for it, his works will probably cease. San Francisco may make up its mind to profit nothing by the Lick Fund. There is about it too much of what the slang calls "chin music."

THE assumption by the Queen of the title "Indiæ Imperatrix" will be proclaimed at Delhi on the 1st of January next before an imperial assemblage of all the governors, lieutenant-governors, heads of the government, princes, chiefs and nobles. If circumstances permit, 15,000 British and native troops will be present. The Viceroy will make his entry into Delhi on the 26th of December. The week will be observed as a general holiday.

THE NORTHERN BELLE.—This company held its annual election of officers in San Francisco on the 11th instant, with this result: I. C. Bateman, President; Trustees, Henry Sweetapple, A. J. Holmes, G. T. Lawton and H. H. Allen; Secretary, William Willis. At the meeting 43,235 shares were represented. On the following day a dividend of one dollar per share, payable yesterday, was declared.

THE Salt Lake Tribune is informed by a gentleman who has been there, that in the Black Hills, on what is known as Castle Creek, is a large pyramid of elk horns some seventy or eighty feet in hight and probably a hundred feet in diameter. It must have been there for many years, as none of the Indians in that section of the country know who put it there.

MAINE.—The election in Maine on the 11th resulted very favorably to the hopes of the average Republican. That party carries everything and with largely increased majorities. The total vote is very nearly 134,000, the largest we believe the State has ever cast. Of this the Republicans claim an increase of about 10,000 upon their usual majorities.

IT is related that the ghosts of John Jacob Astor and A. T. Stewart met at the river Styx and had some trouble with the ferryman about getting over, whereupon Stewart advised that they hold on a bit, as Vanderbilt would be there pretty soon and start an opposition line.

SATURDAY, the 9th, the President issued his proclamation declaring the Hawaiian Treaty to be in full force and effect. Under that treaty the sugar, coffee and rice of the Island will hereafter be admitted into the United States free of duty.

MINING COMPANIES AND NEWSPAPERS.

A few weeks since quite a glowing report of the New Coso Company's mines appeared in the San Francisco Stock Report, written by a Mr. Riotte, who holds some official relation to the corporation. We may remark that as a matter of local interest THE INDEPENDENT reproduced it, though that fact is not pertinent to the matter now in point. Subsequently, in reference to this report, the Darwin News took occasion to say that "some very singular reports in regard to the New Coso are being published in the Stock Exchange, printed in San Francisco; but as one of the editors is Secretary of the Company it will be well for the public to read cum grano salis. Of course we have no allusion to Riotti's report! He wouldn't like to put up a Stetefeldt furnace for them to roast their free-milling (?) ores." This gave Mr. Verdenal, the aforesaid Secretary, a text for a lecture which he reads the News in a letter addressed to the editor, the tenor of which may be understood from this extract:

It seems to me, my dear sir, that you do not treat the New Coso Company as it deserves; that from some cause, I know not what, and personally care still less, that you have completely ignored its existence. This is all wrong, in my humble judgment. What helps New Coso, helps Darwin. We have expended large sums of money in your camp, honestly. We are, we think, on the eve of success. It does not particularly help us to see such reflections upon our Company, when the future of Darwin in some respects depends upon the New Coso Company's properties, as we are the link of success.

The News reviews the whole situation, but the only point we now have occasion to refer to is wherein it is shown that the New Coso has ever taken especial pains to keep their underground mining operations entirely secret from newspaper men, having refused admission not only to representatives of the News, but also of THE INDEPENDENT; in short, the Company has chosen to pointedly ignore the local press, and yet at the first derogatory hint from one of the papers the Company feels that it is not fairly treated, since little or nothing is published concerning their mines.

We do not propose to take stock in this particular controversy, although interested in it to some extent; but refer to it to show some of the difficulties the country press has to contend with. Here, for instance, is the Coso News; its mission is to do all it can to "develop" its particular section of country. That is to say, that is what the public expects it to do—not only to give all the current, incidental local and other news for the edification and profit of the aforesaid public, but to "develop" general and private business by "setting up" the resources of the country in a light to attract capital and additional business men and population. This, in one shape or another, is what is expected and demanded of country newspapers everywhere. We shall not now stop to moralize about the different spirit in which the patronage in return far this service is extended, something as a charitable donation to the country paper, and the business-like, value-received way in which the same party will pay his money to some metropolitan journal that practically does nothing whatever to enhance values or business for the said patron.

To resume. The News, for instance, is expected to keep the public fully posted on local mining developments, that being the business upon which every other hinges, and for that reason the operations of mining companies are looked upon as something the public have a perfect right to know, even though it is a private business, the same as manufacturing. When mining is pursued as a legitimate business, on its merits, and not as a wild-cat, sell-out arrangement, the operators rarely or never object to have its actual status made public. But where it is not pursued with honest intents, and especially where its status is not entirely satisfactory, the rule is to bar the public from any proper understanding of the facts, and hence it comes that newspaper reporters are also barred from the only reliable means of arriving at the facts, to-wit: a personal examination of the mine itself. And, when such is the case, as in this New Coso, the natural inference is that "there is something rotten in Denmark." When such an inference or conclusion appears to be well founded, the local newspaper fails in its duty if it allows it to pass wholly unnoticed. To do so, particularly in case of stock companies, is simply to connive at a possible fraud on the public. If such reference from such premises does any mining property an injustice in fact, the managers have themgelves only to blame. In reality, when the public, through its press representatives, are denied access to a mine held by a stock company, the very best thing the public can do is to act on the belief that that particular mine is a good thing—to let alone. It may be a real Comstock kept in the dark by the bears, but ten chances to one it is a bilk whose real proportions the bulls are bound to keep from the light of day.

Now we are not at all inclined to believe that the New Coso is a bilk, nor was it so characterized by our contemporary; but its management is bad, and of the peculiar kind to invite distrust as the actual merits of the property. We think very likely the News was right in giving the stockholders the hint it did, and was most assuredly not to blame for not reporting favorably or otherwise on a property it was never allowed to see. Our deduction is this: That the country newspaper has some rights which even mining companies are bound to respect. Among these is the right to examine and give its own candid opinions of mines belonging to stock companies. We know full well from personal experience that it is next to impossible for a newspaper in reporting upon a mine to give perfect satisfaction to owners and at the same time state facts as they are, not as they may be, or as the said newspaper would like them to be. And when tunnel mouths are closed to newspaper men it is pretty conclusive that the facts are what the managers think had better be kept in their dark recesses.

NEWSPAPERS AT THE CENTENNIAL.—The special correspondent of the London Times says it would be difficult to find an apter illustration of the big way in which the Americans do things than that furnished by the "Centennial Newspaper Building," in the Exhibition grounds. Here you may see any one, or, if you like, all of the 8,129 newspapers published regularly in the United States, and see them, one and all, for nothing! You are not only permitted as a favor to see them, but invited, nay, pressed, to confer the favor of entering the building and calling for what paper you like. It is about as cool and agreeable a place—quite apart from its literary attractions—as a visitor could wish to be offered a chair in. He may at first wonder how, among 8,000 papers, among them such mighty sheets as the New York Herald, he is to get at the small, loved print of his home, thousands of miles away, it may be, over the Rocky Mountains. But the management is so simple that, by consulting the catalogue, or even without the aid of the catalogue, any one can at once find whatever paper he wants. They are pigeon-holed on shelves in the alphabetical order of their States or Territories and their towns, the names of which are clearly labelled on their shelves. The proprietors of the Centennial Newspaper Building are advertising agents, the largest in all America—Messrs. G. P. Rowell & Co., of New York. Their enterprise will cost altogether about $20,000, or £4,000, including the building and the expense of "running" it for six months. The 8,000 and odd newspapers are declared by the same authority to exceed "the combined issues of all the other nations of the earth."

THE English journals have lately published an interesting account of the history, progress, and results of the celebrated artesian well at Leamington. The shaft of this well is stated to be some fifty feet deep, and at the bottom a bore has been carried down for a distance of another two hundred feet, part of the way eighteen inches, and the remainder of the way twelve inches in diameter. The shaft and bore, with the exception of a few feet at the surface, have passed through sandstone, and several springs have been tapped. The yield of water is stated to be, at present, only a little short of seven hundred thousand gallons per twenty-four hours, and it is proposed to go deeper—the proprietors declaring that they will not be satisfied until the supply reaches a million gallons daily.

THE ADVANCE IN SILVER.—A contemporary in noting the effect upon trade dollars publishes the following remarks: Silver bars have been strongly influenced by the advance in London, and also an improved demand for export. The restrictions imposed by Congress on trade dollars have had the effect to narrow down their market rate of discount until this coin now passes at a par with subsidiary silver. The improvement in Mexican dollars is also noticeable. The demand for the last outgoing China steamer was greater than the supply. There will be large shipments of trade and Mexican dollars by the steamer of the 1st proximo.

A CURIOUS calculation has been made in the printing office of a Paris newspaper. Assuming a good compositor handles 24,000 letters a day, and that his hand moves one foot with each letter in taking and setting the type, it will be seen that his hand travels 48,000 feet, or nearly ten miles a day, and in the course of a year, excluding Sundays, travels fully the distance from Paris to New York.

THE Nez Perces Indians say they will burn every house in the Walla Walla valley, Washington Territory, unless the two men who killed an Indian near there is surrendered to them. A company of cavalry has been sent there.

Tilden's Tax Return.

THE INDEPENDENT does not propose to even notice scarcely any of the stuff touching the respective national candidates being published for electioneering purposes, but at the same time will remark that the allegations made by the New York Times against Tilden for false swearing in order to escape payment of his income tax during the time of his country's greatest need, places that loud talking reformer in a worse light, in our candid estimation, than Belknap's prostitution of official position did for him.—And Belknap is damned without stint by everybody, and of right, ought to be, although he did not so flatly perjure himself for the sake of coin, nor set up for a reformer. Weeks have elapsed, yet Tilden does not offer to disprove a single one of these charges. To be consistent his party ought to demand proofs of his innocence, or drop him like a hot potato, otherwise the party is paving an easy way to its own ruin and the country's disgrace.

BANK ROBBERY AND MURDER.—The bank at Northfield, Minnesota, was entered in broad daylight on the 7th by the James gang of robbers, who murdered the Cashier and wounded the assistant, and after robbing the institution, got off unmolested for the time being. The events immediately following are given in the following Chicago dispatch of the 10th: "The latest information from the party pursuing the Northfield robbers is that the robbers have been run out of the woods at Lake Elysian, and across the bridge toward Waterville. Squads of men have been sent in various directions to head them off. A special train leaves here this evening on the St. Paul and Sioux City Railroad, carrying the Chief of Police and twenty-five or thirty picked men. A hundred men are in the surrounding country in which the robbers are, and it does not seem possible for them to escape. Hazen, a detective in the employ of the American Express Company, sent here from Cincinnati, identifies the two dead robbers, by photographs, as Charles Pitts and Bill Chadwell. He says, also, that the light haired man wounded at Northfield is undoubtedly Frank James. There is no mistake about this being the famous gang operating in Missouri."

RIOT AT A POLITICAL MEETING IN BALTIMORE.—A Batimore dispatch of September 9 says a Hayes and Wheeler meeting at Cross-street Market House was broken up by roughs. Several shots were fired and William Henry was wounded. C. Irving Dilly, who was addressing the meeting at the moment of the outbreak was badly beaten about the head and face. Within a few minutes after the first shot the hall was emptied of its occupants, many present jumping out of the windows on an adjoining shed. The rioters were promptly arrested by the police, several of whom were in the hall and outside. Marshal Gray states: Yesterday being election day of Democratic primaries, he had given orders to the captains of police to have an extra force of men attend all political meetings, and in obedience to this order, about a dozen men were at Cross-street Market. Mithin a minute after the second shot was fired the man that firing was in the hands of the police. This morning the rioters were bailed, but were re-arrested and are in jail, and warrants have been issued for the roughs not captured. The matter has been before the Grand Jury to-day, and the authorities declare themselves determined that the rioters shall not escape due punishment. The roughs do not exceed ten in number.

THE VERMONT ELECTION.—The number of votes polled in the late election in Vermont was the largest in the history of the State. Like Arkansas in relation to the Democrats, no question was ever entertained that the result would be otherwise than the election of the Republican ticket, but the relative gains of the parties was looked to with interest as a straw indicating the direction the Presidential breeze might take. Although the Republicans have carried the State by a largely increased majority, a close comparison with former votes leaves the Democrats the larger share of the straw, their gain, as figured by a contemporary, being 38 per cent to 19 per cent for the Republicans.

KING ALFONSO has sent a letter of congratulation to the Prince Imperial on the occasion of the Fete of the Empire, and has invited him and the ex-Empress to visit him at Granada, an invitation that is understood to have been accepted.

THE King of Dahomey defies the British blockade, and allows no communication with vessels. He has seized four Frenchmen who attempted to get off in cruisers. He threatens to massacre every white man at the first shot fired.

THANKS.—State Superintendent Carr has placed us under obligations for a copy complete of our school laws, including a list for school library books, course of studies for public schools, and National and State Constitutions.

The Indian War.

A New York Herald special from Heart River (D. T.,) dated the 9th instant, says: The large force of Sioux Indians which followed Sitting Bull during the Summer has broken into small parties and dispersed, with the exception of his own personal band and about 400 braves, who, it is probable, have crossed the Missouri river before this. According to the latest intelligence from General Terry a large party of them was checked in attempting to ford the Yellowstone by a detachment of infantry under Lietenant Rice. It is impracticable to further hunt an enemy with the troops now in the field, who are worn and weakened by exposure, starvation and hardship. They have been thirty-two days with no other shelter than one blanket for each man in repeated cold storms of wind, rain and hail. Scurvy and disentery have prostrated about 300 soldiers, who have from time to time been carried on litters. The insufficiency of medical supplies is still more alarming. The mild weather of the past few days has been a godsend which has prevented terrible mortality. In ten days later the average temperature of this climate will have become low, and the troops have yet to march 300 miles southward in Summer clothing, with no tents. They have now only food for two days. We are marching on Deadwood City, in the Black Hills, 200 miles distant, and shall barely escape starvation before reaching there. The journey will consume seven days. General Crook has sent an order for wagons to proceed to Custer City with fresh supplies under escort of two companies of cavalry. The issue of rations is already reduced one-half. Many fresh tracks of hunting parties of Sioux are found each day. Their condition is probably more destitute than that of the troops. Were General Crook now equipped to pursue them rapidly they must be forced to surrender. They must hunt or starve, and hunting implies flight. A Sioux was chased by Gruard, the scout, far ahead of our column, but he escaped. To-day a hunting party was chased for 15 miles and one of them was killed. Eight braves were fired on by 11 scouts day before yesterday and one of their ponies killed. Necessity compels the abandonment of the chase, and the campaign is virtually closed.

The Boss Thief Corralled.

A press dispatch from Madrid, September 10, gives the following account of how the boss political thief of the United States was nabbed:

It was found in July last that Tweed was in Santiago de Cuba, having passed there from Havana. General Jovellar was applied to by the American Consul to have Tweed secured and sent to the United States. Tweed, however, was apprised in Santiago of his impending danger, and sailed for Spain July 27th on board the sailing vessel Carmen. Mr. Cushing thereupon notified the Spanish Government of the fact, and found them willing to arrest Tweed and return him to Cuba or deliver him to the American Consul. Every precaution was taken by the Spanish Government to secure Tweed's arrest in any port of Spain or on any coast on which he might arrive. Severe orders on the subject were given to the local authorities—especially to those of the Vigo and Gallician coasts. On September 6th the Carmen hove in sight off Vigo and was immediately boarded by the Governor of Pontevedra, who recognized Tweed from photographs in his possession. Tweed was entered on the ship's paper under the name of Secor and was accompanied by a man giving his name as Hunt, who is said to be his nephew. Both were immediately secured and thrown into the calaboose under a strong guard, but were subsequently transferred by order to the fortress in Vigo, under command of the Captain-General. Secretary Fish has requested the extradition of Tweed, and he will consequently be handed over to the American authorities.

HE CAN VOTE.—A gentleman in New Orleans writes to inquire whether a man born in the United States, the son of foreign parents not naturalized, is or is not a citizen of the United States; whether naturalization papers are in any way necessary for such a man; and whether he is eligible to the office of President. We answer that, by the very fact of birth on American soil, he is a citizen, needing no other naturalization. Whether his parents are naturalized or not makes no difference. Every man born in the United States is a citizen of the United States, unless he expatriates himself and becomes a citizen or subject of another nation. As a citizen he has all the rignts that belong to a citizen, including the right to vote under the limitations of law as to age and residence; and he is eligible to the office of President, although his father may be a foreigner and remain such to the end of his days.—New York Sun.

IN SESSION.—The organization of the Oregon Legislature was concluded on the 12th, ex-Governor Whitaker being elected President and J. K. Weatherford, Speaker. The next business will be the election of United States Senator, the choice resting with the Democrats, who have 12 majority on joint ballot.

BOSS TWEED has been arrested at Port Vigo, on board a Spanish merchantman. He was traveling under the name of Secor. As our government has no extradition treaty with Spain, the final bagging of the game, if accomplished at all, will involve considerable trouble.

REWARD.—Gov. Safford has authorixed us to state that he will give $300 for the arrest and delivery to the Sheriff of Mohave county of Andrew B. Peterson, who murdered Andrew L. Byrns at Cerbat, on the 3d day of August. This, with the sum offered by the Supervisors of Mohave county, makes the reward for the arrest of Peterson $800.—Wallapai Enterprise, Sept. 1.
